REVOLT AGAINST DE GAULLE COLLAPSES

Savage Beating Given Top Union Official In B.C.

Rival Unions Carry Battle Into Violence

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tense rivalry between the west coast's waterfront unions, which had fallen into an uneasy lull, erupted into violence during the weekend with the savage beating of a top union official.

The attack, on President Richard Greaves, 55, of the National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC), was the 32nd incident of violence connected with a seven-month jurisdictional dispute.

It brought a slashing attack against "gangsterism" from Pat O'Neal, secretary of the British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC). A meeting was called for today to discuss possible federation action.

Greaves was kicked and beaten unconscious by two men who burst into his office late Saturday. He staggered to a nearby hotel for aid. Hospital officials said he was in satisfactory condition.

THIRD ASSAULT

Greaves has been attacked three times in the last 18 months. The first attack occurred in Montreal and the second — in which he suffered a broken jaw — in Vancouver seven months ago during a strike against Northern Navigation Limited.

Spokesmen for the two other major waterfront unions, the 40,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and Transport Workers (CLC) and the 10,000-strong Seafarers' International Union (ind.) said their organizations were not connected with the assault.

The jurisdictional dispute, which primarily involves the SIU and the brotherhood, began with the expulsion of the SIU from the CLC and the prolonged strike against Northern Navigation.

The brotherhood took the 1,500-member N.A.M.E. under its wing and has made considerable inroads into SIU membership.

TWO STRIKEBREAKERS

Police received reports in Nanaimo Sunday that two men, whose descriptions fit the pair who attacked Greaves, had been following a N.A.M.E. member there last week.

A car believed to have been driven by the pair was found abandoned in Nanaimo Sunday. Police said the pair may be from Windsor, Ont., and there is a chance they have fled to the East.

SIU agent Rod Heloskey reported in Nanaimo that a car was smeared with red lead Friday—the day the SIU's application for reattachment to the CLC was turned down—and blamed CBOT members.

Believed All 435 Coal Miners Died in Disaster

COALBROOK, South Africa (AP)—The South African Broadcasting Corporation said that according to unofficial reports today all 435 coal miners died in the Clydesdale colliery disaster here.

The disaster, worst in South African mining history and the worst anywhere in post - war years, occurred Jan. 21 when the mens—the whites and 429 Negroes—were trapped by a heavy fall of rock.

The radio held one minute's silence and then played solemn music in "deep respect to the deceased."

This morning it was established that one of the two boreholes had water at the bottom, surface and the other at 133 feet.

No official statement has yet been made by the Clydesdale Colliery, owners of the Coalbrook North Mine.

Shortly after 8 a.m. today the crewp at the two diamond drills started to remove rotary and their gear. It became obvious that the boreholes were being abandoned.

WALLS COLLAPSED

During the weekend bricklayers rose for their lives when two new 6-inch-thick brick walls being built underground collapsed.

Several falls destroyed the walls, designed to seal off the eastern online section to prevent the spread of possible fire.

Officials said the water in the borehole did not necessarily mean that the underground workings were flooded, and technical officials were "urgently considering what further steps can be taken."

But rescue workers said the miners must have been crushed to death by millions of tons of earth and rock falling into the working passages.

The ground was rumbling and fresh cracks were opening as the two tiny diamond drills moved through the rock where the trapped men were working. The rails hit rock where the precious space of the gallery should have been.

Refuse McKee Right to Appeal His Conviction

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today refused application by Marvin McKee, 30, for leave to appeal to the court against his conviction for murder of a Huntsville taxi driver.

McKee's sentence cannot be changed Tuesday, Feb. 9, at Parry Sound, by the officiating at Bruce Spiers, 22, last June. The jury which convicted McKee made no recommendation for mercy.

Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin rejected McKee's application because there was "no ground in law" on which the court could grant the application for leave to appeal.

The court heard only McKee's counsel, W. H. Green of Parry Sound. Chief Justice Kerwin said that Mr. Green had stated all counsel could be said and that it was not necessary to hear crown counsel W. C. Bowman.

TORONTO (CP), Synoptic: Some clearing is expected along the lower lakes during the day as cooler air moves southward. Tuesday will be much the same as today in most regions but with a risin temperature trend.

SYRIA, ISRAEL BORDER CLASH IS WORSENING

Fived Killed In Pre-Dawn Battle

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Three Israelis and two Syrian soldiers were killed today in a pre-dawn battle on the southeast shore of the Sea of Galilee. It was the fourth straight day of shooting in the area.

Then four Syrian MiG jet planes fought a brief dogfight when two Israeli fighter planes intercepted them at 11 a .m..

An Israeli army spokesman said the Syrian planes were driven off from the area over the Sea of Galilee to the Syrian-Israel border in northern Galilee.

Two Israelis and four Syrians were wounded in the ground fighting. Israel also reported that an Israeli policeman was killed and two wounded in shooting Sunday.

Israeli gunners during the night shelled the Syrian Arab village of Tawfik, in the demilitarized zone between the two countries, and blew up 50 houses the Syrians had evacuated. The Israelis claimed the village was Syrian Galilee's army had fortified the village and had built bunkers there for firing into Israeli territory.

The Israelis said no civilians in the village, an artillery duel developed which lasted four hours; which the Israelis said damaged their side of the frontier was slight.

The Syrians reoccupied the village this morning, United Nation other truces intervened, and a cease-fire was arranged.

The Syrians and Israelis gave conflicting versions of the shooting. Damascus radio claimed the Israelis opened up first on Arab farmers in the demilitarized zone area of the U.A.R. claimed the Syrians fired first and that members of the U.A.R. army disguised as farmers were attacking Israelis.

A United Nation spokesman said that up to this morning neither Israel nor Syria had complained of an armistice violation.

Triplets Born To Verona Couple

KINGSTON (CP)—Mrs. Wilmer Pratt gave birth Sunday to triplets by caesarean section. The babies—two boys and one girl—weighed two, three and 3½ pounds.

One boy and the girl were reported doing well, but the other boy, who was delivered last, was in poor condition.

The father is an unemployed construction worker. The Pratts live in Verona, a small village 35 miles north of here, have a one-year-old son.

Despite Latest Failure of Bomarc Canada Plans No Defence Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes said today the government plans no immediate change in its defence program despite the latest failure of the American Bomarc-B anti-aircraft missile.

Pearkes said this was necessary so that the construction of silos and launching sites for the missile is expected to be delivered to Canada, which he said is for the summer of 1961.

Work already is under way near North Bay, Ont., and Lake Laurier, Que., where bases are to be established. The government has given approval for about $10,000,000 on the base work and the missile itself. Up to $20,000,000 is earmarked for this work in the current fiscal year starting April 1, 1960.

Canada's total proposed expenditure on the Bomarc is estimated at $125,000,000, although the government has not yet committed itself to purchase the actual missiles.

The Canadian Bomarc program was announced after the government cancelled the Arrow jet interceptor program 11 months ago.

As the defence minister spoke Liberal MPs made such interjections as "Waste" and "Money down the drain."

Washington reports have said the United States may halt Bomarc development in the light of the latest test failure.

43 JAPANESE MINERS TRAPPED AFTER GAS BLAST

Bodies of 25 Men Are Recovered

TOKYO (AP)—Rescue workers reported finding the bodies of 25 miners after a gas explosion early today in an ill-fated coal mine in northern Japan.

Eighteen other men were trapped 3,600 feet below the frozen earth. Officials said the mine said they still hoped the men would be found alive, but as the hours went by today fear for them increased.

Nine other men crawled to safety after the first searing flash, and rescuers brought out 10 miners despite a fire licking around the pit mouth. Two miners trapped. Only one of the 19 was seriously injured.

The flames burned for nearly four hours, then were checked.

1960 LOST IN 1938

It was the second major disaster at the mine at Yubari, on the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido. A gas explosion killed 160 men there in 1938. The mine is one of the richest owned by the Hokkaido Colliery and Steamship Company.

More than 500 men, women and children surged around the mine entrances, waiting tensely for news from below. "A cry went up as each ascending cage in the mine face. Most of them were unrecognizable, their faces blackened and hair singed.

One of the miners said his fellow workers and he were "crammed many hours, walking on smouldering coal, narrowly escaping continual cave-ins."

"We were quite a distance from No. 2 pit where the explosion took place," said Yoshitaro Shiga, an engineer. "We did not hear the detonation. We discovered the accident after observing smoke coming into the gallery. The coal and the wooden pillars and ties were soon afire."

Mr. K. in Role of Peacemaker Could Reap Harvest in Asia

HONG KONG (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev may reap a rich political harvest from his visits this month to India and Indonesia, but much of it will be at the expense of his rival Communist partner, Red China.

Red China is embroiled with India in a bitter border dispute, and with Indonesia over that government's expulsion of Chinese merchants from rural areas.

Khrushchev will be travelling in his favorite role of peacemaker—but he has little chance of bridging the gap that has sprung up between Peking on the one hand and New Delhi and Jakarta on the other.

The positions of the three governments have been defined too sharply in the last several weeks to permit any drastic retreat by any of them without major loss of face.

Even if his attempts at peace in restoring some of the tattered goodwill, this could be at the propaganda expense of Red China. The picture that will emerge will be one of a recalcitrant Red China made to toe the line through the good offices of Khrushchev.

Khrushchev himself has much to gain. Any successes he may achieve will enhance his prestige and reputation among the uncommitted countries, and it will strengthen his hand at the summit conference next May.

Ben if his attempts at peacemaking fail, Khrushchev still will be able to claim credit for trying.

Whatever Khrushchev does, it is safe to say on the basis of past experience that he will do it in the name of world peace and relaxation of international tension.

This may be no favor to Communist China. Its economy staggering, its party ranks split by dissension, Communist China is pushing a tough, aggressive foreign policy—not peace and relaxation — to keep its converted millions working and in line.

Newspaper Delivery Trucks Blown up in Two Cities

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Two strings of parked trucks hauling the Portland city strike-affected daily newspapers were blown up in Portland and in Oregon City and nearby Oregon City.

Dynamite charges were used to blow up four trucks here, police said. Six trucks were blasted in Oregon City.

The explosions jolted a large area in Portland and Oregon City, 13 miles to the southwest, but there were no reports of fatalities or injuries.

Spokesman for The Oregonian said the trucks were owned by firms which do contract hauling for The Oregonian and The Oregon Journal, the city's two dailies where a strike was called Nov. 10 by the Stereotypers Union in a contract dispute.

The papers have merged forces and have continued at the Oregon Journal to publish a joint edition.

Shortly after the explosions, The Oregonian's switchboard operator received a call from a man who said a bomb was planted in the building.

The trucks were parked side by side beside the warehouse in Oregon City. Six of the trucks were destroyed by the explosions and the flames that swiftly engulfed them. The big vans haul paper rolls and can carry 18-ton loads.

The fire was prevented from spreading into the warehouse.

Both companies have hauled for the newspapers for years—have continued to do so since the strike.

The explosions were the greatest violence since the strike began. There have been a few fires in little newspaper distribution huts around the city, and some fist fights on the picket line—but nothing like what happened last night.

Police could find no witnesses.

Two Issues Of Short Term Are Offered

OTTAWA (CP)—Two new bond issues totalling $300,000,000, of short interest yields of 5.70 and 5.76 per cent, were announced today by Finance Minister Fleming.

The two issues, both of relatively short terms and carrying coupon interest of 5½ per cent, provide holders with an option of converting to long-term 5½-per-cent bonds maturing in 1975 or 1976.

Last Of Rebels Quit Barricades; Facing Charges

Revolt Ends Without Shot Since First Day

The tired rebels trudged out from behind their barricades in the heart of the city at noon, succumbing to tepoid army pressure on their positions during the last 24 hours.

The revolt ended without a shot having been fired since the first day, when 28 persons died in a flurry of gunfire between the insurgents and security forces.

Planes flew low over the rebels moved out from behind the barricades, the army moved in, taking over the former insurgent stronghold in a bank and a university building.

Red - bearded Pierre Lagaillarde rated the most obstinate of the rebel leaders, emerged from behind the barricades with 700 followers, signalling the end of the uprising.

The rebels climbed into waiting army trucks and were driven away to the Fort-de-l'Empereur troop headquarters on Zeralda, 15 miles outside Algiers.

Missing, however, was cafe owner Joseph Ortiz, one of the leaders of the revolt. He was reported to have slipped away.

His followers gave up with Lagaillarde's men after a brief spilling part of the barricade surrounding their stronghold in the bank.

The uprising ended with a flurry of aerial action — but no shots. A rebel helicopter sped off from Lagaillarde's headquarters and flew low over the city shortly before the surrender. Three army helicopters pursued it in a spectacular chase just above the roofs and forced it back behind the barricades.

Lagaillarde, a 38-year-old former paratrooper lieutenant, was wearing his uniform and smiling as he stepped out to surrender. He exchanged salutes with the army officers.

His followers, dead-tired and despondent after their eight-day revolt, shouted "Vive le Lagaillarde" as they trudged after him.

A dense crowd watched the surrender in silence as the insurgents — after a Lagaillarde was driven off in an army jeep.

The Algiers corps commander, Gen. Jean Crepin, announced that the insurgents had agreed to accepted into the fight against the nationalist Moslem rebels.

Telephone communication with Paris and other capitals were cut off for a time before midday while the surrender was being finally

French Stage Strike to Back Gen. de Gaulle

PARIS (AP) — A one-hour general strike was observed in France today to demonstrate support for President de Gaulle's stand-fast Algerian policy.

Subway trains and buses came to an abrupt halt in Paris at 11 a.m. Employees of stores quit work. The city was left down to skeleton staffs. Banks, however, remained open.

The capital was blanketed this morning with the heaviest fog of the token work stoppage in support of de Gaulle. The tract, signed by the CGT and 10 other unions, condemned the right-wing insurrection in Algiers as "fascist" and approved de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria's 9,000,000 Moslems.

The walkout had the backing of both the Communist-dominated Workers Confederation and the Catholic Confederation of Christian Workers, the Catholic union. It was a rare display of unity.

The strike was another indication of widespread support in metropolitan France for de Gaulle. Letters and telegrams pledging backing have been flooding into the president's Elysee Palace.

Went on Rampage

KINGSTON (CP) — While his wife was testifying in the divorce rampage Saturday night and police said he smashed a TV set and both the windows and doors of his car, Kingston taxi cab driver, Ernest Gallagher, 39, was charged with assault.

Police charged Aleksander Prokopczuk, 53, with malicious damage to property. Chief Constable Mrs. Beverly Davis, 700 Bridge Street East, testified that Gallagher is president and board of directors are invited.

BBC Says Hungary Executed 150 Teen-Agers for 1956 Revolt

LONDON (AP)—The BBC today broadcast a report that Hungarian authorities executed in the last month executed 150 teenagers for taking part in the 1956 uprising.

The teen-agers were reported to have been held in jail until they were 18 and old enough to be executed legally.

The BBC broadcast a dispatch from Douglas Stewart, its Vienna correspondent, quoting reliable reports filtering out of Hungary.

The dispatch said that in addition to the teen-agers, 54 adults had been executed as rebels during the last six months.

The foreign office refused to comment on the report but some authoritative sources regarded it as well-based.

The Hungarian government has denied charges voiced in the United Nations that it is executing large numbers of youths under the age of 18 for their participation age. The regime claimed it had never tried or sentenced anyone under the age of 21.

Stewart's dispatch said the teen-agers were executed in Budapest central jail early in December.

The report said seven more young men who had been 16 at the time of the uprising were arrested just after Christmas.

Residents Take 'To the Hills' Over Weekend

Favored by ideal weather and snow conditions, Belleville and district residents declared a unofficial "took to the hills" over the weekend with hills north of the city being well dotted with skiers and tobogganers.

Places for a break number of Belleville skiers were the Oak Hills with its two rope and snow slopes along No. 14 highway being well populated both Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday appeared to be "family day" with Mom and Dad and the small fry turning out to enjoy the tobogganing fun.

Mothers' March Will Be on in City Tonight

Let's call her Mary. At the age of eight she contracted polio and after nine months in an iron lung and eighteen months in hospital she was returned to her home, destined to spend the rest of her life lying flat on her back.

That could have been the end of the story, the effect of an early life for a very attractive girl, but fortunately for thousands of Ontario March of Dimes. Five years ago a brand new technique was developed, a series of complex surgical procedures enabled her to sit up and all up to bed, not only to get around in a wheel chair, but to walk with the aid of two canes and to become economically and personally independent.

Since that time, the March of Dimes has made this and other surgical techniques available to scores of similar cases, and this is only one example of the difference the way in which the March of Dimes helps between 1,000 and 1,500 people in this province every year to return to a more active and useful life.

"It's stories like that which make this work a pleasure," declares R. Sister, Chief Marching Mother for the March of Dimes campaign in Belleville. "When you actually meet some of these people and see the difference it has made to their lives it makes one all the more determined that none are required this type of treatment should be denied." During the following year the March of Dimes estimated that it will require $634,500 to carry on its rehabilitation and public education in this work with want to share in helping people like Mary back to a full life.

Everyone knows something of the need for a generous response to the March of Dimes appeal, and we are confident that this year's Marching Mothers' fine record will be topped this time by pretty figure, "about one dime and crisp dollars".

Dyno Accused of Betraying Obligations to Its Workers

BANCROFT (CP) — A representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) Sunday accused Canadian Dyno Mines Limited of betraying its obligations to its employees by operating it would close operations here June 30.

Addressing a public meeting, Harry Waisglass, assistant research director of the USA for workers in Toronto, attacked the Bancroft mine for selling its federal contract for uranium to Gunnar Mines of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Waisglass charged that if Gunnar receives $4 a pound for its high-grade U-308 concentrate and sells it under the new arrangement to Canadian Dyno for $7 a pound, and if Canadian Dyno receives $11 a pound from the Crown agency, Eldorado Mining and Refining Company Limited, Port Hope, then Canadian Dyno will make a profit of $150,000 to $200,000 a month by not producing.

200 AT MEETING

Although no union represents the 350 employees at Canadian Dyno, Mr. Waisglass was asked to speak to the 200 persons at the meeting by Conservative member Powell.

Reeve Jack Brown of Bancroft said his community had geared itself to the uranium industry and if one or two mines could be kept open the situation would not be serious.

There may be only 20 more months in which to mine uranium industry in this area, said Mr. Waisglass.

He suggested that the two remaining mines, Bicroft and Faraday, should produce and sufficient ore to fulfil their contracts by the end of 1961.

H. B. Smith, representative of the federal department of labour, said the meeting is an employment office had been established at the Dyno mine and would be opened Thursday or Friday to help miners hunt for new jobs.

Yorath Trophy Won by Picton Flying Club

PICTON—The Yorath trophy, top annual award of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association, has been presented to Prince Edward Flying Club of Picton. The local club was selected as 1959's most outstanding flying club in all Canada by its manager, Murray Clapp of Milford, personally receiving a silver trophy and an honor scroll at the $200.

The Picton flying club was organized in 1953 with 26 members and one plane. The club now uses the runways at Picton army camp, built during the last war for R.A.F. training under the British Commonwealth Air Training Scheme. Last year 31 pilots graduated from a membership of 187. The club has three instructors and operates five aircraft, with another in private ownership. The Mohawk airport at Deseronto, formerly occupied by the RCAF, has been leased by the club to permit increased activities.

During 1959, the club's flying time was increased by 80 per-cent without accident. President of the Picton organization is Frank Foley of Belleville, who has been elected director of the Eastern Ontario zone of the RCFVA, representing service clubs from Brampton to Ottawa, including Toronto. Other officials are: vice-president, Orwood Reid, Bloomfield; secretary-manager, Murray Clapp, of Milford and treasurer, James Marker of Belleville.

'Y' Girls' Team Picks up Awards At Swim Meet

Members of the Belleville YMCA's Girls' Swim Team put up a very good show at the Ontario Girls' Time Group Swimming Meet held at the Canada Packers' pool last Saturday. Belleville's team of ten girls were but one of 17 teams entered with over 200 girls competing and competition was quite keen.

Three firsts, a second and a pair of third places went to the local "Y" team who managed to sweep the honors in the backstroke class in the accumulating these awards. In this event E. Bulik, Gay Scott and Susan Gist came first, second and third, respectively; Susan Gist also placed third in the butterfly stroke event and Katherine Gist placed first in the breaststroke event.

Mr. George Sulk of Batawa and Mrs. J. Glat of Belleville went with the team to Toronto and were responsible for its coaching and good conduct.

Mr. Irving Franklin Clapp died suddenly at his family residence, 345 Wayne Street, Jersey City, N.J., on Saturday evening, January 30th, in his 69 year. Mr. Clapp was born in Corbyville, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clapp, and was educated at Thurlow Township schools. Ah employee of the Singer company he moved to Jersey City almost 35 years ago, continuously employed in Belleville. He was a member of the Episcopalian Church.

Mr. Clapp was predeceased by his wife, Sadie, some four years ago. Surviving are: four sons, Irving Jr., and Russell of Jersey City; a daughter, Dorothy of Jersey City; two brothers, Clarence R. of Belleville, and Gilbert of R.R. 6, Thurlow, and a sister, Mrs. William (Ethel) White of Valleyfield, Quebec.

The body is resting at the Schlemm Funeral Home in Jersey City. The funeral service will be held in that city on Wednesday, February 3rd.

William S. Wills, partner for the past ten years in the Wills Hardware Co. today took over his duties as Bursar at the Ontario School for the Deaf, succeeding J. Fred Wilson who died suddenly recently.

Mr. Wills was born in this city behind the son of Lieut.-Col. P. H. and Mrs. Wills. He was educated at Queen Alexandra School, the Belleville Collegiate and is a graduate of the Ontario Business College. He also attended Trinity College at Port Hope.

At the outbreak of the Second World War he joined the forces and served four years in Europe and shortly after discharge entered the hardware business with a brother, Peter Wills.

Mr. Wills is a member of St Thomas' Anglican Church and also of the Kiwanis Club. He is married with three children.

C of C Offices Now Located On Pinnacle St.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce offices were moved last week to this new location on Pinnacle St. in the former Canadian National Express office, next to the Ontario Provincial Police Headquarters.

"We are very happy with the new location," stated Chamber Secretary-Manager Mr. E. Dickenson. "The office is now on the route of the main highway routes through the city where it can be seen by tourists and guests the cities are conveniently available."

Signs designating the new Chamber of Commerce office will be erected on the building and ad-ply permission is being sought for erection of another sign on Front Street directing tourists and other persons to the new location.

Fire Destroys Crookston Home And Contents

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Canniff near Crookston was destroyed by fire on Sunday evening, in a fire which started shortly before midnight on Saturday night. The parents, with seven children, had retired and were awakened by neighbors they escaped from the burning home clad only in their night attire.

The fire-fighting was taken in by neighbors and the shock of the news has "dazed" Mr. Canniff to bed with a slight heart attack. It is understood little insurance was carried.

Former City Solicitor Says Present Bus Line Contract Not Ended for Another Year

Current negotiations between Belleville city council and Frederick Bus Lines, Ltd., for securing a new bus contract are premature and a legal interpretation of the bus company at this time without reference to the taxpayers would be illegal.

This was learned today from Robert A. Pringle, former city solicitor, who says the contract of the Frederick Bus Lines to operate city buses does not expire until January 31st, 1961, and thus Mr. Rawson is obliged to operate buses for at least another year.

Mr. Pringle says he has been consulted by a group of Belleville taxpayers who are alarmed that city council apparently intends to subsidize the bus company without reference to the taxpayer and to the agreement, which does not expire until 1961.

Mr. Pringle has drafted a letter to council advising that the present contract does not expire until January 31st, 1961. The letter will go before council at its meeting, Monday, February 8th.

The letter from Mr. Pringle to council notes that as Mr. Rawson is obliged to operate buses for another year there is no need to subsidize the bus line at this time and the group of citizens who have consulted him are particularly concerned that any subsidy be paid unless it is in conformity with the provisions of the Municipal Act and other relevant statutes.

WOULD TAKE ACTION

The letter then suggested that those citizens are prepared to take court action to have council individually responsible if any payments are made to Mr. Rawson illegally.

The specific paragraph relating to further action as requested here in full:

"While they hope it will not be necessary for them to take the action indicated below, they have instructed me to advise the Council that should any payments be made to Mr. Rawson illegally, the entire Council or each individual member of Council who votes for such illegal payment will be held personally responsible, and they are prepared, if necessary, to bring proper Court action to enforce this liability."

The final paragraph of Mr. Pringle's letter notes that as buses must operate for at least another year under the existing contract, the matter of time for the whole matter to be referred to the ratepayers as provided by law.

3 Sleighriders In 32 Killed During Weekend

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fast sleigh rides behind motoring cars ended in death for three boys in two seperate accidents this weekend as Canada's toll climbed to 32.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday included an Alberta car crash and a fire in Nova Scotia, which each claimed six lives. Ontario's weekend toll included 20 in traffic accidents.

The three boys were killed when their toboggan, being towed by a car skidded sideways and hit a parked car in St. Agapit, Que., three-year-old Guy Lemieux was killed when

Banker Honored On Retirement

SOMBRA — Douglas R. Cleland, manager of the Sombra branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for nine years, 15 years, was guest of honor at a surprise retirement party at the Sombra Community Hall.

A veteran of 47 years of service with the bank, Mr. Cleland retired a month ago. He and Mrs. Cleland have purchased a house in Sombra on the St. Clair River and will continue to make their residence in the village.

In honor of the years of bank service rendered the community in addition to his assistance in numerous other efforts in the community, the Sombra Chamber of Commerce decided upon the surprise party at which many means of honoring the retired banker.

Adding to the surprise element was the presence of Bank of Commerce officials from Chatham, Sarnia, Wallaceburg, Blenheim and other southwestern Ontario points. William Anderson, district president, on behalf of the group, presented Mr. and Mrs. Cleland with a beautiful silver tea service. Mildred Stover presented Mrs. Cleland with a silver tray. Mr. Anderson commented that Mr. Cleland, in his career as local bank manager, had given advice to so many silver trays to winners of fair exhibits, and other prize winners, that it was felt fitting that he should be given the receiving end this time."

A native of Ireland, Mr. Cleland began his banking career on Christmas Eve, 1912, at the bank's Port Arthur branch within days of his arrival in Canada. From Port Arthur, Mr. Cleland went to a number of branches in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, before coming to the main Toronto branch. He was transferred to Belleville, where he served as teller, during which time he met and married Miss Clarke. The couple celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last year. Highlight of Mr. Cleland's banking career came during past summer, when he was involved in the only bank holdup in Sombra's history. The bandit escaped with more than $1,500 in cash, and is still at large.

Mr. Cleland retired last December 15. He is survived by a sister of Mrs. N. D. Hall, R.R. 4, Belleville.

The sled being towed by his father's car overturned into an oncoming vehicle.

IN MEMORIAM

VINKLE — In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandpa, who died

We knew when we woke that morning
The day would bring
The sad news we dreaded
Would be the shock severe.
To part with one loved so dear.
Always remembered by his wife Mary.

WHITE — In loving memory of a dearly beloved husband and father who passed away February 1st, 1959.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last.
Your work is done, your race is run
And trials are past.
In silence we suffered, in patience we bore
'Til God called her home to suffer no more.

BE READY FOR WINTER
Medical Mirror
WHAT'S NEW IN MEDICINE
Chills Explained

Q. What is the best thing to do when a feverish person has a chill?

A. Apply external heat in the form of hot water bottles and extra blankets. Warming the skin makes the patient feel more comfortable and tends to head off more temperature. There is a belief explanation. During a chill the skin vessels contract, temperature falls, and the feverish patient feels the cold sensation of coldness. The lowered skin temperature tells the brain centre that all is not well with the body and shivering follows. The muscular work of shivering helps increase heat production by as much as 400 per cent. Only after the person stops shivering and the unwanted internal heat is being released does the skin as suggested.

Winners Named In Canadian Legion Contest

TRENTON — The public speaking contest, sponsored by Trenton Branch 110, Canadian Legion, was held on Friday night in the Legion Hall. Chairman was Nestrand Sprague, well-known in the Trenton area for his interest in this particular phase of youthful endeavor.

The contestants were allowed to choose subjects from a variety of topics including "Conservation." "Citizenship" and "The Columbia River."

In the case of every contestant the subject matter had been well prepared and the delivery was excellent. The judges, William Rome, Jack Parker and Gerald Brandon, all of Brighton, admitted that it was no easy task to pick two winners from among the contestants.

Sprague throughout spoke briefly to the large number of parents and friends who were in attendance. Mr. Broughton said that the Canadian Legion was very interested in youth work. He advised the youthful speakers to draw subject matter from the Bible and from debates in the House of Commons.

Following the public speaking the St. Peter's School choir, under the direction of Bill Long, presented a short musical program.

Mr. Sprague thanked the contestants and the parents and friends who had turned out to encourage them. He said that the Lions' Club public speaking contest would be held in Trenton High School on February 22rd.

5-Wk.-Old Batawa Ski Club Already Has 200 Members

TRENTON — Safety is the number one objective these days at the Batawa Ski Run, but fun comes a close second. Up the one side of the steep run go the semi-expert skiers, usually long fearlessly, with one hand tightly gripping the tow rope, and down the other side of the run they whizz, with equal ease, but, in a great number of cases, not quite so fearlessly.

Whoops . . . there's a spill . . . instructor's whistle sounds . . . and all activity is suspended until the unfortunate one is picked up and taken to the side of the run and safety.

Chief instructor F/O Paul Russell and the other members of the ski patrol are kept busy every minute, watching for every possible danger to the droves of weekend skiers, some of whom may be considered old hands at the game and a few of whom have lately come out of the novice class.

The Batawa Ski Club was formed five weeks ago, and today there are almost 200 paid members, while a number of others have joined the club as yet, but come along to enjoy the fun for a nominal sum per day.

OFFICERS AT CLUB

President of the club is Anthony Cervinka; secretary, Peter Makin; treasurer, Newton Edwards; vice-president, Paul Russell. Other executive members are: Fred Perron, Serge Fedschivcile, and publicity officer, Bill Shaw & Sterling.

Some weeks ago the executive members cleared the ski run of trees, hooked up a tow, which is run by the motor of an old truck and generally prepared the area for skiing. The land was given by the Batawa Shoe Company for the benefit of any skiers in the area. Members at the club, which is one of the largest in Canada, come from Trenton, RCAF Air Force Command, Trenton, Stirling, Batawa, Belleville, Brighton, Stirling, Smithfield and Campbellford.

Dr. Novotny of the RCAF is on duty nearly all the time to attend any possible accidents.

TRAIN NOVICES

Novices from six to sixty are given special instruction on a sheltered run. They are taught proper control over their skis and through a right serial series of tests before being allowed to attempt longer runs.

Next season the club plans to widen the run and add other innovations to this excellent skiing area.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — On Wednesday evening, commencing at 8 p.m., a meeting, called to reform the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, will be held in the Community Gardens auditorium. The public has been invited to attend. Circulars have been sent out to industrial business and professional men by Douglas Whitney, chairman of the program committee.

The need for this organization, which will bring together a representative section of Trenton's business life and RCAF personnel has long been felt by persons interested in the future welfare of the town.

Guest speakers at the meeting will be Wing Commander F. Y. Craig, representing the RCAF and G. W. Larry, Trenton's clerk-treasurer.

MEETING HELD

A meeting of the board of directors of the Trenton branch of the Community Concerts Association was held on Saturday night at the home of the president, Janet Duncan, Fairview Crescent. Present at the meeting was Mrs. Mary Keefer, New York representative of the association. Plans for the forthcoming membership drive were discussed.

STRANGLED WITH HANGER

COLUMBUS, Miss. (AP) — An attractive young mother of four, home on parole from prison, died a wire coat hanger Sunday when she apparently surprised an intruder. The husband and four children of Mrs. Irwin Tate returned from church and were chatting with neighbors in their front yard when they heard Mrs. Dolly Tate screamed, "Something's wrong with mamma." The body of the 32-year-old mother of high school beauty queen was lying in the garage.

Cancer Society Plans Campaign

TRENTON — G. A. Frost of Trenton will be chairman of the Trenton and District Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society's 1960 campaign to raise funds for the society's work in cancer research and in the educational field.

This was announced at the monthly meeting of the branch Trenton held last week.

Special films dealing with the early detection and treatment of cancer will be shown in the schools and at various service clubs and other public gatherings.

Four hundred canvassers will be needed to cover an area including Trenton, Bayside, Brighton, Consecon, Frankford, Wooler and Codrington.

The objective for this area is $4,000. The campaign will be held from April 25th to April 30th in this district. April is the month set aside for the province-wide drive.

In the past year, the Trenton branch has provided dressings and other comforts for cancer patients in the immediate vicinity of Trenton, in Trenton itself and in Belleville. Volunteer workers, under the direction of the Women's Service Committee, headed by Mrs. A. E. Ethier make dressings in the Cancer Society Committee Room at 23 Dundas St. West.

Elderly Worker Buried Under Snow 8 Hours

WINDERMERE, B.C. (CP)—An elderly worker buried under eight feet of snow was found alive Sunday, 15 hours after he had been presumed dead.

James Duke, 60, a highway's department employee was pulled free by rescuers more than 26 hours after being buried in a slide.

First reports said Mr. Duke was found in the centre of the slide and under 30 feet of snow. Rescuers later said he was found near the side of the huge mass.

He was uncovered by a large bulldozer as it began cutting into the slide in an effort to dig to the centre. The bulldozer narrowly missed passing directly over the trapped workman.

His first question as he was helped onto a stretcher: "Did someone remember to feed and water my dog?"

Mr. Duke was taken to hospital suffering extreme exhaustion and a few minor cuts.

The winter work program of the Public Works department has been progressing satisfactorily, City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull said this morning. Some 28 men are now employed by the department in such various projects as brush clearing in the Stanley Parkette subdivision, which is now completed, and tree work on the East Hill playground, which will commence tomorrow.

Ditching work is also proceeding satisfactorily as a part of the above program on Lambert and Linton Avenues. It is hoped that this work will serve to alleviate the flooding problem experienced in this area in the spring. Clearance of brush and trees from the various islands along the Moira River is also taking place.

Due to the recent above-freezing temperatures many of the city's asphalt streets have been cleared and an extensive road-patching program is now underway. Fifty tons of cold asphalt are being used in this work.

The gravel road crew has also been quite busy as a result of more temperate weather. They are back on maintenance and sharpening of keep the gravel streets level and free from developing a washboard surface. To assist in this objective special saw-toothed blades have been fitted to the road grader and the results have been satisfactory.

Snow removal still continues throughout the city with the narrower streets getting first priority and the sewer crew is busy with sewer chokes and maintenance.

Police College Long Needed

One of a number of very worthwhile highlights of the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the province's 26th Legislature that caught our attention was that stating that a police college is to be formed.

It has since been announced that if the college is established "it will provide training for all ranks of policemen," evidently men from municipal police forces being included. This is good news.

With the many laws and acts in effect in the land today, it takes a fair length of time for a novice to learn just what the laws are which he is expected to enforce as a police officer and an even longer period to acquaint himself with the full content and meaning of these laws. In most departments he is expected to pick up this knowledge as he goes along, his primary training being centred on the Highway Traffic Act, the Ontario Liquor Control Act, and a smattering of the Criminal Code.

Then, too, there is a tremendous amount of technical knowledge involved in modern police and crime detection methods besides the normal paper work and leg work involved in a constable's duties. Efficient police work can be carried on only by putting a man into a uniform and giving him a few weeks' or months' probationary training in the office and on the beat. This merely accustoms him to the normal routine of a police department. It does not make a policeman out of him in the fullest sense of the word.

We are not, of course, expecting that attendance at a police college and receiving instruction from qualified instructors and experts in criminology will make every man sent there a Sherlock Holmes. But a graduate will undoubtedly have the advantage of a structured course which might take him many years to acquire otherwise. He will come across some facts which he might never become aware of in the course of his normal duties.

All of which would give the communities of this province the best possible police service obtainable.

The establishment of a police college would eliminate many faults, especially if graduation from this school were made a prerequisite to any person being hired on a police force within the province. If the school were run along similar lines to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Training Institute the profession of police work would be considerably raised and justly endorsed.

Police work is becoming as technically complicated and as exacting a field of work as any other occupation. By the very nature of their purpose our police departments must keep abreast with the times. To do this we must have keen and qualified people filling the ranks of our various police departments, both municipal and provincial.

Strange Bedfellows

The Diamond Corporation of South Africa has reached an agreement with the Soviet Union to buy and market all the diamonds Soviet Russia wishes to export to the West.

The company is one of the de Beers group, which, besides being the leading producers of diamonds itself, also has purchase agreements with producers in the Belgian Congo, Angola, Taganyika, Sierra Leone and Ghana. This group handles 98 per cent of the diamonds marketed each year.

The de Beers officials must be breathing much easier today. Two threats to their monopoly have been removed. First there was the death of Dr. Williamson, the Montrealer who stumbled on a diamond mine in Taganyika and refused to "play ball" with the syndicate. Now there is an end to the Communist threat.

Diamonds, like politics, seem to make strange bedfellows. The Brantford Expositor observes: "Once they (the Russians) would have condemned such a deal as an example of monopolistic capitalism they would not touch with a barge pole. Now they will probably label it an instance of 'peaceful co-existence." But if the Russians have to renounce some economic theories, how about the believers in free enterprise, who have to square this arrangement with a belief in the workings of the law of supply and demand?

Letter To The Editor

Postal Official Expresses Thanks

The Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

From -report- received from Postmasters in all parts of Canada it is quite evident that once again the public has responded generously to the Post Office Department's request to "Mail Early for Christmas". Postmasters have mentioned, in particular, the splendid service rendered by newspapers in stressing the need for co-operation in mailing early to avoid disappointment during the festive season.

The co-operation of the press and public, coupled with particularly good weather over the greater part of Canada, made possible a successful handling of a record volume of Christmas mail by postal staffs.

On behalf of the Canadian Postal Service, I wish to thank the newspapers of Canada most sincerely for bringing to the attention of their readers the importance of mailing early at Christmas.

Autos Spew Tons of 'Gunk'

Toronto Financial Post

The exhaust fumes of gunk pouring out of automobile tail pipes produces figures almost as big as the figures that tell how much oil the distance to the nearest star. Last year, one estimate says, the 70 million autos in the U.S. belched out 81 million tons of carbon monoxide, 100 million tons of organic vapors called hydrocarbons and 8 million tons of oxides of nitrogen.

The average passenger human frame can cope with carbon monoxide unless it's highly concentrated — like the fumes in a garage. Oxides of nitrogen produce irritation and a number of tract's to the bronchial ills.

But the hydro-carbons are the ones certain carcinogenic or cancer-bearing elements.

According to Dr. C. D. Leake, of the medical college at Ohio State University, "the increasing incidence of lung cancer is quite as referrable to increased city traffic as to cigarets." Russian investigators have reached the same conclusion. Dr. E. J. Houdry, a leading American authority on petroleum, says flatly that the 178 billion gallons of gasoline consumption in the U.S. in 1954 — "corresponded exactly to the estimate of a 19-fold increase in lung cancer mortality" in the same period.

The cigaret addict can stop smoking; but the city is modern man, especially in cities, to escape and funnel it can't be done. The best hope of relief is that research, now in progress, will eventually produce the purge of its cancer threat.

Meanwhile, to quote another American expert who blames the carbon monoxide exhausts, "a chain-smoking city taxicab driver runs a chance of lung cancer 200 times as great as a non-smoking farmer." Said he, to the grinding out of style at "way of life," farming may still be an excellent way of survival.

Just Another Plea for Aid

A husband called to be helpful around the house and called a repairman to come and get a broken vacuum cleaner.

Next morning at breakfast time the doorbell rang and his wife went to the door. The man at the door said, "I'm here for the useless blind". The woman told him to wait and returned to the kitchen. She fished a dollar out of her purse and pressed in into the repairman's hand.

"Somebody collecting again", she explained to her husband as she placed the bill on the table to finish her breakfast.

Soap Opera Thing of Past

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

A little paragraph the other day recorded the passing of the soap opera. These day-by-day broadcasts of the trials and trib ulations of fictitious families, heroes and heroines, had sway since 1930. Within the decade years they had lost much of their popularity.

We never were able to figure exactly how this type of entertainment had become such a popularity. By and large, the situations were repetitious. Although it has to admit that the authors of these dramas managed to create a suspense at the end of each chapter that lured the listener back to the radio set the next day.

Coming in the daytime hours, most of the fans were housewives. It is said that many a family forgot to eat and sleep as a result of the many tears these stories evoked. The passing of these serials, however, seems to have been greeted with dry eyes.

For those who couldn't accept these dramas as part of their diet, and who may have encountered them only by accident, no doubt the life portrayed by the removal of these tales from the airwaves by what happened to John Q. Other Wife's Other Husband? That was a big question in the hey-day of the soap opera. Now we shall never know.

Strictly Personal

Do Not Trade Decency For Success

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was lunching with a friend in New York last month, and he spent most of the hour weighing against his boss. The man, I gathered, was a kind of monster — devoid of sympathy, warmth, tact and the most elementary understanding of human relations.

I told my friend not to waste his emotional energy on such pathetic creatures. For those men are pathetic, no matter how much superficial "success" they may seem to have attained.

It is easy to wax angry and resentful against men whose overbearing and contemptuous ego drive have brought them to positions of authority, but in each case, when you examine their inner lives, you find a helplessness in the centre of their being.

My friend is working under great pressure, yet he would not really want to change places with the man he hates. For my friend has everything that man can want — a loving home life, a civilized sense of values, the ability to express himself and transcend himself, and that sense of meaning in the universe beyond his own personal ambitions.

Young persons need to be told, over and over again, that success is not the only relationship between external and internal success. Too often, men and women in their pursuit of the most precious parts of their inheritance — the spiritual and emotional equipment they have thrown away on the altars of the false gods they climb when they begin the slide down.

The physician, for example, knows what it is to be human, and he knows when a man thinks he's happy. And thinking you are is a good as being so."

The point is, of course, that. Consciously, a man may think he's happy. But his unconscious mind knows better. He cannot really ever be satisfied. He requires more and more stimulation, is unable to rest, and can find any satisfaction in human relationships, can never make genuine contact with another human being. And this is a man is terribly isolated from reality — and this isolation makes itself felt in the long run.

It is much better to have awareness, to suffer, to share in the common frailties of mankind, than to insulate oneself in the slimy fabric of ambition. In the end, nobody is as lonesome as a man who has become unable to be the maggots within his soul, as the conqueror who has drained his desires at the cost of decency.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

MIMICO, ONT.

Early historians held the probable origin of the name of this "Mimico." The fields near Mimico creek used to be favorite feeding grounds for the mimic birds, better known as passenger pigeons, which are now extinct. The word is derived from the Mississaga Indian dialect and means, mimic, or the place of the wild pigeon."

Kangaroo Fur To Be Tested

Windsor Star

Canada's fur industry may take a jump ahead.

A Montreal furrier is interested in importing kangaroo fur and skins from Australia and manufacturing them into women's coats. Sample cuttings have already been sent.

Kangaroo skins are used in Australia for whips and bridles, wallets and sports shoes.

The question is whether kangaroo fur can stand up to the standards of Canadian fur coats.

Certainly the price is attractive, Kangaroo skins, measuring six to seven square feet, are landed in Canada at 50 cents a square foot.

Who knows? Maybe this could lead to a fur coat for everybody.

Cheese Ideal Smoke Filter

Vancouver Sun

One of the more "dizzy" pieces of scientific intelligence to come out of the late sad years is that cheese is an excellent ingredient in cigaret filters.

"After carrying out extensive experiments," it says, "Professor Lundy has come to the conclusion of Wisconsin claims that filters combined with a cheese content removed 50 percent of the tars from several common brands of cigarets. Also, the cheese content removed all nicotine and 50 percent of scientific filter removed only 61 percent."

Professor Lardy found that the best types of cheese for the purpose are the dry Italian varieties, Parmesan or Romano.

Yes, a Canadian professor's scientific detachment. His university is a publicly-supported institution in a dairy-farm state which takes considerable pride in its own cheeses. Yet he has to go outside to find a filter.

Beyond that, his findings open a field for advertising solicitation.

His specification of dryness seems to eliminate some of the fruitier cheeses, such as Limburger and Brie, as filter material. Also Roquefort, except in the Montreal sense of smell. Which it probably just as well — think how the party-littered living room would smell on the morning after.

But the connoisseur might like to experiment with some of the more sophisticated types of cheese — Camembert or a Norwegian Gjetost, or even some of the curds of Peyton Place's Indian tribe.

After all, with an eating man's filter it's what's down back that counts. Maybe that hasn't occurred to the professor.

Winter Woes And Joys, Too

A. Sherbrooke Record

These are the days when the snow comes nobly underfoot, the days of mixed blessings.

Coffee tastes best to me because it's hot;

Heavy clothing doesn't seem cumbersome because it's needed;

And, down below in the basement, the furnace greedily gobbles up the oil.

Out in the garage, the car awaits, its oil and grease congealing as it prepares for a balky morning start at best;

And leading to it is the glassy sidewalk, treacherously scraped, completely clean before the freeze set in.

Yes, a Canadian winter is a time of mixed blessings. It's invigorating and exhausting. And sometimes it's sheer torture.

FLOATING KIDNEY CAN BE ANCHORED SURGICALLY

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a floating kidney on the right side. It has forced me to wear a corset for five years and his has been very uncomfortable. I have been told that an operation can put the kidney back. Also, would ten bust the kidney? — Mrs. C. D."

"Floating kidney" isn't the best term in the world for this condition, although I suppose it will do. We don't happen to have a better term that is short and simple enough for general use.

All kidneys float to some extent. That is, they may move from one to three inches as we change from standing to sitting.

The floating kidney is one which moves more than that, and causes uncomfortable symptoms, pain, nausea or even, or a kinking of the ureter.

Usually women suffer this trouble are lean. A moderate amount of fat serves as a sort of packing in which the kidney is placed so it does not move too much. Sometimes gaining a bit of weight within reason, of course, helps to relieve the trouble. This does not mean getting fat, but merely acquiring a modest amount of fat on a lean figure.

Often an appropriate corset helps the situation, and sometimes that is necessary. But that nothing else is needed. On the other hand, if the simpler methods don't work, and the excessive movement of the kidney causes pain, it is entirely practical to have surgery to secure the kidney more firmly in place.

It isn't harmful. There's nothing wrong with a floating kidney except that it isn't as rigidly anchored as one would prefer.

Dear Dr. Molner: One doctor told me my prostate was slightly enlarged. Another told me it was normal. Now I am between the devil and the deep blue sea. Do you think I ought to be examined by a third physician? — M. N. R."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A spectacled, rumple-haired elderly gentleman sat at the restaurant table beside me. He had the gentle, unworldly appearance of a retired professor of physics or maybe an old chess champion.

With a big sigh, he thoughtfully leaned my way and studied the single sausage that was on his plate. Then he picked up the waitress and holding it close to his eyes, he read it from top to bottom, item by item, from the price list right down to tea, coffee or milk.

By the time the waitress arrived to take his order, he appeared to have made up his mind.

"I will have two eggs any style," he said firmly.

The waitress was a little shaken.

"Which style?" she asked.

The old gentleman picked the sausage up and studied it intently and then pointing with his fingers to it he held it up for the waitress to see.

"This," he said patiently, "two of these any style you like."

"Yes," said the waitress, "but that doesn't mean we can serve them any style."

"I am sure you can," said the old gentleman, "though I don't see I would like them, please."

Finally, the waitress, a girl, bending down, "you have to choose which style."

"Oh, dear," sighed he.

So he ordered liver and bacon.

KEEP TRYING

Some years ago a man in midwestern state died and provided that his possessions be given to God. This came as a shock, probable but was rejected. God, said the probate officer, could not be located in that particular county.

Maybe the officer didn't look hard enough. Maybe he made his statement with his tongue in cheek. Many of the friends and of the relatives who were itching to get their hands on way deceased man's property. But at any rate, that the way it turned out. The report was that after due consideration and intelligent search they had been unable to locate God.

May we offer it as an observation that there are plenty of people in the world today who have not been able to find God. Go into almost any group and you will find people who live from day to day as if God actually did not exist. They may attend church once in a while, but they never bring God into the vital issues of their lives. Also it is true that sometimes after due and intelligent search people are confused and say that they have not been able to find Him.

But either through neglect or carelessness or through honest search, some at least search for God and are baffled at not finding Him.

Yet the Bible affirms that He is very near to every one of us. You may not find Him in Cherokee County, or in this place or that, or in the church in which you were brought up; but if so, you simply haven't tried. They're all good; a bit different, but all good.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINK BIG — AND OFTENER!

Our thoughts are what we are. Each one of us writes his own autobiography, and shares it with others, right from the start — by how we get friends, and learn about the power of concepts. A great deal of the personality that we exhibit through life is borrowed, but it keeps refreshed and alive as we are enriched with all contacts. We grow through every expression, but need to regulate these emotions and present to the world a well-planned life.

This wanting to be big is, would say, the stirring of the spirit within us. It we keep stepping higher all the time we feed the urge within us, as well. Think big — and then act. And you will find the resource within you and learn how to control your larger nature. Life can be so pleasant, if that's the way you want it to be! Our spiritual nature will bring us peace of mind and blessings if you make it your one great desire.

Think big — and oftener. You do a great deal of thinking, but it is decidedly, standing before Rodin's great figure of "The Thinker." Most of our thoughts are concerned with petty things and moments, which are forgotten the next moment.

Think about the things that are worthwhile, and you will find that your thoughts will be lifted to a higher level. Think about the things that you would like to be, and you will be surprised at the way you will grow. Think about the things that you would like to do, and you will find that you will do them. Dr. Alfred Robert Kelghtley wrote a stimulating article some years ago that I can't forget. He called the story "Obvious Adams" (no relation). They gave him the assignment of writing a book suggesting the "obvious" thing to

'Trends in Seed Sales' Subject Of Talk by 'Billy' Bishop at Convention Held in Toronto

The importance of proper seed adapted to local soil conditions and the necessity of seed merchants stocking all specific varieties was stressed in a talk by W. M. "Bill" Bishop of Bishop Seeds, Belleville, to the annual convention of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association held in Toronto last week. The topic of Mr. Bishop's talk was "Trends in Seed Sales".

"Twenty years ago a farmer's seed requirements were relatively simple," Mr. Bishop said. "And if he had a well-drained field to seed down he would come in and buy a bushel o' alfalfa, and ragweed or Timmons and with it he were a little pinched in the pocketbook he might consider buying No. 2 alfalfa.

"Today the majority of farmers, before buying, will want to discuss the advisability of using Vernal alfalfa, or Narragan. They want as much advice as to which of these improved alfalfa varieties would be most suitable to his particular requirements.

"Moreover, the up-to-date farmer would probably turn thumbs down on any seed which is not at least No. 1 grade and will often demand certified or registered seed.

Just as farmers for the past two decades or so learned to demand Ajax or Banner oats when asking for seed oats, Mr. Bishop said he is now asking for specific varieties of forage seeds. Farmers now buy brome seed by variety name and this results in substantial increases in hay and pasture production.

TOLD CLIMAX STORY

"Two years ago at the Seed Growers' meeting, George Gilbert told us 'The Climax Story,' and the development of Climax Timothy has been hailed as the greatest stride we have made in forage plant breeding in Canada. The acceptance of Climax Timothy over common has grown steadily ever since Climax was developed and this year in the winter farming areas, it is expected that more Climax Timothy may be used than common. Naturally, We are pleased to have been associated with Climax Timothy ever since seed stocks were first available and we have had many pleasant connection with eastern Climax growers.

"In days when the farmer's seed requirements were simple, seed merchandising methods were quite simple also. Wholesale seed dealers sold Alfalfa, Red Clover, Alsike, Timothy and a few other items to country stores and feed mills and this system was quite adequate at that time. Today, however, in order to properly supply the needs of his customers, the country dealer must stock the improved varieties adapted to this area. He must also be prepared to describe the merits of these varieties and further to help the customer choose the variety best suited to his particular needs.

"Canadian Seed Wholesalers have realized this need and in some cases have launched educational programs designed to provide their country dealers with the information they need in order to do a good job of supplying their farm customers.

NEW APPROACH

Along with the changing trend in seed merchandising has come a new approach to seed sales. That is the system of door to door canvassing. In the last ten years or so many new firms have come into being who use this direct approach with success. Some of the firms who rely on this sales approach have concentrated mainly on pasture mixtures and some of these firms are doing an excellent job of providing farmers with well formulated mixtures patterned after the Ontario Department of Agriculture recommended mixtures. As Soil and Crop Improvement Association members, you are all familiar with the extensive testing program which is carried on year after year by your Association and the Ontario Department of Agriculture. As you know, this program consists of experimental work and test plots at O.A.C. Kemptville and Ridgetown and extends to regional pasture plots on farms throughout Ontario. The results of this very comprehensive program are weighed and considered by the Ontario committee on field crop recommendations, and from this, we get the Ontario Department of Agriculture recommended mixtures.

"Since the time today is to a smaller number of bigger farms operated by the more progressive and well-informed farmers, we must conclude that these farmers will demand the best in pasture mixtures. That is, mixtures patterned on the O.D.A. formulas. We must also conclude that these well-informed farmers will reject mixtures which vary in principle with the mixtures that our testing program has found to be the best.

NOT PROPERLY CLEANED

Seed drill surveys conducted throughout Ontario show us that even in recent years, more than half of the seed sown on Ontario farms is below No. 1 grade. The surveys also show that most of this inferior seed was never properly cleaned and graded. As a matter of fact, there is still a certain percentage of farmers who consider it extravagant to buy graded seed when they can buy Farm Run or Uncertified or Registered seed only as a last resort.

As seed growers and seed dealers, the seed drill survey shows us that there is still a very big potential market for our graded seed. Fortunately, the trend is in the right direction and more farmers are realizing each year that they cannot afford to take a chance on ungraded seed. At a field day at Guelph last year, we were shown at on the average, seed costs are only about 9% of the total cost of producing an acre of forage. The problem of interesting more farmers in the advantages of using good seed must call for even more publicity. The Ontario Department of Agriculture is doing an exceptionally good job in publicizing improved varieties and in encouraging the use of good seed. In recent years, the seed trade has found that it is very difficult to sell any variety that the Department has not recommended and publicized. This should really point how effective the Department publicity program has been. The Field Crop Recommendations circular is an excellent guide to better seeding practices and it is widely distributed. Canadian farmers are helping with this publish and distribute seed problem; especially those who catalogues and those who distribute literature designed to promote the use of improved varieties.

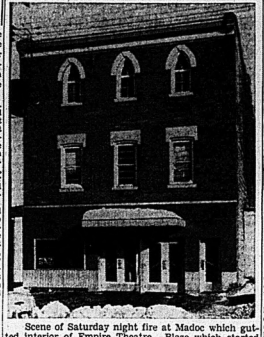
Breakfast Guests

Though the snowdrops, the daffodils and white narcissi are still sleeping beneath their white coverlet, nature has provided other comradeship with her feathered denizens of the air.

This morning Mrs. W. N. Ponton, of Trent Road, informed the Ontario Intelligencer that her daily morning breakfast guests are the hairy woodpecker, the downy woodpecker, the chickadee and the Hudsonian chickadee, the junco, the starlings, goldfinches, nuthatches, the evening grosbeaks with their tiny, parrot-like beaks, as well as the boom, tree and field sparrows and the redpoll.

Besides these feathered friends of Mrs. Ponton's, a group of saucy "Sterling Negs" are regular breakfast callers at the home of the social editor. At first there was one, then two, then three, next four and now five, which are becoming sleek in their fancy dress, grey and black with white markings on wings and dark, crested topknots.



Scene of Saturday night fire at Madoc which gutted interior of Empire Theatre. Blaze which started in vicinity of candy bar was extinguished by Madoc firemen.

Madoc Theatre Interior Gutted By Fire Sunday

The Empire Theatre, popular moving house at Madoc village for close to half a century, was gutted by flames early Sunday morning as fire of undetermined origin swept through the front of the building.

Heavy concrete and masonry walls kept the flames from spreading to other business blocks in the downtown business area and the blaze was extinguished by the Madoc fire department under the direction of Fire Chief Kelly Mulroney.

Gordon Munroe, operator of the theatre for nearly 30 years, was unable to estimate his loss but said the damage was mostly at the front of the building. The picture screen was ruined by water damage.

Mr. Munroe said the fire was discovered about 2 a.m. Sunday. It was believed to have started in the vicinity of the candy bar near the entrance of the theatre.

This winter the theatre was being operated three nights a week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

Although there is little exterior evidence of the fire, the damage inside was extensive and Mr. Munroe said he expected it would be several months before the mess was cleaned up and theatre restored for operation.

Colborne Teens Enjoy Dance By Hi-Fi Club

Saturday night saw the Teens of Colborne reinforced by a large number of Hi-Fi Club members from Belleville, dancing in the Canadian Legion hall at Colborne.

Al Hall of CJBQ, was master of ceremonies for the evening and held forth in true "Hi-Fi" style with the accent of the swingiest time that Colborne has seen in many a year.

The Dolphina, a local rock and roll combo, held the Teens enthralled. Encore followed encore as this popular group played to this most receptive audience who just wouldn't let them go.

This was also an open house evening for the parents and it was a most rewarding sight when M.C. Al Hall announced the mother-son and father-daughter dance to see the parents having as much fun as their Teens.

After over three hours of red hot music, Cecil Sloan, the recreation director for Colborne, expressed appreciation to the Hi-Fi Club of Belleville guests and then served an attractive buffet lunch.

Throughout the evening Bruce Jarvah from the High School Radio Club, acted interviewer with various members of the Colborne Teen Town. These will be heard over CJBQ on the Hi-Fi Club at 7 p.m. throughout the rest of this week.

On Friday evening Quinte Secondary School's basketball team won two games from Moira Secondary School. Quinte bantams won their game 37-20 while Quinte juniors came out thrilling game, 43-38.

BANTAM GAME

Quinte sank a couple of quick baskets early in the quarter and looked to have the situation in hand but by the time the quarter ended Moira were out in front 8-7. In the second quarter Quinte added 7 while Moira wen scoreless to end the half 14-8 in favor of the visitors. In the third quarter Quinte marksmen hit the target for eight field goals while Moira could add but 3 points Moira's best quarter was the final when the tourney end Q.S.S. 37, Moira 20.

JUNIOR GAME

The junior game was the type of a game that had been forecast — very close, fast and defensive in nature. Fouls were costly for both teams. Quinte were called for twenty six fouls while Moira were culprits twenty eight times. Both squads lost players late in the fourth quarter. Scoring in the first half was low. Quinte led 10-8 at the quarter and 18-10 at the half. Moira came out after the rest period and quickly went to work to score 20 points to Quinte's 9 to end the quarter 30-27 in their favor.

In the fourth quarter Quinte fought back and outscored their 16-8 to win the game 43-38 in favor of Quinte.

The top scorer of the game was Garry Davis of Quinte with 16. Skinner of Moira was right on his heels with 15. The win gives Quinte a one point lead over Moira for first place in the junior division.

QUINTE (43): Millz, Giles 4, Rose 6, Latchford 5, Davis 16, Michaud 5, Lessels, Thompson 7, Burley, Gray Fair, Lesmorre.

MOIRA (38): Hunter, Skinner 15, Wright, Dafoe 3, Blaker 11, Peoples 7, Angus, Dougan, Sinclair 2, Jones.

XI Alpha Mu Begins Theory Of Crafts

The first meeting of the new year of Xi Alpha Mu chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, was devoted to some work on crafts and a pleasant social evening at Vera Morphy's home on Hastings Drive.

The business meeting produced a discussion of possible service projects which the chapter might pursue. Several were suggested. A request for phoners for the forthcoming blood donor clinic was answered by seven members.

Following the business meeting, the final stages of a ceramic tile table were completed and also the chemical darkening of a picture soiled in copper. However, the majority of members were between projects, as the new year began and members had more time to chat.

Refreshments were served by co-hostess Jane Shepherd and Elinor Sisson.

The second meeting of the month on January 25, held at the home of Jean Smith, Eastwood Park Drive, began with the first of several prepared programs on the theory of crafts. This program concerned the art of "Enamelling on Copper." Elinor Sisson gave a demonstration of the procedure of putting a colored design on a copper coaster-ashtray. Joyce Badgley followed this with a talk on the history of copper, and on the various more complicated methods of applying enamel. "Enamelling on copper is a fascinating craft. All you need to provide is close attention to cleaning the copper, a love of experimenting and an imagination."

There was a short business meeting after the program, and then members relaxed with delicious refreshments provided by Joyce Badgley and Jean Boyce.

Scoutmaster Gives Talk on 'Scout Camping' to St. Thomas' L.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the 1st Belleville (St. Thomas') Boy Scout Ladies' Auxiliary was held on Wednesday evening in St. Thomas' parish house.

The president, Mrs. A. Fort, conducted the opening devotional and presided for the business session.

It was reported that two pair of semaphore flags, in the group colors, had been completed for each of the five Scout Patrols.

The Auxiliary approved the expenditure to supply the Scouts working for the Religion and Life Award with necessary books and literature.

Plans were made to have a "Get – Acquainted" fellowship evening of court whist at the February meeting.

Reports were received from the following: Supper — Mrs. Fisher, sewing; Mrs. R. McMahon, sunshine; Mrs. J. Trafford, social.

Tickets were distributed and final arrangements made for the bridge and euchre being sponsored by the Scout group this month.

The following special chairmen were appointed: Mrs. J. Minett, tickets; Mrs. J. Trafford and Mrs. R. McMahon, refreshments; Mrs. A. Hobbs, publicity; Mrs. A. W. Athey and Mrs. A. Fraser, prizes and candy.

The Scout program covers have arrived from Ottawa for use at the group church parade to be held on "B.-P. Sunday," February 21st.

Activities of the group planned for the future are a scrap drive in April and the father and son banquet with a tenderfoot date of May 5th.

The Scoutmaster, Mr. A. J. Fort, was introduced to the ladies by the president. His topic was "Scout Camps and Your Boy."

Mr. Fort introduced his topic by saying that "Scouting and camping are synonymous. Just ask any boy what he enjoys in Scouting. Camping is the life-blood of the Scout troop and, as B-P. himself said, the Scoutmaster's greatest opportunity."

From a Scoutmaster point of view, he can expect for camping for the boys in the Patrols, as a group unit, and for each boy as an individual. The fellowship of patrol meals, prepared by the boys; evening chats with the boys, and last, but certainly not least, the true and living Campfire gives him many chances to understand the boy and stimulate mutual respect for each other in the stout bond of experiences hared.

nounced that refreshments would be served.

The meeting was enjoyed in the lower hall.

Mr. Fort outlined six aims of Scout Camping: to promote good health and physical fitness; to broaden the mind, to develop a boy's initiative and to help build his character; to develop self-reliance through skills and practice; to help boy learn to live with one another and develop tolerance and helpfulness and to satisfy the desire in every boy for real adventure.

Mr. Fort discussed Scout Camping as a simple form of backwoods camping which demands the minimum of equipment with the maximum of participation by the boy. It is essential that the Scouter and the boy realize that this is part of the four-way training of Scout Camping.

NOT A HOLIDAY CAMP

Scout Camp is not a holiday camp, but a training camp. The patrol system must be used. Only light camping and Scouts must accept the rough with the smooth and learn to enjoy both. Thus, in Scouting endeavor to develop a sound and balanced outlook on life as essential to a mature adult.

Scouter Fort described what was meant by the 'Light weight', 'medium weight' and 'heavy weight' types of camping: the duration of each, and the type of equipment necessary.

To any kind of Scout Camp there are three basic divisions: preparation; operation and clean-up. Each division was described in detail with some humorous examples of incidents occurring in some of the recent camps.

Scouter Fort concluded his talk by saying that "we should evaluate our Camps and always ask ourselves the question, "Have we attained our objectives?"

An active discussion followed.

Mrs. A. Hobbs thanked Scouter Fort on behalf of the Auxiliary, and refreshments of the evening were: Mrs. J. Trafford, Mrs. J. Minett, and Mrs. R. J. McIlwain.

Alpha Lambda Plans Black And Gold Ball

The Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority met for its first meeting in 1960 at the home of Mrs. Robert Hagerty.

A short business period included reports from each committee. Plans were discussed for the forthcoming Black and Gold Ball to be held later in February.

Mrs. G. Thompson introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Howard House, whose topic was "Interpretation of Love." Mrs. House dealt with this subject material in an interesting manner.

Dr. Joan Bronskill thanked the speaker for her talk.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Hinchey, and the co-hostess, Mrs. F. Bradley.

Th second meeting of the month was held at the home of Mrs. John Snetsinger, when Alpha Lambda Chapter was honored to have as its guest speaker Mrs. Greta Bunting, whose address was "The Influence and Enjoyment of Music". Mrs. R. Stirling introduced Mrs. Bunting who, because of her intense interest in music, relinquished a teaching career in modern languages to follow her musical profession. She used four recordings to illustrate different types of music.

Mrs. R. Laughlen expressed the appreciation of the chapter members to Mrs. Bunting for her address.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Snetsinger, and co-hostess, Mrs. D. Chant.

CHOCOLATE BARS

About 40,557,000 dozen chocolate bars were manufactured in Canada in the first nine months of 1959, down six per cent from 1958.

Women's Activities

W. A.

FRANKFORD — The Frankford United Church W. A. held its January meeting on January 14th in the Rose Lowery Hotel with 20 members present.

President Mrs. Arnold Stickle, was in charge of the meeting. Her theme was "Be Still and Know that I Am God".

Business was discussed. The Fall bazaar date was changed to November. It was also decided to have a membership pot – luck dinner for the February meeting, each member to bring one or more prospective members, with them as their guests. Each member is also asked to bring any material or wool to be donated for the bazaar.

Mrs. Bruce Servos and her group, Mrs. Astles and Mrs. S. Osterhout, took charge of the worship service. Their theme was, "Kept by the Power of God". The theme talk was given by Mrs. Servos. Responsive reading was Psalm 21, followed by prayer by Mrs. Astles.

The program was as follows: reading, "New Year's Resolutions", by Mrs. F. Rabell; "Another Year" by Mrs. Walter Morrow; "Your Minister and Mine" by Mrs. C. Judd.

Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. F. Rabel, Mrs. L. Frost and Mrs. M. Grills.

OBJECT TO FILM

TAUNTON, Mass. (AP) — The Strand heatre substituted another film today after Mayor Bernard F. Cleary, acting as city censor, requested that a "G" – adults – only" label be attached to a Mamie Van Doren movie, Girls Town. Cleary said he took the action because the film was labelled objectionable by the Catholic Legion of Decency.

Thomasburg WA Headed by Mrs. H. Morton

The January meeting of Thomasburg W.A. was held in the vestry. A pot-luck dinner was served to the senior school room and members of the W.A.

After dinner, the meeting was held with 14 members attending. The meeting opened with a reading, "A New Year's Thought," by Mrs. Mewry Morton.

Roll call was answered with membership dues for 1960 and the February roll call will be answered with a apron for the bazaar.

The devotional on the "First Commandment," was given by Mrs. Ross Robinson. Scripture reading by Mrs. Everett Prindle and Mrs. Hahn, and a reading by Mrs. Laurison Grills and Mrs. James Arbuckle entitled, "Preparation for the Master's Work," were given.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Officers for 1960 are: hon. president, Mrs. George Dyson; president, Mrs. Henry Morton; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Ernest McGee; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Everett Prindle; secretary, Mrs. Fred Preston; treasurer, Mrs. Ross Robinson; organists, Mrs. Dan Walker and Mrs. Ross Wilson; sick committee, Mrs. Frank Brough and Mrs. Gordon Boldrick; press reporter, Mrs. James Arbuckle; auditors, Mrs. Fred Preston and Mrs. George Dyson.

Congregational Meetings

BRIDGE STREET UNITED CHURCH

Substantial increases in membership and in total financial support of the church's many activities highlighted the reports presented at the annual congregational meeting held in Bridge Street United Church on the evening of January 27.

Intercept of 101 members was recorded during the year 1959. Total receipts raised for all purposes exceeded $70,000, of which more than two-thirds was contributed by the local congregation and its missionary organizations towards the support of the missionary and maintenance programs of the United Church of Canada, and the balance was used for the needs of the local church and its many organizations.

The meeting opened with a devotional period conducted by the minister, Rev. H. M. Davis, and the assistant minister, Rev. R. F. Sherwin. The names of 23 church members who have passed away during 1959 were read by Mr. Davis, and the congregation stood in a moment of silent tribute to their memory and the sister of Mr. Sherwin.

Mr. Davis acted as chairman and J. C. Bunting was appointed secretary of the meeting. Mimeographed reports on all departments of the church's work were distributed and reviewed by Mr. Davis with the various boards and officials to comment on the reports of their departments.

129 NEW MEMBERS

Concerning the report of the Board of Stewards, Mr. Davis noted that 129 new members were received into the church in 1959, and 28 were removed by death or certificate, making a net increase in church membership of 101 and bringing the total membership to 1,757. Total number of persons under pastoral oversight was 2,970. Last year 72 baptisms, 30 marriages and 34 burials were conducted by the minister.

Sincere gratitude was expressed to all who have assisted in the ongoing work of the Church through 1959, especially to Mrs. Gordon and the choirs for their faithful contribution to church praise and worship; to Mrs. Ivan Belch, for the genial manner with which Mrs. Belch met her many calling duties; to Miss Morden who has worked hard through the year; Mrs. Mitchell who served as our Office Secretary for a short while, and to Mrs. Riley our present Sec.; to Mr. Banting and his Sunday School Staff who have been very faithful in teaching the children; to the leaders and membership of the ladies' groups, youth groups, officers and members of Boards, with their several responsibilities; to our treasurer, Mr. Thompson, under whose guidance the church has had a good year; to Mr. Clare Faulkner our chief usher; Miss Sulman and Mrs. Moon, Flower Committee; to Mr. Slack, Miss Morden and her helpers for preparing for the Communion Services; to Mrs. William Dallas for two years of excellent leadership in the Woman's Association, and to Mrs. Gordon Locklin for steering the young ship, the Coronation Woman's Association, on its maiden voyage; to Mrs. Art Arthur and Mrs. Anderson, the leaders and workers in the Missionary Societies and the Missionary Cause to C. W. Burr, who retired as secretary of the Official Board after many years of faithful service; and to W. Blakelerwick, member of the Board of Session, presently ill.

The Rev. Robert Sherwin, assistant minister, reported on the two parts of the Christian education program, the Sunday school and the mid-week groups. He commended Mr. Alan Banting for his leadership as general superintendent of the Sunday school and stated that the Sunday school has an enrolment of 461 pupils and is adequately staffed at present.

A significant event during the year was the visit of Sunday School teachers to the leaders' ship training camp at Five Oaks. Contributions of the pupils to missions had continued to be good with a total of $728 being given for this purpose. "This reflects," he stated, "the excellent work of Miss Joy Nichols in keeping before the children the challenge and romance of missions."

PRAISED GROUP WORK

Mr. Sherwin praised the work done in the mid-week groups, each of which submitted an individual report and paid tribute to Dr. H. L. House who has recently taken over the leadership of the Cub pack, and to Scoutmaster F. Insley for his fine work with the Scout troop. The need for additional leadership for some of the groups was stressed.

Mr. A. D. Banting, superintendent, stated that the greatest need of the Sunday School was for more space and additional facilities. He outlined the program being made by the special committee appointed by the Official Board to study the needs of the Sunday School, indicating that a complete report would be ready before summer.

Mr. Davis commended Mr. A. Gordon and the choir for their excellent contribution to church worship throughout the year, and Miss L. MacDougall for directing the Junior choir at Christmas.

W. H. Finkle, chairman of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund, in reporting givings to the fund as $17,522, an increase of $1,843 over the previous year, said, "We are humbly proud to present this report of the highest givings to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund in the history of this church, which believes that a living church is a giving and expanding church."

The Afternoon Auxiliary of Bridge Street United had an invitation to drop over for supper Sunday evening, and your husband knew you had nothing planned, he had accepted.

You are a little dubious, never having met either Mr. Brown or his wife. Nevertheless, on Sunday evening you dutifully start off to keep the engagement. Upon your arrival, and to your surprise, you are greeted by a completely bewildered and unprepared hostess and an exhausted husband. Mr. Brown, in the course of events, he had forgotten all about the dinner invitation to his wife. So the evening gets under way, with embarrassment on every side, and a miserable time is inevitable.

How to avoid this situation, if one is on the receiving end of such a dilemma? The only wise person would handle it as follows: Mrs. Brown receives the phone within twenty-four hours to graciously verify the invitation. In the event of the latter she states that "she is looking forward so much to seeing you for supper Sunday evening." If she does not do so, however, the prospective guest should call Mrs. Brown expressing regret that while your husband thought you had planned Sunday evening, you had made other plans, and therefore would be unable to keep their kind invitation. This is really the safest way to handle such a mix-up as it avoided and no embarrassment can result to anyone.

Mrs. Brown's situation is particularly difficult when an unmarried guest arrives. She has to concern to accompany him to dinner at the home of some friends or his when one can be met. Somewhat the same procedure should be followed in this case as in the one just mentioned. Unless the hostess calls the young lady personally to verify the invitation, she should not go. But what if she already has accepted the young man's invitation, and has a "good forthcoming" a gracious refusal, based on sudden illness — almost anything — is the best way out!

A word to the wise: Avoid giving verbal invitations through a second party, whenever it is possible to go so! Invariably someone's toes get stepped on in the process.

Question: My husband and I have been invited to attend a wedding reception. We would like to know how many cards we should leave when we depart from the hall.

— Mrs. R. H. T.

Answer: It is never considered correct to leave cards when attending a wedding reception.

Tower of Babel Hats Match All Ensembles

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Lanvin-Castillo's collection ended the first week of Paris fashion showings on Friday with a symbolic clash of castinets.

Trends like the new "tapado" coat came straight from Lanvin-Castillo's native Spain. Brilliant colors, flashing embroideries, romantic Goya-style evening gowns with looped and fringed sashes. And the sophisticated press still shy of hosette add up to one of Castillo's finest endeavors.

Two-piece effects with lightly-fitted tunics or overblouses start in three- and four - piece ensembles with dress, jacket and occasion - shaped tapado cape shown in matching fabrics.

Bernard Duveau, the milliner who formerly designed for Pierre Cardin, has joined the Lanvin staff. He has created lofty and tiered "tower of Babel" hats in checked or flecked woollen fabrics matched to the ensemble.

The overall look is tall, cool and very wearable.

DESIGNED FOR TWO

Castillo designed much of this collection with two women in mind: Favorite client Barbara Hutton, who appeared wearing the entire collection last season and was at a town for the showing, and favorite model Viviane, whom Castillo calls "the divine one—a perfect beauty on earth."

The Divine One wore the most glamorous evening dresses—sheath or tubular models with all-embroidered tunics over gauze underskirts, or dresses contrived entirely of frilled tiers like frilly dressing table lampshades.

Pickard, and their assistants Mrs. D. Benn, Mrs. R. Atyeo and Mrs. H. Ward to whom appreciation was thanks were tendered.

United Church W.A. Holds Annual Meet

WELLINGTON — There was a splendid meeting of the United Church W.A. in the Canadian Legion on January 26. The assembly was called to attention with quiet music. The president, Mrs. H. Pierson opened with prayer. "What is the coming Years"

PRESENTING AN EMBARRASSING SITUATION

Synopsis of an awkward evening: Your husband arrives home from work and tells you that Bill Brown, a business acquaintance he had met on the street that day, has asked an invitation to drop over for supper Sunday evening, and your husband knew you had nothing planned, he had accepted.

You are a little dubious, never having met either Mr. Brown or his wife. Nevertheless, on Sunday evening you dutifully start off to keep the engagement. Upon your arrival, and to your surprise, you are greeted by a completely bewildered and unprepared hostess and an exhausted husband. Mr. Brown, in the course of events, he had forgotten all about the dinner invitation to his wife. So the evening gets under way, with embarrassment on every side, and a miserable time is inevitable.

How to avoid this situation, if one is on the receiving end of such a dilemma? The only wise person would handle it as follows: Mrs. Brown receives the phone within twenty-four hours to graciously verify the invitation. In the event of the latter she states that "she is looking forward so much to seeing you for supper Sunday evening." If she does not do so, however, the prospective guest should call Mrs. Brown expressing regret that while your husband thought you had planned Sunday evening, you had made other plans, and therefore would be unable to keep their kind invitation. This is really the safest way to handle such a mix-up as it avoided and no embarrassment can result to anyone.

Mrs. Brown's situation is particularly difficult when an unmarried guest arrives. She has to concern to accompany him to dinner at the home of some friends or his when one can be met. Somewhat the same procedure should be followed in this case as in the one just mentioned. Unless the hostess calls the young lady personally to verify the invitation, she should not go. But what if she already has accepted the young man's invitation, and has a "good forthcoming" a gracious refusal, based on sudden illness — almost anything — is the best way out!

A word to the wise: Avoid giving verbal invitations through a second party, whenever it is possible to go so! Invariably someone's toes get stepped on in the process.

Question: My husband and I have been invited to attend a wedding reception. We would like to know how many cards we should leave when we depart from the hall.

— Mrs. R. H. T.

Answer: It is never considered correct to leave cards when attending a wedding reception.

Winter Chili Sauce From Canned Tomatoes

by Mary Moore

You may notice that my program for you includes each week a common vegetable that is low in cost and always available to us during the winter. This year dependable canned tomatoes get their turn. You can make a lovely batch of chili sauce to replenish your fast-disappearing pickle supplies. For good measure I am adding a casserole of tomatoes.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

WINTER CHILI SAUCE

(Using canned tomatoes.) Two 28-oz cans beet quality tomatoes (drained), two 6-oz. tins tomatoe paste, 2 green peppers, 4 medium cooking onions (2 large outer celery stalks with leaves, 4 tablespoons sugar (or 2 cup if you have a sweet tooth), 2 teaspoons salt, 3-4 cup vinegar, spices tied in cheese cloth bag with long string: 12 whole cloves, 1 teaspoon mustard seed, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 3" cinnamon stick, 1-4 teaspoon cayenne pepper. (Or 2 table spoons mixed pickling spices). Into rather heavy kettle measure the tomatoes from which excess juice has been drained to shorten boiling period. Add the peppers, onions cut celery which have been put through medium coarse knife of grinder; you will have to reverse the winding handle several times to get through. Add spices which gather behind the knife. Add vinegar and salt and sugar and spice bag. Bring to boil and stir frequently to prevent sticking. Boil gently 1-3 hour. Add tomato paste and boil 1-2 hour longer. Remove spice bag. Pour into 2 sterilized pint jars and seal. Or, if desired, pour into eight 8-oz. glasses and seal with 2 coatings of paraffin and store in refrigerator. Note: The use of whole spices in a bag and addition of tomato paste gives this chili sauce the good color and texture common to commercial chili sauce. Pete says it's "tops." I like it too.

TOMATO CASSEROLE

(Serves 5 or 6). One 28-oz. can tomatoes (drained a little), 2 slices whole wheat bread toasted, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon celery salt (or 1-2 cup finely chopped celery). Toast the bread and cut into 1 inch pieces. Brown them gently in the butter until all butter is absorbed. Drain tomatoes, break up and spread in onion, salt, sugar and celery salt (or celery). Turn into casserole. Push the bread cubes into the mixture around the edge slanting them attractively with 1-2" protrudging. Bake in 350° F. oven for 30 minutes.

Karl — What else would happen to me that hasn't happened already? At 30, I find myself a bachelor and a rich and successful prospect in sight, without a car or a bank account, without even everything except trouble. That I got plenty of.

I figure maybe if I can get Christmas any luck will change. Somehow, it couldn't help but be a winning streak for me. Surely, this jinx isn't going to use all the way to Alaska.

I know the folks are going to miss me, but maybe it's better for them not to see me at all. They worry about me all the time. I know I cause them a lot of heartaches and that makes me feel bad.

Anyway Alaska isn't the end of the world. Maybe I'll strike it rich there and be back in no time — with my millions.

Ever,
The Council: We see nothing wrong with going to Alaska, but a lot wrong with the spirit in which Karl is contemplating this idea. If he goes in his present frame of mind we are afraid that his jinx will follow him every step of the way.

We think Karl and his parents should talk and see that we all carry our luck — good and bad — within ourselves. It is true that forces from the outside occasionally operate for or against us, but in most instances we are actually quite rare. In fact, the typical "hard luck guy" usually manages to turn a good event or opportunity into something bad, and those people who has the habit of success often turns a slow into a new opportunity.

We don't know why Karl is jixing himself, but we think he should spend less time and energy in leaving his life and more on taking a good, hard look at his own conduct. He should try to see how his own behavior may have been responsible for his getting by-passed when the promotions are handed out and for his being jilted by two girls.

Karl gives some indication to us of what he does to mess himself up when he talks of luck as something that might fall out of the skies for him in Alaska. Sure, there is luck involved, but a bad some idea of what he wanted to do there. The fact that he does not possess no ideas indicates that he doesn't really expect to succeed in what he tries.

It is believed that the mental quirk motivating cuts like Karl is that they really want to fall as self-punishment. They are haunted by a vague and probably unreasonable sense of guilt.

Bruins, Leafs Improve Status With Weekend Points

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Just as if player trouble is not enough worry for the Kitchener Dutchmen Olympics squad, it has to be the target of shots sniping on the part of the bolier-than-thou press.

Last week another round was fired in National Hockey League's president Clarence Campbell's interpretation in Olympic and world hockey tournaments.

Campbell suggests Canada should withdraw permanently and says he cannot understand why the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association would want to compete anyway since the best possible club, the NHL champions of course, are not allowed to compete.

The answer is that one might just be that the CAHA wants to do something for the game it is supposed to be trying to promote.

Perhaps Campbell could aid in eliminating Canada from world competition. We believe the Canadiens, Red Wings or any other National League champions would slaughter anything the European teams had to offer. But how long they would stand for that is a good guess. It could end with the International Ice Hockey Federation barring Canada from world competition. That should suit Campbell or does he secretly wish that the rules be changed so he could send the top NHL club?

Len (Kitchener Record) Taylor says "if the NHL president has attended a world or Olympic tournament in recent memory it has not come to public attention. This corner thinks it might be worthwhile for Campbell to take in the world tournament the next time it is held in Europe, which will be 1961."

Almost without realization by professional hockey in Canada the winter game that this country has developed is becoming a world sport. The Russians and Australians have teams in the Olympics this year. China has jointed the world federation and will soon be represented.

Taylor says the CAHA, by making sure that Canada is represented by a competitive team, is helping the world and Olympic hockey events the frosting on the present cake. But the day may come, and within the next decade, when it won't matter very much whether the Canadians show up or not.

In fact in 1957 when Canada passed up the world tournament in Moscow because of the adverse comment arising from the Hungarian revolt subjugation, the Swedes and Russians put on a 10,000 squad in an outdoor setting of one game of the world tourney.

This department knows from personal experience that in Prague last March, the stadium was packed solidly for every game with 15,000 spectators and another 10,000 milled outside waiting for a lucky ticket break. It was the same in Bratislava and other centres during the tournament qualifying rounds.

This in a country where $30 was the standard weekly wage and people had been saving for a year to get the ticket purchase money.

Bunny Ahearne, the British travel agency and ice hockey impresario, estimated that the world tournament last year pressed 15,000,000 persons would have, if they could know. His fingers were never too far from the purse-strings.

This is money big enough, Taylor believes, to make the NHL listen. In fact he is willing to bet that if the CAHA ever does decide to drop out the international organization will be in with an offer to fill the vacuum, as fast as Brother Campbell's office can make a phone call to Ahearne."

He says he hopes to live to see the day when there will be a world hockey league embracing centres like Moscow, Prague, Stockholm, Paris, London, Berlin, New York—and who knows, even places like Tokyo, Melbourne and even Peking.

And when that day comes the CAHA decision to participate in the tournaments of this era will have been a major reason for the development.

Boston Defeats Habs, Wings While Toronto Ties Hawks After Nudging Rangers 3-2

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston's sturdy Bruins and the high-geared Toronto Maple Leafs emerged from the weekend scramble in the National Hockey League with fresh hope, new status and most of the marbles.

The hard-hitting Bruins racked up a pair of home-ice victories to push ahead in a struggle for fourth - place while the Maple Leafs had a win and a tie, vaulting into the No. 2 spot.

Sunday night Boston shattered the stout defence of Montreal's pace-setting Canadiens for five first-period goals and hung on grimly for a 6-5 edge, featured by Vic Stasiuk's three - goal performance.

TWO FOR BRONCO

Bronco Horvath scored twice Saturday — running his season's production to 33 goals—and Leo Labine provided the winner in a 3-2 triumph over Detroit Red Wings.

The Maple Leafs battled the Black Hawks to a 3-3 tie in Chicago Sunday night after coming getting George Armstrong's third-period goal—while playing with a man in the penalty box—into a 3-2 win over New York Rangers on home Saturday night.

In New York Sunday night Dean Prentice notched twice in his second tally gave the Rangers a 3-3 tie with the Red Wings, who dropped to third place.

Veteran Ted Lindsay scored both goals for the Hawks Saturday night in Montreal, to give them a 2-2 tie.

SHARE SCORING LEAD

Horvath and Henri Richard Jean Beliveau were held to an assist apiece in their teams' 11-goal outburst Sunday night and the two centres share the scoring lead with 65 points.

It was Fern Flaman night in Boston and the crowd of 13,909 who paid tribute to the rugged defenceman were treated to a pleasant surprise by Boston's onslaught in the first 20 minutes.

But it took Stasiuk's third goal and some frantic defensive work for the Bruins to preserve the win.

Goman Thinks

Fleming Mackell, Don McKenney and Guy Gendron were the other marksmen for the Bruins.

RARE PEAT

Boston's Saturday outing was an afternoon affair. Horvath's two second - period goals made him the first Boston player to reach 33 for a season since Richie Cain turned the trick in the 1943-44 campaign.

Detroit ace Gordie Howe and defenceman Jim Morrison each counted for the Wings. Labine's game-deciding goal came 6:46 seconds after the start of the final period.

Toronto built up a 3-1 lead on goals by Dick Duff, Bert Olmstead and Bobby Baun. Tod Sloan was Chicago's other scorer.

Gerry James, Toronto's rough defenceman, was serving a five-minute penalty when Armstrong scored the goal that stood up as the final period Saturday night.

SHEAR INJURIES

Eddie Shore the major for clipping New York's Eddie Shack early in the game, inflicted facial cut that required 25 stitches.

Ron Stewart and Frank Mahovlich scored the first two Toronto goals while Andy Bathgate and Harry Howell counted for Rangers.

Prentice boosted his goal - production to 22 with his third goal effort Sunday night but the tie with Detroit left the Rangers winless in three starts. His lying goal came at 7:37 of the final period.

New York also saw the services of Camille Henry when he slammed into the Detroit net and fractured his left forearm.

Rearguard Bill Gadsby of New York and Detroit's Ron Murphy, Pronovost and Gary Aldcorn were the other scorers.

Dutchmen Have Better Club Than Team Beaten in 1956

Consensus of Dutchies' manager, coach and players is that the team is stronger in goal, on defence and down the middle.

Canada's representatives in Olympic hockey competition will also be one of the strongest teams at Squaw Valley, as the average age of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A club is 24.

Before leaving for its six-game exhibition series in the West, the team was strengthened by last minute signings of Jim Connelly, a right winger from Chatham, and Ron Stone and Vaughan Scaler Don Head, Head will join the club at the Olympic site in mid-February.

PRAISES TEAM

"I feel that we now have the type of hockey club that will be a credit to our country at the games, which compares favorably to the two clubs which won the world championships for Canada in attending the past two seasons," club business manager Ernie Gouras said Monday as he boarded the train to Fort William for the first exhibition game.

Club officials said the team will follow a strict training program when they arrived at Fort William—two practices a day when an ice rink is scheduled and morning practices on game days.

There also is a little strength in the bank account too, with their Olympic fund passing the $17,000 goal to about $20,000. A few hours prior to their departure the team received a cheque from the town of Collingwood for $1,000.

Team captain Ken Laufman, left winger Don Rope and right winger Floyd Smith Martin are ready in record time for the afternoon preliminaries following Friday night's hockey game. Men had to take them all out again after the meet for this afternoon's scheduled 880 cow Selects' exhibition hockey game.

Two Canadian records were established when Rose Melanson of Port Arthur winning the women's 60-yard hurdle final in 8.5 seconds and Bob Fisher, Smith of Winnipeg taking the men's 60-yard sprint in 6.2 seconds.

Roger Cote Sends Another To Hospital

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines goalkeeper Dennis Crozier did just about everything a goaler can do Sunday. He helped salvage a 3-3 tie for TeePees with the OHA Junior A league-leading Toronto Marlboros with his goaltending—and assisted on St. Catharines' third goal. He started the play with a passout.

Just to round things out he even appeared in the penalties column for slashing.

The game, combined with a 4-0 shutout for St. Michael's College Majors over Barrie Flyers, provided the 6,226 fans in Maple Leaf Gardens with some of the finest junior hockey seen in Toronto this year.

The TeePees-Marlboros game also featured one rousing fight and a bodycheck by Roger Cote of Marlboros that put St. Catharines rookie Pete Berge into hospital with a concussion.

LOSING STREAK

Hamilton Tiger-Cubs, playing Saturday for their 11,000 home town fans, broke a seven-game losing streak by edging Peterborough Petes 4-3. The largest crowd of the season at St. Catharines, 3,500, saw the Majors down TeePees 5-3 by Marlboros.

Marlboros have 51 points, 11 more than Barrie with St. Mike's two more points back in third. TeePees have 31 points, 35 for Petes, 34 for Guelph and 16 for Hamilton.

Lancers Whip Gaels 65-51

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

ASSUMPTION University Lancers, still smarting from a 75-56 defeat planned on them by University of Toronto Blues Friday night, smacked Queen's University Golden Gaels 64-51 here Saturday night.

The win gave Lancers a 3rd place finish in standings this season. Queen's have only one win in six starts this season.

At Hamilton, University of Western Ontario Mustangs took a firm hold on first place with a 73-60 victory over McMaster University Saturday night.

In a junior game preceding the senior contest, St. Jerome's of Kitchener scored a 68-62 win over McMaster Juniors.

Over 100 Persons Injured In Trinidad Cricket Riot

PORT OF SPAIN Trinidad (Reuters) — More than 100 persons were injured here Saturday night when thousands of West Indians, enraged at a cricket umpire, invaded the playing grounds throwing bottles and rocks.

Thirty persons were taken to the hospital.

Police, the mildest sports in the world — which has given West Indians a long and unenviable renowned "fan's cricket" — broke out into a wild riot that included scenes reminiscent of the serious disorder.

Firemen, mounted police and a platoon of armed riot squad battled with an angry mob numbering a record 25,000 attending the third day of a six-day cricket game between England and the West Indies.

But the firemen were hampered in their efforts to disperse the crowded because the bottles and cans were flying harder and farther than their low - pressure water.

The commotion was considered almost unprecedented in cricket history. Captain Peter May and his English team were escorted by police from the pitch. England was winning at the time.

The first hint of trouble came before the tea break when an unpopular decision was announced by umpire Sandy Lloyd, who was booed from then on. Later, fights broke out among spectators.

The riot started in force when a fusillade of West Indies umpire, Eric Lee Kow, ruled that a young local boy, Charran Singh, was run out without scoring.

Big Four Wants Action Not Just Talk On East-West Interlocking

By WILF GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The Big Four football league wants the idea of an East-West interlocking schedule put on the shelf unless it can be implemented this year. It is not fair to football fans just to keep talking about it year after year.

This is the view the league will present at the annual meeting of the Canadian Football League in Winnipeg Feb. 11-14. They should either decide to go ahead or forget it after that round of talks.

The Big Four adopted this policy at the annual meeting here Saturday after hearing proposals for sweeping changes in the Interprovincial Football Union, including a suggestion that the pro teams eliminate one halfback and play only 11 men at one time—the same as in American football.

FURTHER STUDY

The proposals were made in a 11-page brief submitted by J. G. (Jake) Gaudaur, retiring league president and general manager of Hamilton Tiger - Cats. Sam Berger of Ottawa, newly-elected president, said after the closed meeting that no action was taken on the proposals but they would be studied further, both by the league and the clubs in their own jurisdiction over such legislation.

Gaudaur said both the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union teams now have all the facts necessary on which to base a decision this year on a mutual interlocking schedule. All the problems involved had been studied by a two-man committee appointed last year's CFL meeting to bring in a report this year.

NO STAND

Berger said the Big Four is "neither in favor or against it" but would go into the CFL meeting with no definite stand on question. After discussing all its ramifications and effects, particularly whether it would be financially successful, the idea should be settled "one way or another."

"It is not good for the public to have this idea come up every year and do little about it," he said. "The public is tired of all the talk concerning it."

Boston Seeks Gerry James

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers Canadian fullback Gerry James says he has been approached by Boston of the newly-formed American Football League and is "curious to see just how interested they are."

James, now a forward with the National Hockey League's Toronto Maple Leafs, said in an interview Boston manager Mike Holovak phoned him.

"When I told him I hadn't signed for next season but had an option clause he said the American League had no intention of tampering with Canadian players."

"No money was mentioned," said James. "I'll probably drop in to see Holovak next time I'are in Boston." Leafs play in Boston Feb. 7.

Canadians Win At Track Meet

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Calgary distance runner, an American pole vaulter and a Saskatoon girl sprinter Saturday night captured the spotlight at Winnipeg's first international indoor track and field meet in 1960.

The crowd of about 3,500 gave a standing ovation to 27-year-old Doug Pyle, newest Canada's only standing track star in 1959 as he took over the lead on the 30th lap of the 33-lap, invitational three-mile race and then won going away from Bud Edelin from the Universiti of Minnesota.

Kyle's time, nine minutes, 53.2 seconds, only 16.3 seconds short of the best official time for the event, belongs to Bill Bolinger of the U.S. last year. There was no previous official Canadian mark.

Twenty - two - year - old Jim Grabam from Oakland, State finished of all opposition at 14 feet one-half inch then went on to clear 15 feet as he captured the men's pole vault title.

BREAKS RECORD

Eleanor-Hasham of Saskatoon set a Canadian record in the women's 60-yard sprint final as she raced home in 6.7 seconds, clipping one-tenth of a second off the previous mark.

The meet was sponsored by the Manitoba and Northwestern Ontario command, Canadian Legion. Legion workers had labored $20,000 track and other facilities

Dunnies Win Weekend Pair, Wallop Maroons, Edge Dogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whitby Dunlops increased their league-leadership to six points in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series during the weekend as they picked up two wins despite a skimpy lineup.

They trounced Chatham 'Maroons 8-2 on home ice Saturday and edged Windsor Bulldogs 4-3 in a hard-fought contest in the Border City Sunday.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, in their weekend appearance before leaving for the Winter Olympic Games, knocked off cellar-dwelling Belleville McFarlands 7-4 before 4,500 excited homefans here Saturday. The victory clinched a playoff berth for the Dutchmen.

The Kitchener club departed from Toronto's Union Station Sunday night on the first leg of their journey to Squaw Valley, Calif.

The Dutchmen, who have won three four-point games, are still under possession of second place, eight points ahead of Windsor and Chatham who are tied for third.

Dutchmen Defeat Macs 7-4; Clinch Playoff Berth

Score Six Unanswered Goals In Second, Third Periods After Trailing by 4-1 Count

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Credit the Belleville McFarlands with a great big assist on that. They tossed a big scare into the Olympic-garbed 13-man Dutchmen team for 21 minutes then wilted like a three-day-old head of lettuce.

They led 4-1 a minute after the second period started, then the Dutchmen caught fire. They scored four goals in nine minutes, three of them in two, as the McFarland defence fell to pieces and never recovered except for spasmodic third-period efforts.

Led by Wylie, a hat-trick man, the Dutchmen added two more in the final frame, and although the Macs regained part of the organized play it was futile against the Dutchmen defence and the outstanding work of their goalie, Boat Hurley. The score was 7-4.

And the Macs can thank net-minder Bob Senior for holding the score to what it was. Senior played his best game in a Belleville uniform and was sensational at times.

SECOND DID IT

The Dutchmen found their stalking legs in the disastrous second period when they outshot the Macs 19-5. The over-all count was Dutchmen 52, Belleville 34.

The four-point victory gave the Dutchmen a points total of 54, two beyond the mathematical reach of the McFarlands. The 9-3 defeat of Chatham by Whitby Saturday night enhanced the Macs chances, but at that they are betting on the brink of playoff oblivion. They have eleven games to play, with Hamilton, Chatham and Windsor have 46 points.

The Olympics-crippled Whitby Dunlops have 58 points and are "in". The Macs fate rests mainly on their stiff against Chatham and Windsor and inter-club games between these two teams and Whitby.

From here in, Whitby will play their games without Jim Pappin of Attersley, Etcher, Samalenko and Sinden games against the two Olympics team. The Macs will be minus Moe Benoit.

Upwards of 3,200 Kitchener fans sat almost aghast in their beautiful arena as the Macs poured in three goals to one in the first period. Their state of mind was further dampened when the Macs scored a "quick-ie" in the first minute of play in the second frame.

The tempo was well below that of the Whitby game here when the Macs hit high gear for three periods for an 8-4 victory.

The Macs struck oil early when Davy Jones scored at 3:37 and Kenny Laufman got that one back two minutes later. Then the McFarlands, whose plays were clicking, scored twice in 44 seconds, Gibbons and Brown the pair. Boucher to count and Gribbons feeding Smrke for the second round. Laufman and Benoit drew the only penalties of the period.

Early in the second chapter Gribbons passed back to Benoit on the point, and Moe let go a blazing slapshot that struck the Dutchies' Jackson and deflected into the net. It wasn't known then but that finished the scoring for the Macs.

Benoit drew a costly sentence at 4:18 for hooking and a minute later Sly Wylie got the goal that fused the Dutchies' explosion. They found their range and the Macs' plays started to click.

Marineau drew a "tripper" at 10.40 and 32 seconds after he returned the Dutchmen neatly evened their. They slammed home three goals in 2.05 minutes as the McFarland defence fell apart with the forwards checking distastrously futile.

Sly Wylie and Rope supplied the fuel oil. Forhan slashed home Wylies pass at 12.49. Rope completely teamed with Wylie at 14.17 and .57, seconds later Graham and Martin supported Sly in the third goal of the sudden outburst.

With victory not out of reach with the score 5-4 against them, the Macs tried desperately to get organized in the third period. They ganged in on Hurley but were weak around the net and when they did get close the Dutchie goalie kicked out everything they had to offer.

The Dutchmen checking closely and waiting for the breaks, got one at 5.08 when Davison sent Wylie and Rope away, the latter taking Rope's pass close-in to beat Senior and close the coffin.

That was it. The Macs tried hard but could not get clicking and Wylie placed the wreath at 14.00 with the Dutchies seventh goal and his third, with Rope and Forhan assisting.

Wylie with three paced the attack, with Rope's four assists not far behind. Sly had two, Laufman and Forhan one goal each.

Jones, Smrke, Boucher, and Benoit scored for the Macs with Kenny Gribbons getting three assists. Hildebrand, Muir, Brown and Crawford had one each.

Four minor penalties were handed out, three to the McFarlands.

Juniors Meet Kingston Team Here Tonight

Belleville Lambert-Rollins will be putting their five-game winning streak on the line here tonight at 8.30 when they play host to Kingston Johnson Motors in an OHA Junior Hockey League "B" fixture at Memorial Arena.

The locals are presently in second-place in the six-team loop and hope to hold that spot as they go for the third-place Kingston squad until playoff time. They have won 14 games, lost seven and tied one for 29 points. The Greenville-coached club has defeated Picton twice, Kingston, Cobourg and Trenton once each in the last five outings to climb from third to second spot.

Manager Mel Richards also had good news for local fans Saturday when he announced that the club has obtained the services of defenceman Pat Asselstine from the Guelph Biltmores.

Asselstine, who plays with the Junior "A" Bilts earlier this season is a Belleville boy and is well known in district hockey circles. He will be a definite asset to the local club, especially since the defence has been lacking in strength this season. Asselstine will be suited for tonight's important game.

Kingston Wins Weekend Pair

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The weekend belonged to the independents in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, if such animals can be found in the outfit.

The race has narrowed to where 15 points separate the top and bottom teams. This is two points closer than last week.

The beat of competition is being reflected in crowds, with 10,966 persons watching Sunday's three afternoon games.

It also is showing itself in the broad smiles on the faces of club owners who didn't dare hope for such success in the first year of operation. The loop is made up of six National Hockey League farm clubs and four teams signed by provincial professional and amateur leagues.

COMFORTABLE LEAD

Sudbury Wolves continue to hold a relatively comfortable six-point lead, despite an 8 - 6 loss Saturday night to Kingston Frontenacs and a 4 - 4 tie Sunday with first - place Hull - Ottawa Canadiens.

Kingston, as unpredictable as the storied Queen Bruins, notched a second weekend win by defeating third - place Trois - Rivieres Lions 5 - 3 Sunday to climb out of the cellar.

The so - called underdogs triumphed again Sunday when the Soo squad fought second-place Montreal Royals to a 3 - 3 tie on Montreal ice.

Dutchmen Manager Bemoans Lack of Teams' Co-operation

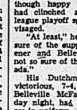
"At least," he said, "we are sure of the support of Kitchener and Belleville. I am not so sure of the rest of Canada."

His Dutchmen, although victorious, 7-4, against the Belleville McFarlands Saturday night, had only 13 players in uniform.



MOE BENOIT
. . . Now a Dutchie

Two of the Olympics selects, Mike Elik and John Konecny, quit the club minutes before the Belleville-Kitchener game got under way.

He told them they were going with the club, but I could not guarantee them a spot on the team," Goman said. "They quit unless they would be assured of playing. They said their jobs had something to do with it."

He should have had our Olympics squad playing together at least a week before we left. The European teams have been playing together for months.

"But none of the teams would co-operate. They were too intent on battling for playoff spots in the senior league. Wren Blair refused to send his four players and I could not get Belleville's Benoit until tonight. That is understandable seeing the McFarlands' position in the league standing."

Goman is taking Cesare Maniago along as spare goalie. It seems the Windsor club will not release Goalie Don Head until the last ten days of the tournament. Fort William will bear the brunt of the goal-keeping.

In official quarters here, it was stated that it is doubtful now if Whitby's Wren Blair, named as adviser to the Dutchmen in Squaw Valley, will make the trip.

At this writing - efforts were being made by the Dutchmen management to get Bill Gadsby, a high-scoring forward of the Chatham Maroons. Windsor's Lou Bendo has been withdrawn by the Bulldog club.

Asked why he had not attempted to get Gordie "Red" Berenson, who starred with the McFarlands in Europe last year, Goman said "Red," who is attending the University of Michigan, had been told if he missed certain classes this winter he would forfeit his scholarship. Berenson chose to remain at school.

Despite all this the Dutchmen are confident they can bring the Olympic title back. They are not selling any of the Kitchener team short, especially the Russians and Czechs, but that envelopment and a friendly crowd will do a lot for the morale of the Canadian team.

The Belleville Macs Boosters Club wrote with a "good-luck" message to the Dutchies as was learned in a letter read place in the beautiful Kitchener Arena. It was presented to the Olympic team by the Booster last Friday night in Belleville.

Some 800 minor hockey players provided a fine cheering section for the Dutchies here Saturday night. They had been warmed-up and their chorus of "Go Dutchies Go" was led by three adult cheer leaders.

This reporter can now understand why Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul, Canada's three-time world championship pairs figure skaters, won their honors. The couple staged a brilliant exhibition between periods to the thunderous ovation of some 2,500 people. No wonder the Toronto couple is favored to repeat at Squaw Valley. It was beautiful and breath-taking.

In pre-game ceremonies, Miss Wagner popped the first puck. Addresses of "good luck" were given by the mayors of Kitchener and Waterloo, and gifts of sports shirts and wallets presented to the Olympics team. They were "Kodak" gifts lest to protect the players' "amateur" status.

Following the game the players fraternized on the ice, with the Macs again wishing the Dutchies well with backslaps and handshakes.

And in a final gesture the Macs made a temporary farewell to Moe Benoit in their dressing room. "Cesare" was there, too. That kid really likes the McFarlands. — G.H.C.

Jenkins Takes Skating Crown

SEATTLE (AP) — David Jenkins of Colorado Springs, Colo., won the men's crown in the United States figure-skating championships Saturday night and with it a berth in the Winter Olympics.

Tim Brown, the University of California sophomore who led Jenkins after the skating of compulsory figures, placed second.

Robert Brewer of Los Angeles was third. Brown and Brewer also were named to the Olympic team.

Earlier in the evening, Karen Jenkins, sister of the junior ladies championship and the national dance title went to Mrs. Dona Lee Ann Knuttila Phillips Jr. of Los Angeles.

The selection committee also said the first three teams in the Olympics competition will skate at Vancouver. There is no dance competition in the Olympics.

'DUTCH' CANNING

"Dutch" Canning, well-known city bowler, is turning strikes into "bucks" at the Town onto O'Connor Bowling eliminations tournament.

"Dutch" won his first appearance at the tourney on Saturday scoring a five-game pin-fall of 1488 to defeat Whitby's Dick Adams with 1371.

Canning picked up around 170 iron men for his exercise, and will return to the five-pins battles two weeks from Saturday last.

This time, however, he'll know the quality of his opponent. He is Ron Saylor, another Belleville alleys star.

Who knows? If "Dutch" keeps up the good work he may draw a guest shot on the Ed Sullivan show.

Industrial Hockey League Results

Williams Brothers overcame a 5-2 deficit to earn a 5-5 tie with Chris' Drive-in while Canning Electric defeated Workers 4-3 in a couple of close Industrial hockey league clits yesterday.

The tie was an important one for Williams Brothers, enabling them to hold off Chris' bid for second place. Each team has but one more game to play and Williams are now assured of at least a tie for second place, even if they drop their final game against the last-place Peterborough Chris' win over first-place Boots.

At present Booth's have 18 points, Williams 11, Chris' 9 and Canning Peterborough 8. Booths will take part in the playoffs.

"Wiener" Waite paced Williams' attack with two goals, including the tying marker. Single goals were by Dave Faulkner, Doug Murray and Duke Dorsn, while Doug Moreau, Jack Gibbons and Bud Reid scored assists.

Jack Gill and Frankie Donovan picked up a goal and two assists apiece for Chris' while Leo Goyer, Vern Goyer and Phil Cornell scored a goal each. Ron Atkins, Hank Reeves, Cornell and L. Goyer drew single assists.

Bob Brooks and Jack Hughes collected a goal and assist to spark Booth TV's win over Canning Electric. Cam McKenzie, Frank Chris triggered a goal each with assists for Jack Calnan and Leo St. Denis.

Hugh Pointer, Doug Baker and Jim Hall drew assists for the Printers' scoring points with one goal and one assist each.

Comets Lose Two Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The tough battle for Western Hockey League playoff berths claimed another victim during the weekend.

This time it was Seattle Totems. With their sights fixed high on a second straight league title, Totems were beaten 5-1 by the lowly Spokane Comets Saturday and 3-2 by Calgary Stampeders Sunday. Comets remained in the cellar but it was their biggest winning margin of the season.

Stampeders, who lost 4-1 to Victoria Cougars Saturday, catapulted past Winnipeg Warriors into fifth place on the strength of Sunday night's win. Warriors lost the chance to close in on fourth-place Edmonton when Flyers picked up a 4-3 win Saturday.

RUSSIAN SWEEP

OESTERSUND, Sweden (AP) — Valentina Stenina won the women's world speed skating championships Sunday as Russia swept the first four places. Mrs. Stenina, a steel worker from Sverdlovsk, upset world record holder Tamara Rylova for the title in the two-day competition with 208.833 points compared with 209.633 for Miss Rylova, the runnerup.

Indians String Stopped at 16

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Springfield Indians' home ice winning streak has been stopped at 16—one victory away from the all-time American league record set by Cleveland Barons during the 1937-38 season.

The 1959-60 Barons prevented Springfield from gaining a share of the record by winning three times in the final period to deadlock the Indians 4-4 in overtime Sunday night.

The Indians had boosted their home-ice record to 16-0-0 Saturday night with a 4-3 overtime win over Eastern American League - leading Springfield opened up a seven-point lead over the runnerup Americans, who edged Providence Reds 3-2 Sunday night.

In Sunday night's other game, Billy Dea potted the winner to power Buffalo Bisons to a 7-1 win over the last-place Quebec Aces, Meanwhile, first-place Providence 6-4 and Cleveland downed Quebec 5-1 Saturday.

The Other Day

Ken Pinder

We heard about Ken Pinder, who thought so much of his old beaten up aluminum putter-heat that he was willing to, and did, pay $5,000 for an exact duplicate replacement of it.

We heard that the only way he could get one was to order a thousand of them at $5.00 apiece, because it didn't have to be made to duplicate the old putterhead, and so it would cost almost as much for one as for a thousand.

Probably many of us have known of dunkers there an old; worn item was so prized, that its identical replacement would be worth many times the original cost. But this cannot be logically true of an automobile, even though some old cars do have excellent value on the antique market.

Every year there are important improvements in cars; and the older a car becomes the more costly it is to maintain and operate, so it is in your own interest to trade at the most possible model. We shall always consider your best interests in fitting the car to your needs and circumstances, for we know it is your satisfaction that builds our business.

The Fabulous Fifties Gave Events of Past Ten Years

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Fabulous Fifties, Sunday night's two-hour CBS special, may be the final summary of the decade just passed, but it certainly tried to touch all parts of it.

Events during 10 years are difficult to compress into two hours of TV time, including the commercials. And the producers tried to include everything from the national debt to an obituary list, and also threw in a few comedy sketches and even literary readings.

Leland Hayward borrowed from so many sources and used so many stars that the credits with the stars carefully listed in alphabetical order—took almost five minutes at the end of the show. It was big, but no one production could possibly have been big enough to cover all the ground it attempted. As a consequence the show was ragged and broken up into unsatisfactory bits and segments. There seemed to be no one idea in its approach to the subject.

MOODS CHANGE QUICKLY

At the outset, songs and faces flashed before us in a kaleidoscopic fashion. Then just when we settled down to get nostalgic over a picture of Mike Todd and Liz Taylor or to hear a bit of Van Cliburn's music, the mood and the pace changed. There was a long and not too amusing sketch with Dick Van Dyke satirizing the succession of dance fads—mambo, cha-cha-cha and rock 'n' roll.

There were news photos of Grace Kelly's wedding, the sinking of the Flying Enterprise and then, incongruously, a Shelley Berman sketch involving a father's conversation with a wise-guy child.

Television itself came in for a share of the kidding. There two sketches were among the evening's most amusing. In one, Suzy Parker burlesqued TV commercials and in another Mike Nichols and Elaine May had one of their magnificent cliche conversations about the quiz-show scandals. But I still don't see why Eric Severeid found it necessary to give an analysis of Charles de Gaulle and France's troubles to the tune of the Poor People of Paris.

It was an ambitious, imposing and certainly expensive show. It would have been more entertaining if it had been more disciplined.

Sunday afternoon was a music lover's delight.

This was followed immediately on CBS by a Leonard Bernstein-New York Philharmonic program.

Then ABC presented a fine analysis of the independence movement in Africa—thoughtful, fair and sympathetic to the apparently irreconcilable viewpoints and emotions involved.

Until I have recovered from my Sunday-induced case of eyestrain, I don't want anyone to tell me there's nothing worth watching on TV any more.

Name Oakland Eighth Team In New League

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The American Football League filled its eighth franchise with Oakland, Calif., Saturday and looked toward its first season and a battle for the entertainment dollar with the long-established National Football League in four cities.

Commissioner Joe Foss said Oakland was picked because it would furnish natural rivalry for Los Angeles, was better from the geographical standpoint — furnishing a better balance — and was travel more convenient for the clubs.

Oakland will be in the western division of the AFL with Denver, Los Angeles. The eastern division will have Houston, Boston, Buffalo and New York.

OHA Suspends Cobourg Junior For One Year

COBOURG (CP)—Gary Sharpe of the Cobourg Junior B hockey club has been suspended by the Ontario Hockey Association for one year, it was announced Saturday.

Sharpe was given the penalty after a fight with Dennis Kerruish. Both fell of the ice and the Bellevilla player had a cut head.

An appeal is being considered. Sharpe, alleged to have cut the player with his skates, says it was an accident.

Russians Whip Peg Juniors 8-1

WINNIPEG (CP)—The touring Moscow Selects scored five goals in the first period Sunday and coasted to an easy 8-1 victory over a jittery Winnipeg junior combination in an exhibition hockey game before a record 10,271 fans at Winnipeg Arena.

The Selects had no trouble with the junior squad, made up of players of the Winnipeg Braves and St. Boniface Canadiens of the Manitoba Junior Hockey League. They outshot the juniors 48-19. Six of the goals went past Canadiens' Paul Sexsmith.

Ernie Wakely let in the other two but played a sensational game after taking over for the last half. Wakely stopped 18 shots, many on close-in plays.

Defenceman Boris Sprkin and Vladimir Yurzinov scored two goals apiece for the Selects. Other goals went to Slava Starshinov, Eduard Ivanov, Valentin Chistov and Yury Krilov.

Olympic Torch On Way to Squaw Valley

MORGEDAL, Norway (Reuters) — The Olympic flame was kindled in a small log cabin above this Norwegian valley town Sunday and started on its way to the Winter Games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Taken to Oslo, hundreds of people watched it put aboard an airliner. The flame was transferred to another plane at Copenhagen for its flight over the North Pole to Los Angeles. Monday it will begin its journey from Los Angeles through California to Squaw Valley, where the Winter Olympics begin Feb. 18.

Minor Hockey

Black Hawks, Rangers, Quinte, Macs and Barons came out on top in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's bantam league games played at Memorial Arena Saturday morning.

The Hawks took a 5-3 win over the Bruins with Roy Marcelle's two goals proving the margin of victory. Richard Harrington, Carl Bannah and Jim McGuire also scored, Dave Finamore drawing an assist. Dwight Rathwell and Fred Robinson had a goal and assist for the Bruins, Gary Rutherford a goal and Larry Stewart an assist.

Rangers registered a 4-2 victory over the Canadiens. Jack Boyle, Bill Leslie and Bob Ethier had a goal and assist each, David McMullin also scoring and Greg Bruyea drawing an assist for Rangers. John Heaslip and Bob Lancaster were the Canadien marksmen, aided by Dave Dempsey and Bill Elliott.

Quinte came up with a 3-0 decision over the Browns. Pete Mitchell, Bill Clapp and Bill Phillips had the goals with Mitchell also getting one assist.

The Macs shaded the Red Wings 1-0 with David Hurst, who later in the morning gained Quinte's shutout, adding another whitewash job to his growing collection. Dave Anderson potted the only goal, assisted by Joe Harvey and Paul Sharpe.

Barons pulled out a tight 2-1 win over the Maple Leafs on goals by Ron Poste and Jim Hurst. Bill Hallam replied for the Leafs. All goals were solo efforts.

HOW LONG
do you expect your next truck to last?
If you're like most truck buyers, you want as many years of low cost service as possible.
Ask yourself these two questions before you make your final choice: Was the truck built for truck work? Can you be sure of dependable truck maintenance?
On both counts you're years ahead with International because International Trucks are built, sold and serviced by truck men.
Every component used on an International is built specifically for trucks and carefully matched for balanced truck engineering. Design is clean, functional and practical—costs less to keep like new.
Efficient truck service comes naturally to International Truck mechanics, because they are truck men. Just as important are the complete Parts inventories that reduce costly delays.
For trucks that last longer and earn more, see your International dealer or branch.

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

(A Member of the Belleville United Appeal)

VISIT TO "TRENT"

The past week has been a busy one for the officers and cadets of the "Quinte." It started off last Sunday with the first of a series of inter-corps hockey games with the cadets of the RCSCC "Trent" of Trenton. The game was certainly a popular event and gave the members of both corps a chance to get acquainted with each other. The "Quinte" team carried the game by a score of 7 to 4.

STORES MUSTER

Tuesday's parade at the Armouries saw drill, target shooting and band practice. The first steps were also taken in the forming of a guard. Thursday's parade was one which a number of people in the corps had been working torward for some time. The annual stores muster. Lt. M. Davidson, RCN (SB) and Lt. W. H. Myers, RCN (SB) were present from area headquarters for the occasion with Lt. Davidson checking the ship's stores and Lt. Myers observing shipboard routine and classes.

In speaking to the cadets, Lt. Myers congratulated them on presenting such a smart and neat appearance. He advised them that it was most important to maintain their attendance record, pay close attention to their classes and be loyal to their ship, their officers and their fellow cadets.

QUINTE TEEN HOP

Progress on the "Quinte Teen Hop" which is being organized by a cadet dance committee, has been coming along. Posters announcing the first dance, to be held this coming Friday, are being posted in the schools and throughout the city. This is also held at Christ Church Hall between 9.15 and 12.00 o'clock and there will be a pair of door prizes donated by O'Connor's Jewel Box as well as several spot dance awards. Refreshments and the latest in records will also be on hand and Mr. Alexander will be the master of ceremonies.

SPORTS NIGHT

This Wednesday the "Quinte" has been invited to attend a "Sports Night" being held by the members of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets at Quinte Secondary School in the school. A basketball rifle team and a basketball team will be formed on Tuesday night. This is still necessary to prepare for the occasion. There will also be cadet corps from Trenton and Kingston as well.

NEW ENTRIES

New entry training for five lads interested in joining the Sea Cadets commenced last Thursday night. There is still some room for more recruits in the corps and any boys interested are advised to visit at the Armourers on Tuesday or the barracks, South Front Street, on Thursday to apply. There will be another new entry program commencing in the spring. Boys between 14 and 18 years of age are eligible to join.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, February 2

General tendencies: This is certainly your day; combine the old and the new in a more harmonious relationship and you has been possible ere this. Think out what your reasoning tells you is the best way to gain conservative aims. Then look for modern appliances, the new age types of persons, up-to-date systems.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Use a confident and friendly manner today when conferring with persons who are specialists in your field of endeavor. Lis ten carefully to fine ideas and suggestions given you. Inject a sense of humor into your conversation.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Listen to the wise advice of close friends before you go to confer with an expert, whether in business or personal matters. Remember that the steps you take today may influence your whole future. Be basic, practical.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Gather personal data that is vital right now not only from associates but from kin, friends et al. Time do your shopping and keep appointments with as many as can help you advance more quickly in all business or career matters.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You are able to get very fine ideas how to be more progressive from fellow workers and specialists today. Be most practical in all that you do. P.M. see that your wardrobe is in order for the busy days ahead.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21)—An especially fine day to do just what you please. Contact those who are kindred spirits, particularly in creative interests. Be co-operative and you can make this a most satisfying day, as well as very profitable.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Be sure to follow that accurate intuitive flash. This will bring you greater abundance and you can cement better relations with family. Permit others to help you. But be sure you think abundantly for best results. P. M. be fun at home.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Look to that dynamic pal for vital information you need right now, then step out of dull existence and get on the beam to a more interesting and profitable day. Concentrate on fine events.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—By working very efficiently today, you will get the attention of one in power and can very easily be in line for promotion. However, it is imperative you are most promotional and practical in all monetary affairs.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — At last you can visualize more clearly and more sharply any lasse forebodings of fear. So be out early and look into the most modern ideas and methods, be with very progressive people and begin to make your plans.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Instead of angling so much now, take the direct route and go to the progressive and adroit persons you know who can give you the best advice concerning how to get ahead faster. Be practical and you can enjoy real abundance.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Your comrades can now give you good ideas that will help you be more successful with associates and others with whom you must work. They can easily show you where you are making mistakes. Make new contacts, too.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you concentrate upon increasing your prestige and credit, you can...usually do that now. Act adroitly in all that you do and labor as efficiently as you can. You have much ability and talent. Use them to the full.

If your child is born today ... The wonderful child born today will have the faculty for thinking in a very broad fashion and the desire to succeed is very great, manifesting itself at a most early age. Consult with an expert when planning your progeny's educational programs which should be very expansive. Concentrate on philosophy and foreign languages in particular. A real leader in this chart — find the true forte.

REBEL REMNANT

arranged. They were restored after the rebels had given up. They were unharmed.

The rebellion had lost much of its strength Sunday night as hundreds of insurgents slipped away from the barricades and went home, leaving their guns behind.

At the time of the surrender the rebel strength—estimated at between 5,000 to 6,000 Sunday—was down to about 1,500.

About 70 rebel army men who had joined the revolt climbed over the barricades this morning waving a white flag on a stick and handed their arms over to the army.

"We are finished," they said. The rebels were then sent to their homes.

A deathly hush fell over the area which for a week had been in rebel hands. Loudspeakers which had blared out stirring music unceasingly since last Monday were silent.

WILDEST WEEK

The insurgent collapse ended the wildest week the Algerian capital has known since 1958, when a similar settlers' rising brought down the curtain on civilian life. The new Fifth Republic of Charles de Gaulle showed its such weakness, and the people of France rallied overwhelmingly against the Algerian insurgents.

It was a victory for de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria's masses. The French insurgents demanded a pledge that Algeria be French forever. De Gaulle replied that only through self-determination could Algeria settle their future. Moslems outnumber European about nine to one and French settlers fear independence would cost them all their investments.

Lagaillarde, a reserve paratroop officer, gave up after the population of Algiers ignored his call for a nationwide strike in the general strike the rebels leader had planned to end today.

As he crossed the square, the rebel leader Lagaillarde exchanged salutes with the French officers commanding foreign troops who were assigned to duty before the barricades.

Then, in his initial defiance, the crowd cheered and clapped for Lagaillarde.

As Lagaillarde surrendered, the other group of insurgents, led by Joseph Ortiz, was dismantling street barricades.

By 10.30 this morning the city was almost back to normal, with shops opening and transportation rolling again. Despite attempts by groups of youths to persuade stores and restaurants to close and office workers to leave their jobs. This appeared to have met with little or no success.

At 12.18 p.m. a big, blood-red French tricolor which had fluttered above the Lagaillard position was slowly hauled down. It had flown there since the bloody start of the revolt last Sunday, when two persons were killed in street fighting.

HEAVY CENSORSHIP

All three Algiers morning newspapers were heavily censored today. The Algiers press had been openly sympathetic to the revolt against de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria.

A one-hour general strike also was called throughout continental France today, but as a demonstration of support for de Gaulle. All major trade unions—Catholic, Socialist and Communist—supported the demonstration.

The defenders of the barricaded insurgent strongholds in the heart of Algiers thinned to about 2,000 last night after several hundred territorials gave up defected.

An army order Saturday mobilized the territorials against military command. They were held to report to their unit headquarters by 4 p.m. Saturday.

Radio Algiers periodically broadcast personal appeals of mothers, brothers and sisters of younger insurgents to come home.

ARMY CHIEF SWITCHED

A marked stiffening of the army's attitude followed the sudden replacement of Brig. Jean Gracieux of Brig. Kolher Toulouse as the commander on the scene. Gracieux was regarded as the commander-in-chief in the countryside against Algerian nationalist guerrillas.

The insurgents pulled one surprise Sunday. A helicopter hidden on University grounds took off and scattered leaflets over the city. It returned and landed with difficulty on the roof of one of the university buildings.

The city was forcibly reminded Sunday that the nationalist rebellion also is continuing, when a time bomb carried by a Moslem fruit exploded in a crowd, killing the terrorist, three paratroopers and a civilian.

D. Bernard Lefevre, a right-wing politician in Algiers, said the surrender came as a result of night-time negotiations between the insurgents and the army. He said the conditions laid by the insurgents were that the surrender be "all honor" and that Algiers be given no sanctions be taken against them.

Whether the army accepted these conditions fully was doubtful.

De Gaulle was demanding that the army bring the insurgents under control had called rebel leaders Ilaro and conspirators, indicating they could be arrested and tried for treason, having violently challenged the authority of the state in the revolt started by them against it. But the insurgent leaders had negotiated directly with the French colonials in Algeria ruled out this extreme punishment.

BEGIN EXERCISE

KEHLHEIM, Germany (A) — An "aggressor force" of some 20,000 men launched a mock-up attack across the Danube River today as the largest United States peace-time field army began its most important exercise in Germany since the war. The U.S. 24th Infantry Division and a West German Panzer brigade posing as aggressors crossed one of Germany's biggest rivers in a 6-mile front in Bavaria without being detected by NATO forces.

Frick Cancels League Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—A meeting between representatives of the newly-formed Continental League and the International League was called off Saturday when president Ford Frick said he first wanted to talk with Branch Rickey of the Continental.

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International, came to town as part of a three-man committee to confer with Rickey the taking over of Toronto and Buffalo by the Continental League. Formation of the eight-team league was completed Friday with the granting of a franchise to Buffalo.

The International League, at a meeting in Buffalo Friday, placed an indemnification value of more than $750,000 on each franchise.

Rickey advised Shaughnessy that a Continental presentation before Frick took precedence over discussions with the IL.

"We came here for the meeting," Shaughnessy said. "Rickey said he'd have to meet Frick first but didn't say when. We can't stick around. We're not worried. Some are out of what they want and they'll have to come to us."

Brookdale F.F. Discusses Broadcast

6TH SIDNEY — Nine members of Brookdale Farm Forum met at the home of Mrs. S. Nicholson to listen to the broadcast and discuss the topic "Adjustment In the Number of Farms Needed."

The radio program was extra good, as well as the discussion that at the present time there are too many pigs and eggs but not too much butter, cheese or beef.

Part time work aside from farming helps relieve the surplus products. When only living part-time in agriculture there is not as much produced.

The group thought they did not like to be dictated to. So often the farmer himself is the only one who understands his specific conditions.

Indian Fish of Nova Scotia

CANADA

The Indians called them Kiacks, the French know them as Gaspereau and the English call them Alewives, but they refer to the same thing—the shimmering, flat little fish which invade Nova Scotia's inland waters every spring and are caught by the millions for use as lobster bait.

Apart from the heavy demand for them to meet the Maritime's lively lobster industry, about half the catch is salted or smoked and sold commercially. Much of the pickled and salted variety is exported to the United States and the West Indies.

N.F.B. Photos by Bob Brooks.

Indians were the first to "dip" the plentiful little Kiacks—from Nova Scotia's sparkling waters and today's fishermen catch them in the time-honoured way, frequently with the aid of dip-nets made by local Indians. Top score, held by two rugged fishermen, is 43,000 Kiacks "dipped" in a single day. The fish are sold to local buyers at an average $1.15 a hundred. Veteran fishermen earn up to $1000.00 in a 6-week period. Last year one and a half million of the so-called "little Indian fish" were caught in the province's Yarmouth County alone.

Garden Notes

Geraniums From Seed for Variety

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Last fall a local nurseryman collected geranium plants from people who had grown them in their gardens. He will take cuttings from these and have them ready for bedding by early May. Those of us who traded them for will get new plants.

Storing old plants and taking cuttings from them is another way of increasing your plants but for a greater variety try growing seed from seed.

Several of our Canadian seed companies offer geranium seed in either mixes of singles and zonals have bands of color on the leaves, bi-colors such as yellow and green or red and green. Then there are the tri-colors, red, green and yellow.

The butterflies have two fan shaped splotches on the leaves in different colors that do look something like a butterfly. The ivy leaf geraniums are more vinelike and sprawl or hang over the edge of a hanging basket, window box or raised planter. The zonals make fine bedding material either alone or as borders for annuals.

Martha Washington and scented leaf geraniums are other branches of the pelargoniums family which are valued for their flowers of scent.

BLOOM ALL SUMMER

The common or bedding types have single or double flowers and solid color leaves. The blooms are in one in umbels or clusters. Colors range from milk white to deep purple with shades of shrimp pink, scarlet, crimson and lilac-color. These never seem to go out of fashion and given reasonable care will bloom profusely all summer, even standing a light frost or two.

The seed for bedding plants should be planted in February and given some bottom heat. Seed is slow to germinate but root of it will eventually come. A good soil mixture is one third each sand, peat and garden soil. 60 to 70 degrees day time temperature is about right. The soil should be a little on the dry side rather than too damp.

When the seedlings have six leaves transplant to small pots or plant bands. Grow the plants slowly, not too much heat, moisture or fertilizer. The plants will be more compact and tough than if lush growth were encouraged.

A GOOD BOOSTER

Each week water the plants once with one teaspoon of household ammonia added to a quart of tepid water to supply the necessary nitrates. This is a good booster for all house plants even if they are receiving a regular application of fertilizer. The extra bit will do no harm.

By mid-May the seedling geraniums will be ready to set out in the garden but this should be preceded by a hardening-off period.

You can set the plants out in a sheltered place under some shrubs and cover with light weight cotton or newspaper for the hottest part of the day and for cold nights. The sun can be burning hot at mid day and down to freezing by midnight on the same day.

The plants have not been used to this wide temperature range. They must be accustomed to them gradually or the leaves will be badly damaged. Beating rain and strong winds can also damage the tender leaves. Give the plants ten days or two weeks to harden up before subjecting them to open bed. Plants that have had a set back take weeks to recover. Take good care of the leaves they have and they will soon put out new and sturdier ones and make compact plants which are in bloom early.

NORTHERN PROVINCE? — Establishment of a province of Mackenzie in Canada's North has been suggested to the Northwest Territories Council.

Councillor K. H. Lang of the Mackenzie Delta said the District of Mackenzie should be separated from the other two territorial districts, Keewatin and Franklin. He proposed that the islands of Victoria and Banks should be included in the district.

Boundary between Mackenzie and Keewatin, a northward extension of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan border, was established by order-in-council in 1920. Heavy line on map shows how boundary would be extended to include the two Arctic islands.

The northern affairs department is said to be considering making Mackenzie a separate territory administratively by 1962. The Arctic district's administrative work would be carried out in the town of Fort Smith. Keewatin and Franklin would continue to be administered from Ottawa.

Mr. Lang said separate status for Mackenzie is an initial move to provincial autonomy for the district. (CP Newsmap.)

EGYPTIAN TROOPS MAN ISRAEL BORDER

LAGAILLARDE IN PARIS — Pierre Lagaillarde, defeated leader of the Algiers insurgents, still wearing paratrooper uniform, sits in automobile between two policemen's last night as he arrives at Sante prison in Paris after being flown from Algiers in a military plane. Less than 12 hours before he marched out of the Algiers barricades at the head of his followers. Lagaillarde is charged with an attack on the security of the state. (AP Wirephoto)

French National Assembly Session Called To Give de Gaulle Special Clean-up Powers

PARIS (CP)—The government today asked the National Assembly for sweeping powers to govern the nation by decree.

Premier Michel Debre called for the special powers for one year to enact what he called "essential and urgent measures" for maintaining public order, protection of the state and the pacification and administration of Algeria.

A government statement issued before the assembly met in special session said the "risk of profound disturbances" still is hanging over the state.

The call for a special one-day session came after the sudden collapse of the right-wing colonials' revolt against de Gaulle's program of self-determination for the North African territory still in the throes of a year-old revolt by Moslem nationalists.

One of the chief leaders of the French insurgents, Pierre Lagaillarde, was flown 12 hours after he had marched the remnants of his forces out from behind the barricades in Algiers and surrendered.

Lagaillarde, a deputy in the National Assembly, was told he was being charged with an attack on the security of the state. Deputies are immune from arrest unless a parliament is committing a crime, and Lagaillarde apparently made no effort to plead immunity.

Two more members of the National Assembly were imprisoned today for taking important roles in the uprising. They are Jean-Baptiste Biaggi, 41, an extreme right-wing figure from Paris, and Mourad Kaoush, 40, a Moslem deputy from Algiers.

They arrested when they arrived at Orly airport from Algiers. They also were charged with attacking the security of the state.

Another Algiers insurgent leader, exile proprietor Joseph Ortiz, was a fugitive, apparently somewhere in Algeria. A warrant was out for his arrest.

The parliamentarians were asked to give the government authority to "maintain order, safeguard the state and pacify and administer Algeria." Under the special powers parliament was considered certain to grant, the cabinet may legislate by decree, probably for a period of about three months. Parliament meanwhile will be in recess.

EXPECT PROMPT ACTION

The president was expected to take swift action against civil and military leaders in Algiers who let the settlers' revolt get out of hand, and possibly to crack down on right-wing extremists who are the chief opponents of his Algerian policy.

It now is generally believed that the right-wing insurgents in Algeria were linked with supporters here in a plot to overthrow de Gaulle and the Fifth Republic.

A small number of army officers or retired generals are said to have been in on the conspiracy.

Right-wing newspapers are calling for tough measures against supporters of the revolt.

ALGIERS (AP) — With the Algerian rebellion over, troops moved today through the area around the university and post office where thousands of insurgents barricaded themselves a week ago Sunday in defiance of the Paris government.

Munitions and explosives stockpiled by the insurgents were loaded on to army trucks and driven off. Sirens and buildings in the area were searched for bomb and booby traps.

Work gangs were tearing down the rebels' barricades and repairing the streets from which the insurgents ripped paving stones.

Elsewhere in the Algerian capital life returned to normal.

Several figures associated with the uprising appeared in the bar of the leading Algiers hotel Monday night as a few hours before curfew.

They included Jacques Demarquet, former right-wing deputy and reserve paratroop lieutenant who 48 hours earlier had proclaimed from an Algiers balcony, "I will fight to the death."

Demarquet said he had joined a special unit to fight the Moslem rebels. The die-hards who surrendered were given a choice of forming a unit with the Foreign Legion to fight the rebels or of going home with the possibility they might face trial for subversion. Authorities said 420 had agreed to join the legion.

The offer to join the fighting force did not apply to the top insurgent leaders, Pierre Lagaillarde and Joseph Ortiz, who will be detained pending a hearing on security of the state.

Local papers headlined tributes to "the patriots" but noted that French unity had been saved. There were still large blanks where the censors had been at work, but censorship now is civil and not military as it was last week.

There are still no French or foreign newspapers.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Minimum temperatures near the lower tokes to below zero reached the zero range, except at places such as Windsor where the minimum temperatures above 15 degrees. In Northern Ontario overnight temperatures dropped to nearly 20 below. A high-pressure area in Northern Ontario is moving southeastward and skies are expected to be generally clear for the next day or two, except where the cold air moves over the warmer lakes resulting in cloudy and occasional snowflurries in exposed areas. Milder air which has been flooding the prairies is expected to move into Northern Ontario.

OTTAWA (CP)—Officially, the faith of the Canadian and United States governments in the Bomarc-B anti-aircraft missile is still unshaken.

Defence Minister Pearkes informed the Commons Monday that the Canadian government has no intention of making any change in its program "at the present time" to install two Bomarc bases in Canada.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) asked whether the government is going ahead with its plan to spend $135,000,000 to build two Bomarc-B bases in Canada" in light of the sixth straight test failure of the missile Friday at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Mr. Pearkes, in reply, read a statement he said he had just received from the Defence Secretary Thomas Gates.

The statement said a Bomarc test flopped Friday because of a failure in a minor element of the guidance subsystem."

At this point, there was snickering in the Commons and in the galleries.

Mr. Gates' statement said the basic design of the Bomarc is sound and that faults in the ramjet engine, which had caused the first five failures, have been corrected.

Mr. Gates indicated confidence that the Bomarc-B weapon system will achieve the potential which will make it a vital element in the air defence system which is being implemented in the defence of the North American continent.

Mr. Pearkes declined to confirm or deny the $125,000,000 figure quoted by Mr. Winch as Canada's share of the Bomarc program.

Mr. Winch asked why the government

Police Put Watch on Homes As Waterfront Tension High

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bitter antagonism between rival factions in waterfront unions appeared to be increasing today. Police put a watch on two union officials' homes after reports the men were threatened with a beating.

Letters and telegrams from angry trade unionists poured into the British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) asking that "direct action" be taken following Saturday night's beating of a union president.

Federation secretary Pat O'Neal said in a statement no direct action would be taken and the organization would support its affiliates in driving "undesirable elements of the Seafarers' International Union" from the waterfronts."

The watch was placed on the homes of George Hill and Dave West, organizers for the marine section of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and Transport Workers (CLC).

Police said Mr. Hill told them he received a call from a man who heard a conversation in an SIU hall to the effect the two organizers were going to get him.

Richard Greaves, 55, president of the Lightermen's Association of Marine Engineers (CLC), suffered severe face and body injuries when two thugs burst into

Even Macmillan's Foes See Tour as Qualified Success

LONDON (CP)—With four days remaining in Prime Minister Macmillans month-long African tour, the trip is being described editorially hinting that his performance has been at least a qualified success.

The prime minister's safari to Ghana, Nigeria, the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland and the Union of South Africa, with short side trips to southern British territories has been both a social and a diplomatic success. Even those who differ with political leaders have been afforded time to heavy rounds of public appearances, sometimes resembling the schedule of a royal tour.

Some commentators have noted, rather wryly, that the reception has been largely determined by the quality of some of Macmillan's public speeches. But the prime minister has been travelling through territory where considerable delicacy is required.

In newly independent Ghana he was offered ample opportunity for the growth of African nationalism and in the interest of its adherents he was beyond the reach of town borders. The crowds showed spontaneous warmth toward the coming their visitor and in urging him to speed the emancipation of Negroes in territory still under British rule.

Both in Ghana and in Nigeria he was met by demonstrators calling for the release of Dr. Hastings Banda, the Nyasaland nationalist leader, and expressing apprehension over Britain's plans for the Central African federation.

It was in Nigeria, still a few months short of achieving its own independence, that a Macmillan sought to allay the fears of white domination in Central Africa. In a speech at Lagos, he said British aid was being given equally to Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia "till their peoples express the wish to unite with Southern Rhodesia in an independent federation.

The speech created some apprehension in the federation itself where the prime minister, Sir Roy Welensky, is a vigorous advocate of early independence.

His current stay in South Africa is, in some respects, recorded as the most ticklish of all.

Buried Scrolls May Reveal More On Life, Teachings of Jesus Christ

LONDON (AP) — An English scholar reports King Hussein of Jordan has agreed to mount a vast military-style operation near the Dead Sea to search for buried scrolls.

Reports think the scrolls may uncover accounts of the life and teachings of Jesus Christ written even before the four New Testament gospels.

John Marcu Allegro, Manchester University publical authority and lecturer from Jordan, said the king offered equipment, money and men. The groundwork was laid for a large-scale expedition in the Holy land to gather all the ancient scrolls that remain hidden in the Judean desert.

Allegro, one of eight international scholars who have been piecing together the thousands of scroll fragments already discovered, said they hoped finally to discover the earliest Christian writings—dating between Jesus' Crucifision and 70 a.d. when the biblical gospels were started.

"We still have to gather about 2,000 more fragments research project going," Allegro told an interviewer. "But before King Hussein's offer we were afraid we would need five times that amount.

"We hope to start the first reconnaissance this spring. In addition to the Jordanian soldiers we'll need trained archaeological workers and mountain climbers.

"We'll probably appeal for students and others to help as soon as we get the remaining money and the dates become definite."

Four major caches of Dead Sea scrolls have been found, starting with the first chance discovery in 1947 by a Bedouin shepherd boy.

He poked his head into a limestone cave looking for a lost goat, and found instead some of the most important manuscripts ever discovered in biblical history.

Federal Govt. To Study Aid For Dyno Miners

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will look into the question of concessions for workers who will be laid off by closing of the Dyno uranium mine at Bancroft, Ont., Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

He was asked about the subject in the Commons by CCF House Leader Hazen Argue. The Dyno firm has sold its uranium contract to the big Gunnar company in northern Saskatchewan, and is scheduled to close operations in June.

Mr. Argue asked whether severance pay given the workers could be made free of income tax and not counted as earnings for purposes of unemployment insurance. He also asked whether the miners would be retrained for jobs.

Supplementing the prime minister's answer, Labour Minister Starr said the unemployment insurance commission has referred the question of severance pay generally to its advisory committee.

Throne Speech Debate Near End

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons will end its throne speech debate today, opening the way for more specific argument over the session's legislative and spending programs.

A finish to the 10-day debate probably will be written with the same show of progressive Conservative strength which Monday night crushed 171 to 46 a Liberal motion of non-confidence in the government.

The night supported the Liberals drew was from the Commons' eight CCF members, last week the Liberals sided with the CCP in a losing cause, 184 to 53, on a CCF want-of-confidence motion.

The Liberal motion contended that the government's "failure" to define its policies was a major cause of the confusion and uncertainty" that prevails in defence, foreign affairs, trade, employment and other fields.

BLASTS PEARSON

One of the last words in the debate Monday went to Finance Minister Fleming. He charged Opposition Leader Pearson with doing more than anyone else to undermine confidence in Canada and its economy.

Mr. Fleming said the Liberal leader had followed a "reckless and irresponsible course" with speeches containing half-truths, quarter-truths and untruths. Much of Mr. Pearson's criticism of the government had been "petty, unrealistic and carping."

Mr. Pearson had said Canada's recovery and expansion following the recession were less vigorous than in the United States.

At the outset that was true, Mr. Fleming commented, because the United States had been milder in this economy and the recovery naturally would be less vigorous. But subsequently the expansion had become the same in both countries.

The minister said Mr. Pearson

Anti-Reds Lead In Kerala Vote

TRIVANDRUM, India (AP)—Anti-Communists led in a state election lead today in Kerala state, where India's first Communist government was elected last summer by Prime Minister Nehru's Congress government.

Soon after counting of the votes from Monday's election got under way, several anti-communist candidates were declared winners of seats in the 126-member assembly.

The early casualty was T. V. Thomas, minister of transport and labor during Kerala's 28 months of Communist rule. He lost to a member of Nehru's Congress party, part of the three-party alliance against the Reds.

NEPTUNE, N.J. (AP)—Donald Dennis, 60, was found hanged Monday in his garage. Police said Dennis had tied a rope around his handlebar and then walked downstairs until he strangled.

'No Sense in My Picking up Irish Any More' Says Fritz Kreisler, 85

NEW YORK (AP) — He could make a violin sing, or cry or laugh. He could make a symphony voice that touched the hearts of millions.

But he plays no longer.

Fritz Kreisler is 85 today, and he has almost put aside his violin. But his performances remain a priceless treasure.

To show its gratitude, New York City was to honor him at Carnegie Hall tonight when it receives a medal and a scroll summarizing his career.

It is a career that for a half century made his name the household synonymous with the violin.

"But there is no sense, my dear (a common phrase with him) in my picking up the violin any more," he said in an interview.

Age has weakened his hearing and vision, but he still is alert, with a full head of white hair and head and shock of white hair give him a dauntless look.

To him, things have changed greatly since he first performed in 1887 in Vienna, his native city, question among musical agencies: "Who is the best violinist, the best Brahams? The best Beethoven?"

"Now they ask, 'Who draws the most?'"

Kreisler's long, slender hand, the fingers that once drew exciting magic from the strings and bow appear unaffected by the years. They are unveiled and inevitabled.

His first performance was as a boy of 10 in the Vienna Conservatory, and his last was in 1950 when at 75 he appeared on the Telephone Hour broadcast in New York.

Fully Prepared To Meet All Eventualities

Israeli, Syrian Armies Continue Daily Clashes

CAIRO (AP)—Egyptian Army troops today were reported to have taken up positions along the United Nations - patrolled Egyptian-Israeli frontier in the Sinai Desert as a result of clashes between Israeli and Syrian troops.

The newspaper Al Ahram says Egyptian troops have moved up all along Israel's western desert frontier in the last three days, and that the Egyptian Army has been placed in a state of emergency. Egypt's forces as well as those in the Syrian province of the United Arab Republic will be "fully prepared to meet all eventualities. All military leaves have been cancelled.

(Reuters news agency quoted UN Emergency Force sources as saying that quiet prevailed today along the Gaza border, UNEF units were keeping a close watch but no exceptional troop movements were reported, Reuters said.

But the agency added that in Cairo there was a feeling of nervousness running through the streets headquarters, traffic jams out otherwise all was normal in the capital.

In Oslo, Norway's army command said Norwegian troops serving with the UN force will be pulled out immediately if serious fighting develops between the U.A.R. and Israel. The Norwegian command said its troops were sent to the Egyptian-Israeli border for police duty only and would not be involved if the Middle East situation exploded into major fighting.)

CLASHES EVERY DAY

Daily clashes since Friday between Israeli and Syrian troops prompted the dispatch of the Egyptian forces to the Sinai frontier, where the Egyptians, Canadians and others of the UN Emergency Force maintain precarious peace along the armistice line of the Israeli invasion of 1956.

So far there has been no action on the Israeli - Egyptian frontier. The current shooting has been limited to Israel's northeast frontier, where a demilitarized zone separates Israel and the Syrian province of the U.A.R.

MONDAY NIGHT ACTIVITY

Israel charged that there was more trouble Monday night when the Syrian side of the frontier. An Israeli spokesman said Syrian artillery, tanks and machine guns opened fire just before midnight in the demilitarized Lake Huleh sector near the Sea of Galilee.

Israel's army said there were casualties or of answering fire from Israeli positions.

Monday's violence included an air battle over the border area and an artillery duel that began before dawn on the southeast shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Cairo radio's voice of the Arabs" told Israel in a broadcast Monday night that it "has begun to enter "the decisive battle" for existence.

The armed forces of the U.A.R. would "strike and pounce and smash" until Israel was finished.

LIBERAL, CCF LEADERS ATTACK FROST GOVT.

Say Power of House Is Being Weakened

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer and CCF Leader Donald C. Macdonald, discussing the Gordon report on the organization of government in Ontario, said in the legislature Monday that the power of the legislature is being weakened by the Frost government.

Premier Frost said he is aware of numerous problems, but declined to elaborate.

"One problem is in making boards and commissions responsible to the legislature," he said. Another weakness of parliamentary government "has been a tendency to concentrate powers in the cabinet."

RECOMMEND POLICY

Mr. Wintermeyer and Mr. Macdonald both said any sweeping reorganization of governmental departments should be discussed in the House.

Mr. Wintermeyer referred to the recent reorganization of the department of municipal affairs which was done without being placed before the assembly.

He said he felt the government should not spend monies which were not in the estimates, and not set out in the estimates.

Y Lady Cagers Defeat RCAF

Led by high hooper Linda Batchelor the "Y" ladies defeated Trenton RCAF in a hard fought game last evening at the local YMCA.

After a slow first quarter the "Y" began to pull ahead, and at the end of half time led 16-9. The RCAF team came back strong to begin the second half and took the lead, but were handicapped by the foul and had to continue the game with only five players. They fought back well but were unable to overcome the disadvantage of the five players. The "Y" team took full advantage of the extra power and ran up the score to 32-21 before the final whistle.

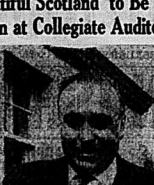
'Beautiful Scotland' to Be Shown at Collegiate Auditorium



Thursday evening in the College Auditorium the Riverside Club will present its fourth travelogue of the season by film-story on "Beautiful Scotland," a picture of beauty and romance, of scenic beauty, home of some of the world's most noted literature as made imperishable by Robbie Burns and Sir Walter Scott.

Colonel Nicol Smith, the narrator, needs no introduction as he personifies his former travelogue with delight, and his unique art in making his film people live. His great love of adventure also thrills his listeners and in fancy they keep pace with him as he goes from the Mull of Galloway, in southern Scotland; sea the famous gardens of Loch Castle, and Culzean Castle where General Eisenhower was given the use of the top floor for life, and then on to Loch Ness where the famous 'monster' is reputed to lodge and an actual film of its fleeting form.

The film ends with the Aberdeen games performed in front of old Scotland in the private theatre of the grand old estate, and one that should not be resistfully missed.

Rawson's Stand Is Council Action Broke Bus Contract City Solicitor's Note Says

In the midst of negotiations leading to a new contract agreement, Belleville's already contracted city bus transportation problem became even more confused yesterday as it was learned that the current franchise of the Rawson Bus Lines Ltd. still had another year to run.

But yesterday afternoon at city council meeting solicitor Ralph Mr. Fred Rawson, bus line operator, cleared up any claim was taking the position that the current franchise agreement had already been broken by certain acts of the city last year.

In the midst of it all a group of private citizens has threatened court action to restrain city council from paying any subsidy to the Rawson Bus Lines without reference to the ratepayers.

Today the whole matter is still very much in the air and has been referred back to council by Mac or A. M. Heig and Deputy Mayor Robert Temple to decide what action is to be taken.

That current negotiations between Mr. Rawson and the Rawson Bus Lines were a bit premature was learned yesterday by way of a letter from former city solicitor Robert Pringle in which he informed the city that the bus contract governed by a private bill did not expire until January 31st, 1961. At the same time Mr. Pringle's letter pointed out that a group of citizens had consulted him regarding possible court action holding council individually responsible for any illegal payments to Mr. Rawson.

ON TEMPORARY BASIS

Since January 1st of this year the city bus lines have been operating on a temporary month-to-month basis until some decision could be reached on a new bus franchise. Only last week council voted to pay any operational deficit of up to $1,000 for Mr. Rawson to continue operating the buses throughout February.

Mr. Fred Rawson, operator of the bus lines here for 35 years, has repeatedly said that subsidization of some kind would be necessary if he was to continue operation of the bus lines.

It has been on this basis that negotiations have been carried on since the first of the year and only last week council voted to pay up to $1,000 for any operational deficit incurred by the bus line during the month of February.

But last evening at council a letter from the present city solicitor, Mr. R. Gins Porter the formed council that he knew of no authority which would allow subsidizing payments to the bus lines without the present contracts being amended.

TELLS OF CLAIM

At the same time Mr. Porter's letter to council said Mr. Rawson had informed the city that he had terminated the bus contract by certain actions during 1959.

This was enlarged on later by Alderman Robert Temple who, as chairman of the special bus committee negotiating with Mr. Rawson, noted that the city last year had called tenders for operation of the bus line in 1960. "I do not profess to be a lawyer or not Mr. Rawson's claim is sounding on law but is a legal matter for our solicitor to say," he said.

He advised that council obtain the decided opinion of the city solicitor on the matter and that this was obtained Alderman Temple said "and do not know where we are to go."

He assured, however, that negotiations with the Rawson company had been based on the understanding that the bus contract was no longer in force.

GIVES BACKGROUND

He indicated the present bus contract governed by the private bill allowed for amendments to be made but said it should be determined whether such amendments could embody conditions such as like those carried out.

Alderman Jack Ireland said the trouble dated back to annexation, which took effect in March 1, 1958, following which Mr. Rawson had objected to council fees other bus lines were piling up and discharging passengers within the new limits of the city. He said Mr. Rayson claimed this was contrary to the terms of his contract.

Mayor Haig and Ald. Temple will confer today on the bus problem and one of the questions to be asked of the municipal board is whether the council has the power to subsidize bus operations.

Mayor Haig said that following today's conference on the bus problem it was possible there would be a special meeting of council called to discuss the matter further and decide on what action was to be taken.

The bearers were Allen Ayres, Harold Arsenault, Ross Crorby, Edward Ruckstuhl, Fred Hunt and Frank Newberry.

Council Approves Increase Of 5 Per Cent Across Board For City Hall Staff Members

City council Monday afternoon gave its approval for a five percent across-the-board salary increase for city hall staff members ,thus ratifying a committee recommendation presented two weeks ago and turned back for clarification.

At the same time council voted for an administration and management survey at a cost of $6,500, and also for a new purchase of a budgetary accounting machine at a cost of $9,200. Personnel committee chairman Ald. Leslie Reid, at the first regular meeting of the 1960 council had introduced the recommendation calling for the five percent across-the-board salary increase for city hall staff members. However, the matter had been referred back for clarification when some members of council objected to the fact that there was nothing in the recommendation to say who was to get the increase.

Yesterday the recommendation was back before council this time accompanied by a detailed list of the staff members who were to get the increase.

Now in the salary increases are under the recommendation are hourly rated employees of the corporation as well as the permanent and recreation committees.

NEW PACKAGE

The administration and management survey approved by council was termed by chairman William Jarvah as a "new economy package" in contrast to the more detailed job evaluation survey, which had been suggested initially at a cost of $17,000.

Alderman Les Reid as chairman of the personnel committee noted the more detailed survey originally suggested had been objected to by council mainly because of the cost. He claimed the deal now being offered would give value for money.

Through the survey it was hoped that waste and inefficiency at city hall would be eliminated. "We have co-operation at city hall, but we want co-operation," he said.

The firm which will conduct the survey is Deloitte, Plender Haskins and Sells, management consultants of Toronto.

The new budgetary accounting machine, the purchase of which was authorized, will allow the provision of budgetary control reports on a monthly basis, which in the opinion of Alderman Reid, chairman of finance committee chairman, was badly needed at city hall.

Last week city employees are covered under the city's accumulated sick leave program which hasn't been completely determined as was indicated when council turned back the further consideration two motions which would have ruled that two former city employees were not eligible for such payments.

TWO CONCERNED

The two former employees concerned were former city manager Drury S. Denyes, and Barney Newton, city public works employee, who has retired.

Former city manager Denyes late last year presented a bill for $3,000 in sick leave and fringe benefits which he claimed was owing to him. The matter had been referred to the city solicitor.

Yesterday finance committee chairman Alderman Jarvah said the decision given by the solicitor was that Mr. Denyes was not entitled to accumulated sick leave payment on the termination of his employment with the city because he had been dismissed by council.

By the same token the committee had decided that Mr. Newton was not entitled to accumulated sick leave payment on his retirement because he was not a participant in the city pension plan.

Motions covering both former city employees were referred back for further consideration.

Council voted to approve a verbatim record of proceedings of the judicial enquiry into the city's financial position which was held at city hall last year. Cost of the record will be $150 which was suggested should be added to the over all $17,000 cost of the inquiry.

CHAIRMAN WANTS NAMES

Under inquiries Alderman Don Whalen wanted to know why trucks owned by non-residents were being hired for snow removal when even city trucks were not.

Alderman Jack Ellis, chairman of the public works committee, replied he did not know there were any city trucks who had not been hired, suggested that information be provided.

Ald Alderman Jack Ireland wanted to know whether all the necessary steps regarding subdivision for the stop lights had been taken by the traffic committee before installation was completed.

Alderman Robert Temple, the chairman of board said all steps insofar as his committee was concerned had been taken. However, he felt that for the purpose of prosecution a covering by-law might be necessary.

The necessary by-laws had been given for," he said.

A by-law setting up the Belleville Arena Committee was given three readings, membership of the committee being three members of council and three citizens at large. Under terms of the by-law funds of the arena will be handled by the city treasurer. Citizen members of the committee headed by Ald Don Whalen are Ted Schwab, Kenneth Soden and Jack Dickson.

Alderman Ross Bailey called for monies collected by the city for local improvements and Alderman Arthur Inwood urged the money be paid to the township. He claimed the city had no right in holding the money.

MAYOR AGREES

Mayor Haig agreed the city should not be holding the money, but stated the whole matter of annexation between the township the city and the township was very involved and would have to wait for the auditors to complete their work.

Council approved of the tender of the Hugh Murray Company to replace the ceiling at city hall council chambers at a cost of $1352. Plaster on the chamber ceiling has in last year been completely removed as a precautionary measure.

"There is nothing much to explain about it", commented chairman Jack Deacon, chairman of city property. "The ceiling fell and has to be replaced.

AGENCIES UNDER FIRE

PEMBROKE (CP) — David B. Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, yesterday ascribed as "parasites" private employment agencies that prey on labor unions. The agencies are "the modern finks who agree to break a union or a strike by supplying non-union or strike-breaking workers to the employers," he told 125 delegates to a Renfrew and District Labor Council institute.

The 11 a.m. volume totalled 600,000 shares, much lighter than the 879,000 shares at the same time Monday.

Ford Motor was ahead 1¼ at 78 on a turnover of 8,000 shares. Nova Scotia and Cockshutt Plow moved up ¼ at 87 and 23½, Canada Malting suffered the loss in recent industrial loss, dropping one point at 53.

Mines were exceptionally quiet with little or no changes. Senior uraniums were lower. Lake Dorion was ahead 1¼ at 13½ and Consolidated Denison fell off ¼ at 11.

Index changes: Industrials up 1.78 to 212.13; golds up .34 at 82.74; base metals off .14 at 180.26; and western oils off .32 at 203.34.

Final volume was 2,072,000 shares, lighter than Friday's 2,380,000.

Southam Co. had a two-point gain at $7, followed by Steel Co. of Canada, 1¾ at 80¾. Aluminium was ahead ¾ at 30½ and Bank of Commerce up at 52. Cockshutt gained ¼ at 23¼.

International Paper dropped 2% at 105½. Eddy paper slipped ½ at 24½. Bell Algoma was off at 36½. Canadian Collieries was down ¼ at 16¾.

International Nickel had a 1¼-point jump to 100¼ after a confirmed announcement of a 2-for-1 stock split.

Rotary Confused By Introduction Of Guest Speaker

Local Rotarians were treated to a brace of classification talks Monday by their new members yesterday afternoon at their weekly dinner meeting. Dent Taylor and Finlay McCorquodale were the two members introduced to tell the group about the profession in which they are engaged. Although members might have been initially confused as to who was who due to each speaker introducing the other, things shortly righted themselves once the glowing introductions were over.

Mr. Taylor, a University of Toronto graduate, is in charge of the consumer service department of the district office of the Ontario Hydro. He outlined the various types of consumers which Hydro dealt with — municipalities, suburban and rural suppliers and direct industrial consumers. He told the organization of his department and its contact with customers with their local problems.

There were nine regional offices set up in Ontario during 1948 and the Belleville office serves the area between the Pickering and Gananoque to the east and west and between Picton and the Ontario limits on the Algonquin Park from south to north. The Belleville department, which is staffed by qualified engineers and personnel, acts to develop mutual confidence in promoting hydro-electric energy and the amazing these consumers.

Dr. McCorquodale, a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary School, is in charge of the local office of the food inspection branch of the federal Department of Agriculture. He described the various duties of his department as concerning contagious diseases and the inspection of meats. Rabies, tuberculosis, and the hoof and mouth disease are but of few of these with which they have to fight against them is broken down into two parts, he added — the prevention of the disease into Canada, and the control and eradication of the disease if it develops in the country. The speed of transport and the long incubation time for some diseases make this work difficult.

MAY WIN AWARD

Speaking about rabies, Dr. McCorquodale stated that it does not look too hopeful that it will be controlled because the disease has spread from the wolf, apparently started in the Arctic Circle and spread into northern and then southern Ontario in a series of irregular outbreaks.

Certificates of membership report is another duty of his department, the speaker said, adding that although it is a relatively minor duty it contributes towards an important money-earning industry.

The speakers were thanked by Max Hall and George MacIlmoyle introduced the guests and a singsong led by Ernie Gardner and assisted by Ernie Burnham on the piano. The weather, it is predicted, will be fine for one of the Stephen Foster enthusiasts but a heavy fog on the banks of Loch Lomond seemed to cure this.

Groundhog Saw His Shadow; More Winter

This is Groundhog Dog — the dog whose sleep-drugged conscience gets tired of snoring and comes upside to see what's going on.

The legend has it if Brer Groundhog or Beau ... whatever his pick — is dazzled by sunlight, he'll pad on the burrow, be hustled back to his dream-den and stays there.

He figures the legend goes, that another six weeks of winter lie ahead.

But if the countryside is dull, dense and sunless, then spring cannot be far behind. Unless it's what a dope like a groundhog thinks.

If the furry Brer awakened from his hibernation early, before 7.30 and came up to landscape the area, he'd figure spring was not too far off — that it was cloudy at the time.

But if he was late and kept bunker's hours, he took off in a nosedive for his subterranean apartment. He was already brightly around eight o'clock.

So if you are a legend-believer, phone the coal or oil man for Ole Man Winter has extended his stay another six weeks.

After all, what's another six weeks?

After what we have had thus far, not a few humans would welcome a six-weeks period of hibernation.

Mayor's Request on Ward Plan Meets With Mixed Reception

Council Members Reject Proposal To Cut Own Pay

TRENTON — By a 4-3 vote members of Trenton's council turned down a resolution of Councillor R. J. Whitley to cut their salaries in half and scale the mayor's salary from $7,500 to $1,200 a year, at last night's council meeting.

Mr. Whitley's resolution was the first of two resolutions which Councillor Vagn Lange said he felt the members were not overpaid, if one were to apply an hourly rate to the long hours the members spends weekly in committee meetings, council meetings and regular council meetings. In addition to being mayor, Councillor Lange pointed out that Mayor MacDonald, in his position of chief magistrate of the corporation, is also a member of a number of committees and boards, and he felt he, too, often spends more than his salaries received.

Councillor Howard Aziz stated that he felt the city's salary was a very minor sum compared with the long hours spent at meetings and answering numerous phone calls and the consequent neglect of private business.

Councillor C. V. Graham said that he was of the opinion that as Councillors Lange and Aziz, Councillor K. J. McNair submitted that he was in rather a similar situation on the question. He said that he had made the refusal of salary part of his campaign platform and "I've turned me down at the polls," he added. "I think it's the people object to the salaries. When I offered to do it for nothing they licked me and elected the ones who would accept pay." Mr. Graham added that he would stick by his decision to accept the salary and donate it to charity, this year. "But," he added with a smile, "next year I might take the different attitude."

Voting in favor of Councillor Whitley's motion was Councillor D. R. Fraser.

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald's dream of paving the town divided into six "wards" with ward administration set by on councillor, who would be responsible for the wants and needs of the residents living in his ward, was received with mixed emotions by council members last night.

Councillor C. V. Graham said that he would have to be guaranteed an unlimited amount of ready cash, if the mayor were to pin him down to one particular set of people, who would doubtless harangue and pester him all the time for favors.

Mayor MacDonald said that he had allocated the wards to the councillors as follows: Councillor R.J. Whitley would be in Ward No. 1; Graham, Ward 2, Vagn Lange in Ward 3, D. R. Fraser, Ward 4, Howard Aziz, Ward 5, and K. McNair, Ward 6.

"I'm not going to take Ward 6," said Mr. Whitley. "I want Ward 3." "Well, you may be carrying about next year's election, but I'm not," said Councillor McNair with a chuckle. Mr. Whitley said that he felt the Trenton council due to the growth of the town in Sidney Township, will sit on council for two years.

Councillor D. R. Fraser suggested that council members should be given the task of accepting the mayor's ward plan, and added that he thought, if and added that he thought, if council decided to go along with it, it would be necessary to accept the mayor's appointments at the ward level, as a mark of confidence.

Worker Buried Beneath Coal In Plant Bunker

TRENTON—Edward Weiss, 33, of Quinteview, Ewing, had a narrow escape from death by asphyxiation yesterday afternoon, when he was buried under a large quantity of coal in a bunker at the Trenton Feldspar Company. Fellow employees worked for 40 minutes to free the trapped man. Will Cousens, engineer at the plant, had been engaged in shovelling coal from a large chute leading to one of the plant furnaces. Evidently he had entered the chute and walked down coal from the sides of the enclosure when the coal above suddenly fell on him, burying him completely.

The plant engineer, John Bryer, who was performing a twenty-minute check on the job, heard the cries of the man's fellow belt sticking out of the coal pile. Immediately he and Jack Lowe worked frantically shovelling from above and below to free the man.

Trenton Fire Department was called and resuscitation was administered as soon as Weeks' head was freed.

Dr. Norman Johnson of Trenton attended the injured man at the plant and he was moved to Trenton Memorial Hospital by ambulance. His condition is reported as fair.

Trenton Play Wins Praise

TRENTON — The Trenton Drama Club's entry in the County Weekend Festival of Drama, which was held on Saturday night, has received commendation from Alan Nunn, adjudicator. The play, a comedy of Russian farce, was "The Boor" by Anton Chekhov and the cast included Mrs. Dorothy Osborne and Jim Alexander of Trenton and Harry Hall of Belleville.

Mr. Nunn had some very complimentary comments about the production of Trenton.

The other play presented was written by the Canadian playwright, Robertson Davies, of Peterborough, and was directed by his wife.

Members of clubs from Belleville, Picton, Peterborough and Trenton were present at both performances.

"The Boor" will be entered in the regional festival of drama at

Vote to Review Decision to Aid Fix Wooler Road

TRENTON — The question of whether the town of Trenton should be obligated in any way to repair and maintain roads leading into the municipality from other centres arose at last night's council meeting.

Council members voted to give $35,000 towards the widening and resurfacing of the part of the Wooler Road running north from the clover leaf into the village of Wooler, with the stipulation that the county would match this sum and that the provincial government would contribute the rest of the necessary money for this work.

Councillor N. J. McNair said that he had no objection to understand that if the town gave the $35,000 it would receive certain grants from the government. He said that he now understood that the grant did not apply to this sum, but rather to the half mile which Trenton gives annually towards the maintenance of the road. This, in the councillor's mind, had given an entirely new light on the subject.

"Murray doesn't build roads in Trenton, why should we build roads in Murray?" asked the councillor.

Councillor Vagn Lange said that the town was obligated to pay the half mile of maintenance, and that he had been given to understand by members of the township council that the road was not speedily repaired, and maintenance and upkeep might very well be raised to a mile per year. He felt that the $35,000 would be a good investment.

He said that this road was used by many people and the town could receive its share of the benefits.

Mayor James MacDonald said that Trenton was in the peculiar position of being a separate town, and, as such, was obligated to maintain one suburban road in the area.

Council members decided to defer decision on the matter until further information could be supplied by the township council.

Council Rejects Move to Rescind Zoning By-law

TRENTON — A resolution by Councillor R. J. Whitley to rescind the by-law passed by the town of Trenton, received at last night's council meeting by members of town council at last night's meeting.

Councillor Whitley said that he felt the by-law had no other function than to hinder construction in the town.

Councillor Vagn Lange said that the Trenton and District Planning Board and various council had worked for the last four or five years to draw up an official plan for the town and it would be a shame to scrap all their plans at this late date.

He said he would support a resolution to rescind the by-law", he said.

Councillor C. V. Graham asked when the Committee of Adjustment would be appointed to come into being. G. W. Larry, town clerk-treasurer, explained that the official plan had been received from Project Planners Association, and that the zoning ratifications and modifications from the various boards and commissions concerned before coming before council. The plan would be sent to the town solicitor by the Ontario Municipal Board, following this, the committee of adjustment could be appointed. This body will deal with suggestions and requests for zoning.

Council members were generally in favor of the zoning but might curtail construction to some extent, the overall effect of planned zoning for the town was good.

Deep River in March. Unfortunately, as it is a one-act play, it will not be able to proceed to the Dominion Festival, which requires three-act presentations. A vacancy occurs or is created.

If RCAF Flies on Stomach Annamarie Keeps It Aloft

TRENTON — The four-day shopping list of diminutive dietitian Flying Officer Annamarie Nechkin reads like something out of Jack and the Beanstalk. One pound of potatoes, nearly a ton and a half of meat, eight hundred pounds of bread, a hundred pounds of rolls, a ton and a half pounds of fresh fruit, seventeen hundred quarts of milk, thirty-eight pounds of coffee are only the beginning. Add to this the fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables, the myraid of condiments and the list grows and grows.

Flying Officer Nechkin is a western girl born and educated in Edmonton. She graduated in Household Economics from the University of Alberta in 1957. During her university years she trained for four summers in the Royal Canadian Air Force as a member of the University Reserve Squadron. After her final years' reserve training she served at RCAF stations at London, Winnipeg, Clinton, St. Hubert and Penhold. Her first posting following her graduation was to Canadian Forces Base to the RCAF station here as dietitian.

As the Station Foods Services Officer, F/O Nechkin is responsible for the feeding of all station personnel on the base, numbering almost a thousand. She regularly eat at one of the three messes on the station as well as "snap" among the servicemen who eat casual meals.

FOOD TOP QUALITY

"The food when we receive it", says Miss Nechkin "is of a high quality. It isn't up to me to see that it is then up to us to prepare this good food and serve it so that it is nutritious and appetizing." Her table and appealing is the food at RCAF Station Trenton is much in certain. The airmen's mess boasts a cold table which the Royal Yorke Hotel in Toronto used to equal. The hot meal always includes three meats and a choice of meat and there is an additional hot casserole meal available at all times. Breakfast with two other vegetables, plus the complete range of fresh vegetables available on the cold table, presents a really king-size choice for even the heartiest of eaters. Four desserts, plus a selection of fruits and cheeses and the dessert table and swiss as well as Canadian cheddars, mean a wide choice of extensively well-liked station population.

A sample menu for breakfast reads something like this: cream of wheat (hot cereal) or cereals (available in winter), dry cereals, muffins or doughnuts, juice or fruit, fried eggs, poached eggs, bacon or ham, baked beans, French toast, pancakes, toast, jam, maple syrup, jam, marmalade honey, peanut butter, tea, coffee or milk. By the time the satisfied customer has finished wading through this gargantuan feast, it is time for lunch. Wednesday's dinner menu would have graced the Captain's table aboard the Queen Mary. Scotch broth, clam chowder, roast beef and Yorkshire pudding, gravy, turkey chop suey, steamed rice, roast or mashed potatoes, cabbage wedges, diced beets, spaghetti and meat sauce, rhubarb pie, apple pie, pies in plenty which should be enough for two meals.

CONSULS PLAYOFF WILL BE DECIDED AT QUINTE CLUB

A curling event that is attracting considerable attention throughout the district is the Quinte Curling Club on Wednesday. Nine rinks from Belleville, Trenton, Picton, the RCAF Curling Club, Quinte, Maxwell Curling Club, Bicroft Curling Club, Cobourg Curling Club, Napanee and Picton will converge on the Quinte Curling Club in the Consuls playoff. The winner of this district will proceed into the zone playoffs, and would go on to the provincial finals of the province and the right to play in the dominion finals.

It will be a busy day, but a preliminary game to get the draw given and the first game will be played at nine o'clock. Jack McArthur is the official umpire for the event and his decision will be final in all matters.

The Quinte rink will have Dr. Ormond Goodale lead, Don Canning at second stone, Roger Ashley at vice-skip and Ben Corke lead a grapefruit; eggs any style, the Lindsay rink composed of Ken Lowery, Jim Hicks, Jack Hopley and Ab Hall, will be hard to beat for all the marbles.

Amending Constitutions — A Contrast

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is seeking for Canada the right to amend its own constitution, the one thing needed to make us a truly independent nation.

In South Africa Prime Minister Verwoerd has announced that a referendum will be held to determine whether the voters wish that country to become a republic and, secondly, whether they wish it to leave the British Commonwealth.

We are in hearty accord with Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal and think that it is only right and proper that all decisions about the way Canada is governed should be made by Canadians.

We wish, though, that South Africa's right to amend her own constitution were limited in the same way as Canada's right is today and if it were we would hope that the British Parliament would refuse to recognize the right of South Africans to decide whether their country should be a republic or whether it should leave the Commonwealth.

This is inconsistent? Not at all. In Canada any decisions amending the existing constitution will be made by all Canadians. In South Africa the vote regarding becoming a republic and leaving the Commonwealth is restricted to whites.

There are many who believe the Commonwealth would be well rid of South Africa, that that country's apartheid policies harm the Commonwealth's prestige. Unloading a burden is always the easy way to deal with it, but it is seldom the right way. Besides that it is questionable whether the British Parliament has a moral right to abandon the black majority in South Africa of the white minority if it has any legal means of preventing South Africa from leaving the Commonwealth.

This is not to suggest that any former colonial power can only release the last vestige of control if the government which will assume these powers fits its definition of a just regime. But it is to suggest that these controls should be abandoned only when these lands have the government the majority of their people want.

Here in Canada we met this standard many years ago. It is time we took into our own hands the last small shred of control exercised over our destiny by a government outside our borders.

Newspapermen Speak Out

On Tuesday of last week, when Prime Minister Macmillan was in Blantyre, Nyasaland, there occurred what the Associated Press described as "the worst African anti-white demonstration . . . since the state of emergency was declared last March."

On the face of it, this might be interpreted as an indication that Nyasaland nationalists are an unruly lot.

But listen to what the correspondents of three London newspapers have to say.

London Daily Mail: "A leading Blantyre policeman struck unresisting Africans with a cane, stamped on women's bare feet and kneed demonstrators. It was a sickening spectacle of a riot provoked by senior British police officers."

London Daily Express: "A very ugly little riot was touched off largely by the stupidity of the Nyasaland white police officers."

London Daily Telegraph: "White policemen seized African indiscriminately and bundled them into caged lorries with punches and whip slashes."

Since when have whips been appropriate equipment for a police force?

These reports from unbiased observers on the scene will do little to make suspect the findings of a British commission, which has held that Nyasaland authorities' contention there was a plot last spring to massacre white residents was nonsense. But Dr. Banda, head of the nationalists, is still in jail, on the basis of the authorities' contention such a plot existed.

Last week's riot took place outside a hotel in which Prime Minister Macmillan was lunching. It is to be sincerely hoped that he left his meal long enough to witness the same scenes which the London reporters describe.

STRENGTH for the HOUR

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NEVER LET IT HAPPEN

C. S. Lewis his written that he must seek, even to his disappointment, for prayers.

"For instance, if we fail to pray to God in the spirit of 'thy will be done,' He does in all good humility turn around and say to us 'thy will be done.' And when He is our will against God's will, trouble, of course, will ensue.

Read over those early chapters of Genesis sometime and you will observe that what started us out wrong in the beginning was the eagerness of man to play God. He wanted to be his own God. Told to do one thing, he started on doing another. Told to leave one tree in the garden alone, he was dead sure that that was the one tree he wanted above all others and after which

It may be for us a very dreadful thing to have our prayers answered as we have asked them. Which means that our prayers should always end with our assurance to the heavenly Father that we leave the events of life in His hands. If what we ask for be not according to His perfect knowledge, the best thing for us, for our loved ones, and for the world, He has in mercy done which is best for everybody concerned.

Let us accept the will of God in all circumstances. Otherwise God may give us the opportunity to follow our own will to our ruin. When God says "Not my will be done, but thine," then we are in for trouble.

Ancient Land 10 Years Old

New York Times

The Republic of India celebrates its tenth anniversary today (Jan. 26). How young India is and how ancient! When the barbarian tribes were still swarming all over Europe, India was a continent with a refined civilization, an old religion, great literature, exquisite arts. But today she is ten years old.

The Constitution was promulgated on Jan. 26, 1950, was that the Constitution drawn up after nearly three years study by the Indian Constituent Assembly went into effect. The day was not chosen haphazardly. January 26 each year was the anniversary on which the Indian National Congress used to celebrate "Independence Day" while the country was still under British rule.

The Constitution was a monstrous one by American standards, a preamble, 395 articles and eight schedules. This was a reflection of the subtle, logalistic mind of the British. Its political philosophy and the system of parliamentary rule are British. Certain sections, like that on fundamental rights and the principles of state policy, are inspired by the American Bill of Rights. The federal structure, by which the central government keeps all residuary powers not allocated to the states, is modeled in Canada.

But the borrowings, the spirit of the Constitution is Gandhian — and nothing could be more Indian than that. Adult suffrage for all, the duties of the citizen and the state, the prohibition of untouchability — these are the ideals of Mahatma Gandhi that it preserves.

The annual meeting of Tabernacle Church, Napanee, was held last night with a good attendance. Mr. George Washer, treasurer of the church, reported that $4,682 had passed through his hands. After all expenses were paid and the mortgage reduced $200 there was a balance on hand of $218. A hearty vote of appreciation of Rev. D. MONEY

In itself money is a pretty sordid thing but, like the rafters that hold up your home, it warms and cheers you in bad weather both fair and foul.

Money is able to lead you your best destiny. It is the great foremost and most important element giving you the power in making of money is that money should become your friend and not your master, your servant.

"Hitched," once words Charles Lamb, "are chiefly good because they give us Time — all, one's time to one's self." For while alone I rankle with envy at the rich. Books are given, and money to buy them I therefore good — but to buy Time — in which to read!

Money must feed us, clothe us, take us around the world, introduce us to trees, strange cities, interesting people and wonders and fantasies — if you will — but it must not restrict us, it must not threaten us, it must not uneducate us.

Money is very good to us if we are good to it. But the great amount billion is wasted through the fact that it may place us in the position of a dictator over the lives of as we recognize the means of money are we able to influence the people and to encourage the good works on the world.

I have always watched that with the great massing of wealth, wealth is but a means to greater, fort-and greater pleasures, but less happiness, so that, after all, wealth is but a means to a life, as it were — over which to live.

Got money! Earn it! Live off it! Use it wisely! But if you go — not leave it after you are dead.

To Your Good Health

SNORING CAN BE PREVENTED IN SOME CASES

"Dear Doctor: Please write something about snoring. Before my daughter's room mate socks her! — Mrs. W. T. A."

I assure you I'm not writing words. That's a direct request!

Earlier this winter I read an interesting report that somebody is going to come out with a "cure for snoring." I'm sure there is one, but I don't have much faith in this. However, if such a discovery comes about, I will gladly eat my words.

There are various ways to prevent snoring, in suitable cases. There is none which works in all.

What causes snoring? First of all, did you ever know anyone who snored when he or she was awake? No. Neither did I. Mercifully, we snore only in the borderline between waking and sleeping. But nobody snores while wide awake.

All right, why?

A snore is the sound that is made by the breath (the breath) rhythmically fluttering the soft tissues at the back of the throat — the soft palate, the tonsillar pillars and a small projection of tissue called the windpipe.

Direct snorers sleep with their mouths open. They lie on their backs, the tongue, relaxed, falls back, narrowing the space through which the air passes. Turn these people on their sides and the snoring usually stops. For quick results, it is possible to break the habit of sleeping on the back.

There are some snorers who sleep with their mouths shut — and may not even be lying on their backs. Yet they still cause the soft tissues (mentioned above) to flutter noisily.

What's the answer? Sometimes enlarged adenoids or tonsils; polyps in the nose; crooked noses (deviated septum between the nostrils); enlarged nasal turbinates; enlarged nasal bony tissue. They all narrow the air passage. It's like playing music with a comb and piece of paper. Blowing through a narrow space makes the noisy buzz.

Sometimes drugs (sleeping potions, alcohol, antihistamines) sometimes can be part of the cause. Ever notice the guttural tones of obese people?

By the way, snoring isn't an exclusively adult pastime, Babies and young children do a good job of it in relaxed sleep.

There are "cures" for snoring. Devices to keep people from lying on the back; pillows to keep them shut. Sometimes they work and sometimes they don't. To make a bit of difference. It depends on the person.

Dear Mrs. W. A.: Let your daughter's room mate to hold back that punch until you've had a chance to investigate the various cases.

Dear Spray, how do we know the room mate doesn't snore, too? Key?

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has had to take radium treatments for a throat trouble. Some people tell me that radium will make him sterile. Is it so? — A. A."

No, it isn't so.

Dear "Cynic": The exact reason is not known, but it is free-ly admitted that the sexual glands have a marked tendency to flare up in people in their 40's and better in between.

Why suffer from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in the booklet, "How To Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of The Ontario Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover handling.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Interviews with a couple of dozen friends who live in that area of Ontario that was recently visited by the big storms in connection reveals that the most unnerving experience was the total revelation of their complete and helpless dependence upon electricity. That was the first night, no heat, no cooking, no hot water, no appliances. In a few thousands of cases, no telephone.

As one former army staff officer said:

"We can now imagine the situation if enemy bombs or enemy fifth columns sabotage were to knock out the whole power system. Power. Apart from any other results, the whole country would be domestically paralyzed."

However, it was not such reflections as this that were the first effects of the storm on most mentioned. It was TV. It shut off in homes that included children.

"It was staggering," these friends said. "We had not the faintest idea of the extent to which TV has usurped the home. The children were practically unmanageable. Between 4 and 11 o'clock they became noisy, close to hysterical.

"We did parents control children before the advent of TV? How did they entertain them? What did they give them to do? How did they keep them quiet?

Well, if I remember rightly, they weren't kept quiet.

Perils of Contentment

Hamilton Spectator

The future," said the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936, "belongs to the discontented."

The time was the thirties. There was plenty of discontent, most of it the angry kind. Life had its grim necessities and challenges and among them was the need to get a job.

Many university undergraduates unashamedly wore red ties. Others, in spite of the half-baked kind, was a signpost to tomorrow. They were looking, whatever their kind, were more interested in what was to be done. Today one's head up in a world in which almost everything else was ready to be the same.

Perhaps in this generation we inherited that future which Roosevelt promised as the reward of all ambition. Certainly there is surprisingly little anger about social injustice. Instead it is, it is usually of the mewling kind that comes when headouts are not forthcoming. And if any of our university undergraduates wear red ties their fellows probably regard them as possum dabbling in memories in the 1930's.

This is no sentimental call for a return of "the good old days." They were never that. They were periods of turbulent ideas and passionate attitudes and of change in which the easy chairs watching other men play professional sports or the radio and idio screen we might spare a moment to reflect on the old double breed we have become these days. Are the snares of prosperity and comfort more dangerous than the pinches of poverty? Is there a subtle blight of discontent? Plenty and comfort are both physically and mentally deceptive and can lead to easy angry and these produces an inertia that follows smoothly into dangerous indifference.

China Adds 25 Million

Hamilton Spectator

The population of China has passed 700,000,000 and this month will have passed, the 700,000,000 mark, according to Chandrasekhar, director of the Indian Institute of Population Studies, who visited China gathering statistics a few ago.

In a book, China's Population, the increase for 1959 was projected at 25,000,000 which, on the estimate of 675,000,000 a year ago should put the present total above 700,000,000.

With a current annual increase that equals one and a half times Canada's total population, the "explosion" is singularly apt when applied to China's startling increase.

Company Says Benefits Would Be Enormous

OTTAWA (CP) — Anticipated economic benefits of Canadian natural gas exports to the United States were outlined Monday to the National Energy Board as the second of five applicants cleaned up its case.

Westcoast Transmission Company today was to give details about financing and engineering in its bid to export gas to the Pacific Northwest.

A sum of $3,800,000,000 up to 1986 was forecast as flowing into the Canadian economy if approval is given the big project planned by Alberta and Southern Gas.

Hu Harries and Associates, consultants employed by Alberta and Southern, said the economy's gain would amount to that large figure starting with the authorization of construction to begin this year.

The 270 - member Canadian Petroleum Association, intervening to lend weight to the call for gas exports, threw more statistics into the mill with a brief filed for later discussion.

At the same time it complained that gas prices are unreasonably low and the consumer has become accustomed to prices at artificially low levels. Producers get only about five per cent of the amount charged Quebec and Ontario consumers, said the brief.

It said exports are needed to give the industry a shot in the arm and mentioned that 1,000 Alberta wells alone now are capped. Reserves were ample to meet foreseeable Canadian needs and sales would add about $100,000,000 annually to the credit side in Canada's adverse trade balance with the U.S.

Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company, which had opposed the export application of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited, officially withdrew its intervention Monday in announcing agreement on a favorable contract with Trans-Canada.

Program Aimed at Cutting Back Egg Production to More Manageable Output

- - Harkness

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's deficiency payment program is aimed at keeping the government from piling up an "unmanageable volume" of eggs, Agriculture Minister Harkness told the Commons Monday.

The minister made his second appearance in the throne speech debate by unanimous consent of the House so that he could explain the program.

He said the program is aimed at cutting back egg production by "more manageable proportions." Use of a national average price for eggs in determining the deficiency payments is "a much fairer and better method than using regional averages," he added.

Under the plan the government will pay registered egg producers the difference between the current national average price and the average for the last 10 years. The payments to individual producers will be cut off after 4,000 dozen grade A large eggs a year—the output of about 300 hens.

EXPLAINS WORKINGS

He cited figures for the first three weeks in January to show how the payment system works.

The national weighted average price for grade A large eggs during the last 10 years was 33 cents a dozen. The national average during the first three weeks of January was 19.3 cents a dozen. Thus a deficiency payment figured on this latter period would be 13.7 cents a dozen — the difference between the long - time average and the average in the January period.

If a regional system were used, Manitoba farmers would be paid according to a provincial average of 27.2 cents a dozen for the last 10 years. Average Manitoba price during the first three weeks of January was 15.2 cents a dozen and the deficiency payment thus would be 12.5 cents a dozen—less than under the national average system.

Mr. Harkness said 70,484 Canadian egg producers have registered for the payments, and 90 per cent of them have fewer than 500 birds. Thus, the entire production of that 90 per cent could be eligible for deficiency payments. As an indication of commercialization in the industry, 5.4 per cent of all producers had 40 per cent of the birds.

The size of the three-month payment to be made in April would depend on whether the average market price between now and then went above or below the 19.3 cents. But Mr. Harkness estimated that the deficiency payment would run somewhere between 13 and 14 cents.

Revolt Leaders Underestimated De Gaulle's Popularity, Prestige

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP)—The eight-day insurrection of European settlers in Algiers collapsed primarily because its leaders under estimated the popularity and prestige of Charles de Gaulle.

Blinded by their own anti-Gaullist feelings, the ringleaders who started the riding Jan. 24 assumed that at their signal the People of France would join.

After their successful bloodless coup against the Fourth Republic in May, 1958, they were convinced they could dictate to regimes in France.

During their periodical "fact-finding" trips to France they were in touch mainly with people who thought like themselves, and returned to Algeria convinced of their approaching victory.

"The army is with us, the unions are with us, the farmers are with us," shouted Robert Martel, leader of the now-dissolved "MP 13" movement two weeks before the shots were fired in Algiers.

"The Fifth Republic needs a spark to set it afire," said the surgent leader Joseph Ortiz—now fleeing French authorities.

In their barricaded stronghold in downtown Algiers, the insurgent leaders spent hours glued to the radio, listening to news from France.

Their despair increased daily. Finally, seeing that French public opinion was against them, some went as far as to hope for a military assault on their stronghold that would discredit the de Gaulle government.

The insurgent leaders also underestimated the position of the French army in Algeria.

The army is far from enthusiastic about de Gaulle's promise of self-determination for Moslems. But few French officers would be willing to take the side of a handful of comparatively small adventurers against de Gaulle.

Despite some army complicity, de Gaulle permitted the insurgents to obtain arms and carry out the concentrations of crowds, the bulk of the army was not ready to support the revolt.

Another blow was dealt by the attitude of the Moslem masses, who boycotted insurgent appeals to demonstrate against de Gaulle.

year. Mr. Wintermeyer said these expenditures should be allotted to various departments and shown in the accounts the following year.

The CCF and Liberal leaders also said taxes should not be levied by boards with the power to increase fees indiscriminately. Mr. MacDonald said the Ontario Liquor Control Board was one such agency. He said tax increases of this nature should be debated in the House.

ASKS FOR COMMISSION

Mr. Wintermeyer called for the establishment of an independent commission to study the responsibilities and functions of the legislature. And a select committee should be set up to review the recommendations made in the Gordon report.

He suggested examination of ministers of the Crown "more than is possible in the limited fashion of debate."

Mr. MacDonald, defining a good government as one which has a strong opposition, said the present government's 85,000 majority position forces for operating expenses absolute increases of $1,000 for each opposition member. There are 27 opposition members, five of whom are CCF members.

All three party leaders agreed in principle on the matter of private schools in Ontario acts, but Clauses prohibiting religious groups from receiving grants by the courts of decisions of substantive government boards except in matters of jurisdiction and point of fact.

Various interpretations of recommendations in the Gordon report pertaining to privative clauses suggest that decisions of the Labor Relations Board and the Workmen's Compensation Board may be thrown open to review by the courts.

The introduction of the Gordon committee, Mr. Frost said, was to do away with restrictive wording. The committee had no intention, he added, of limiting the decision of these two boards for review by the courts, which would be a step-down in the processing of cases.

The leaders have been strong in protesting this recommendation.

Earlier, Health Minister Dymond told the assembly a hospital for the retarded children is to be built in Northern Ontario but the exact site has not yet been determined.

He said he had spoken with a delegation from Capreol, near Sudbury, last week but had made no commitments to the group. Several other municipalities have asked for the hospital school to be built in their area.

Jap Produce New Variety Salmon-Trout

TOKYO (Reuters) — A new variety of salmon-trout has been bred by artificial incubation at the Hokkaido fishery incubation station, according to reports.

The Japanese news agency Kyodo said a male ocean salmon of the north Pacific had been crossbred with fish eggs of an ancestor hybchus norka, a fresh water trout living in Japan's inland lakes.

It said experts expect to be able to increase the length of the new variety of fish beyond the length of regular salmon found in northern waters.

About 50 per cent of the 2,500 fish eggs tested were successfully incubated. The scientists hoped to mass produce the new fish in lakes to avoid catch limitations.

Japanese salmon catches in northern waters are subject to international restrictions.

PEARSON STEERS

had contended Canada's average of 348,000 unemployed was higher than the percentage in the United States.

Challenging this, Mr. Fleming said that even without accounting for Canada's seasonal fluctuations, the Canadian rate now is about 5.6 per cent of the working force — unemployed — "almost identical with that of the U.S."

Mr. Fleming also described as "just plain nonsense" a CCF suggestion that a recent speech by James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, was contrary to government policy.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, said Mr. Coyne's views were "diametrically opposed" to those of Mr. Fleming. Mr. Coyne, in a Winnipeg speech two weeks ago, suggested Canada was borrowing too much abroad.

Mr. Fleming said the governor of the Bank of Canada "at no time purports to make statements of government policy."

A hot spot in the debate came when J. W. Pickersgill (Le Bonavista-Twillingate) accused Mr. Diefenbaker of a "thoroughly dishonest performance" on television broadcast last fall. "Sternly, the prime minister demanded a withdrawal of the dishonest statement."

The ebullient Newfoundland MP refused to withdraw the suggestion. Then he went on to say Mr. Diefenbaker hadn't really distorted the facts because he never spent enough time in his office to find out what the facts were. "I don't accuse him of telling us facts," Mr. Pickersgill said.

Murdo Martin (CCF-Timmins) said there is a costly duplication in the "hodgepodge" of Canadian plans for hospital insurance. One national program would reduce the overlapping of administrative apparatus in a welter of public and private plans, he said.

Foreign Lady Tells Women Veils Are Out

By RUEMENI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — Barbara Eisenhower, United States President Eisenhower's daughter - in - law, has been responsible for a revolution currently sweeping Hindu Saral, a sleepy Hindu village she visited during her Indian sojourn in December.

Miani Razi, 31, one of Katwari Sarai's tradition - bound elders, says: "I just cannot understand what has happened. Everything has gone topsy - turvy. Things seem to portend that memorable (foreign lady) came here."

The reason for Miani's alarm is that the 26 - year - old daughter-in-law, Shanti, has not worn her veil since the day Barbara Eisenhower visited the village with Sir Jogendra Singh Deshmukh, chairman of the Indian government's central social welfare board and one of the country's leading crusaders for social reform.

Shanti's lead has been followed by at least a dozen other pert village women who all their lives had observed the ancient system of "purdah." They had to veil their faces before the menfolk and could not talk to their husbands in the presence of others.

The liberation happened this way. One of the village welfare workers was also along with Barbara and Deshmukh asked Shanti and a group of welcoming women why they did not discard their veils. She was told they dared not because village elder like Muni Ram.

The village, pointing to Mrs. Eisenhower, said: "This lady comes from a country where women have the courage to snap their fingers at their menfolk. Should we not get inspiration from her?"

The women agreed and doffed their veils.

Later they were assured that if the men resisted, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister Nehru's daughter and that time - honoured grass party chief, would have a word with her father.

And, overnight, high - heeled shoes have appeared in the hamlet. The shoe - merchant in Katwari Sarai says: "Ever since the women saw Mrs. Eisenhower in high - heeled shoe, they have been pestering me to arrange for a supply from Delhi."

Suzy Parker Paid $150 Hour For Modelling

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is it like to be the world's highest-paid model?

"You could never ignagine," says tall, languid, red - haired Suzy Parker, whose minimum fee was $150 an hour before she quit modelling for marriage, parenthood and the movies.

"You begin to feel that you're not real at all. You're 'the creature' who smokes all those cigarettes, and that lipstick, wears all those strange fashions, drives those cars, hypnotizes you with all that perfume, lies on that doctor's rug with a cake of soap.

"You see your face staring at you from every magazine and newspaper, in ads in the subway house, from billboards. You wonder if you're really a person, or only a symbol. So you have to fall in love to prove you're human."

Suzy was born in Texas, raised in Florida and now lives in Paris, with her writer husband, Pierre Galante. They have a two-year-old daughter, Georgia. She made a flying trip to New York to do The Best of Everything.

FABULOUS PRODUCT

Suzy is a true product of the times. Before she left the big-time New York-Paris model circuit in 1959, and continued as the top international model and actress girl for seven years, when she starred in the movie "Funny Face," played in Kiss Them For Me, Kelly and Me, Home Before Dark, Best of Everything, and is at present under contract for at least a picture a year for Shamley-Universal.

"One thing is sure," says Suzy, "I'm not going to be involved in my business life. That's for me. That is to me—strictly business.

"When I get a call to go to Hollywood to do a movie, I'll take the boat. I refuse to fly again to take more than a couple of weeks. But one thing I refuse to do, and that is to live in Hollywood. I intend to live in Paris, because that's where my family and band works. And it's easy these days to commute anywhere in the world by jet."

EASTON—ROWLAND

A lovely candlelight wedding was solemnized on Saturday, February 20th, at 8.30 p.m. in Bethel Chapel, by Mr. William Belch, of Belleville, when Marion Joyce Rowland, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William George Rowland, became the bride of George Robert Easton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Easton.

Fall standards of white chrysanthemums and red carnations and lighted candelabra provided the setting for the impressive ceremony. The guest pews were designated with white satin bows.

Mrs. Beverley Foster, of Canniffton, played the traditional wedding music, and accompanied Miss Jane Dunn, of Belleville, of Belleville, who sang "Because" before the ceremony and "We Have Found a Love That Made Thee Mine," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in her ballerina-length bridal gown of white nylon chiffon featuring a fitted chiffon lace bodice with bolero jacket having three-quarter puffed sleeves. Her chapel-length veil of silk tulle illusion was caught to a bandeau of pearls trimmed with tiny seed pearls and she carried a white lace-covered Bible crested with tiny red Sweetheart roses misted with baby's breath ivy. A single strand of pearls completed her bridal ensemble.

Miss Wendy Davidson of Belleville, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was gowned in waist-length red velvet with matching bandeau and carrying a muff topped with white gardinia corsage.

The bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Rowland, of Belleville, sister of the bride, wore a similar costume to that of the maid of honor, with matching accessories.

Joel Easton Malloy of Belleville attended the bridegroom, while Messrs Elmer Davidson, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride, and Harold Griggs, of Bancroft, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Chapel parlor, where the bride's table was spread with white damask, and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a minature bride and bridegroom, and surrounded by red carnations and white mums.

The guests were received by the bride's mother wearing an azure blue crepe in sheath style, pink accessories and corsage of white carnations, and the bridegroom's mother assisted in receiving wearing lime green in Royal blue rayon faille with matching jacket, black accessories and a corsage of pink carnation heart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Easton will reside in Bancroft.

Health Department Advises Immunization in Early Life

PRACTICES IN IMMUNIZATION

In general, all immunization procedures should be carried out early in life in order that the protection during the period of greatest risk is established. The infant has some immunity acquired from the mother, but this is not sufficient and will soon only if the mother herself is receiving immunization or has experienced infection. The new born child can no longer contract whooping cough and probably very brief immunity to others, but not to measles. Infants at birth may possess some immunity to tetanus and diphtheria but early active immunization against these diseases is advised.

A child not receiving inoculations for whooping cough in infancy can receive it at a later age though a more marked reaction is to be expected with increasing age. The same holds true with diphtheria. Most adults receiving primary inoculation for diphtheria are more apt to have severe reactions.

FEVERISH CONVULSIONS

Infants who have had feverish convulsions following the first successive fractional doses of the toxin until the total recommended volume has been given. The volume of the second dose should be decreased for an infant who responds with severe reaction after the first injection.

Multiple toxins are preferable. Immunization programs are always more successful if the number of injections is required and if the length of time between the first and last injection is short. Protection against several diseases simultaneously is also important. An important consideration is that a decrease in the number of injections means additional disturbances for the child. The use of multiple toxins has proved helpful in public health.

MULTIPLE VACCINES

SATISFACTORY

Experience has proven that the response to the multiple vaccines administered in one injection is satisfactory and no difference in the antibody response has been found between the multiple vaccine and those given separately or alone respectively. The multiple vaccine, sometimes called quad., contains the vaccines for diphtheria, pertussis toxoid, whooping cough, tetanus and smallpox.

The importance of the third injection of poliomyelitis vaccine has been stressed. At the present points to the fact that this injection is important in assuring adequate immunity, however up to the present it has not been shown conclusively the need for a fourth injection of poliomyelitis vaccine. In children inoculated with only a four dose it is desirable to enhance poliomyelitis immunity particularly if there is a beginning immunization before the fourth month of age. This administration may be by the primary or first series of quads, a booster dose 15 to 18 months later.

PERSUASION NEEDED

One problem in immunization is how to persuade parents to receive inoculations or to have them administered to their children. Closely allied with how to persuade individuals, particularly parents, is the fact that poliomyelitis no longer is a disease which affects only young children agers and that the three inoculations are necessary for full protection against infantility.

Here in Belleville the Health Department has had a wonderful response at their poliomyelitis clinics held in the past but are still a large number of children in the city who apparently are liable to become victims of the disease that they have not received one injection. There are others that have received one or two injections and did not go back for the third. Public health officials say immunity it has been proven that the third injection is necessary for full protection. Health Department holds poliomyelitis clinics every Thursday afternoon from two to four o'clock at their offices for children of all adults. The next poliomyelitis clinic once a month in the Boards of Education, 10 o'clock, the next clinic will be on February 18th. Miss Hellen Green and adults the second Wednesday of each month 2-4 p.m.

3RD INOCULATION NEEDED

The records of the Health Department show that there are a large number of adults who have received one or two injections of poliomyelitis vaccine. These individuals should realize that they are still susceptible to the disease. The Department strongly advises individuals to either see their family physician or the Health Department now either to start or complete series of inoculations or to realize that they will have established an immunity before the next polio season. Poliomyelitis is no longer considered a disease of children and may be the two next victim through neglect to avail yourself of the vaccine.

Canadian Legion E.S.W. Plans Events

The regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion Executive Women's Branch 570 was held in Colborne Legion Hall on January 27. The meeting was made a fine donation of money to the Retarded Children. The branch has received a very appreciative letter from the Colborne Retarded Children Committee for glasses ship in supplying jerseys for the minor hockey team and, incidentally, they are wearing them with the Legion Branch number. The branch is proud of its first effort in welfare work and feels it has made a good start in helping the children.

The next meeting, on February 24, at Colborne, there will be a wrapped-gift auction. A dance is to be held for St. Patrick's Day on March 18. The branch would like to see a good attendance on this occasion.

The hand of comradeship is again extended to all ex-service women to join. Please contact the Sgt.-at-Arms, Mrs. B. Kurby, Wooddland 2-9707.

SAFETY HINT

To avert infection, small scratches, burns or cuts should be cleansed and covered with a sterile dressing.

Presbyterian Ladies Hold Coffee Party

Outside it was a winter evening; inside it was spring. Large bouquets of yellow snapdragons, white and all shades of pink mums, and vivid red gladioli flanked the piano, fireplace and small tables. This was the setting for the recent coffee party sponsored by the Presbyterian Women of Farley, Ontario.

Welcoming the guests to this promise of spring, mingled with the aroma of good coffee, was the president, Mrs. William Wallis, with Mrs. Earl Brown as the treasurer.

Once inside the main room the guests visited the home-bake table which was daintily appointed with its centrepiece of rose 'mums. This table was no disappointment; there was a delicious array of apple, pumpkin, lemon and fruit pies; white, chocolate and angel food cakes, cup cakes, tarts, fruit and nut squares — all kinds of cookies, shortbreads, peanut butter macaroons and fruitful oatmeal ones; also mouth-watering home made bread which sold as soon as it was put on the table.

Shopping around, the ladies sat down to tempting sugar and jelly candwiches served by hot coffee.

Quite refreshment table, with its hurricane candle as centre-piece, and large wooden platter of assorted sandwiches was convened by Mrs. Clyve Ryan, assisted by Mrs. Gerald Frank Van Ropmesy, Mrs. R. E. Ashley and Mrs. John Bakker.

The afternoon was testified to success of this friendly get-together.

Bridge St. W.A. Installs New Officers

A delicious pot-luck luncheon preceded the annual meeting of the Women's Association of Bridge Street United Church. The president, Mrs. W. Dallas, presided, and Mrs. J. Parrott was pianist.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Ralph Morden who told the story of the "Church of the Lighted Lamps." Annual reports, summing up the activities of the year, were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. H. Parker; treasurer, Mrs. H. McBurney; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Hibbard; card secretary, Mrs. C. Massey; pastoresse committee, Mrs. W. G. Anderson; kitchen committee, Mrs. J. Casey and the flower committee by Miss H. Sulman, all of which were accepted.

Mrs. A. Clare, on behalf of the Association, presented a life membership pin and a past president's pin to Mrs. Dallas, who had given leadership to the Association for the past two years.

Mrs. Clare also presented the slate of officers for 1960 as follows:

Honorary president, Mrs. H. M. Dafoe; past president, Mrs. A. J. Clare; president, Mrs. W. Dallas; 1st vice-president, Mrs. G. Anderson; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. E. Scott; recording secretary, Miss Sulman; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Hibbard; treasurer, Mrs. H. McBurney; membership treasurer, Mrs. J. Lewis; card secretary, Mrs. C. MacDonald; Christian stewardship, Mrs. A. Clare; secretary of co-operation with Christian education, Mrs W. Tice; press reporter, Mrs. R. Morden.

Pastoresse committee: Mrs. P. Fairman, Miss Elizabeth Black and Mrs. Dorothy Walker (Convenor, W.A.); Mrs. F. Adsett; flower committee, Miss H. Sulman and Mrs. F. Moore; kitchen committee, Mrs. J. Casey, Mrs. M. Tugnett and Mrs. W. Orrond; membership committee, Mrs. R. Grant, Mrs. W. H. Finkle and Mrs. C. E. Cook; pianist, Mrs. J. Guthridge; group leaders, Mrs. Puke and Mrs. A. Demeyer; Mrs. Denyes and Mrs. S. Gilmour; Mrs. C. Massey and Mrs. A. R. Nichol; Mrs. C. A. Miller and Mrs. D. Stenson; Mrs. J. Mongrove and Mrs. Cathers; Mrs. J. Parrott and Mrs. R. D. Arnott.

Rev. H. M. Davis conducted the installation service and expressed sincere appreciation to Mrs. Dallas for her co-operation and service for two years and for her willingness to go "the second mile" in accepting office for a third term. He said it was difficult to say how much the work of the Association owed to the life of the church.

Mrs. E. Denyes, on behalf of the members, thanked Mr. Davis for his kind words of appreciation, and commendation.

Aikens M.B. Nam...s 1960 Officers

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, the clergyman, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by respondents and counsellors.

Tina J. — I would be miserable without Pat.

Mrs. L. J. — They are no good for each other.

Tina J. — I am 14 and I have been going steady with a boy of my own age for the past year. Don't tell me to stop going steady because I would be miserable without Pat.

The only problem is that I am so jealous. I may have gotten this way because my father and mother were divorced two years ago. My father fell in love with another woman. I keep thinking what would happen if Pat started to like somebody else.

My mother thinks that Pat and I should break up. We know we are too young, but we are really and truly in love. But every time I see Pat talking to another girl I get so frightened. I am also afraid that he won't want me to any more if I keep bothering him about this.

Mrs. L. J. — I feel that this friendship has gone much too far already. It's fine for 14-year-olds to go out and have fun together, but when they start talking love I get scared to death.

Now that Tina's father is no longer with us and the entire burden is on me, I am constantly worried about her. When she is away I wonder what she is up to. When she is home I yell at her because I am so nervous.

I think it's terrible that Pat makes Tina jealous all the time. He knows the way she feels and sometimes I think he does it to get her goat. Anyway, they shouldn't be together so much. They are no good for each other. But Tina cries and screams like murder if I even hint they should split up.

The Council: Mrs. L. J. must consider that both she and her daughter are suffering from extreme shock because of the break-up of this home. Since Tina is still only a child, Mrs. T. U. must assume the responsibility of putting herself together in order to help her daughter.

Mrs. L. J.'s terror at finding herself alone is reflected in her daughter's attitude. Tina has grabbed a youngster of her own age whom she clutches with the panic-given strength of a drowning person.

Mrs. L. J. must decide deep inside herself that she has nothing really to fear but fear itself. She is competent to manage her family if she keeps a cool head. She must also find ways of separating her own life so that she'll get some pleasure out of living. This will relieve her nervousness and will help her daughter realize that a woman need not be lost and hopeless without a man. She must use her independent resources.

Tina is now at such a peak of hysteria that we think harping on a breakup with her boy friend can only make matters worse. Mrs. L. J. should, instead, try to get Tina to broaden her activities — the kind of activities that throw her into contact with other boys and girls. She should also encourage her to develop her abilities and set a goal for herself. If Tina develops an aptitude for something, she will gain self-confidence and begin to feel that she can like and be liked by other boys.

Mrs. L. J. should, under no circumstances, offer Tina comfort in her jealousy. This will only help the child develop an angry grievance against men — which will be of no help to her now or in the future.

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: Why is it the usual custom to place men and women alternately when planning a dinner table? Also, why is it considered best to separate husbands and wives, if possible?

Answer: The custom of placing men and women alternately at table has come down to us from the Middle Ages, when a man and his wife ate their food from the same wooden bowl. Today we have modified this tradition and believe that a man and his wife should not be seated together, if it can be avoided, because this makes it possible for each to make new friends and find a broader outlook from talking with others. We do continue to alternate men and women at table, and it is nice if you can manage to seat unattached men and women when entertaining at dinner. An engaged couple should be together. While attempting to abide by these rules, try to make every effort to seat together those who are congenial.

Notable Winter Puddings

by Mary Moore

Eleanor and Peachy have been making two-purpose puddings. Each purpose was for dessert for their families. The second purpose was for me to pass on to you. These girls are really fine cooks and know very well that I am hovering over their cooking efforts ready to council if they produce something notable. These were. Bobby who does not go for Rice Pudding nor the can Eleanor made, Peachy's Fluff Pudding has several fruity-bottomed variations.

ELEANOR'S RICE MERINGUE PUDDING

Two cupped cooked rice (1-3 cup raw rice cooked coverdo in 2-3 cup boiling water until water is absorbed or use minute rice cooked according to package directions) 2 cups (1 cup when cooked); 2 cups milk, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon soft butter, ½ cup seeded raisins (sticky Australian), 2 eggs, separated, 2 tablespoons icing sugar, nutmeg. Beat the yolks of eggs and add the sugar and milk and stir into the cooked rice. Add the butter and raisins. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Beat the whites of eggs until frothy, beat in icing sugar until soft peaks form and spread over top of rice pudding. Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

PEADT'S FRUIT PUFF PUDDING

Fruit filling: Two cups fresh frozen blackberries, or raw rhubarb use ¼ cup sugar.) Mix together with crushed pineapple or chopped canned apricots including approximately ½ cup of the juice; 1½ tablespoons minute tapioca, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup sugar. (Note: For rhubarb use ¾ cup sugar.) Mix together the fruit (one of the above) with tapioca, lemon juice, water (if fruit is raw) and sugar. Stir over low heat until it comes to boiling. Turn into buttered casserole. Keep warm. Pour over Batter: One-half cup sifted flour, 8 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup milk (add milk and lemon colored, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar. Sift flour once and measure. Add Sugar gradually to egg yolks. Beating until light. Beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Add cream of tartar and beat until stiff enough to hold up in strong peaks, but not dry. Fold egg white mixture into egg yolks. Then fold in flour, a small amount at a time. Stir hot tapioca-fruit mixture. Turn batter over mixture. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes, or until cake is baked. Serve warm. Serves 8.

Safari for Souls
With Billy Graham in Africa

By TOM McMAHAN
Religion Editor, The Star, Columbia, S.C.

ACCRA, GHANA: It was nearly ten o'clock at night. Clusters of window-shoppers stood gazing and lamps in an imposing Accra department store. On the sidewalk nearby sat a lone selling bread. Beside her slept four little children. Unwrapped loaves lay in a tray in the dusty street.

In nearby market areas which would soon bustle with activity scores of men slept in doorways, on porches and on the pavement. They had come to Ghana from neighboring countries hoping to earn a meager living by carrying head loads and guarding buildings with their bodies.

A few hours earlier, fifteen thousand Ghanaians, including the Lord Bishop of Accra, had thronged the brand new seaside sports arena to hear an American evangelist proclaim Christ's love as the answer to mankind's basic, great frustration. Dressed in strikingly colorful tribal habits and religious garb, the people had come on foot and in hundreds of taxis, modern buses and "mummy trucks" with plank seats and fascinating motto signs.

Magnificent public and commercial buildings rising all over this bustling capital reflect the inflow of foreign capital and the new sense of values stressing on education, trade and prestige. Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah's picture is everywhere, even on the tin pins of his followers.

A few miles up the winding Kumasi Road, astride a mountain ridge, nestles the magnificent country house of Nkrumah, who is hailed in government-controlled papers as Africa's Messiah, the symbol of a new religion called Africanism, who, they say "may well be the second Christ who comeath when the babes in the sea are suffering from Strontium 90ety".

GRAHAM VISITS NKRUMAH

Evangelist Billy Graham called on Nkrumah at the close of his two-day visit here and was cordially received. Graham told the Prime Minister that every great nation has cherished religious freedom, Nkrumah said that continued freedom of worship is one of Ghana's goals. Nkrumahism, they say there is full freedom to propagate Christianity in Ghana but the government frowns on anything that suggests political interference. In front of the Parliament Building a statue of Nkrumah bears the legend, "Seek ye first the political kingdom and all other things shall be added unto you." Christian leaders protested of the obvious paraphrase on Christ's words about seeking first the kingdom of God, but they were told in effect to mind their own business and let the politicians handle public affairs. Missionaries and even some national leaders are deeply concerned about the future of Christian work in Ghana, especially where Europeans are concerned. Thinking moderates appear to share the opinion although nearly everyone is cautious about discussing the matter in public. A public opinion said the smiles on Ghanaian faces mask deep worries. An African pastor said, "Christians may have to choose between Christ and the nation," and he added quietly that he himself had seen dictatorship in another country.

MAY BE TEMPORARY

On the other hand, some leading churchmen say that the detention and deportation act and the post-facto laws are only temporary expedients necessitated by the unrest and violence of the free nation's infancy. One cited the West African tradition under which the chief and his elders are responsible to the tribesmen and once they lose confidence, criticism is treason. Others say that Nkrumah can't take criticism gracefully.

If time is short for Europeans

HANDLING WITH CARE — A member of the New York Police bomb squad, wearing protective apron and face shield, has this area of Grand Central Terminal all to himself as he carefully carries device suspected of being a bomb. The device was found in a locker in the terminal. It was taken to Fort Tilden for examination and disposal. Police said the six-inch piece of pipe contained a non-explosive liquid and some live powder. It was wired with battery and wristwatch. (AP Wirephoto) helping the African Church, a strategy of careful enlistment and training of key national leaders seems wise. The major significance of Mr. Graham's tour is the pointed impact on educated Africans — practically all of whom are educated in mission schools, but comparatively few of whom are all-out soldiers of the cross.

Billy Graham had spoken to twenty thousand Ghanaians and was about to address eight thousand others at Kumasi, the capital of the cocoa region, when a violent rainstorm broke up the meeting. Associate evangelist Leighton Ford preached to sixteen thousand seekers. Overall three thousand decisions for Christ were recorded, about half representing first - time professions of faith in Christ.

Many left the Kumasi service quickly when the skies dropped out, but hundreds stood for thirty minutes in the downpour. Others crawled under the platform and bleachers while a naughty band with chairs over their heads marched around singing "God sent the Rain", and "Stand Up for Jesus". The public address system shorted out and the meeting finally dispersed. A man who had trudged over fifty-four miles of bush trails to attend said it was worth it just to see such a throng gather for worship.

PROTEST CRITICISM

Copies of "Time" magazine were burned here a few days ago in protest of the magazine's critical burden in recent issues. Evident, the ruling party burned a casket to symbolize the burial of the opposition party which lost the election in Kumasi the day Graham was there.

Ghana is on the march, leading most that a formidable Navy and Air Force will join Nkrumah's already sizeable Army. Ghana's air runways are being rushed to completion at the airport. Public housing is being pushed. The new twenty-six million dollar university is a showpiece for all Africa.

Frightening indeed are the articles, pictures and cartoons in the government press. But most disturbing to Christians is the Prime Minister's open encouragement of the fetish priest and the way he is being glorified, recalling the days when Rome deified her rulers.

Meanwhile Graham continues on his way, preaching to multitudes of a Christ who belongs to Africa as truly as He belongs to America or Europe or Asia and calling men to surrender fully to Him.

Marked Decline in Ontario Of Communicable Diseases

During the year 1958 there was a marked decline in the number of cases of communicable diseases reported in Ontario. In 1958 only 900 cases of influenza, compared with 24,000 reported in the previous year. The lowest number of cases of diphtheria ever reported in 1958, the year, Typhoid and undulant fever cases also showed a decline to a new low of 15 cases with no deaths. There has not been a case of smallpox reported in the province in the past 20 years. The number of cases of whooping cough and tuberculosis was also below the 1957 level. Infectious hepatitis which seems to appear in cycles every three or four years showed a marked increase with an average of about 30 deaths.

Rabies has become a problem in Ontario, during 1958 the disease in wild and domestic animals reached an all time high. Prior to 1942 incidence of this disease were primarily concerned with dogs and cats only, with a few cases reported also in horses. Domestic animals biting by wild animals has become a greater public health menace through the close association of these animals with man and during 1958, 1141 domestic animals including cattle, horses, dogs, cats, etc. were proven rabid by the Provincial Bureau of Animals Laboratory, Hull, Que. An unexpected amount of $40,000.00 was spent in the distribution of rabies vaccine in 1958 as against less than $1,400.00 in 1957.

Free insulin was distributed to patient groups in Ontario, the province pays 75 percent and the municipality 25 percent of the cost.

Following the outbreak of poliomyelitis in 1937 the number of cases continued low for a number of years in Ontario. For four years previous to 1938 only 15.9 percent of paralytic cases were reported in the 0-4 age group and 47.3 percent in the 5-14 age group. In 1958 there was a complete turn about with 45 percent in the 0-4 group and 15 percent in the 5-14 age group. Apparently the effect of poliomyelitis vaccine on the 5-14 age group had an effect in the reduction of the number of cases. In 1957 there were 68 cases of poliomyelitis reported with 9 deaths while in 1958 there were only 30 cases reported with 6 deaths.

The Belleville Health Department holds regular clinics for immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, poliomyelitis and smallpox as well as Well Baby Clinics. These clinics are free and it is felt that it is the responsibility of every parent to have their child or children immunized against the above diseases, either by their own family physician or at one of the Health Department clinics. The Health Department also holds one night clinic a month for adults for immunization.

CLINICS

Immunization clinics held every Thursday afternoon 2-4 p.m. at the Health Department, 286 Pinnacle Street, (adults and children); adult polio clinics, once a month, usually second Tuesday of each month 7-9 p.m.

Next clinic Feb. 9; Hillcrest School, immunization clinics once a month, first Tuesday (adults and children), next clinic Feb. 2, 9.30 to 11.30 a.m.

Well Baby Clinic and Immunization Clinic Hollowey Street United Church, the second Wednesday of each month, 2-4 p.m. (adults and children), next clinic Feb. 10.

Well Baby Clinic: Hillcrest United Church, Centre Street, the first and third Thursday afternoons, 1.30 to 3.30 p.m. Next clinic February 4.

Kiwanis Centre, every Tuesday afternoon from 2-4 p.m.

Immunization clinics held every Tuesday evening 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. at the YMCA. These are sponsored by the Y's Men's Club and under the direction of the Belleville Health Department.

MISSILE RESEARCH

Canadian scientists are establishing a base on Ascension Island in the South Atlantic to study the performance against intercontinental missiles. They will also investigate what happens to a guided missile when it re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

The Canadians will try to determine the feasibility of using infra-red wave lengths to detect long-range rockets as they enter the atmosphere. RCAF jets based on the island will carry infra-red equipment, developed at Valcartier, Que., more than 40,000 feet up in the experiments. (CP Newsmap.)

2nd Tharlow

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes could have been speaking for all Canadian taxpayers as well as the government the other day when he said it is "very fortunate" that the United States is paying for all development costs of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile.

The RCAF tried to put a brave face on the sixth consecutive failure by the U.S. Air Force Friday to launch a Bomarc-B test missile.

But there seemed to be no doubt that the future of the weapon is becoming darker with every failure. The U.S. Congress had some nasty things to say about the Bomarc last year and its attitude is likely to be even harsher this year.

When the Canadian government cancelled the Arrow jet interceptor 11 months ago it announced plans to acquire the Bomarc-B for anti-aircraft defence.

PREPARING SITES

Prudently, it didn't commit any money for actual missile purchases. But it did go ahead with preparation of the sites for two Bomarc bases and the SAGE —semi-automatic ground environment—system which controls the missile's operations.

The defence department already has spent about $10,000,000 on site work and another $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 is earmarked for this work in the fiscal year starting April 1.

Canada's share of the total cost if the Canadian Bomarc-SAGE program has been estimated at $125,000,000.

Construction of one Bomarc site and the SAGE unit has started near North Bay. Surveying is still going on for the second Bomarc site near Mont Laurier, Que.

When the Arrow was cancelled, the government said Canada never again could embark on development by itself of a major weapons system.

Development of the Bomarc was left entirely to the U.S. If the Bomarc fails, what then?

THE ALTERNATIVES

The Canadian government could obtain a new U.S. interceptor to replace the eight-year-old CF-100 jet. But it has already stated the day of the manned bomber is nearly over.

For some air defence, it could acquire the U.S. Army's Nike-Hercules anti - aircraft missile, which can operate independently without the SAGE system. This operational weapon's range is less than the reputed range of the Bomarc—80 miles compared with some 400—but this problem could be overcome by installing more Nike bases.

U.S. Army officers have said Canada would have been well advised to take this action long ago rather than depend on the unproven Bomarc.

One authority here said the U.S. Air Force will get the Bomarc into operation no matter what, even if it has to take funds from other projects.

Paper Outlines Plans of New Political Party

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says planners of the new party being sponsored by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress have outlined a political and social philosophy based on government intervention and control over every phase of the economy.

The newspaper says the program leans heavily on a redistribution of wealth through a revision of the tax system. It says the outline suggests a blend of socialism and private enterprise with the government taking a firm hand in economic planning.

The final decision on the program outlined will not be made until the founding convention of the new party in the spring of 1961.

Stanley Knowles, CLC executive vice-president, headed the committee which drafted the study paper, first presented last week at a private meeting in Ottawa of 72 officers of CLC-affiliated unions.

The Globe and Mail quotes the paper as saying both the Liberal and Conservative parties "are incapable of meeting the post-war challenge because they reject public planning and support the concentration of capital and power in the hands of private monopolies and near monopolies."

Most far reaching proposals in the program, the story says, suggest public planning and control of investment and production be placed in the hands of agencies on which labor, farmers and consumers are represented.

REJECT 'COPTERS

CHIGWELL, England (CP)—The council of this Essex community has rejected a proposal to convert the nearby North Weald fighter base into a helicopter terminal.

Eight Persons Forced to Flee In Night Attire

PICTON — Eight persons fled in night attire early yesterday when fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Ostrander and their son William and wife, at South Bay, 15 miles south of Picton. Four girls who were guests of Mrs. W. Ostrander for the weekend, also fled to safety. They were Carolyn Spafford, Marilyn Rorbeck, Sharon Nicholson and Diane Hagan.

The big double frame house, along with all contents, and also a nearby pig pen were lost.

The family was sleeping when Mrs. W. Ostrander was awakened by the smell of smoke. She aroused her husband, who turned on the light to find the bedroom filled with smoke. He aroused other members of the family and guests.

The fire was first noticed in the wall leading to the kitchen. A section was torn away and water poured on it. Just when it seemed under control, the whole wall seemed to burst into flames, Mrs. Ostrander stated.

The large barn is located near by but was not seriously endangered as the breeze was blowing away from it. Cattle in it were released as a precautionary measure.

A committee, which includes members of the township council, has been formed to canvass South Marysburg for funds to aid the two families who lost all their possessions.

SQUAW VALLEY

To a lot of the sports unlatitated, Squaw Valley could be the happy hunting grounds of the wives of Sitting Bull's Sioux warriors or a tribal retreat for dusky-skinned, ladies who have been placed on a pension.

Pushed into the sports limelight since being chosen as the site of the 1960 Olympics winter sports, this narrow, snow mantled area, two miles long and a half-mile wide, nestles among the majestic peaks of the Sierra Nevada mountains some 6,200 feet above sea level.

It is located in California very close to the Nevada border. The nearest city is Reno, about 46 miles to the northeast. It is 113 miles from Sacramento, 200 miles from San Francisco.

Lake Tahoe—long famed as a summer and winter playground—is only a few miles to the east.

When Squaw Valley was first presented to the International Olympics Committee, it was locked in majestic isolation in the Sierra Nevada. It had 20 registered voters —no mayor, no post office and no gas station.

When the Winter Olympics open there on February it will house more than 1,000 persons per day. Many more thousands will visit the site daily as spectators. However, ticket sales are reported as not going so well. Present attendance is estimated at 11,000 per day, not the 25,000 capacity estimated.

Some $20,000,000 will have been spent in providing for the Winter Olympics—in detail ranging from providing 122,000 hot dogs to the hiring of seven bilingual operators to handle telephone calls.

The emergence of Squaw Valley—with almost stark swiftness, represents a new approach to the Olympics games. In the past the games were held only at world-renowned resorts.

Squaw Valley offered the opportunity to build the first true Olympics village. Here the competitors—800 of them from 34 nations—plus coaches and officials will be housed there. All competition will take place within the 6,000 acres of the Olympic site.

Some 45 miles of cross-country ski trails have been built, plus 14 miles of downhill ski trails, plus a $250,000 ski jump with a 1,300-foot run. Three ski lifts, one carrying 600 skiers, cost $600,000.

The ice arena is a masterpiece of Olympic architecture. It is a huge building whose roof is suspended by cables in order to eliminate pillars and other obstructions. It will seat 8,500 people.

Some 80 miles of subscription wire have been laid adjacent to the downhill ski runs for immediate communication. At least 200,000 pieces of music have been considered for the opening ceremonies. There will be 1,386 instrumentalists and a choir of 2,645 voices at the opening and closing ceremonies.

There will be a 22-bed emergency hospital, five first-aid stations on the grounds, and four more medical stations just outside.

There will also be a pharmacy, three physiotherapy rooms, a fleet of six military ambulances, two over-snow vehicles, plus sleds and helicopters for reaching victims or transporting patients.

There will be a skating rink the size of a football field. The arena will be enclosed on three sides but the fourth will be open on a view of the neighboring speed-skating rink and the ski jump.

The Hollywood touch under the magic hand of Walt Disney will convert Squaw Valley into a spectacular California setting. Grand opening and closing ceremonies will mark the games. About 3,000 people, including the athletes will take part.

Daytime fireworks will be used for the first time in Olympics history. Rockets will carry aloft flags of competing nations to be drifted down by parachute. 20,000 balloons will also be released.

The traditional release of 20,000 doves of peace will be the climax of the ceremonies.

Chimes are to peal out from strategic sites in the surrounding mountains as the Olympic torch completes a 9,000-mile trip from Greece in spectacular fashion.

The Olympic flame will be flown from Norway to Los Angeles. It will be carried by 600 high school runners on a 575-mile relay, northeast through San Francisco and Sacramento.

Forming a background for the reception of the Olympic Torch will be a Tower of Nations 80 feet high, flanked by two 23-foot snow sculptures of athletes.

Thirty snow statues costing $2,000 apiece and standing 14 feet high are planned for the Avenue of Athletes leading to the Olympic Village.

Anyone for Squaw Valley?

TeePee Winger Threat to Junior Leaders

TORONTO (CP)—Rod Gilbert and Jean Ratelle of the Guelph Biltmores, leading contenders for the Stafford Hockey Association Junior A scoring laurels have been handed their biggest challenge since moving into the top spot the second week the season began.

Chico Maki, who has been steadily climbing towards the top point-getters had a field day during the past week, picking up 12 points in four games. As a result the St. Catharines TeePees right winger bounded from fifth to third place in the scoring statistics.

Figures released Monday show Gilbert with 32 goals and 38 assists for 70 points, two more than Ratelle who has 32 and 36.

Maki, in 34 games, has compiled 28 goals and 35 assists for 63 points. He is only five away from Ratelle, the closest anyone has been since Nov. 8.

Marlboros' Jim Pappin occupies fourth place with 59 points, while Ray Cullen, Maki's linemate is fifth with 55. Cullen is the league's top goal scorer with 34.

St. Michael's College Major's netminder, Jerry Cheevers, earned his fourth shutout of the season on Sunday and his 3.06 goals - against average is still good. Marlies' Ken Broderick remains the only goaltender with 3.20.

Plante Well In Front In Race For Vezina Trophy

Rides Fat 15-Goal Cushion As Teams Enter Stretch Run; Has Loop Low of 117 Against

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League turns into the stretch drive with the artistic Jacques Plante riding a fat 15-goal cushion in his bid to grab the Vezina Trophy for a precedent - setting fifth consecutive year.

The seven-season veteran with Montreal Canadiens had only a fair week, yielding 12 goals in four games—a six-goal deluge by Boston's resurgent Bruins included.

But official league statistics released today show the Canadiens have surrendered a league low of 117 goals in 49 games while building up a 9-point lead in the standings.

That gives the 31 - year - old Plante the breathing room in the competition for the trophy awarded annually since 1927 to the goalkeeper who sees most action for the club with the best defensive record.

LEAFS, WINGS NEXT

Johnny Bower's second - place Toronto Maple Leafs and Terry Sawchuk and his third-place Detroit Red Wings follow the Canadiens in defensive achievement.

The Maple Leafs have given up 132 goals and the Red Wings one more but Toronto has played one game fewer than either Detroit or Montreal.

Plante's goals-against average is 2.39 a game, compared with 2.67 for Bower and 2.68 for Sawchuk, who have both sat out a couple of their club's games. Bower and Sawchuk share the lead in shutouts with four.

Last season with a 2.15 average Plante won his fourth Vezina Trophy and tied the record set by Montreal's Bill Durnan between the 1943-44 and 1946-47 seasons.

JEAN TIES BRONCO

On the offensive side Jean Beliveau of the Canadiens collected two goals and three assists during the week to climb into a deadlock with Bronco Horvath of the Bruins for the individual scoring leadership, each with 65 points. Horvath turned in a two-goal, one-assist performance, his goals giving him a league-leading total of 32. Beliveau has 31 goals and 34 assists.

Five points behind is Chicago's young Bobby Hull with a mark that includes 28 goals. The speedy centre added only a single assist in the week's play.

Henri Richard of Montreal and Horvath's linemate Vic Stasiuk harvested three goals and an assist apiece to remain bracketed for fourth spot, with 55 points. Richard has 25 goals, four more than Stasiuk.

MOORE GAINS

Another Montrealer, Dickie Moore, came up with the week's best performance—a six-point run —to jump to the No. 6 position from ninth.

The NHL's scoring champion the previous two seasons, Moore had three goals and three assists to run his production to 19 goals and 34 assists.

New York's Andy Bathgate rounds out the top seven. He picked up two assists and heads the playmaking department with 39.

There were two changes in the standings. A two-victory, one-tie effort gave the Maple Leafs 32 points and pushed them ahead of Detroit. The Bruins won both their starts, dumping Chicago from a fourth-place tie.

Dunlops Meet McFarlands Here Tonight

The Whitby Dunlops meet the McFarlands in Memorial Arena tonight.

The Dunlops perhaps, can do without the two victory points, but the Macs need 'em —but badly.

Not the Dunnies will be without the mighty voice of their maestro, Wren. Blair, and minus four of their top-flight stars.

Blair, with Eicher, Samolenko, Attersley and Sinden, are now on their way westward to be with the Ontario Valley Olympics.

The Macs are not so badly off. All they will lack is the service of Moe Benoit, also with the Olympics Dutchmen.

But the Macs shouldn't sell what's left of the Dunnies short. It was this skimpy lineup that edged the high-flying Windsor Bulldogs 4-3 on Saturday afternoon.

And just for the record, the Macs will be seeking their first victory over the Dunnies on Memorial Arena ice.

Five times the Dunlops have been hosted here. And five times they have returned out winners. In fact, they humiliated our side twice with 2-0 shutouts.

A victory tonight will give the Bellboys 32 points, and cut the 16-point margins of Windsor and Chatham to 14. Or at least one of these clubs, since the teams clash in Windsor this evening.

As was said, the Macs need the points badly. And no doubt they'll be giving it all out to get them. Another performance like that of last Friday would work wonders.

Six Big-Name Rinks Ousted In Colorful Quebec Bonspiel

By LAURENT CHAISSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—At least six big-name rinks were out of the running today for all five major awards in the colorful Quebec 47th international bonspiel.

Upsets were registered at a rapid clip in second-round competition for major trophies in the opening day's play, forcing rinks to drop to lower classifications. One hundred and twenty-eight rinks representing all of Canada's eastern provinces and parts of the United States are competing.

Nels Friday and his Galt rink, which won two of the five trophies in 1958, lost a 10-9 decision to a Quebec Curling Club rink skipped by J. Thomas in second-round competition for the Chateau Laurent International Trophy. The rink now drops into competition for the Holt Renfrew Trophy.

PARKER LOSES

Other former trophy winners met similar fates by narrow margins. Oscar Parker and his Oshawa rink were nosed out 19-8 by a Quebec City rink skipped by A. J. Beaudin.

The Findlay rink had defeated the Sudbury foursome of G. G. Caswell 10-7 in the first round. Parker had defeated a Toronto rink 10-6.

Sudbury's Alvin Dickie won 9-6 in the second round in the Chat-

In the United States for the Squaw Valley Winter Olympics. O'Brien's torch was lit from the one Groenskar brought from Norway by air. Runners in the Coliseum a few minutes later to carry the flame by relay to Squaw Valley. (AP Wirephoto).

Olympic Flame Arrives at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The flame that will burn at the Winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley arrived by polar jet from Norway Monday.

A relay team of 600 school athletes will run the flame to the winter games site near Lake Tahoe about 600 miles north in rugged snow-capped Sierra.

The flame was first lighted about 100 years ago in a cottage in rugged Morgedal, Norway, by Sondre Norheim, father of modern skiing.

Ousted Official Puts Blast On Canadian Trotting Ass'n

MONTREAL (CP) — Lionel Racicot of Montreal said Monday his suspension by the Canadian Trotting Association at its annual meeting in Toronto Thursday appears to have been motivated by a desire for revenge.

Racicot, racing secretary at the Sherbrooke, Que., harness track said in a statement he realizes he has been a thorn in the side of the association, but the type of "kangaroo court" held by the association is not to be in Canada.

Racicot said he was being deprived of the right to make his living in 1960 because he had failed to speak the truth about the trotting association.

The association was made up of 29 directors who administered a sport which handled a 1959 take of $89,831,000 in bets across the country. Of the total take, $82,200,000 of it came from Quebec province tracks. Quebec accounted for 91 per cent of the revenue at tracks, but had only seven members on the nine-member board of directors.

The remainder of the take by tracks—$7,631,000 — was bet at the Old Woodbine track in Toronto. This meant that Ontario, while providing only nine per cent of the revenue, held 76 per cent of the posts on the board of directors.

Furthermore, he said, the association plans to build headquarters in Toronto instead of in Montreal where bulk of track revenues is obtained.

REVERSE LOSS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Senators reversed a 1958 loss and made a profit of $7,099.13 in their baseball operations last year. The net after taxes covered all activities, including those of the parent American League team and its farm system. The club had reported an over-all loss of $90,346 for 1958.

along with second rounds in the Francois Jobin Gold Cup class and the first round for the Holt Renfrew Trophy.

15 TROPHIES IN ALL

The entries were divided into two sections at the beginning of Monday's play. As each rink loses it drops to a lower classification. Each rink will play at least 10 games before the bonspiel ends Saturday. There are 15 trophies at stake.

Six more draws are scheduled today.

Rinks reaching the quarter-finals in either the Chateau, the Omega or Francois Jobin competitions earn the right to compete for the Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy, which is considered the top prize of the bonspiel.

In play for the Francois Jobin Cup Monday winners included L. Eveness, who defeated W. T. Reid 10-3, Cliff McConnell, H. E. Robinson, V. Adams, Caswell and M. Portelance, Noranda. Losers included H. Hunter, Sudbury; G. Snockum, Alliston; A. Lawrason, Woodstock; O. Parker,

Juniors Extend Win Streak to Six, Defeat Kingston 6-4 in Overtime

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Lambert - Rollins stretched their winning streak to six games with a thrilling 6-4 overtime victory over Kingston Johnson Juniors here last night tightening their grip on second place in the OHA East Jun. ior "B" loop.

Belleville now holds a seven-point lead over the second place Kingston crew, which has dropped four games in a row. Last night it till was out of the East junior games here this year with both goalies, Bill Moxon and Wayne Nicholls, turning in starring performances.

The winners fought an uphill battle, trailing 2-1 at the end of the first period after scoring the first goal, and 4-3 after forty minutes of play. Time was running out when the L-R's finally tied it up at 18.34, only goal of the third period, Ronnie Hull's low blast deflecting past Nicholls off Kingston player Walsh's stick.

The line of Denny Hull, Bucky Ethier and Ralph Plane took less than a minute to win the overtime period to score the winning and decisive goal. Hull bagged the winner shooting the disc into the open side of the net on Nicholls' doorstep at 2.40. Fifty-three seconds earlier the same combo play, clicking on a slap shot that the Kingston goalie could not handle.

The victory may have been a costly one for Belleville, as players being knocked out of action with leg injuries. Dennis Kerrulish injured his ankle when checked into the boards midway through the third period while Larry Meavey twisted a knee in the overtime heat. Kerrulish picked up a concussion along with the injury when he rapped referee Cec Williams on the line with his stick to try and get the play stopped as he crawled on the ice.

Plane and D. Hull with a goal and assist and Buck Ethier and four assists topped the winners' scoring. Larry Mann had one and one while Jack Ethier, Ron Hull and Kerrulish also scored. Gary Donaldson and Dennis Forsythe drew assists.

Bob Howland—with two, Bud Beaver—with one, Dennis O'Donnell were the Kingston marksmen. Pete Allard, Gary Howland and Pete Ford had two assists each.

Seventeen penalties were given, although the game was kept well in hand. Kingston received nine minors, Belleville seven minors and Kerrulish's misconduct. Kerrulish's backchecker throughout a defencemen's legs at 2.57 gave the locals a 1-0 lead and but the fine work of Nicholls the game might well have been won in the first ten minutes.

Bud Aylesworth, Kingston centre, streaked up the right boards to tie the score at 10.42 while O'Donnell sank a five-footer at 11.30. Johnston added 3-1 at 16.48. Kerrulish took just 15 seconds of the middle heat to tie the score with a corner drive.

Belleville went in front again at 11.10 when Mann's shot deflected past Nicholls off Napier's leg. Bob Howland then struck for his pair at 13.42 and 15.12 with Bernard Ball and Ford helping on both and Kerrulish serving a slashing penalty when the first was scored. Kingston battled to hold the narrow lead until Hull-Hull's equalizer in the dying seconds. Nicholls made a key save when Ethier was right in front at 19.55 of the third period and Referee Moxon "stoned" the Kingston crew twice with his club when two men short.

Lions Seek More Rights For Players

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions will seek a more rigid definition of territorial rights regarding Canadian players at the annual meeting of the Canadian Football League at Winnipeg Feb. 11-13.

The move follows the loss of two Canadian players to Calgary Stampeders. Lions also will push for an interlocking East -West schedule, changes in import regulations and in the number of Canadians allowed to dress for a game.

Lost to Calgary were Doug Mitchell, a tackle with the University of British Columbia, and Jack Sims of Victoria, all-star centre of the Evergreen Conference in Washington State. Lions thought they had both players under the territorial rights rule but CFL commissioner Sydney Hester ruled otherwise.

ALWAYS IN FAVOR

The interesting schedule has been discussed for years. Lions have always favored such a plan.

The import change sought is that a team play seven games now allowed and permit clubs to carry as many imports as they wished within a total roster limit of 34. Teams would be allowed to dress 12 for all games up to and including the Grey Cup final.

The hope said that with the roster limited to 34, most clubs would dress 20 Canadians. Lions would also like to see 30 or 31 players instead of 28 dress for a game so that more Canadians can get playing time.

Minor Hockey

The Browns broke a deadlock for first place between themselves and the Maple Leafs in squirt action last night by downing the Leafs 9-6. Meanwhile Rangers climbed into a tie with the Leafs for second with a 3-1 win over the Barons.

In other action the Black Hawks registered the second win of the season, 4-3, over the tail-end Bruins, who have now only once, and the Red Wings whipped Canadiens 9-3.

High-scoring Larry Moore ran his goal count for the season to 38 with a four-goal effort to spark the Browns' victory. Paul Goodfellow also starred with three while Andy Glancey and Brian Baker had the others. Don Andrews and Warren Hay were the Maple Leaf scorers.

Peter Bishop, Calvin Wilson and Danny McCoy had one goal each in the Ranger triumph. Tommy Boner replied for the Barons.

John Parsons led the Black Hawk victory march with three goals, Joe Lamadon netting the other. Neal Coyer, Albert Horlock and Rick Day potted the Bruin goals.

SUSPEND HOCKEYIST

DETROIT (AP)—Bryan Derlago, 21, Paul Gerhard, has been suspended indefinitely for felling a referee in an international Hockey League game at Milwaukee last Saturday, Frank Gallagher, IHL president, said Monday.

Gallagher said Derrett also must pay a $25 automatic fine for cross-checking referee Hank Caputo from behind and knocking him to the ice.

Spider Webb Top Contender Middle Crown

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) Spider Webb of Chicago has taken over as the top contender for Gene Fullmer's middleweight crown in the monthly ratings released today by the National Boxing Association.

Webb is the 6-2 Sugar Ray Robinson, who dropped to fifth after his loss to Paul Pender in Boston Garden. Pender is No. 4.

Other changes in the middleweight class saw Detroit's Henry Hank moved to No. 3. He also was named boxer-of-the-month for his impressive victory over light-heavy Jesse Bowdry.

Former middleweight king Carmen Basilio, idle since losing the title to Fullmer last August, dropped to sixth place from No. 5.

Sonny Liston of Philadelphia was named top challenger for heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson's title, replacing Eddie Folley who fell to third after his unimpressive victory over Eddie Machen. England's Henry Cooper replaced Machen as No. 4 contender. Machen went down to fifth.

There were no Canadians among the top challengers in any division.

Seeks All-Time Scoring Record

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's great Oscar Robertson, the three-year major college basketball scoring record finally in the bag, can turn his attention today to the all-time scoring mark for big school players.

Hitting open season on the record book as he reaches the climax of his brilliant career, all-American Robertson had eliminated Maria Bueno of Brazil, the Wimbledon and U.S. titleholder, Miss Lehane, who is 18, had won Great Britain's Christine Truman.

Fraser fell well below his form in 1959, but Lavey measured up to the forecasts of Australian Davis Cup captain Harry Hopman that he would develop into the best amateur player in the world.

Argos Sign Chuck Frank

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football league today announced the signing of Chuck Frank, 240 - pound tackle from Mondovi, Wisconsin.

Frank, 26, played for British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football union in 1957 and 1958 but was dropped last year when he was sidelined by virus pneumonia.

He played three years with Michigan State and served a hitch in the United States Air Force before moving to Lions.

Co-Managers Carmen Basilio Barred for Life in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The troubles of Johnny DeJohn and Joe Netro, co-managers of Carmen Basilio, middleweight champion when they were barred by the National Boxing Association.

DeJohn and Netro, who piloted Basilio to the world middleweight and middleweight championship in the eight years they handled him, were ejected from New York rings for life by the state athletic commission Monday for making payments to an undercover manager.

In Providence, R.I., NBA president Anthony Macerroni said his organization will recognize the New York ban.

"But," he said, "they have the right to present their case before the NBA's grievance committee. The committee will decide whether to continue to uphold the New York action."

California and Massachusetts, neither of which is a member of the NBA, usually respect the decisions of the New York commission.

In other developments:

1. Herm Rodgers, match-maker-promoter from Syracuse, N.Y., who was fined $2,000, also was barred from Tendler's undercover manager, denied that he had "done anything wrong."

2. Basilio refused to turn on his managers but conceded that he would "probably be better off henceforth."

"We were together eight years and I can only say I wouldn't want anyone else to handle my affairs," he said. "I've seen what Joe and Johnny never did a thing to hurt me. They were honest and above board in all their dealings and I have only the highest praise for their abilities."

DeJohn, Netro and Rortheschild admitted they made payments to Gabe Genovese, manager until last June of being undercover manager of Laughing Lightfoot, British Honduras lightweight who was sentenced to prison.

Under New York law it is illegal for unlicensed persons to participate in boxing there. It also is illegal for a licensed promoter to deal with unlicensed persons in making contracts. Violation of the laws that the three were charged with.

Basilio was cleared of any involvement in the matter but the commission declared his contract with DeJohn and Netro null and void and ordered the latter to make any more payments to Genovese.

DeJohn admitted in hearings before the commission that he had paid Genovese a total of $34,000 for "services as a ring adviser and sparring partner" and he paid Genovese about $25,000 for Basilio. Each said he didn't know the other was paying Genovese.

Rothschild admitted paying Genovese $10,000 for "services" in promoting the Basilio - Johnny Saxton welterweight title fight in Syracuse, Sept. 12, 1956.

Bill Wylie Joins Galt

GALT (CP)—Bill Wylie, veteran centre with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, has joined Galt Terriers of the Niagara District Senior B loop for the duration of Dutchies' trip to the Winter Olympics.

Wylie replaces Terriers' forward Bob Dowler who has gone to Chatham Maroons to fill in for defenceman Jackie Douglas who will make the journey to Squaw Valley, Calif., with Dutchmen.

All three will return to their original clubs when Dutchies return at the end of February.

Major Baseball 'Ruins More Than It Makes'

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—Baseball coach Buck Bailey of Washington State University said Monday that major-league baseball "ruins far more young prospects than it ever makes."

He said he was timing his remarks only "at the practice of taking young men out of school, promising them a big fat future in baseball and telling them 'you can always go back to college.'"

Bailey said the National College Baseball Coaches Association has tried unsuccessfully to work out some agreement with major and minor league clubs regarding the signing of young prospects.

Bailey, Washington coach for 20 years, said "statistics show that only one prospect out of 100 tapped by the majors or some minor affiliate ever makes good in the big tent."

Minoso Rejects Chisox Offer

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Minnie Minoso has rejected a 1960 contract offer by Chicago White Sox.

The Cuban flash, obtained in a trade by Indians in a trade involving infielder - outfielder Bubba Phillips and catcher John Romano, said Monday he offered me the same salary I had the last time I played with them."

Pounds or Peanuts, Pool Win Big Thing in Briton's Life

For the British punter—or bettor — winning the soccer pool is equivalent to striking oil or finding the mother lode of a gold mine, Now it has happened to John Farrow, the Associated Press sports editor in Britain. Here is his section.

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP)—The week a life-long dream came true—I won the top prize in the British soccer pools.

I correctly forecast eight tied matches.

The wife immediately started talking about cruises around the world, a mink coat, a new house and a gleaming big car.

Why not?

Only the other week the lucky winner pocketed £300,000 (about $801,000 at current exchange rates) for a twopenny (two cents) bet. Winners of £200,000 ($534,000) and £100,000 ($267,000) seem almost commonplace.

It's the Briton's dream of getting rich quick. I've been dreaming about it ever since I left school 25 years ago. And I've been trying to hit the jackpot all that time.

This time it happened. We've got to wait, however until tonight to find out what the win is worth.

PEANUTS IN POT

But this week, the experts tell me, is one of the few weeks in the year when the jackpot is going to be . . . well, just peanuts (about $27, I'm told).

"You'll pick up a few pounds, but don't start going out on the town," a pools official warned.

"There are thousands of winners this week."

Thousands of other people, out of the 12,000,000 who try their luck every week, are saying just the same thing.

But you've no idea of the thrill behind picking those eight ties for the perfect score of 34 points.

It is the way it works: You pay 6p (about eight tied matches). Each tie wins a maximum three points. You set two for a winner and three home and 1½ for a winner at home.

If only one person hits the perfect 24 points then his pickings are big. But if there are lots of draws then thousands share the pool of prizes.

This was just such a week. It

it was a dream come true, I'll tell about the week I got 24 points for years and years.

Laver Defeats Neale Fraser In Net Title

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Rod Laver, a flashy 22-year-old Queenslander, fought off one match point and went on to retain Davis Cup teammate Neale Fraser's Australian and Australian tennis championship.

The score was 5-7, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5 after a bitter three-hour struggle in sub-tropical heat. Both players were near exhaustion.

Fraser had one match point in the fourth set and Laver had three in the fifth before the latter finally clinched the decision with a sharply-angled forehand drive.

The all - Australian women's title final was the sensational, 17-year-old Margaret Smith, defeated Jan Lehane 7-5, 6-2. Miss Smith previously had eliminated Maria Bueno of Brazil, the Wimbledon and U.S. titleholder. Miss Lehane, who is 18, had won Great Britain's Christine Truman.

Fraser fell well below his form in 1959, but Lavey measured up to the forecasts of Australian Davis Cup captain Harry Hopman that he would develop into the best amateur player in the world.

Becerra, Ortez Favored to Retain Titles

The promotion has rung up an advance sale of $300,000.

Halimi, 29, Becerra, is a 10-to-6 favorite to keep the 118-pound crown he won from Halimi in a slugfest last July. Ortiz, a Puerto Rican, is a 10-to-9 choice to outlast the hard - punching Torres. Both are 15 round matches.

TURLEY SIGNS

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Bob Turley signed his 1960 contract with New York Yankees Monday for a reported $30,000, largest, a righthander, ever paid. He won last year after a 21-7 record in 1958. Last year he dropped to 8-11.

Hockey Hints

by Lloyd Percival

THE IDEAL SKATING LEAN

A good skater gets maximum results from minimum effort. If skating feels like hard work even though you are in good condition some technical fault is probably to blame. A common fault is either too much forward lean of the upper body or not enough.

If the upper body is too far forward the leg action will be cramped and balance will be poor. When the upper body is upright, drive is lost and the player "clomps" down the ice. If the upper body is ahead of the hips, there is a lean or angle somewhere between 15 and 25 degrees and you will get best results.

To avoid unnecessary strain keep the upper body relaxed and don't strain the head forward — let the legs do the work.

Olmedo Should Make Good Pro Says Kramer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tennis promoter Jack Kramer says Alex Olmedo should make a good professional when he overcomes a few weaknesses.

"Olmedo has strength and quickness," Kramer said Monday of the newest member of his pro tennis troupe. He described Olmedo as "a hungry kid. He likes that money. And he doesn't spend it."

He also "has a little too much flick on his backhand and he gets too much depth on his power drives. However, he'll correct this because he has the desire

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Frankie Morris is a member of the corps of athletes whose names usually appear only in fine print.

As a football lineman—the chap who makes the holes for the glamor boys in the backfield—he's in a category with basketball's pluch tuner, the feminine half in a mixed doubles tennis match and the fig -for - danger football player who gets off the bench only for punt-return time. These are some of the anonymous footsloggers of sport.

With nearly 20 years of pro football behind him, Morris has switched to the comparatively mild pastime of curling and was surprised to find himself in the same old rut—as lead in one of the many thousands of once-a-week rinks. He would like to give this fellow some recognition.

The lead, as everyone knows, loises two rocks and then spends his time foaming up and down the ice between the hog lines in what amounts to a spectator role. He frowns, or watches the rocks go by, at his skip's instructions.

Schetty Melville Leader — Paul Melville says that Morris has "put into a relatively primitive sport a new throwing formation which, in his opinion, should revolutionize the once - a - week boys even if it should cause the regulars to wince."

Melville says that Morris believes the curler should throw at one rock in turn rather than two in series against his counterpart on the opposite rink. In this way, the lowly lead will be given a chance to throw himself into being called upon to make some kind of a real shot with his second stone.

Briefly, here is Morris' plan:

Lead A throws a rock, followed by lead B. Second A throws, followed by second B and so on through the vice-skip and skip.

Melville adds:

"Then comes the big moment for the leads. They throw their second rocks at what Morris feels should be interesting situations in the house. The seconds and thirds play with the skips having single rocks instead of two to wind up the end.

"Morris actually under - rates the value of a good lead and second, who are just as important as the third and skip although their roles are less spectacular. But in once-a-week curling for the fun of it there's no doubt his idea will be tried out in many places by the summer's end at the suggestion of those who lead and think they are the forgotten men.

WOMEN ACTIVE

Still on curling, don't be surprised if the expression "curling widowers" becomes just as commonplace as "golf widows."

An estimated 100,000 Canadian women are active participants in the sport, many of them taking their sweeping operations from their home to their great southern playground. First Canada - wide association for women curlings is about to be formed.

Women from every province in the Dominion will meet next week to form the association which will correlate curling throughout Canada. Plans for a national body will be made to hold the first Canadian women's championship in 1961.

Lobsinger Case Dismissed by Supreme Court

TORONTO (CP)—A motion for an order directing officials of Midmay Junior Hockey Club of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior C series to waive the services of three of its players so they could play for Owen Sound Greys of the Junior A series was dismissed with costs by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells in the Ontario Supreme Court Monday.

The motion was brought by Kenneth, David and Douglas Lobsinger who said in an affidavit: "We desire to play for Owen Sound Greys without solicitation from the club."

The affidavit added that they had attended Owen Sound practices in October.

The brothers wanted an order directing Peter Lobsinger, president and manager of the Midmay club, and James Kennedy, secretary and coach, to give a waiver for lease under an Ontario Hockey Association rule, or alternatively, a declaration that the rule was invalid.

The rule stated that a player resident in a community represented by a hockey club must register with that club, except when his service rights are waived.

Douglas Lobsingers said in their affidavit that they had asked the Midmay club for a release but were told that only if they first leased unless Owen Sound paid Midmay $2,000. Later, they said, they were told they could be released if they moved to Owen Sound.

The judge ruled that the claimants could be without remedy due to any action taken by writ of summons.

Forty Golfers Slated For Caribbean Tour

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Nearly 40 golfers from the United States and Canada, headed by Canada's Stan Leonard and Dow Finsterwald of Vancouver, will make the third annual PGA Caribbean tour this winter.

The four - tournament, $27,500 series will officially get with the $10,000 Panama Open Feb. 11-14. Then will come the Curacao, San Leonard scheduled to play this weekend in a tournament at Cali, Columbia.

That one doesn't count in the scoring for the Caribbean circuit and the $3,500 prize money that goes with it. It is tuesday and Wednesday that the pros will get down to serious business.

The tour continues with the $15,000 Maracaibo, Venezuela, Open, Feb. 18-21; the $7,500 Puerto Rico Open, Feb. 25-28, and the $10,000 Jamaica Open, March 3-6.

He's making the tour again along with Bob Toski, the 1958 winner; former U.S. Open champion Ed Furgol and others including Al Balding of Toronto.

TeePees Ask Suspension For Roger Cote

TORONTO (CP)—A telegram demanding the suspension of Roger Cote, defenceman with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, and an investigation into an incident in a hockey game here Sunday in which a referee, Scott St. Catharines TeePees was injured was sent Monday to officials of the OHA by Jay MacDonald, secretary of the St. Catharines club.

TeePees' forward Pete Berge was in hospital here with a severe concussion suffered when charged by Cote who also drew a five-minute penalty for the offence. Berge was carried unconscious from the ice.

MacDonald's telegram, to OHA president Ken M e M i l l a n and Georgetown and secretary Bill Hanley of Toronto, said: "Cote the penalty levied to Cote by the referee was far from adequate for an offence that could have had far more serious consequences."

MacMillan promised an immediate investigation.

"Desiree" will be presented daily at 3.15 and 9.15. "Prince Valiant" begins at 1.30 and 7.30.

One complete show will be presented nightly starting at 7.30. The daily matinee begins at 1.30, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Canadians Lead Aussie Olympic Hockey Team

MELBOURNE (CP)—A pair of Canadian hockey specialists are taking an amateur team to the Winter Olympics this year to show Australians how hockey is played in North America.

Ross Cameron and Kenneth (Bud) McEachern of Charlottetown have no illusions of returning to their adopted country victorious.

But their players are looking to them for inspiration. Carson, as team manager, and McEachern, as coach and player. Fans from down under as their top hockey men.

Carson learned his hockey with the Kenora Thistles and went on to a goaltending career in Australian tour by a Canadian hockey team in 1938.

STAYED TO PLAY

The team, called the Canadian Bears, was put together by promoters. When it broke up Carson and a couple of others decided to stay.

He settled here and continued to play until 1950, when he figured for the coaching and managing end of the game.

McEachern, who reported on the scene a little later. He had played with the Truro, N.S., Bearcats. He coached Norway's entry during the 1952 Winter Olympics.

Earlier, McEachern set a record by scoring seven goals in one game while playing in the English National League.

While in Australia, where hockey talent is at a mediocre level, gained a reputation a: the best player of his own position in the country.

Now the pair is telling the fans that, like Japan's, Australia's team can only hope to pick up a few pointers at Squaw Valley—and not to do much winning.

Russians Want To See Habs Play Leafs

CALGARY (CP) — Moscow Selects hockey team, nearing the end of their Canadian tour, hope to play their first National Hockey League game Thursday.

The Selects are trying to make arrangements for the game Wednesday night after they play in the Stampede Corral tonight and all-stars. They want to arrive in Montreal in time to see the Canadiens play Toronto Maple Leafs.

Wednesday's game is the last of the tour. Original plans called for them to sightsee in Montreal Wednesday and then go for home. They changed plans after seeing Saturday's television broadcast of the Toronto - New York game.

Producers Pouring Talent, Millions Into New Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — While viewers are getting accustomed to slightly revised program lineups following a few mid-season shifts and cancellations, the people who produce television's enormous entertainment output are actively preparing the next September's schedules.

In Hollywood, capital of the filmed shows, producers are pouring talent and millions of dollars into some 20 "pilots"—one or two shows designed to indicate what a series would be like. One show is estimated to cost at least $50,000, and only one out of every 10 makes the home screens.

From a listing of pilot films, it is obvious that the series-makers believe that, criticism to the contrary notwithstanding, continued demands for westerns and more westerns, plenty of crime, and more crime, and more television comedy.

GREAT MOMENTS FIGHT

Some familiar faces which may turn up in new shows are former Dodge Rogers, who starred in a musical comedy series; Gertrude Berg in a situation comedy; Lorne Greene in a series about the supernatural; Lee Ayres in a TV version of movie series; Frank Lovejoy and Barry Sullivan in westerns; Joan Crawford and Bette Davis in their own anthologies; Walter Slezak, William Frawley and Pat Buttram, Roy Rogers' "comical sidekick") in their own comedy series.

Some of these, of course, we'll never see. Some will be sold to a network, others will go into syndication. And still other pilots will be quietly slipped into anybody else's anthology series and then silently fade away.

Wally Cox, who isn't on TV much, will be a welcome sight on CBS' The American Cowboy, a musical comedy special that will be produced by a new NBC directive. NBC's Monitor was recently quizzing the radio audience "directly to Paris" during the weekend. That phraseology will nevertheless, under the new policy when the report is pre-recorded.

The Peters Brothers' records are being flown to New York to model clothes on NBC-TV's Petite Fashion Hour Feb. 29. . . . Richard Boone is star and director of six Have Gun, Will Travel shows, the first of which will be shown next Saturday. . . . Jack Paar will do three non - specials this year, complete with sponsor.

Spartacus Has Taken Year In Production, Not Finished

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There were cheers and tears when Kirk Douglas and Tony Curtis cut a big cake marking the first anniversary of production on Spartacus.

The cheers came from hundreds of movie workers who have been working on the $12 million spectacular since early last year. The tears were shed by Douglas and Curtis by ammonia vials and shed for real photos. Douglas has announced that there might be real tears among universal workers who have slumped together $10,000,000 to keep the movie going and going.

Producer Edward Lewis declared producer Douglas. "Never once when I have needed it, have I had to go back for retakes and spectacle scenes has there been one word of disapproval. Kirk has been more interested in the human story."

Thinks Dutchies Stronger Than Belleville Macs

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaughnessy, CFL general manager of Canada's Winter Olympic team, Monday night rated the international all - star hockey team in the games opening Feb. 18 at Squaw Valley, Calif.

He said in an interview that Canada's first two starts are Bud Paul and Barbara Wagner of Toronto and Otto and Maria Jelinek of Oroville, in the figure skating pairs: Ochawa's Don Jackson in the men's singles; Figure skating: Ottawa's Anne Heggtveit in skiing and the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in Hockey.

Shaughnessy described the reinforced Dutchmen as a stronger hockey club than the Belleville McFarlands team that won the world championship in Prague last year.

Two Leagues Will Honor Grid Contracts

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Commissioners of the American and Canadian football leagues have agreed to honor each other's contracts.

"Contracts will be honored to the limit," commissioners Joe Foss of the AFL and C. Sydney Halter of the CFL said jointly Monday.

The decision, which Foss said had been in effect all season, was made formal at a conference between the two and made public at a luncheon.

Foss said he hoped to meet with new N a t i o n a l Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle "as soon as Pete gets his feet under his desk."

Foss said he doubted there would be any "bid spiralling" now that there were three leagues competing for American players.

Halter said he didn't think the new league would have too much effect on the Canadian league's chances of continuing to get good American players.

Football Teams Ink Players

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins of the National Football League today announced the signing of Richard Lucas but not the Richie Lucas who was their No. 1 draft choice for 1960.

This Lucas is a 26-year-old product of Boston College, who played as an end on Pittsburgh Steelers offensive unit two years ago. He was idle last season with a knee injury.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) —Former University of Utah quarterback Lee Grosscup announced Monday he has signed a two-year contract with New York Giants of the National Football League.

EPHL Scorers Had Field Day

OTTAWA (CP) — Scoring leaders of the Eastern Professional Hockey League had a field day last week. The result: A 22-point splurge by the top five points getters.

Gerry Tessier of Kingston Frontenacs scored four times and assisted on five others but saw Bill Sutton keep the scoring lead drop two points.

Tessier's total statine now has 41 goals and 31 assists for 92 points, 11 ahead of Tom McCarthy of Ottawa - Hull Canadiens. Stan Leonard who counted 11 points on two goals and nine assists last week, Tessier is 22 points up on Billy Carter of Hull - Ottawa Canadiens. Carter, early - season pacesetter who now is in fifth place with 70 points.

Sam Bettio, also of Sudbury, took over third place from playing coach Cal Gardner of Kingston. Bettio picked up 11 points to move to within two points of former with 78 points and Gardner with 76.

Montreal Royals goalers continue to lead the league in the notoriously unpredictable category. the opposition 141 goals in 46 games for a 2.93 average and also leading in shutouts with seven.

Sudbury is the most penalized team with 594 minutes and Dino Mascotto of Three Rivers has been thumbed off for 131 minutes.

Smith Leads American League

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Smith of Springfield Indians has opened a three - point lead over teammate Bill Sweeney and injured Rudy Migay of Rochester in the American Hockey League scoring race.

Official statistics released today give Smith 23 goals and 41 assists for 64 points, a four-point lead over Sweeney, who in turn has had a one-point margin over Migay. Migay missed all three Rochester games last week while Sweeney moved into a second-place tie with 59 points on a goal and two assists.

A six - point spree boosted rookie Stan Balaski of Providence into fourth place with 57 points, one ahead of Jim Stratton, who had 56 when New York Rangers of the National League recalled him from Springfield.

Rochester goaler Ed Chadwick leads in goals-against average with 2.65 for 46 games, while Bobby P e r r e a u l t of Hershey leads in shutouts with four.

MOVIE PIONEER

Mack Sennett, 76 years old in 1956, contributed to the movies such stars as Gloria Swanson, W. C. Fields, Ben Turpin, Charles Chaplin, Fatty Arbuckle and Bing Crosby.

CARROLL RICHTER

Wednesday, February 2, 1960

General Tendencies: This is a day when you can tune in easily with whatever can bring you more happine; and a surcease from worry and confusion, in the early part of th. day. Later, however, be careful you do not become involved in a situation you do not understand. Through using positive action you can make a big mistake. Be gentle, kind, considerate.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Until lunchtime it is possible to be with associates to forest out vital ideas and information. Take your future successful hereby. Later in the day, pay attention to higher-up who cognizant of your true potential.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Advantage in the AM. of helpful advice given you by friends helps so that you can progress more swiftly in your career. During latter part of day, be very diplomatic with an associate who has a chip on his or her shoulder.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or time lost.

In one hemorrhoidal case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous science institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be off to some pleasant site with a blunt associate and listen carefully to advice given you. Put it in operation immediately. Do not feel bogged down later with regular duties that must be performed. Be kind to underlings.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A fine opportunity is yours in a.m. to incorporate some new method in your everyday affairs that will lop off time and work and bring far greater benefits. Be sure you are loyal to one you love, though you may not be in accord with ideas.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Much profit and fun can be had in a.m. with unique partner who has own specialized ways of doing things. Be at some place that has a pleasant atmosphere. Be certain later not to argue over some fundamental matter with him.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Be very progressive in A.M. Invest in mechanical time savers, new clothes, fine treatments to improve health, etc. Later, drive very carefully and be sure you choose your words carefully. Do not offend anyone.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Spend the morning getting your appearance m.re charming and being with friends for relaxation. Then afternoon is time for any important business or financial deals. Be adroit.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Morning is ideal for analyzing your financial condition accurately and investing money wisely so that you get adequate returns. Later, be sure you are not forceful with others, even though your ideas are excellent. Do not waste your time.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The information you want can be gleaned very easily from associates today if you go to them adroitly and put your cards on the table. Then do your shopping. P.M. steer clear of deceiving attitudes, situations.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Silent investigation produces fine results for you today. Have a bit of fun, too, in A.M. However, be on your guard where a most intelligent individual is concerned, or you may get into hot water.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be most friendly with partners in A.M. and come to a better meeting of minds. Work together harmoniously. Understand their side of things. P.M. set in stroll fashion and safeguard your reputation, prestige.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Be out into the world of action early and garner information. Take the steps that will give you a greater abundance in the future. Confer with those who can be instrumental in advancing your career, P.M. take it easy.

If your child is born today—The delightful child born today will definitely be artistically inclined, with an undercurrent of the practical to warrant your giving a thorough combined course to bring out all the great potential in this chart. Thus affairs of large scope can be withheld down to practical levels and the success here should be very great. Apprentice your progeny to a master early.

MARMORA

Marmora Bows To Campbellford By 8-2 Score

MARMORA (Special) — Campbellford scored five unanswered goals in the third period to break up a close game on their way to an 8-2 win over Marmora Millionaires before a packed crowd in the Intermediate "C" play here last night. Campbellford took a 2-0 lead in the first period, but Marmora roared back to tie the game on goals by Smith and Jones at 15.18 and 15.42 of the middle heat. Lewis potted the winning goal for Campbellford before the period ended then the visitors stepped it up with the five third-period markers.

Watson sparked the winners' attack with three goals while Lewis claimed two and one assist. Pace had a goal and two helpers. Herrington one and one and Hunter a goal. Taylor had two assists, Seymour two, Field, Collings and Drake one apiece.

Jones with one and one, Smith with a hat trick, Parsons with two assists and Drummond with one, accounted for the Marmora scoring.

Each club drew nine minor penalties.

FAITH OF

ernment is spending money on two bases before it knows whether Bomarc will work properly.

Mr. Pearkes replied that completion of the bases would coincide with the start of delivery of the missiles to Canada in the summer of 1961.

In reply to Opposition Leader Pearson, the minister said the U.S. has included $40,000 in its 1960 defence budget for the Bomarc-B, which will bring U.S. spending on the Bomarc program to some $2,500,000,000.

Canada has earmarked $30,000,000 for the construction of the two sites near North Bay, Ont., and Mont Laurier, Que. Total cost of the program—including the electronic control system for the Bomarc—has been estimated at $75,000,000 of which the U.S. is to pay two-thirds. Work has begun at the North Bay site.

CAUSE FOR WORRY

Later, in the throne speech debate, Mervyn Dutch (L—Macdonald-Cartier) said failure of the Bomarc-B is the only real cause for concern for the public to worry about the government's decision to adopt it.

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker developed queries about what control the Canadian government would retain over nuclear warheads for these anti-aircraft missiles when they are set up in Canada here. There apparently was because the American government would retain control.

Mr. Hazlie suggested Canada would be better off leasing bases to the U.S. "constructed and maintained at no American responsibility" as was done with the DEW radar line. This would be a better guarantee of Canadian sovereignty.

Car Industry Spokesmen Predicts Coming Year Will Be Biggest in History

By ROBERT PHILLIPS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Automobile industry spokesmen predict 1960 will be their biggest year ever in Canada and forecast car sales at a record 500,000 new cars.

While final 1959 sales figures are not yet available, the bureau of statistics reported 307,000 new car sales to the end of November. The industry says the total will top the half million mark — between 422,000 and 425,000 when the 12 - month count is completed. The previous high year was 1956 when the 12-month figure reached 408,000.

But while all spokesmen are confident about their generally good prospects for 1960, none can really answer the vital questions about their individual success:

Which will get the biggest chunk of the increased sales, North American or overseas producers?

Will the new "compact" North American models stem the flood of import makes which last year claimed 25 per cent of the total market?

Which will win the import race, Britain's Vauxhall or Germany's Volkswagen?

Will France's Renault or Simca outstrip them both?

Some answers to these questions became apparent from a Canadian Press cross - Canada survey of the industry. But no spokesman was quite sure what will happen.

GM IN LEAD

In the year of a major U.S. steel strike which affected supplies to many, Canadian auto producers turned out 300,840 passenger cars in 1959 compared with 296,824 the year before. In the lead among the Big Three was General Motors with 150,189 followed by Ford with 99,222 and Chrysler with 42,618. Spokesmen for all three predict a better 1960 and Ford President Rhys M. Sale said "total sales for our entire industry should run between five and seven per cent above 1959."

American Motors said it turned out 10,000 Ramblers in 1959 and claimed a 75 - per - cent increase over 1958 and a similar prospect for 1960. On Jan. 19, its president, Roy D. Chapin, Jr., said the "continuing sharp rise in Rambler volume in Canada" made it possible to announce the resuming of a Canadian production, shut down in 1957. It had been importing models from U.S. plants.

Studebaker - Packard reported a booming year in 1959 with 8,320 cars compared with 4,314 the year before and its president, D.E. Grundy, predicted "we will see at least a one - third increase in business in 1960." He stood alone among the forecasters in saying anything but sunshine ahead when he suggested "there may be some levelling off towards the end of the year."

Chrysler President R.W. Todgham said he sees "extremely favorable economic conditions" in 1960 and GM president H.H. Walker said "there's nothing in our thinking to make us believe there will be levelling off towards the end of the year."

IMPORT SALES UP

In 1959 British and European cars took the biggest bite from the increased market, claiming 26 per cent of total new car sales in the January - November period compared with 20.3 per cent in 1958. Import dealers increased their sales during that period by 32,170 to 102,261 while North American producers sold 294,983 new cars, up 18,135 from a year earlier.

Imported cars, generally smaller than North American models, are selling well all across the country, except on the Prairies where extreme winter weather conditions make some of them less efficient. Dealerships and service organizations are expanding across the country.

The first European car sale recorded in Canada was in 1903 when the Rootes Group of Britain sold a Commer truck to the Edmonton city council. Now there are 51 companies selling some 60 makes, Volkswagen, the biggest seller from continental Europe, reports 230 dealers with all 10 provinces represented. Renault, one of the newest organizations, says it now sells in all provinces through 202 dealers.

All British and European companies are just as confident as North American producers that 1960 will be a abreast of the general increase predicted for the entire motor car industry this year. None feels that the new car is American "compact" models will greatly affect this market, mainly because their price is more competitive with the European makes.

BIG THREE UNCERTAIN

Spokesmen for North America's Big Three are themselves not quite sure yet what influence their smaller models will have on the total market.

Speaking for Ford, whose Falcon and Frontenac hit the Canadian market late in 1959, Mr. Sale said in mid - January: "It looks good but it is a little too soon to make a statement on how sales of these cars will go. In another 60 or 90 days we should have the answer."

T.C. Orr, manager of the British Columbia Motor Dealers Association, said west coast dealers still aren't sure whether the North American compact car will be bought as a second car or replacement. "There has been no indication how they will sell and the dealers are more or less holding their breath."

But in Winnipeg, car salesman Sam Stern, president of the Motor Dealers Association, Manitoba, said: "The compact car will take over a lot of the sales of small foreign car market."

Some foreign makers see in the new compact models a boon rather than a blight to their own sales, although for both the Italian Fiat and Volkswagen, both rear - engine drive cars, say advertising for GM's Corvair may help sales. The Corvair is the only one of the four new North American makes to feature rear - engine drive. Chrysler's compact car, the Valiant, is a conventional model in front like the Ford models.

VAUXHALL AHEAD

Among importers, the big race is between Vauxhall and Volkswagen with the British car taking an apparent lead last year, with an estimated 27,000 sales compared to the German maker's 26,700.

Volkswagen entered the Canadian market in 1952 when it sold a mere 200 cars. But since, its total has climbed by leaps: 1953 . it . was 1,744, by 1956 it was 19,450, in 1957 was 21,580 and 1958 reached 24,894.

Vauxhall got a later start and in 1955 sold 1,523 compared with Volkswagen's 5,834 that year. In 1957 when Vauxhall's sales reached 3,600, its parent General Motors decided to get into the Canadian small - car market with both feet and set up an extensive dealer organization with the result that its sales the following year soared to 12,800, half of the Volkswagen total. Last year they pulled ahead in total sales.

IMPORT SALES INCREASE — British and European passenger cars are taking a larger share of new car sales in Canada. Graph shows recorded sales of North American, and British and European vehicles for the last 15 years. Sales for 1959 are estimated but the total according to industry spokesmen, is expected to hit a record 422,000.

Imported cars, however, will account for 26 per cent of the total or about 105,000 units compared with 317,000 North American car sales. The first sizeable sales of British and European cars after the war came in 1948 when 14,260 vehicles were sold.

Graph is based on Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures collected by the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce. shows present record sales for sales was 1956 when 408,233 new cars were sold. (CP Newsmap)

Despite the pressure from Vauxhall, Volkswagen officials remain confident their 1960 sales will keep pace with the booming general rise. They say Vauxhall's apparent leadership is misleading in part because some Vauxhall cars have six cylinders while all Volkswagens are four - cylinder models.

Commenting generally on the influx of European makes, F.G. Stahl, Volkswagen's assistant general manager, said there are always people who like a different car but "some makes just don't survive in the long run." He said they must get volume sales to be efficient service and parts organizations profitable and "they just can't stay if they don't get volume."

FRENCH INVASION

While these two battle it out, two French makes appear to be coming up fast. Chrysler Corp. Canadian distribution of Simca in 1959 and although the figures are yet available on its first - year of operation sales are understood to be in excess of 4,000.

The second European threat comes from Renault which sold its first cars here in 1956, formed a Canadian company in 1958 and reported distribution of 6,838 new cars in 1959. In July, 1959, about 35 Canadian dealers; now it has more than 200 in all provinces and with announced price reductions forecasts an increased distribution this year reaching the 11,000 mark.

The influx of European-made cars in the last few years has been astounding. Motor newspapers now carry advertisements for cars with such formerly unfamiliar names as Borgward, Isetta, NSU Prinz, Peugeot, Porsche, Skoda, Taunus and Zodiac. These cars do not claim a major part of the Canadian market.

But there are others, many of them veteran companies to the Canadian market, whose sales are appreciable and whose prospects for 1960 are more imposing.

In numbers of cars sold, the British Motor Corporation is largest with a reported 15,452 new

Professor Says CP Story Drew Wrong Meaning

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Richard A. Preston, professor of history at Royal Military College at Kingston, says The Canadian Press in a story Wednesday, Jan. 27, drew erroneous conclusions from an article he wrote for the RCAF Staff College Journal.

The CP story said Dr. Preston in the article ticked off Canadian defence department officers and officials who oppose public discussion of defence policy.

The story went on that although Dr. Preston did not name the officers or officials to whom he referred, it was known that members of the chiefs of staff committee have declined for more than a year to talk with reporters or give public speeches.

MADE NO REFERENCE

Dr. Preston, commenting on the story, says:

"My article made no reference to the alleged action of these officials, either directly or by implication. In fact, on the question of policy statements by civil servants, it said 'the official of the department of national defence and the officers of the armed forces are responsible to the minister of national defence and may not express opinions or reveal information without his authority.'

"In another context it said: 'The people who have the knowledge are almost all in official positions in which, under our system of government, their tongues are tied . . . this is, of course, in keeping with the perfectly sound Canadian parliamentary principle that only the responsible minister makes public statements.' "

Dr. Preston also says the Journal containing his article was published two months ago and the article written nearly a year ago "and therefore can have no connection with any current government policy or practice concerning public statements on defence matters."

NO CRITICISM

"My article called for fullest possible scholarly discussion of defence problems outside official circles based on such information as is available. It in no way criticized officials who, for very good reasons, are precluded from taking part, or decline to take part, in public discussion."

The CP story's suggestion that Dr. Preston ticked off defence officials was based, in part, on the following from his article:

"Many officers and officials are inclined to assert that national defence questions are now so complex and technical that they can no longer be discussed by the unspecialized when the latter do not have access to information which is the secret debates of responsible officers.

"Clearly a bureaucracy which acted on thir principle would abandon the vital principle of democracy, the education of the citizens at large. An absolute ban, therefore, on discussion is, therefore, unthinkable. In fact, in order to organize adequately for modern policy, it is imperative that the public should be better informed as fully as security permits."

Industry Wins Court Reprieve

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $80,000,000 a - year U.S. lipstick industry won a reprieve Saturday from a government order forbidding its further use of some of its "most vital colors."

The order, which the industry has construed as a virtual kiss of death, had been scheduled to go into effect today.

It was suspended pending the outcome of a public hearing Feb. 17 to determine whether government tests were sufficiently complete to justify the conclusion that the red, orange and yellow coloring materials are unsafe.

DANCE HALL BURNS

HAMILTON (CP)—Four hours after 200 people left on Saturday night dance in the building, fire destroyed the top two floors of the Hindoo Knox Grotte night club in downtown Hamilton. Spokesmen for the night club were unable to estimate damage on furnishings and equipment which included instruments for several marching bands. Firemen rescued nearly $12,000 worth of tubas.

Canadians now own well over
5 BILLION DOLLARS OF LIFE INSURANCE
with the London Life
1959 showed gain in life insurance in force of $568 million
—by far the greatest increase in the Company's history

The value which Canadian family men place on life insurance is vividly reflected in the London Life's record for 1959. During the year, the amount of insurance on the lives of London Life policyholders increased by more than 12 per cent, and today more than 1¼ million people are insured with the Company for a total well in excess of $5 billion. This amount is all the more noteworthy in view of the fact that the London Life's sales activities are conducted only in Canada.

The life insurance purchased from the London Life during the year set a new Company record. The total of new business was $769 million, which is nearly $140 million more than for 1958. Group life insurance showed a particularly large increase.

Other Highlights from the 85th Annual Report

Payments to policyholders, beneficiaries, and annuitants, together with amounts set aside to provide for future policy payments, totalled $95 million—an increase of $6 million.

In the investment of policyholders' funds to meet future needs, the major portion was placed in mortgage loans, principally effected to provide new dwellings for families across Canada. A total of $65 million was invested in this way in 1959. The London Life now has mortgage loans on more than 50,000 properties, representing over 64 per cent of the Company's car sales in 1959. Their makes include Austin, Jaguar, Morris and Triumph. Rootes British Motors Limited sales in 1959 figure was lower than anticipated because strikes in Britain held up some deliveries but they forecast sales of between 25,000 and 30,000 in 1960.

British Ford sold more than 10,000 cars in 1959 from a selection of names including Anglia, Prefect, Consul, Zephyr and Zodiac and they predict increased sales this year.

Austin's group handled more than 5,000 from among Humber, Hillman, Sunbeam and Singer and forecasts sales of 7,300 in 1960.

Israel Prepared To Talk To Syria On Border Zone

Cease-Fire Observed In Uneasy Atmosphere

JERUSALEM (CP)—Israel is prepared to talk to Syria separately at United Nations headquarters in New York—about reducing tension on their border, Israeli foreign ministry sources reported today.

A proposal to hold direct Israeli-Syrian talks on ways of reducing frontier tension was reported made by Swedish Gen. Carl von Horn, chief of the UN truce supervision organization here.

However, Israeli officials said the basic problems of the frontier's demilitarized zone, scene of Syrian-Israeli clashes since the weekend, could not fall within the scope of the proposed discussions.

The Israelis explained that their country does not recognize any rights in the zones of Syria, and regards the zones as an integral part of Israel's sovereign territory.

NEW YORK

Observers here said it was likely that the proposed talks in the presence of UN representatives would be brought up in Near East discussions here between Arab Republic diplomats and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. A date has been reported set close touch with von Horn.

Israel today officially lowered the three speech debate, ended Tuesday with the Commons voting 178 to 44 to adopt the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The Liberals forced the vote on the ground that the government had shown disrespect to the governor-general by not including in the speech, read by Maj.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier at the opening of parliament Jan. 14, Prime Minister Diefenbaker's later announcements concerning establishment of a Commons defence committee to recommend means of streamlining the government service.

Today the Commons considers government legislation dealing with the railway grade crossing fund, appointment of two associate deputy ministers of justice and an increase in the total amount that may be loaned out of the National Housing Act.

Hugh H. Harper (PC—Jasper-Edson) said egg dealers are doing their best to stir up farmers.

Would Share Atomic Secrets Ike Indicates

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower indicated today he would like to see the United States share more of its military atomic secrets with Canada and other allies.

His statement at a press conference came amid reports that a U.S. administration may propose changes in the American law allowing such Allies as Canada, Britain and France a greater degree of custody and control of U.S. atomic weapons stockpile in these countries.

Eisenhower said he believed it would better the interests of the United States to share more existing law "more liberal" as long as the U.S. can be sure that the Allies acquiring this more generous treatment will stand with the U.S. in times of trouble.

De Gaulle Gets Power to Rule by Decree For Year so as to Solve Algerian Problem

PARIS (Reuters)—The National Assembly, in a brief, overwhelming vote, has given President de Gaulle more absolute power than any other leader of a democratic government in modern European history.

France's legislature by a vote of 449 to 79 Tuesday night approved a bill handing de Gaulle's government authority to rule for a year by near-dictatorial decree.

The bill went to the Senate today, where its approval was considered a certainty.

But the assembly tacked a precautionary amendment on the bill under which the special powers will be invalidated and require renewal if the government is changed or the assembly dissolved.

The voting took only about five minutes as the legislators acted swiftly in the aftermath of the Algerian settlers revolt which collapsed only two days ago.

REDS AGAINST IT

All parties supported the bill with the exception of the Communists, extreme right-wingers and most of the deputies representing Algerian constituencies.

The relative calmness of the debate was taken as an indication of mass public support for de Gaulle's handling of the settler insurrection and his self-determination policy for Algeria.

Premier Michel Debre told the assembly that the one-year powers would be used only to enact "essential and urgent measures." Debre said the legislation they would still be responsible for social and economic policy, the budget and questions affecting the French Community.

There was no question of "interfering with essential liberties." But de Gaulle frankly told the non-Communist party leaders before the debate that he thought his self-determination policy would probably result in the creation of a federal state of Algeria, closely linked to France but with considerable autonomy.

The fact that he went out of his way to make the prediction at this crucial stage was interpreted as a sign that he is determined to push ahead with a realistic handling of the Algerian situation.

Under the bill approved by the assembly the government can for the next 12 months take any steps which seem suitable for eradicating semi-fascist organizations in France and Algeria and eliminating ruthlessly officials in the Algerian administration who show signs of sabotaging the practical application of the self-determination policy.

U. of T. Rules Fraternities Have No Official Position

TORONTO (CP) — Fraternities have no official position in the University of Toronto, the chief disciplinary officer of the university announced Tuesday night.

Spokesmen among the 38 fraternities and sororities on the campus indicated they're just as happy to exist on an independent basis.

A statement defining the role of the fraternities was issued by the university caput, headed by U. of T. President Claude Bissell and including the heads of federated colleges and universities. Dr. Bissell commented that the caput has no intention of "dictating to the fraternities or trying to control them".

"But we do have control over every undergraduate and we now are in a position to say, if he wishes, that he is quite free to belong to a fraternity but, if he does belong, he can't stay in the university".

Fraternity heads were unconcerned.

"We are not a student organization and the university cannot shape our policy", said Hugh Tau Sheta.

Sol Kelner, president of Beta Sigma, Rho, thought the university has gone as far as it could to discredit fraternities without banning them.

The caput statement also announced cancellation of certain privileges held by the 30 men's and eight women's fraternities. It made no mention of an incident last fall when a Negro co-ed was refused membership in a women's fraternity.

Fraternities have been part of University of Toronto life since the late 19th century and their membership is estimated at 10 per cent of the university's current enrolment of 14,882.

Bomarc Missile System Said Too Late to Be Effective

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Army chief of staff from 1955 to 1959, says the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile is too late to be an effective system.

Gen. Taylor writes in his book The Uncertain Trumpet:

"Too much money is being spent on the manned interceptor and on the Bomarc missile system. The former is obsolescent, the latter is too late in relation to the waning bomber threat and too doubtful as to technical and fiscal feasibility."

Canada has agreed to put $1,685,000,000 into the joint installing two Bomarc bases in this country, together with the required electronic system to control the weapon's operations.

Gen. Taylor's book could be preparatory reading for members of the Commons defence committee which will look into Canada's defence expenditures.

Gen. Taylor's main fear is that the U.S. has got itself into the position where it can fight only an all-out nuclear war in which it and its enemies would be obliterated or retreat to eventual surrender.

He describes the policy of "massive retaliation" as "the great fallacy" and calls for a new policy of "flexible response" by which the U.S. would be able to wage conventional or limited war as well as all-out nuclear war.

Gen. Taylor's book has been received approvingly by senior Canadian Army officers who have long contended privately that the government has tended to ignore the needs of ground forces.

Railway Unions Ask Conciliation Board Be Named

MONTREAL (CP) — The joint negotiating committee of the nonoperating railway unions today asked federal Labor Minister Starr to appoint a conciliation board to deal with their wage dispute with the rail companies.

The request follows the collapse a couple of weeks ago of direct wage negotiations between the union group, representing 120,000 workers who do not actually run the trains, and the railways.

At Ottawa, Labor Minister Starr said he had not yet received the letter but that it would receive prompt action as soon as it reached them.

LIBERAL LEADER OPENS DEBATE FOR OPPOSITION

Wants Provincial Aid For Mines, Students

TORONTO (CP)— Ontario should take the initiative and press for a meeting between provincial and federal authorities to have the British North America Act amended, Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said Tuesday in the legislature.

Amendments would permit an overhaul of taxation procedures as the federal, provincial and municipal levels. Mr. Wintermeyer said this is the only way municipal and provincial financial problems can be solved.

He said the present federal government's formula to raise the province's share of direct taxation to 15 per cent of corporation taxes, 15 per cent of income taxes and 10 per cent of succession duties would only raise an additional $50,000,000 or somewhat more. But Ontario was going into debt at the rate of $200,000,000 a year.

Opening the opposition's debate of the speech from the throne, Mr. Wintermeyer called for the establishment of a department of northern development to open up the resources of the North and a crash program to attack the hard-pressed mining industry.

He said a group of scientists in the province's mining extraction industry should press for its practical development in order to help the province's surplus uranium.

Ontario produces about 20,000 pounds of uranium each year and consumers about 500 pounds, Elliot Lake and Bancroft, two of the largest uranium producing areas, are hard-pressed because of a drop in uranium consumption.

Mr. Wintermeyer called for the government to initiate an extensive labor-management relations program, much along the same lines as Ontario's current conference on nuclear energy, and urged increased aid to university students.

He said the average university student is forced to pay about $400 a year towards the cost of his education, while the federal government contributing another $400 for each student as a present. Ontario should undertake to

Auto Workers Call Strike; 10,000 Idle

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — The United Auto Workers called a strike early today against a 600 employees idle in the Chevrolet division of General Motors.

The UAW called the walkout after negotiations collapsed shortly a 12 midnight in a speedup dispute in a Chevrolet plant here.

The union voted to strike last Jan. 18, 15 days after notice was filed last Thursday.

The plant, one of six in the Chevrolet division, produces transfatures six-cylinder engines as well as other production parts.

Macmillan Says He Cannot Support 'Some' of South Africa's Policies

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — British Prime Minister Macmillan told the South African Parliament today that his government cannot support "some aspects" of South African policy.

Macmillan did not refer directly to Commonwealth criticism of South Africa's race segregation policy—but his statement came after he had mentioned Britain's opposition to racial discrimination in sport and was an obvious reference to it.

In a fellow member of the Commonwealth," the British leader told a joint session of South Africa's two houses of Parliament, "it is our earnest desire to give South Africa our support and encouragement."

"But I hope you will not mind my saying frankly that there are some aspects of your policies which make it impossible for us to do this without being false to our own deep convictions about the political destinies of free men, to which in our own territories we are trying to give effect."

Macmillan has been under heavy pressure from Liberal and Labor critics at home to adopt an outright condemnation of apartheid during his visit to South Africa, last stop on his 17,000-mile African tour.

He told Britain's non-racialist policy and said it is possible that "we shall sometimes make difficulties for you."

"If this proves to be so, we shall be sorry.

"But I know that, even so, you would not ask us to flinch from doing our duty. You, too, will do your duty as you see it."

"The wind of change" was blowing through the African continent.

"Whether we like it or not, this birth of national consciousness is a political fact. We must all ac-

Decides Against Accepting City Aid If Offered

City Council to Seek Alternative Service

Belleville's already confused public transportation problem took another turn on Tuesday which could conceivably leave the city without buses after March 31st.

This is the date on which Fred Rawson will yesterday he would terminate the city bus service which he has operated continuously for the past 32 years..

The announcement was made late yesterday afternoon by Mayor A. M. Haig at a special council meeting of council held in the Mayor's office at city hall.

Mayor Haig outlined city solicitor E. Guss Porter as stating he had been informed by Mr. Rawson's solicitor that Mr. Rawson had decided to "get out of the bus business" and would decline to accept any subsidy from the city to keep the city buses operating.

The indication was that the city would have to operate its own arrangements by March 31st if public transportation was wanted after that date.

NAME COMMITTEE

Accordingly a new city council transportation committee headed by Ben Corke was authorized to go into an aspect of public transportation service.

The feeling of council generally was that some kind of a public transportation system was a definite "must" as without it, merchants in the downtown area would suffer.

It was pointed out that the commercial assessment in the city considerably outweighed the industrial assessment and any diminishment of downtown commercial assessment could be disastrous.

Absence of a public transportation system would encourage the growth of shopping centres in the outlying district at the expense of the downtown area, it was felt.

Purchase by the city of equipment of the Rawson Bus Company should the city decide to go into the transportation business was suggested by one alderman. Thinking along this line, however, was felt to be premature.

First to be decided was whether the people of Belleville wanted public ownership of a bus system.

STUDY ALL ASPECTS

Alderman Corke's committee, formed a year ago, was given power to explore all aspects of public transportation facilities and explore ways and means of conducting a bus service in Belleville.

Since late last year negotiations have been carried on between the city and the Rawson Bus Company with the view of reaching an agreement for the renewal of the bus contract, which was extended to March 31 expiry date of December 31st, 1959.

Refugee Group Reflects Plight Of Homeless

OTTAWA (CP) — The years of suffering and the hopeless future faced by Europe's refugees are sharply reflected in the composition of the last group of tubercular refugees being flown to Canada from Germany, Austria and Italy.

A Canadian Pacific Airlines plane carrying the 17 TB refugees and their families is scheduled to arrive at Toronto's Malton Airport Thursday, completing air movement of 100 TB refugees and their families under federal government sponsorship.

The 66 refugees on the flight include 34 adults and 32 children. Of the 34 adults, 21 were rounded up by the Nazis during the Second World War and placed in forced labor or concentration camps.

The federal government pays transportation and care in Canada, provincial authorities hospitalization of TB patients.

Voters Oust Red Regime

For years after Kerala became the only significantly sizeable area to give the Communists power in a free election, an anti-Communist alliance has decisively defeating them.

As a result of Monday's election, a new government will be formed by those who led the legislative fight against it and resulted in the ouster of the Red regime.

The election was for 126 seats to replace the legislative assembly dissolved by India's Congress party government on Dec. 31 pursuant to charges they were not able to keep order in face of widespread opposition.

Unofficial results available today showed the alliance had won 80 seats compared to 26 for the Communists and their allies.

Ladies' Day Out Program Split Into Two Groups

The Ladies' Day Out Program at the local YMCA has proven very popular with housewives and mothers in this community and yesterday there were 30 women and 25 children in attendance. This large number has snowed under the local "Y's" facilities and starting on February 11 there will be two days a week for this activity.

Tuesdays and Thursdays are now scheduled for the Ladies' Day Out program with a maximum of twenty women for each day. Openings are now available for more local housewives or mothers to attend the Thursday meeting and interested persons should contact the YMCA.

Yesterday's program saw the ladies with the children being taken care of by the Y's John Ambulance Corps, personnel and the swimming being held for the mothers and their children. After lunch, Dr. Harry Emerson gave an address on "Pets in the Home" and a talk on rabies, Mrs. Ethel Knight followed Dr. Burns' period with a lecture-demonstration on the decorative icing of cakes and the making of fancy Easter eggs.

Mrs. D. Curzon Named Controller At Hospital

Mrs Dorothy Curzon has been appointed Controller at the Belleville General Hospital, Miss Ida Lawrence, superintendent of the hospital and one for which Mrs. Curzon's broad education eminently fits her.

Mrs. Curzon was born and educated in Toronto. She obtained her Bachelor of Commerce degree at the University of Toronto shortly before her marriage and when the youngest of her three children reached nursery-school age she decided to become a Chartered Accountant.

By this time she and her husband, Mr. D. M. Curzon, a structural engineer had moved with their family from Toronto to Belleville. During her training here as an student-in-accounts, Mrs. Curzon was employed by four years by Geo. A. Gaetz and Company. She successfully completed the Chartered Accountancy course in 1958.

In spite of their busy lives, Mr. and Mrs. Curzon manage to find time to enjoy tennis, skiing and skating with their three active children and are finding Belleville a delightful place in which to live.

Russian Envoy Speaks to Junior Farmers

On Saturday Quinte District Junior Farmers chartered a bus to attend the annual Eastern Ontario Junior Farmer Conference at Kemptville Agricultural School. It was a very successful and educational trip with approximately 225 Juniors from Eastern Ontario present.

Several reports were given by individual Junior Farmer members from various counties on successful projects. Paul McKeown of the Bayside Club in Hastings County spoke on "Inter-County Junior Farmer Exchange Visits."

Miss Eleanor Saracuse, advisor, rural progresses. Ontario Junior Farmer Association, led discussion on "Getting and Keeping Members."

An evening banquet, sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was held in a Kemptville church hall. The guest speaker for this occasion was Dr. Amasasp Aroutunian, Russian Ambassador to Canada. His subject was "Education in the U.S.S.R."

This trip was organized by the Hastings County Junior Farmers and arranged by Clinton Newkirk, assistant Agricultural Representative at Stirling.

Are atomic bomb blasts affecting our weather?

No, says Clifford Steed, staff meteorologist in Meteorological Section of the RCAF Station, Trenton.

In a question-and-answer period following his address to the Belleville Kiwanis Club Tuesday, Mr. Steed said he does not believe bomb blasts affect the weather because the amount of energy generated by one atomic bomb is quite small when compared to the energy produced by one thunderstorm.

"Even the largest atomic bomb blasts to make up the energy of one well-developed thunderstorm," he said.

Guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of the club, Mr. Steed gave members a "short course in basic weather forecasting"

At the start of his address he stated: "Someone once said that everyone talks about the weather, but no one does anything about it. Well, we can't control the weather, but we can try to understand it . . . by learning to interpret weather charts."

With that he took the former RCAF pilot who holds an M.A. degree in meteorology, launched on an interesting and informative "lecture" on the "interpretation of Weather Charts."

Two charts, a surface weather chart like the kind found in newspapers, and a plotting model used by meteorologists, were used to illustrate his talk.

He explained on a surface weather chart the isobars show the strength and direction of the wind, that light and low pressure areas show where good and bad weather will be found, and the dividing lines between which is where the cold, warm or stationary air masses and fronts symbols on the chart indicate the kind of weather forecasted for the various regions, he said.

The plotting model is used to check sky visibility, wind direction and pressure, temperature, and other important data. Symbols are used to denote various kinds of weather.

The speaker, an aeronautical engineering graduate of the U. of T., explained that a high pressure region, like an inverted bowl, won't hold water long and hence usually has good weather, while a low pressure region, like a cup right side up, will hold cloud and water vapor and therefore usually bad weather.

During the question-and-answer period such questions as whether "seeding" is effective in producing rain, were answered by the speaker.

Mr. Steed said that a "very effective but not infallible."

Some people also explained the conditions necessary to produce thunderstorms and tornadoes and why they are more prevalent in some areas than in others.

Regarding the accuracy of 30-day weather forecasters some times err, Mr. Steed explained whatever forecasted is not an exact science and that there are many unpredictable variables of which we do not have information.

The speaker was introduced by Doug Stork and thanked by Roy Dulmage. He was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by vice-president R. Brain, who was chairman for the meeting.

It was announced next week's meeting will feature a Valentine's party to which members' wives have been invited.

derman Robert Temple had been carried out on the basis of subordination which Mr. Rawson maintained was necessary if the service was to continue.

Since January the buses have been operating on a temporary basis and were being continued temporarily pending the City's study to pay any deficit of up to $1,000.

CONTRACT YEAR TO RUN

On Monday, however, it was brought to the attention of city council by former City Solicitor R. A. Pringle that the current bus contract with Mr. Rawson still had another year to run and a short action by threatened holding councillors individually responsible should any money be paid illegally to the bus company.

Yesterday Mayor Haig was informed through City Solicitor Porter that Mr. Rawson would accept the subsidy payment from the city and that bus service in the city would be terminated on March 31st.

'Go-Kart' Club Organized Here

The Belleville District Go-Kart Club was officially formed when approximately 75 enthusiastic sportsmen of this area met at the old Front Street Arena Monday night.

An executive was elected at the meeting. Jim Meers was named club director, Donna Rowe secretary, Wally Istead publicity chairman and Hugh Barclay safety and technical committee chairman.

It was announced that a Go-Kart has been put on display in the Front Street Window of Walker Hardware. Anyone wishing to know anything about the fast-growing sport is invited to have a look at this car and to contact any member of the executive.

The next club meeting has been scheduled for Sunday, February 14 and it is hoped that a large number will attend. Present club plans include the building of a track and it is expected that the club will have a large and active membership within a few months.

Meers stressed the point yesterday that karting is a sport for all age groups and that quite often a whole family joins in the building and racing of these little cars.

The sport is a fairly new one to Canada having made its debut in this immediate district at several local fairs last fall, but has proven very popular in the United States for the past four or five years.

Father Guilty Of Assault Against Son

Just how far a father may go in reprimanding a teen-aged son was up for decision this morning in Magistrate's court Friday morning.

A local father was found guilty by Magistrate F. V. Wills of assaulting his son and was given suspended sentence and ordered to pay court costs of $3.50.

The youth claimed his father had choked him, while this was denied by the father who testified he had merely took his son who was living at home after losing his job. The father said the youth went out nightly and failed to come home until one or two o'clock in the morning, and then would sleep until noon the next day. The father admitted he had had a drink prior to the incident.

Crown Attorney John Pringle asserted that the father's punishment had been "unreasonable" while this was questioned by defence Counsel John O'Flynn who submitted a father had the right to chastise his own children.

Magistrate Wills ruled that the degree of punishment had gone beyond that which was proper and noted that after consuming liquor it was not for a father to exercise chastisement.

cept it as a fact. Our national policy must take account of it."

The prime minister said he was opposed to a boycott on South African goods being carried out in Britain by the opposition Labor party and other groups that protest against South Africa's strict segregation policy.

It never had been the policy of any government in Britain to discriminate or support campaigns of this kind designed to influence the policies of another Commonwealth country.

The great issue of the second half of the 20th century was whether the uncommitted peoples of Asia and Africa would swing to the East or to the West.

South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd agreed in proposing a vote of thanks to Macmillan that "in many ways they differed, but let us try to understand one another."

IN MEMORIAM

MacDONALD. — In loving memory of Charles MacDonald, who passed away February 2, 1959.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near;
And only those who have lost can know
The pain of parting without farewell.
Sadly missed by his loving wife and family.

CARE OF CARDS

I would like to extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to all my friends and neighbors for the many cards and letters and other gifts and courtesies shown to me during my stay in the Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Morphy, Dr. Beatty, special nurses and staff of 3 Centre.

United Church Holds School For Lay Speakers

The Cobourg Presbytery United Church Men held a school for lay speakers at St. Andrew's United Church in Grafton, January 30th and 31st.

The U.C. clergymen gave able instruction.

The Rev. T. B. Asbell, Grafton — use of microphone and speech.

Fred Mabee, Campbellford, was Dean of conference.

Dr. Johnston, Grafton, was registrar.

The women of the "Evening Circle" Grafton, provided for the assembly and the banquet Friday.

Overnight accommodation was provided by the families of St. Andrew's U.C. in Grafton.

The purpose of the school was to help individuals discover his voice, control his nervousness and give a clear, logical presentation of his subject.

The hope is that these men, once initiated and given this energy get important training, will continue on with self-development and study.

Gases Force Rescuers to Suspend Search

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—Poisonous gases forced rescue parties to suspend search for five miners still missing in the explosion-wrecked Yubari coal mine.

A few hours earlier came the rescue of three miners who survived more than 50 hours in the gas-and smoke-filled underground passages of the northern Japan colliery.

So far, 34 bodies have been recovered from the mine following Monday's explosion. Twenty-three others have been saved.

Fears Increase Port Credit Boy Was Abducted

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (CP)—Fathers of a boy missing since his bicycle was found in this lakeshore village to find six-year-old Joey Verheul, missing since Monday, increased police fear that he may have been abducted.

After dragging the Port Credit River, searchers said it was unlikely the boy went through the ice. If the boy is stranded without shelter his chances of surviving the last two cold nights are considered slight. The temperature dipped down to five above zero Tuesday night.

His father, Dutch immigrant Bert Verheul, discounted a theory that the boy may have run away to escape polio injections given at his school. He said Joey showed no fear since given the previous injection.

Police firemen and civilians were joined in the search Tuesday by a detachment of soldiers from RCAF Trenton. They were aided by dogs and aircraft.

Pointed Remarks Made by Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost listened for nearly two hours in the Ontario legislature Tuesday to Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer's criticisms government policy. Then Mr. Frost dispensed some pointed remarks of his own.

He said the Liberals were not in a position to criticize the government's approach to provincial-federal tax negotiations for they had once called the late prime minister Mackenzie King "a mud turtle."

"How did you expect to make a deal after that?" Mr. Frost asked.

He said he was not impressed with the CCF forces in the legislature because he had watched them on TV recently "and so help me they had the whole party on television."

He said the Progressive Conservative government would back 18 TV appearances before they could all be seen.

Insurance Firms Liable Even if Driver Drinking

TORONTO (CP) — Insurance companies that disclaim responsibility when a client has an accident while drinking alcoholic beverages can be held completely liable, Reeve Alan Eastman of Oshawa has ban Scarborough said Tuesday.

"Insurance companies won't want that precedent established," he said after the Public Utilities Commission had told an insurance firm is being made to pay for a hydro pole damage by an impaired motorist.

Vancouver Labor Closes Ranks To Battle SIU

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver labor council Tuesday night closed ranks in solid support to the Seafarers' International Union in what it called a campaign described by the SIU as "enemy of the labor movement."

The council decided to:

1. Seek a meeting with officials of the Canadian Labor Congress, the British Columbia Federation of Labor CLC, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport Workers CLC and the National Association of Marine Engineers CLC to organize a province-wide anti-SIU campaign against the SIU;

2. Urge seamen to quit the SIU likely to be thrown out by the CLC, the legitimate trade union movement;

3. Prepare to place experienced seamen on strike against the SIU CBRT to help in its jurisdictional battle with the SIU for control of the Canadian Pacific coastal fleet.

Bill Arland of the United Auto Workers Union told the meeting the SIU "can enemy of the labor movement. It serves no other purpose than to give the greedy public the idea labor is gangsterridden."

The council also condemned the attack by Canadian Seafarers and Greaves, 55, president of N.A.M.E., who suffered severe injuries when he was struck from behind by clubs and beat him. The SIU denies any connection with the attack.

Trenton Council, Hastings Officials Discuss Building of Subway

The estimated cost of the entire project is $194,000. Mr. Langlois explained that $176,000 of this sum would be the estimated cost of the subway structure itself, of which the federal and county of Transport would bear 50%, or up to $140,000; $18,000 would be the estimated cost of moving public utility installations, (telephone lines, telegraph and gas lines) of which the Board of Transport would pay 50% of the actual cost but not exceed $14,830; a portion of the total cost to be borne by the Department of Highways, (provincial), 5% of the total cost by the railroad and the remainder by county itself.

The county officials expressed the hope that the town would share the cost to the county on a 50-50 basis. Mr. Langlois set out that the land would, in all probability, be donated by the city to the corporation. With the estimated cost of $194,000 for the job for which the town and the county would be responsible, the total cost to both would roughly estimated at $15,000. This is the figure asked for in paving the road and necessary sidewalks.

Councillor Vern Lange said that the paving should be confined to the surface as the main highway, as the road at this point has its sush of difficulties that the only way to cross it comfortably was by means of a subway. Mr. Langlois agreed of the opinion that the work which would require at least 7 months to complete, should be done in 1960, as the first year that the 401 highway is open from Toronto to Kingston traffic would increase considerably. "But what is your obligation to help with this project?" asked Mr. Langlois.

"Mostly moral," answered Mr. Langlois.

"If you're supporting one suburban road now," said the councillor.

Mr. Wickett said that the whole project had been proposed because of people coming into Trenton. He said that in view of possible annexation, he felt that the county was being very broadminded about sharing the cost. Mr. Lange remarked that the town annexed it "only with unfavorable receptions" when it proposed annexation.

Mr. Langlois replied that this situation was not peculiar to Trenton. Mr. Wickett said council members that the county had lost 3,000 people to the city of Belleville, possibly, who, for one reason or another, did not want to pay city taxes. He said that annexation could not be handled without hard feelings on some sides.

Councillor Fraser suggested that there should be an answer before anyone had settled on it.

Reeve Hamilton asked, "Why shouldn't the county share in the whole project and let the town take the responsibility?"

Councillor Fraser, in the role of peacemaker, explained that the Trenton council spent money the taxpayer asked "Why?", and he felt the money spent on this way construction should be given some thought before council members voted on the question. Council members (generally) felt in this matter should be left in the hands of the engineers.

Letters will be sent to the Department of Highways and the Department of Highways to ask if these legislative bodies will declare their share in the billing payments or if the county and town would have to share in the completion of the entire project to receive grants.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — A letter was read at Monday night's council meeting from Mr. Langlois of Central Bridge Company, suggesting that the "weight limit on the town bridge be removed to allow motorists a better view of the bay and river. Mr. Langlois said the removal of the rail would not affect the structural strength of the bridge. Councillor C. Graham asked if motorists craning their necks to get a better view might not become distracted. Councillor Langlois reminded R. J. Whitley suggested that the council ask the Central Bridge what it would give for the rail. The public works committee will be instructed to examine the feasibility of removing the rail.

Parkdale Caterers had written to ask that sewer services be extended to their property at 73 feet on Stanley Street, as the present sewer connection to their own disposal system was inadequate. Councillors wondered if such a request was justified to contribute towards the cost of the installation. Councillor Graham Lange said that if other persons on the street had the same problem the watering firm could not be expected to. The public works committee was instructed to enquire into the matter.

Councillor N. J. McNair, reporting as the chairman of public works, said that he would emulate one of his predecessors from by-gone days and simply "turn on the fire hydrants and open." He went on to explain that by this method the fire engine was filled with river water from "water holes" in the ice, and nothing else. He went on to say that the street sprinkler would be used for the same good job and that he felt Trenton's streets were as clean as any in Canada.

Ex-councillor Lloyd Worral, chairman of the 1959 Court of Revision, was asked to recommend members of the court, and to bring to the attention of council "a most unsatisfactory job" which Allan Smith, assessor, has been set to carry out in the complete re-assessment of the town. Mr. Worrall said that Mr. Smith had been given around $4,000 and in other municipalities of comparable size, the job had cost in the neighborhood of $37,000. Mr. Worrall suggested that council keep a close check on infractions of the by-law, and specifically to prevent small businesses from setting up in residential zones. Councillor Fraser stated to council that Mr. Worrall had done an outstanding job as chairman of the court.

Fire Chief Gives Report

TRENTON — Councillor C. V. Graham, chairman of the Committee to Persons and Property Committee, presented a report for January compiled by Fire Chief Cecil Ellis at Monday night's council meeting.

There were no major fires during the month, and no minor house fires. No mutual aid alarms were answered and no fires were investigated.

There were two car fires, two chimney fires, one grass fire, one fire in a seat at a school theatre, one emergency call, 14 service calls, one barn fire in East Trenton, one oil furnace and one mattress fire.

Altogether, the department answered 25 calls during the month.

In the last week of January, the department answered an emergency call to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kennedy, 85 Spring Street, where oxygen was administered to Mrs. Kennedy and her elderly parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Young, who were suffering from gas poisoning. Mrs. Kennedy had written to Fire Chief Ellis to thank him for the prompt, courteous and efficient help received from the firemen.

A refresher course in the operation of the pulmotor and resuscitation was given to the men during the month. This was attended by Instructor R. J. Mallory of the Fire Marshall's Office.

Trenton Flyers Shaded by Aylmer RCAF

A goal by Pearson assisted by Garand at the 12.10 mark of the third period proved the winning goal as Aylmer RCAF pulled out a 5-4 victory over Trenton at the Memorial Arena Friday night. The game was a fast hockey affair with offensive units having a field day with the scoring of one hundred and five shots at both goalenders.

The Flyers led by Durst with four goals, put up a determined fight against the visitors but couldn't match the speed of the youthful Aylmer squad entirely. The big star of the evening was Pearson of Aylmer who struck twice in the first ten and five minutes in the second period to put the game away. Aylmer after Trenton had built up an early lead, and then fired the winner with only two minutes to make it a five-goal effort for the evening.

Other Aylmer standouts were King, Dickson, Bourgeois, Hatch, each with a goal apiece. Completing the scoring for Trenton were Durst with two, Donald, Conlin and Gravelle, with one apiece.

A return match between Trenton and Aylmer is booked for Aylmer on the weekend. The Flyers' next home game will be against Belleville, the league's chasers from AFHQ in Ottawa are in town to battle with Trenton Ridley's squad. All station personnel as well as hockey fans are urged to turn out to support the Flyers, who are managed by Flying Officer Jack Whitford.

Trenton Wilsons Defeat Flyers In Cage Game

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton Wilsons managed a four-point victory over the RCAF Flyers in the latter tilt of the Bay of Quinte Men's Basketball League held at the RCAF base. The final score of 51-47 in favor of the Wilsons was the culmination of a closely played game between two fairly evenly matched squads.

High scorer for both the game and the winning team was Cpl. Prior with 21 points to his credit. Cam Armstrong of the Flyers was high man for the team (and second highest pointgetter in the game) with 17 points.

The next league game will be held Thursday when Belleville Lightfoots play Napanee at Napanee.

Line-up for Monday's game was:

Trenton Wilsons: M. Prior (21), Phil Kowk (12), T. Jefferson (9), C. Armstrong (4), M. Jeffery (4), J. Williams (1), K. Wood.

RCAF Flyers: C. Armstrong (17), W. Casets (11), R. Bottrell (6), W. Dickey (7), G. Trenholm (2), B. Burton (2), D. Neville, B. Painter and T. McColl.

Told to Shun Home of Mother-in-Law

TRENTON — In Magistrate's Court at Trenton yesterday, Donald McMurray, 28, of Wellington, was placed on a one year suspended sentence and ordered to stay away from his mother-in-law's home for this period under penalty to charge of vagrancy.

His mother-in-law, separated from his wife, was found hiding in the home when clothes, clothes closet. He told the court, that in spite, of strained relations he would keep away from every once in a while.

Magistrate T. V. Wills said he thought the mother-in-law had a right to protection, and that if he wished to visit his wife he could "once in a while" they should find some other place to meet.

Frank Hewton, 34, was charged with being in possession of 3 pounds of bacon and some carpets, the property of Dominion Stores Ltd., Trenton. A clerk in the store had seen these articles under the accused man's coat while he was paying for other groceries. She had informed the manager. T. D. Bradshaw had apprehended the man in the parking lot and brought him to the police station where he readily admitted taking the articles. He insisted that it was all a joke. He was ordered to pay for the articles restitution and placed on a one year's suspended sentence.

Dennis Jones, 21, was charged with being in possession of stolen goods, namely, one gun tray and one smoking pipe, taken from a car belonging to Ronald Smith. The articles were located by the magistrate who said that the youth deserved a second chance but warned him against any further trouble leading to a jail sentence.

Local Auto Club Member Will Defend Title

There are a record number of entries for the 31st annual Canadian Winter Rally, the British Empire Motor Club's 1,200-mile modern event event held over Ontario's winter roads, and Homer Trotter a member of the local Ice Cat Club, The St. Lawrence Automobile Club, St. Lad's, will be defending the champion. Mr. Trotter, an ardent motoring enthusiast is driving a Swedish SAAB, resides in Watertown, N.Y., but regularly attends the meets of the LAC.

This year's event will see him competing against the largest and most well-organized field of entries, 163 in all, which the major Canadian event has ever drawn. Entries were received across Ontario and Quebec and as far away as St. Petersburg, Florida, with a number from the states of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Delaware and New York.

The event will start out in Toronto on February 12th when the Honorable Mr. John Yaremko, Minister of Transport for Ontario drops the starting flag for the first car, and will finish on February 14th.

Details of the settlement were not revealed. Mr. Daley said the proposals were to go before a union membership meeting at Sarnia today for ratification.

Safe-Crackers, Foiled in Attempt, Help Themselves to Store Coffee

Would - be safe - crackers, apparently with all the time in the world at their disposal, were foiled in an attempt to crack the safe at the Coleman Store, Canadian Tire Corporation Store last night, despite the fact that they put to use a wide variety of tools and other equipment found on the premises.

Defeated in their attempt to open the big one-ton upstairs office safe, the would-be safe crackers took time out before leaving to help themselves to a cup of coffee at the store canteen.

The safe-crackers failed to get the safe open and even had they done so they would have been disappointed. Don Hill, store manager, said that cash and records are kept in the safe.

Mr. Hill said the intruders climbed in the store's roof. Desk drawers were forced open and rummaged through. Also, even the door to the ladies' washroom was found forced open.

They really made a mess of things," stated Mr. Hill.

Welding torch equipment from the store service department, on the ground floor as well as a varied assortment of hand tools and large screw drivers were taken from the store shelves and used in theirs into the building.

The safe weighing over 2,000 pounds was found pushed out from the wall and curtained off with a window display screen operations while the would-be safe crackers used.

Indications are that at least three men must have been in on the safe-cracking attempt as considerable effort must have been used to move the big safe from the wall.

Mr. Hill said it took four store employees to move the safe back into position this morning, and that it required the use of two or three hours, judging from the time they took.

The attempted safe job was discovered this morning when the store employees reported for work.

City Detective Harold Reid, who with Inspector J. B. McLaughlin investigated the break-in, said that the safe-cracking activity was the work of amateurs.

"They didn't have a clue as to what they were doing," he said.

He said that so far it was a mystery as to how (entry was gained to the premises. He said there was a possibility one of the gang may have secluded himself in the store at closing time and then later let the others in from the outside.

Radial Characteristics

One of the lesser, but, alas, long-lasting, effects of Hitler's asinine babbling about Aryans was that many of us, in an understandable but unrealistic reaction, refused to recognize that there is such a thing as racial characteristics.

Such an attitude is nonsense. There is no master race, but some races are masters of certain talents and display certain traits. Whether this is the product of heredity or environment may be a debatable question, but we do not propose to debate it, because the cause of these differences is irrelevant to the present discussion.

If one were desirous of learning about the characteristics of the people of any race or nation, we suppose one of the best ways would be to turn to its literature.

It was interesting, therefore, to find the latest budget of releases from UNESCO containing two articles on famous authors, in connection with the centennial of the birth of the Russian Anton Chekhov and the recent death of the brilliant young Frenchman, Albert Camus.

In the course of the article on Chekhov, by Evgeni Balahanovich, there appears the following paragraph:

"The constant search for truth and the meaning of life is another important trait in the Russian character. 'One must know why one lives, or else everything is futile, everything is trifling' says Irina in (Chekhov's) 'The Three Sisters'."

By a happy coincidence, this question of the meaning of life is also dealt with by Georges Fradier in his article on Camus. Here is the quotation: "(Camus) and the majority of the existentialists who are less concerned with 'the meaning of life' than with a certain way of living in this world among their fellowmen honorably and with a clear vision."

It would be unfair to judge a nation's or a race's characteristics on the basis of individual ideas of a single author, yet the picture of the Slav as an introvert and of the Frenchman as more interested in living than in wondering about the reasons why he is living does not appear to be out of focus with what limited knowledge the writer has of national characteristics as depicted by these two national literatures.

Since the majority of Canadians, at least in the Belle area, are still of Anglo-Saxon extraction, it would interesting to compare the Slav and Gallic reactio to "the meaning of life" to the Anglo-Saxon attitude. Determining Anglo-Saxon outlook, though, does not appear so easy. Perhaps, as in so many other things, the Anglo-Saxon treads the middle road, sharing the Slav conviction that "one must know why one lives, or else everything is futile," and yet refusing to concentrate attention on this question to the extent that it hangers him unduly from sharing in the Gallic joy of living.

If this brings a retort from the Slav that the Anglo-Saxon fails to think, and from the Frenchman that the Anglo-Saxon does not know how to enjoy, there may perhaps be justice in these remarks.

Certainly some of the Anglo-Saxon attempts at discovering a reason for life, outside of the frame of orthodox Christianity, have produced results which seem strange even to Anglo-Saxons. There is, for instance, H. G. Wells' "What I Believe," which makes "Mankind", in distinction to man the individual, a sort of super-tribal god. At the end he does not say why it is so important that Mankind should continue to exist and progress. What good purpose is there in transferring the question mark over the meaning of life from the individual to the species? As for gaiety, what Anglo-Saxon can say "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die" with true joy in his heart about the prospect of food, wine and laughter and no foreboding about tomorrow's coffin?

We are a strange race.

The long-range aim of both railway management and the labor unions should be exactly the same, according to Dr. O. M. Solandt, vice-president of the C.N.R.

What is that aim? "Prosperous and progressive railways, staffed by busy, well-paid, loyal and contented employees."

Well said. And it applies not just to railways but to all industry.—(Calgary Albertan.)

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
YOUR NEXT AUTOMOBILE
Oh no, I am not advertising any garage or dealer's sign. I only want to pass on to you what seems to me to be some ludicrous and startling facts. The ludicrous facts are that I am led by an automobile salesman that the things which sell a car most often are the sound of the horn, and the colour which the door makes when it is slammed shut, and the color of the car body. Only a few people went the hood raised and the mechanism of the car explained to them. They carefully examine the wheel cap. They blow the horn. They slam the door. OK — that's the car for me.
The alarming fact which I glean from contact with automobile salesmen is their assurance that there are cars which are definitely prestige cars. They are the high price field. When I under heaven do people buy them when they can get just as fast superior to their neighbor? It gives them a name. It confers distinction."
Heavens above! What are we coming to? Toot the horn and slam the door and ask what kind of a car the Joneses drive.
Should we laugh or should we weep — or both?

Strictly Personal
Will Science Lift Us or Blow Us Up?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A French philosopher once remarked that "the only thing we learn from history is that we learn nothing from history." Like most epigrams, this is an exaggeration — but it contains enough truth to give us pause.

As the world enters the 1960's, there is a great temptation to look backward and forward — to see where we have come from, and to predict where we are going.

In my view the history of mankind has been too brief to draw any real conclusions or, to make any meaningful prediction. The few thousand years of recorded human history are but the wink of an eyelid in terms of non-human time.

Man, as we know him, has existed about 100,000 years — and less than 10 per cent of this span is recorded. And in this long, slow time, it is a fraction of a second since we have been men and were homo-sapiens. As a race, if we consider geological time, we are only a few days old, and are absolutely ignorant of our own subjective ones, as well as of the future.

Who can read a huge wall-tapestry if he is given only one square inch of it, a mere tiny bit? Paleontologists, it is true, can reconstruct a whole prehistoric animal from a single bone — but anatomy is not history.

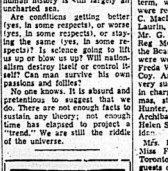
Is human life a "cycle," as Spengler thought it was? Do civilizations flourish and then decay, with no real "progress" in mental or spiritual terms? Or can we discern a rising arc in the graph of mankind, a slow but steady movement toward betterment, as the 19th century social optimists believed?

I don't think that either view can be demonstrated or disproved. We would have believed, a generation ago, that atomic energy could sweep the most "educated" and "civil"-ed country in Europe, releasing barbaric instincts that made the Goths and Vandals look like Boy Scouts?

Who can know what will happen to the masters of China and India, the awakening peoples of Africa, to the plump and lethargic populations of America and Europe? We have no maps to guide us, because the course of human history is still largely an uncharted sea.

Are computers getting better (yes, in some respects), or worse (yes, in many respects), or staying the same (yes, in some respects)? Is science going to lift us or blow us up? Will nationalism destroy itself or control itself? Can we ever learn to curb our passions and follies?

No one knows. It is absurd and pretentious to suggest that we do. There are not enough facts to sustain, as yet, even the most enough time has elapsed to project a "trend." We are still the riddle of the universe.



This is a bold promontory around which the city of Quebec nestles. The place takes its name from the profusion of specimens of quartz or rock crystal, generally pentagons, which abound in the district.

'SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK'

By R. J. SCOTT

Destroy This Device

Sudbury Star

The device known as "going into committee" to exclude the public from meetings of public bodies has no basis in law or parliamentary procedure. The Ontario Legislature can show some leadership in putting the weight of law on the side of a basic freedom by inserting a clause in all acts governing public bodies which will destroy this "we have something to hide" device.

One of the most recent cases involved the Oakville-Trafalgar Area High School Board which refused to make public a document tabled with the board by a trustee. It was learned unofficially that the document pertained to the standing at Oakville-Trafalgar pupils in departmental examinations as compared with pupils from other school boards in Ontario. It can be assumed that the trustees were aware of the low standing of their pupils. Had it been considered that the document might be expected to pet themselves on the back and crow from the housetops.

Time and time again it has been ruled that the public cannot be excluded from meetings or refused information under the device of "going into committee." Surely it will not be necessary for the MPP, minister or appointed members of public bodies to court to establish strength.

The government can be accused of not acting in the public interest if it turns its back on proposals to legislate the right of the public to be informed. We want no dictatorships in this country, even those who hold public office by election or appointment. The government can only say that it would act like little dictators if it refused to act "in the public" clause into all legislation setting out the duties of public bodies.

Autos Flood St. John Port

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

The Port of Saint John has never seen anything like the flood of imported automobiles pouring over its docks. More than 2,000 arrived from British and European ports in the past week, ocean freighters from one Scottish port alone setting a new record for such seaborn traffic in a four-day period. But this was just the start of a spectacular week — for in the next seven days 3,000 more motor vehicles arrived, and by the end of January it was about 7,000.

A year ago the port brought quite exceptional when 1,244 cars, trucks and tractors were brought into port within a three-day period on three freighters. Last week there were 685 vehicles aboard one vessel.

This one week witnessed all time records in every respect eclipsed. A new "high" for a single entry was set by the motor-vessel Lalona, which brought from a German port filled with 1,050 cars. This ship, resembling a tanker, was built especially as an automobile freighter and has permanent shelf-like decks constructed in its hold so cars can be stacked in layers.

Big Saint John the automobiles have been moving out in a continuous processions of railway flat-cars, destined to points across Canada and into the United States, and a number also are transported by highway vehicle carriers.

As there is also a considerable quantity of automobiles in dead-in-bulk automobiles and other vehicles through the Port of Saint John is having a problem, the harbor front is witnessing an unprecedented aggregate flow of "two-way traffic."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOOLS

Tools of any kind have always interested me. I like what they call gadgets. There is a store in my home town that is filled with tools of almost every description. It's a fascinating display, and I have a second cousin who runs it every day, so I am probably an odd observer. My friend Herb Hughes is a collector of odds and ends. The last time I called upon him he was building a pipe organ in his home on the Sound. He is a wonderful lover of tools. I suspect he may even erect a new kind of a skyscraper on his shore of the Sound. Nothing seems impossible to him, which is characteristic of the Hoosier State's type of human being. Give him time and give them all the space they wish.

Well, now back to tools and gadgets. In the small Midwestern town where I was "cultivated" I had not a lot of time. I made up first with the carpenter, then with the blacksmith, the plumber, the harness shop, and a few odd ones. All these friends of mine had tools. I was one of the ones I often thought he'd better have been a carpenter. I might blossom out as a mechanic with a new way to do things.

I will back on a box with tools every day in the week. Tool lovers all use fine chisels. To handle a useful tool as though it were a major work of art — as it is! But I don't want anything to do with tools, or associated things, that have anything to do with killing people.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

COMMON COLD CAN BE CAUSED BY MANY FACTORS

Not too many people write to me about this commonest of all diseases, colds in the head.

Now I am of the thought that, given time, we will reduce colds to a rather minor problem although it doesn't seem likely to me that we will ever get rid of this annoying problem entirely. A cold, or infection of the nose (and maybe throat) surfaces, is not caused by one germ or virus. It is caused by a variety of factors. Sometimes one, sometimes another.

Which brings me to this letter:

"Dear Doctor: I claim that people catch cold from others (via virus) due to careless sneezing and coughing. Many people believe in the false tradition that colds are caused by a draft. Will you clarify this?" — A. W. S.

I don't know whether I can clarify this or not. But I'll try.

A cold is a disease, although a minor one.

Most diseases result from a combination of factors. One of these is the intensity of the disease-causing factor. Another is — bacterium, virus, fungus, rickettsia, protozoon or whatnot. Another factor is the individual's resistance to any sort of disease.

Resistance is not a matter of race or of draft. A sudden chilling of the body, as well as other factors (poor diet, fatigue, etc.) may allow attack from some other disease which has not overcome (or probably a lot of other factors) reduce the body's overall strength.

The cold germ doesn't automatically cause a cold because you are exposed to it. If it attacks in strength, you may "catch cold" regardless. If it attacks moderately, the question of whether you "catch cold" depends on your resistance at the moment.

A draft doesn't cause the cold, but it can change conditions in the nose or body in general that alter our protection against colds.

The germ may cause the cold, but only if conditions are right for it or your defences are relatively weak.

If a draft were the whole cause, then people like postmen and deliverymen and a lot of others would have colds all the time. They don't.

In fact, alone, were the sole cause, then all of us would have an equal number of colds. We don't.

This, I think, will answer letters from R. L. K. and other readers. It would be simple, I grant, if it could say that this or that or the other thing happened to be the sole cause of colds. But it isn't so. It's a combination of things. And if the cornery factors gang up on us at any given time, we have a "catch cold."

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that Cascarean section is the only way a diabetic should have a child. I am a diabetic and who was born normally, and married, and this is expecting again, since I have had diabetes for about 10 months now. — Mrs. R. W."

There are several factors that seem to be established. And I hope you'll excuse me for not going into a long recital of them. Cascarean section. Most certainly Cascarean section is not the "only" way a diabetic should have a child. Many diabetics have had children normally, and did not necessarily have to, again, since I have had diabetes for about 10 months now.

Note to R.W., in college: I don't have any special sheaf of material on alcoholism, but since I'm not personally in the game familiar with Alcoholics Anonymous. Any individual material, as well as references for other reading material, through that very excellent organization.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The strangest utterance of 1960 so far must surely be that of Sir Stafford Cripps, British distinguished British diplomat and author. He was appearing on Edward R. Murrow's TV show, and along with Claire Booth Luce and another American diplomat, and the subject of discussion was diplomacy.

In the course of his remarks, Sir Harold came around to nuclear warfare, and, finding an expression of shocked surmise, he said:

"If Hitler had had the atom bomb in 1944, do you suppose he would not have used it? I am inclined to think he would."

A year ago Sir Stafford was quite exceptional when 1,244 cars, trucks and tractors were brought into port within a three-day period on three freighters. Last week there were 685 vehicles aboard one vessel.

This one week witnessed all time records in every respect eclipsed. A new "high" for a single entry was set by the motor-vessel Lalona, which brought from a German port filled with 1,050 cars. This ship, resembling a tanker, was built especially as an automobile freighter and has permanent shelf-like decks constructed in its hold so cars can be stacked in layers.

Big Saint John the automobiles have been moving out in a continuous processions of railway flat-cars, destined to points across Canada and into the United States, and a number also are transported by highway vehicle carriers.

As there is also a considerable quantity of automobiles in dead-in-bulk automobiles and other vehicles through the Port of Saint John is having a problem, the harbor front is witnessing an unprecedented aggregate flow of "two-way traffic."

Queen's Farms Pay Their Way

Welland Evening Tribune

Does modern royalty have to be a money-paying business? The answer is a definite "No", and it seems doubtful if the British royal household.

We in Canada are familiar with such institutions — as the Dominion Experimental Farm system and the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph — both of them generously operated and devoted to developing the best in the realm of agriculture.

Farmers in British however, have for centuries looked to sovereign to be the first farmer. The land — including prize crops and animals on the many farms attached to royal residences.

But since Queen Elizabeth II came to the throne, the royal farms are being run for profit rather than, as in the past, largely for prestige. An example of this came to light recently when the Queen's racing stud was sold. It was then revealed that royal animals were raised on the grounds of Windsor Castle on a small scale, but on a profit basis in ordinary cattle, without special markings and was offered for sale in the local market along with other crops.

The same business methods are used at the farm attached to the Sandringham estate where famous pedigreed Shorthorn stock is produced. According to one report, the farm's grain crops and fruits produced there are among the best. But it adds significantly, that the manager of the land comprising the farm is "a thoroughly practical man of business." In other words it is not the royal family which determines the success of the farm, but the skill of the one who runs it.

The Windsor royal farms of 650 acres contain cattle labelled as "commercial pedigree" which means they are well bred but not for production in line with the pay-your-way farm policy of this country.

There are other royal farms in Cornwall. They are obviously set up as an example to the other farmers of the realm showing them not only various effective methods of raising crops but how to produce but demonstrating the very important fact that they could prosper, but under adverse conditions they do pay for paying propositions.

In these days when subsidized farming is being given considerable thought by government circles in this country it is well to remember that the Queen is showing in a very tangible way that farming is big business and that, with proper methods and training, can be a paying proposition.

Holding Own With Insects

Sudbury Star

The flies may conquer the flypaper some day.

That is the word from a big expert, Harold B. Jones of Memphis, Tenn., who says man is barely holding his own in a battle for survival against insects.

"Man, the mosquitoes, termites, flies and bugs today than ever before. Our knowledge of insects is hard to evaluate", Jones told the Entomological Society of America and Canada. "We still didn't have our present insecticides and arsenicals, all of our food and fibre crops would be lost".

Mr. Jones said that succeeding generations of bugs have built up immunity to DDT, sending scientists back to insect experimentators.

Jones named various compounds containing arsenic as old standbys, saying that the bug never lived that could take a sip of them and come back for more.

He apparently, despite the march of science, the old standbys are still the best weapons against and onward with more arsenic compounds, new ones in description, even a Creighton mosquito can't get the best of them.

Sprawling Mortgages

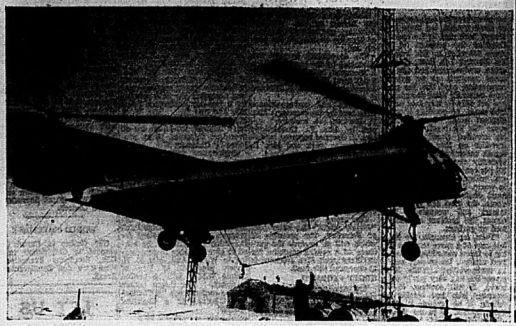
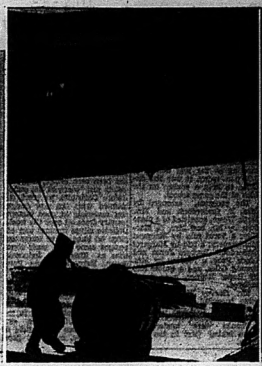
A builder in California says the sprawling ranch house is doomed because of the scarcity of land around cities. Well, let's not doom them before their sprawling mortgages are paid off.

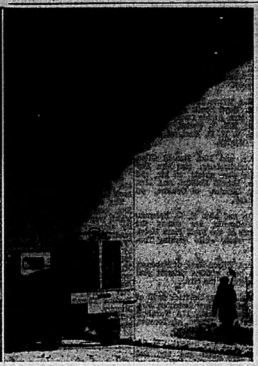
Men Who Man Mid-Canada Line



A hardy breed of men, modern adventurers, man Canada's Mid-Canada Line, stretched roughly along the country's 55th parallel from Dawson Creek, B.C., across Hudson Bay to Hopedale, Labrador. One of a trio of electronic curtains strung across the top of the North American continent to warn of attack across the polar ice cap, the 2,600-mile Mid-Canada line is dotted with radar stations manned largely by civilian personnel who find life in Canada's gale-lashed northland a challenge and an adventure. Above, at Great Whale on Hudson Bay, the ubiquitous helicopter is indispensable for transporting men and materials.



At remote, snow-swept Great Whale station food supplies are brought in once a year; for six months at a time its tiny band of inhabitants live on deep-frozen meat, dried fruit, dehydrated vegetables and powdered milk.



After every snowfall the airport's runway must be cleared —a herculean task calling for the muscles of a huge snow-plow which tosses a spume of snow high into the air.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Malak

The men who man Canada's radar stations are tough; each day they pit their strength, their wits, their intelligence and their endurance against savage weather conditions, where the temperature drops mercilessly to 60 degrees below zero, and against the inevitable loneliness which accompanies the desolate isolation of these vital outposts. Only a few crack, the majority grow tall.

At one time Canada's radar stations were staffed entirely by service personnel but today the picture has changed. Civilian teams of skilled technicians have taken over the complicated maze of electronic equipment.

Maintenance of the law at Great Whale, as it is throughout Canada's vast northland, is in the hands of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The Mountie and his dog above are great friends of the local Eskimo and Indian children.

DISCUSSES POLLUTION

A conference between Ontario and the states bordering the Great Lakes should be called to study problems of pollution as the result of oil drilling, Mr. Wintermeyer said.

The Great Lakes were one of Ontario's greatest natural resources—and should be reserved for navigation and water for industrial and public development. It should first be established whether the amount of oil reserves under the Lakes justified further drilling and the risk of pollution.

Ontario natural gas should only be exported on a "terminable" basis, Mr. Wintermeyer said that when any export agreement is signed it should be stipulated the gas will only be exported when there is a sufficient surplus in Canada.

Charging that Premier Frost has a "patriarchal attitude" towards civil servants, the Liberal leader said they should be given bargaining rights. He also asked Mr. Frost if the government would answer two questions pertaining to the purchase of land by Ontario Hydro and the operations of the Niagara Parks Commission.

QUESTIONS PRICE

Why did Hydro pay $6,900 an acre for land near Sarnia when a federal government report evaluated the land as worth only $2,200 an acre? Would the government satisfy the legislature that there is no discrepancy in expenditures in operation of the parks commission?

Mr. Frost said both questions will be answered at a later date.

Mr. Wintermeyer said the government had failed to protest against the disastrous farm policy of the federal government and had not recognized the needs of working men for basic economic security by a scheme of province-wide portable pensions.

The government had failed to meet its primary obligation for education, did not introduce a comprehensive plan for medical and drug insurance and gave no indication of its intention to reallocate responsibilities and re-

Sidney Twp. Council

Sidney Township Council met on February 1st 1960 at the Orange Hall, Wallbridge, with one member of council absent.

The minutes of the last regular and special meetings were read and approved by motion.

Road voucher No. 2 for $1,607.08, relief account for $559, charge back $82.90, Bayside Nursing Home $419.40, Maple Haven Nursing Home $478.50 and February pay sheet were ordered paid.

Sidney Development Co. waited on council January 11th, 1960 and presented plans for the erection of a motor motel and dining room on Glen Miller road, also requesting a vote for a dining lounge licence stating they would present a petition of 25% of voters in Sidney Township with township assuming all costs or they would deposit a certified cheque to cover the cost of the election if the Council passed the necessary by-law authorizing the same.

Council adjourned to meet on Monday March 7th at 1.30 p.m. at Wallbridge.

opposition to the government's program of deficiency payments for eggs because the program has pushed the egg trade "off the gravy train."

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) said the Canadian unemployment situation—755,000 are jobless, he maintained—should be taken out of the hands of Labor Minister Starr and given to the whole government.

APPEALS FOR FUNDS

Bobby McDonald (PC—Hamilton South) urged insurance and trust companies to make an all-out effort to provide mortgage funds for home building at the new interest rate of 6% per cent.

Ken More (PC—Regina City) called for more elevator and dock space in Churchill, Man., to assist movement of Prairie grain to Europe.

Six Conservatives sided with the Liberals in the voting against adoption of the address in reply to the throne speech.

Shortly before the recorded vote concluding the 10-day throne speech debate, Gabriel Roberge (L — Megantic) informed the Commons on behalf of Opposition Leader Pearson that the Liberals would demand a vote.

EXPLAINS ACTION

He said that normally the official opposition would refrain from such a course out of respect for the Crown.

However, it had decided to bring about a roll-call vote because the government itself showed disrespect by leaving some proposals out of the throne speech read at the opening of Parliament.

The reference to matters omitted from the throne speech apparently referred to Mr. Diefenbaker's announcement during the debate of a royal commission to investigate government operations and recommend means of running it more efficiently and his statements expressing the hope that before long it will be possible for amendments to be made to the constitution without reference to the British Parliament.

100 Aircraft Engineers Fly To Work Daily

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) A hundred Douglas Aircraft engineers transferred from Long Beach have escaped the headaches of packing their families and furniture off to a new locality.

Their new jobs are in Santa Monica, a 25-mile drive from Long Beach through dense traffic. They said they found home prices high in the Santa Monica area, and, anyway, their wives wanted to stay where they were.

The solution: A local air service has agreed to fly the engineers to and from work for 450 each a month. Three DC-3s now carry capacity loads back and forth daily.

Natural Gas Supply Needed Says Company

OTTAWA (CP) — The importance placed on obtaining Canadian natural gas for the Pacific northwest market of the United States was underlined Tuesday by El Paso Natural Gas Company.

El Paso, which now obtains some gas from Canada and would obtain about $300,000,000 more under an application before the National Energy Board, said the additional supplies are vital.

The testimony came as Westcoast Transmission Company, in which El Paso has an interest of about 20 per cent, neared the end of its application submission.

The winding was scheduled for today, leaving only two of the five applications before the board to be completed — aside from summings up after various intervenors have filed evidence.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

If you are shopping or just browsing, you may come to the conclusion that "our town" is growing up, or, should we say, acquiring new faces. We have the opportunity, now of completing and purchasing new lines of imports showing evidence of form and texture. We find that it is much more exciting to look for special gifts you have probably found out there is no end to. What a choice it can be when everything has been seen before, and your gift is just "more of the same!" Before Christmas we were enchanted with the new designs and materials in good costume jewelry from all over the world. Delicate silver tracings and edgings on imaginative forms and designs came from each field countries as Thailand,—Indonesia, Japan, Italy, India and Peru. Denmark was represented by lovely black wooden pieces in styles that characterize the Nordic countries. These, along with the ever popular pictures of Hawaiian, our pioneering in the manufacture of fabrics, our leathers and furs, and the ever popular cosmetics, make for good shopping.

Of course, there are always problems, problems such as you say to your self, about foods that taste like much more. There is even an extra day in which to plan and cook for. Let us remember that the key to the word, with a big help in that planning being Canada's Food Guide. Those who use it will see that you are getting nutritious value for your money. A little of vegetables, fruits, soups, main dishes and so on made up in the right way will be delicious and may give you ideas and inspiration for many thoughts that will run out.

Meal planning and shopping list go hand in hand — you can even make sure you have necessary food when called on a casserole dish. Then you are planning using leftover vegetables and meats to make extra foods and empty purses.

Many communities have thought they had problems with the disposal question. Waste matter gives even the summer campers some trouble, but there have always been pigs in the country. Consider the problem of the large cities. In this respect Dr. Norman Lee Barr, chief of space environment and life sciences research at an aviation corporation, says that the problem currently being taught of are not only in terms of actual weight but the question of waste disposal looms very large. He says: "In the small confines of the crowded closed space, the traveller on long voyages becomes uncomfortably and inconveniently close to the fact that 100 per cent of all food eventually and without much delay, turns to waste. First, space travellers must dispose of the packing waste, the food and liquid containers and wrappings. Next comes the problem of leftover food or garbage.

"Take, for example, the simplest case of a space traveller trying to throw something, a bag of food residue, let us say, out an earth-orbiting satellite. If he has a bag of garbage on board, it will continue to accompany him just outside the vehicle. He is pushed it down ward, upward or to the side, it will collide with the vehicle on the opposite side of the earth. If he projects it to the rear, it will take up an orbit and then move ahead of him, then it may fall back and come down on the opposite side of the earth where he could run into it. He projects it forward, it will take up an orbit above him and gradually fall behind. He will probably collide and take it with him, but he has no place to put it.

"The space chef must find a way to pack food to eliminate packing waste, make the food so palatable that there will be no left-overs after meals, and use only high-energy low - residue foods to reduce digestive waste". Waste disposal are problems being encountered in the building of the interplanetary trip. They make our worries seem very small indeed.

To come down to earth with a thud, do you have a problem like dell Holmes' description of a tea party? Here it is "Giggle, gabble, gobble, git".

Chief Causes of Ontario Deaths Outlined at Health Meet

By Dr. McColl Metcalfe, M.O.H.

During the years 1953-1957 cardio vascular renal disease accounted for 18,675 deaths or 54.2 per cent of deaths from all diseases, 38,871 deaths were from diseases of the heart alone, and 59.5 per cent were male deaths.

Malignant neoplasms cancer including Hodgkin's disease and lymphosarcoma accounted for 36,204 deaths or 13.9 per cent of the total deaths recorded.

Accidental causes continue to be one of the major causes of death accounting for 15,548 ranking fourth in the list of chief causes and 69.3 per cent were male deaths.

Tuberculosis accounted for 1,302 deaths and of all the deaths attributed to this disease 44 per cent occurred among persons under the age of 55 years.

During the period 1953-1957 there were 18,251 infant deaths, deaths under one year of age, and the number 69 per cent decided before the 28th day of life. Immaturity was the leading cause of death in the first year of life, accounting for practically 21 per cent of all deaths under one year. This was a decline from the previous number recorded prior to 1959. Congenital malformations was second during this period. Postnatal asphyxia and atelectasis ranked third. Pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza, including pneumonia of new born, was in fourth position and accounted for 11.6 per cent of total deaths under one year of age. Birth injuries was fifth and followed by prematurity which contributed 5.3 per cent of all deaths under one year. At preschool ages over to four years, accidental causes ranked first, deaths by accidents, pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza, in second position. Together these causes were responsible for over half of the deaths of children in pre-school ages.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

At ages 5-14 years, again, accidental causes was by far the most important group, being responsible for 51 per cent of the total deaths recorded for this age group and the ratio of males to females was nearly three to one. Cancer is in second position contributing over 11 per cent of deaths. Pneumonia, bronchitis, and influenza in third position while congenital malformations is in fourth. Death from acute poliomyelitis were in 6th position and amounted to 40 deaths or 1.6 per cent of the total.

During the adolescent age period 15-19 years, accidental deaths still ranked first with over 59 per cent of the recorded deaths, with a sharp male excess. Cancer is in second with males exceeding females two to one. Pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza, congenital malformations are third, side and self inflicted injury in third, fourth and fifth positions each contributing between 40-50 deaths. In the age group 20-24 years accidental causes was the leading cause of death, over 50 per cent of the deaths were attributed to accidental causes, the ratio being six males to one female. Cancer in second position, in third position while diseases of kidney and injury. Pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza was in fourth position while disease of kidney ranked sixth and seventh.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS LEAD

In the age group 25-34 years accidental causes continue to be the leading cause of death being about 47 per cent of the total deaths recorded for the group, with a sharp male excess. Cancer again was in second place while diseases of the heart ranked third with suicide and self inflicted injury fourth. Tuberculosis was in eighth place 2.5 per cent of the total deaths recorded in this age group.

In the age group 35-44 years, accidental causes dropped to third place while diseases of the heart occupying first position, a position they retain through the remaining age group. Cancer ranked second.

At the ages of 45 to 54 years, diseases of the heart ranked first, contributing over 37 per cent of the deaths, followed by cancer over 23 per cent of the deaths, with vascular lesions of the central nervous system in third place while 7.5 per cent of the total deaths were contributed by accidental causes.

HEART DISEASE

Among persons 55 to 64 years of age diseases of the heart is the leading cause of death, with cancer in second position. At this age over 40 per cent of deaths were attributed to cancer. Vascular lesions of the central nervous system, accidental causes, pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza and diabetes follow in that order.

At ages 65 years and 75 years and over diseases of the heart is the leading cause of death contributing 40 per cent of the total deaths in each age group. At ages 75 years and over 70 per cent of the deaths were caused by cardio vascular renal disease, followed in order of frequency by cancer, pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza and accidental causes.

Deaths from accidental causes play a large part in the total mortality among persons of all ages. In the age groups from 1 to 34 accidents cause more deaths than any other single cause. At the older ages accidental causes still play a significant role, ranking fifth, sixth, fourth, fifth and sixth among the chief causes of death in the succeeding age groups.

Ont. Diocesan W.A. Meets At Kingston

The February meeting of the Ontario Diocesan Women's Auxiliary took place at the church of The Good Shepherd, Kingston, with the president, Mrs. W. P. Mitchell, presiding.

Bishop R. C. Evans opened the meeting with prayer

The rector, the Rev. H. R. Robinson, was not present as he is ill in hospital.

Bishop Evans addressed the meeting using as his subject, "Women's Ministry in the Church." In his address, the Bishop intimated that in the future women are going to play a far greater role in the affairs of the church than they do at the present, now being 3 lay delegates and to be represented in the highest councils of the church. He pointed out that many improvements will have to be made, using St. Paul as an example.

DEACONESSES LIKELY

St. Paul considered it most improper for a woman to speak in church, adding that it was necessary for her to do so, she must have her head covered. It is likely that women will be allowed to become deaconesses in the Anglican Church in the years to come.

Bishop Evans suggested in "Timothy: 3-11, be read. In this passage can be found the necessary qualifications for a deaconess, priest or deacon. "In our own Diocese a young woman who is soon to graduate from the Anglican Women's Training College will take her place assisting where she is most needed. It is hoped that there will be three women doing this vital work in the near future, as one person can be greatly overworked, which in itself is hardly commendable."

Miss F. M. Salisbury of Trenton, thanked the Bishop.

1962 is the 100th anniversary of the Woman's Auxiliary, and the archivist, Mrs. G. Platt, is compiling a history of this Diocese. The work is progressing slowly, as it is difficult and painstaking, only true facts must be presented.

Miss Louella Daniels, of Prescott, is to be thanked for the many valuable papers and documents, dating back to the first meeting, which she has allowed Mrs. Platt to have. Anyone else possessing information may contact Mrs. Platt and she will be most grateful.

Mrs. J. D. Calvin thanked the Ladies' Guild of the Church of The Good Shepherd for their hospitality.

Mr., Mrs. Arthur Sheridan Mark Ruby Wedding Anniversary

MARMORA — A large number of friends and neighbors called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sheridan of Marmora township on January 31st, when the couple celebrated their Ruby (40th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan were particularly entertained Mass at Sacred Heart Church in Marmora and with Rev. W. P. Healey, P.P., officiated in their home where a wedding dinner was served by several of their neighboring ladies in a party of 40.

The table was appointed in damask, centred with the anniversary cake. The other rooms were decorated with ruby bells and streamers.

Father Healey proposed the toast which was responded to by Mr. Sheridan.

Mrs. Sheridan was the former Miss Alice Sexsmith, daughter of Mrs. George Sexsmith of Marmyville, and the late Mr. Sexsmith. Mrs. Sexsmith was unable to attend the celebration. Mrs. Sheridan was one of a family of 15, of whom 14 survive.

Mr. Sheridan was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sheridan of Marmora township.

They are four children, two surviving.

The couple were married on January 28th, 1920, at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Marysville, by the Rev. Father Meagher. They were attended by the bride's friend, Miss Emilia Sexsmith, Mrs. Mary Lawlor and the late George Sexsmith.

They have resided most of their married life in the township where Mr. Sheridan served on the council for years and also on (the school board for several years.

They are members of Sacred Heart Church in Marmora, and Mrs. Sheridan is a member of the Catholic Women's League.

Their family of five children were, except one, present on Sunday. They are: Grace and Kenrick, at home; Mrs. Alvin (LaVerne) Holling; Leo Sheridan of Campbellford, and Robert of Belleville. There are seven grandchildren.

The family presented them with a cheque and bouquet of roses. Telegrams were read from the address. The neighbors presented them with two lovely chairs and a purse of money, the reeve and councillors presented them with a cheque. Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan they also received many gifts from relatives and friends. Guests were present from Peterborough, Hope, Brantford, Kingston, Napanee, Marysville, Belleville, Stirling, Campbellford and the surrounding district.

PRINCESS VISITS

PORT SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)— The Princess Royal, the Queen's aunt, arrived here Tuesday on Tuesday on the royal yacht Britannia for a four-day visit. The princess was among the visitors not allowed into the Princess Elizabeth Home for Handicapped Children because of an outbreak of measles among 70 children.

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Plans 'Variety Night'

Thirty members of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church met on Monday evening in the parish hall.

The devotional service was conducted by the president, Mrs. A. Boogard, assisted by Miss F. Reid, Mrs. H. Steeves, Mrs. A. Johnston, with Mrs. J. Hibbard at the piano.

Minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary, Mrs. P. Barton; the summer report by Mrs. F. Goodfellow; Mrs. J. Spencer reported on social service work and Mrs. L. Mason on the Sandbine Fund.

Mrs. I. Reid handed in $10 from the sale of church calendars. Mrs. R. Green will be responsible for the members to look after the nursery at the 11.00 o'clock service Sunday mornings.

The group will present a "Variety Night" the latter part of February, the proceeds of which will go towards the purchase of a projector machine for auxiliary work. Mrs. Johnston is in charge of this fund.

GROUPS planning

The membership has been divided into groups with Mrs. H. Rose, Mrs. Kirk, Mrs. R. Reid as leaders and Mrs. R. Reid as leader.

Plans were made for a rummage sale. At next week's meeting members of the Afternoon Branch and Foxboro will attend to have a Mary Hartley speak on the study book dealing with "Africa."

Following the business, tea was served by Mrs. E. Pope and Mrs. Markle. The meeting closed the meeting with prayer.

Bay of Quinte W.A. Annual Meet Held at Shannonville

Planning for the forthcoming annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. occupied an important place on the agenda when the executive met on Monday evening at Shannonville, on February 1st, with the president, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs of Belleville, in the chair.

An invitation from the W.A. of Chalmers Church, Kingston, to hold the annual meeting there was accepted and Mrs. W. C. MacLean was appointed to receive requests for billets for all overnight delegates, to be provided by Chalmers W.A.

Registration will begin at 2 p.m. and opening devotions at 3.30 p.m. Guest speakers to be invited from Dominion Council W.A. included Mrs. J. Y. McKinnon, president, with Mrs. J. L. Halpenny, past-president, as alternate; suggested topic being "Women at Work—the New Organization."

Mrs. George Paul, planning secretary for Dominion Council, will be on hand to give guidance in programming in W.A. Also, Mrs. B. H. Soper, president of Bay of QUINTE W.A., will be requested to speak. The theme chosen for the conference is "Witness Christ in a Changing World."

SUNBEAT AT FIVE OAKS

A springtime retreat at Five Oaks Training Centre for Oshawa, Lindsay, Cobourg and Belleville Presbyteries is planned for March 1, 2 and 3; transportation will be by car and room and board for three days, $7. Persons this year will include more time for Bible study, also a model W.A. meeting as requested in evaluation meeting last year. A similar retreat will be planned for Kemptville, Kingston, Napanee, Lennox and Addington, and Father Hardy-Prince Edward Presbyteries in the autumn, in order that more

NEW WING BEING ADDED

The Victor Home in Toronto is in process of erection of a new wing, at a cost of $200,000, one-half of which will be covered by mortgage. No campaign will be made, but whole-hearted support, prayerfully and financially, was appealed for, and should be made to the Victor Home. The new unit will accommodate 23 girls, a modern kitchen, large dining room and small chapel, a Christian work with unmarried mothers who are so young, frightened and bewildered.

Reports were received from committee chairmen, also Presbytery presidents; the treasurer's report showed satisfactory finances. Warm fellowship was enjoyed at the luncheon served by the W.A. of the Shannonville United Church.

Wedding

WELTON — PARTRIDGE

FRANKFORD — A quiet wedding was solemnized in Frankford United Church parsonage on Saturday afternoon, January 30, at 2.00 p.m. when the Rev. C. Judd united in marriage Bertha Leona Partridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Partridge of Kennedy Charles Welton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welton of Frankford.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a floor-length white satin gown with nylon net featuring a Sweetheart neckline and lace sleeves, nylon tulle veil with scalloped acetate and nylon lace edging, adjustable halo, accented by simulated pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her matron of honour was Mrs. Barbara Leonard, sister of the bridegroom, wearing a floor-length gown of nylon net over pink satin with pink hat and carried white carnations.

The groomsman was Mr. Thomas McCleary of Frankford.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, South Trent St., Frankford, where the bride's mother received in a black and pink crepe dress with beige hat and corsage of pink rosebuds; the bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a medium blue chemise dress with beige hat and corsage of pink rosebuds.

The home was decorated with pink and white bells and streamers and a linen cloth with a three-tiered wedding cake was the bride's table.

For the wedding trip to points west, the bride wore a beige dress with brown accessories, grey fur shortie coat and corsage of red roses.

They will reside at R.R. 3, Frankford.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. F. H. — She must learn to play dumb.

Joanne H. — The best with it — I'll be an old maid.

Mrs. F. H. — I am very much concerned about my daughter Joanne, who is 24, a college graduate and career gal with no social life whatever.

Joanne could be an attractive girl if she paid a little more attention to her clothes and make-up, but she says she doesn't like to bother with things like that. She has a good job and could afford to take her vacation at fine resorts where she would meet interesting men, but she prefers to stay home and read and put her money in the stock market.

All my friends tell me that Joanne is just too content to be her own good. She was always first in her class and scared of all the boys. I can't convince her that a smart girl must know how to play dumb.

Joanne H. — All my life my mother and various idiot girl friends have been trying to convince me that I ought to play dumb. Well, if I have to part with my mind in order to capture a man, the heck with it. I'll be an old maid.

My mother keeps bothering me about my social life, but she doesn't realize that I have a much better time when I am home reading than when I am out with some stupid man who thinks nuclear fission means fishing for some new kind of fish.

I feel that I can have quite a full life without marriage, if necessary. I love my job. I'm making good money — enough to put away a nice nest egg for my old age. I enjoy sports and reading and have a few very intelligent women friends.

The Council: We believe that the popularly held idea that girls do not like brainy women is completely false and has been proven so by countless brilliant women through the ages. These women excited at least as much male response with their interesting minds as they did with their feminine charms.

There has, however, always been the type of woman who has used her mind to slog men. This type of woman dislikes and fears men. Without the advantages of education such a woman might fight men off by surly pugnacity or gruff, masculine mannerisms. She will not permit a man to like her as a feminine human being.

It is true that an uneducated man will flee from a woman (or anyone else) who insists upon talking to him in six-syllable words with concepts about which he knows nothing. This, however, isn't a sexual question. It's simply a matter of good manners and consideration.

Joanne is afraid to let her own interests and background! Can it be that she is afraid to pit that super-I.Q. against a clever man? Or does she pronounce a man "stupid" for little or no reason — and then give him no opportunity to reveal what is in him?

The human population is growing nicely without Joanne's assistance so we won't try to persuade her not to be an old maid if that is what she really wants. But if she eventually begins to feel that her life is lonely and empty, we think that she should be aware her surplus of brains is not at fault, but rather the lack of heart, feminine warmth and interest in men. We don't think it all necessary for women like Joanne to play dumb in order to be liked by men — but merely to give men an occasional chance to play smart.

WALK HOME

WOMAN BARBER — Youngsters have left their marks on Jane Grant, a Calgary barber for 25 years, shown here shoilt to clip the hair of not-too-happy Kelly McCann. Mrs. Grant says more scars on her arms are the result of being bitten by rebellious youngsters. As for adult customers, she prefers men to women because they are friendlier and easier to please. At left is Kelly's mother who is trying unsuccessfully to make him co-operate.

Woman Barber Prefers Men Over Women for Customers

CALGARY (CP) — A woman who has been a barber for 25 years says she prefers men to women as customers.

"In so many cases women come into a salon looking like Zasu Pitts and expect to leave looking like Marilyn Monroe," says June Grant.

"Of course, you get the odd fussy man too, but mostly they're much easier to please and much friendlier also.

"It's funny, you know. Men always hesitate a little before coming in for the first time. They come back and forth in front of the shop five or six times and peer in the window. I guess they're a little scared."

TOUGH WORK

Mrs. Grant says barbering is "earning a living the hard way."

She recalls one of her worst days when 17 yelling, fighting little boys made a shoe Monday for her.

She can show a scar or two where a rambunctious youngster has planted his teeth. There's a big one on her arm where Eric Nesterenko, now with Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, bit her when he was a young tike.

There were five men in the shop while Mrs. Grant was being interviewed.

"They gossip just as much as women do. But they're open about it. Women whisper very softly so no one will hear them. But actually they want everyone to know what they're saying.

"The men talk freely and even get very loud at times. Especially when there's an election or something like that coming up. There's always a good argument around here. They really growl at each other."

When Mrs. Grant first entered the professions barbering was fairly common for women.

"There just don't seem to be any these days though. I think it's because most women are scared. I don't know what they're frightened of, mind you. There are lots of nice people around. I've never had any trouble at all."

Mrs. Grant has a husband in the army and two daughters, one in university, the other in grade school.

"They think it's fine that I work. They realize that to keep neither happy, they'll have to let her work."

"I'd rather cut hair than eat."

50 Attend Neighbors' Aid Potluck Dinner

ENDTHURLOW — The January meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the hall on Wednesday with a pot-luck dinner and quilting arranged by the hostess, Mrs. Harry Thomson. About 50 adults and children including twelve men were present to enjoy the delicious dinner. Several activities were in progress with dishes being cleared, quilting and cards until about 3 p.m. when the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Gerald Stratton. Mrs. A. Greatrix was pianist. The president welcomed all.

Secretary, Mrs. W. Arnourlh read a letter from the Home for the Aged also "thank-you" notes from Mrs. Edith Jeffery, Mrs. Willard Reid and the pianists, Mrs. Hull, Miss Lily Craig (who was ill), for fruit boxes sent at Christmas.

The treasurer, Mrs. B. T. Baldrick, read the financial statement showing several bills were paid Some business matters were tabled until the next meeting in February.

Mrs. Archie Greatrix reported on funds in trust since 1939, of the Old Spencers' Sunday School, and presented a cheque to the treasurer to be used to purchase equipment for the Neighbors' Aid.

Mr. Gerald Stratton is painting a sign for the new hall which will be presented and placed on the hall soon.

Mrs. Gene Stratton and Mrs. Bruce Porti are convening a euchre on Friday night. Mrs. Fletcher Reid and Mrs. Douglas Atkins will convene a euchre on February 26th. Both euchres will be held at the Aid Hall.

Mrs. M. Dent will be hostess for the February meeting; Mrs. Arnold Mitchell for March; Mrs. Eric Leeming for April; and Mrs. H. T. Baldrick, hostess for the May meeting.

A motion to purchase more card tables was made by Mrs. Carl Grills.

Mrs. Ronald Atkins will arrange the March program with, Mesdames R. Greatrix, H. Thomson, M. Mitchell and William Lazariuk in charge of furnishing the lunch.

Quilts will be quilted at a future meeting.

Women's Institutes

HARTS-RIGGS W.I.

MADOC — The January meeting of Harts-Riggs Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Leonard Trotter, and, in spite of heavy snow on county roads there was a good attendance.

Vice-president Mrs. Franks was in charge and conducted the business.

The secretary, Mrs. Harry Stout, read the correspondence, which included letters from the Domicile president and also the Provincial president, both of whom are now in their executive positions.

Mrs. N. Broad, convener of the Tweedsmuir Book, reported progress was being made and suggestions were asked for in assisting the convener with data.

Quilt blocks are asked for from the members with Mrs. Carl Fleming in charge. Members are asked to bring their donation to the February meeting at Mrs. E. Devolin's.

The motto "Out Of Dreams Great Empires Have Grown," was given by Mrs. Cecil Woods.

Program convener, Mies Luella Bristol, gave an interesting paper on Canadian industries. Mrs. George Allore demonstrated making a toy out of sponge rubber, with all the decorations.

Mrs. Ella Bristol conducted a contest which was won by Mrs. N. Broad.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

PLANNING TO ELOPE? DON'T!

The following letter from a young woman who recently eloped would seem to be proof positive that those who are contemplating such a step would do well to think twice before doing so. She writes:

"My family has been having difficulty making ends meet financially. I have been very much in love with a young man for a long time. We felt that to place the burden of a wedding upon my family would be extremely unfair. So we ran off and got married.

"As a result of the elopement my relations with my family are very strained. My mother refuses to announce the wedding and seems to feel that I have done a very shameful thing. This seems extremely unfair to me when my consideration for the financial status of the family was my reason for eloping. Is there anything that can be done now to bring about a reconciliation?"

It is obvious that there is wrong thinking on the part of both mother and daughter in this situation. From the mother's angle, it is only natural that she feel a deep sense of hurt because the daughter she has reared so deeply has seen fit to take the biggest step of her life alone. However, now that the deed is done — and granting that the treatment given the mother was extremely unfair — the least she can do is to co-operate to the best of her ability. She had to realize that her refusal to send out announcements of the marriage will reflect not only upon the daughter but also upon the whole family.

The young girl showed poor judgment when she made the decision to elope. While her intentions were of the best, she failed to realize that taking the step without her parent's knowledge could only bring deep hurt to them both.

So much better to have avoided all this dissension by having a quiet, simple ceremony with her parents' consent, or, even better, to have planned a simple, quiet wedding to be held in the church. Only members of the two families and very close friends need necessarily be asked to attend. The invitations could be issued through the mail rather than a short, personal note or by telephone. No reception need follow the ceremony. The young couple may stand in the vestibule of the church to receive the congratulations of the guests and then leave on their honeymoon.

The expenses incurred? The bride may wear her going-away gown and her bridegroom a conservative business suit, so no outlay is necessary for clothes that will not be worn very often. The fee to the minister and the organist would just about round out the wedding expenses. The cost of the announcements would remain the same in either case.

It is much better to follow this simple formula and to be able to look back on the most sacred moment of your life as having taken place among those whom you love, than to remember it as having taken place in a shabby little room before a Justice of the Peace, with only strangers as witnesses.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: Is it considered improper to include a card of admission when sending out invitations for a party to be held in a restaurant or hotel, in order to prevent the so called "gate-crashing" so prevalent today?

Answer: Unfortunately it is becoming more and more of a necessity that the card be enclosed. When a dance or buffet party is being held in a public place, it is amazing to note the colossal nerve that is displayed by people who barge in when they have not been invited. Some steps have to be taken to control these pests (there is no other word for them). Sending a small card of admission, to be presented by each guest upon arrival, is really the only way to get around it.

FRUIT DESSERTS

Fruits are the easiest to prepare of all desserts—and some raw fruits are good sources of vitamin C.

Women's Institute

MELROSE W. I.

The February meeting of Melrose W. I. was held at the combined home of Mrs. Charles Bates (Sr.) and Mrs. C. Bates (Jr.) with an extra large attendance.

The president, Mrs. K. McMechan, presided and during the business session it was decided to contribute the 10 cents per member towards the purchase of the Adelaide Hoodless Home and to renew the membership in the Hastings Historical Society with the committee of Historical Research as representative.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Reg. Fox.

A cordial welcome was extended the district president Mrs. C. Reid, who expressed pleasure of visiting the W. I. and gave a most impressive talk urging it to increase efforts to gain new members and extend the Institute work. She reminded it of the responsibility as good members of this important organization and closed with a quotation from "Home and Country."

The report of the Standing Committees followed with: Mrs. R. Bates, education; of agriculture, giving a reading, "Something new under the Sun"; Mrs. R. McLaren, of home economics, gave a paper on "Superstitions"; Mrs. J. English of historical research reminded that a definite time should be chosen for the tour of the Court House & Marsh; Mrs. M. Latter of public relations, reported on the recent meeting held at the County Home to form a Women's Auxiliary and the progress of same.

At this stage Mrs. T. Howard reported on "Achievement Day" where the club girls, "Melrose Meat Carvers," put on a skit. Mrs. Joan Mulligan gave an humorous commentary on the display of "Various Ways of Using Liver": broil, braise, bake and pan-fry. The leaders, Mrs. T. Howard and Mrs. D. McLaren are to be congratulated on their splendid work and they were pleasantly surprised when the president presented them with gifts. Mrs. Reid was given a small token also as this was her final official visit.

The program, led by Mrs. B. Badgley, convener of resolutions, began with community singing with Mrs. C. Bates as accompanist.

A panel discussion on "Resolutions" followed with Mrs. Badgley as chairman and Mrs. R. MacFarlane and Mrs. J. McLaren as panel members. This informative discussion was divided in three parts: Value and implementation, resolution paper, duties of conveners. Stress was laid on the importance of the proper wording of a resolution and using a sheet of paper 8 inches by 10 inches with all necessary signatures attached.

Mrs. R. MacFarlane gave a humorous reading "Baby Sitter Sticks to Her Job," after which Mrs. McLaren cleverly defined the real meaning of the much used word "Goodbye."

The roll call demonstration of a useful kitchen gadget, showed a variety of inexpensive articles including knife-sharpeners, potato chippers, pastry cutters, kitchen tongs and many others.

A "Christmas Card" contest followed.

The lunch committee served refreshments.

Some restaurants in the South specialize in crunchy fried chicken. The cooked chicken is coated with a batter and fried in medium-deep fat and served hot from the griddle. Mary Moore gives you the recipe for this traditional Southern favorite of ambiguously named Battered Chicken.

Baked and Battered Chicken For A Change

by Mary Moore

Like Rodin's "Thinker" I sted, chin on hand, observing the goings on at the chicken counter of a supermarket. A little alsle of a woman looked over the pieces of cut-up chicken then reached over and selected a whole chicken. I stepped up to see why. The price was much lower of course. I suppose she decided to cut it up herself and use the back, neck and wings for soup.

I bought this same plus a package of 4 chicken legs with thighs en and made the following 2 chicken dishes for my carnivorous crowd.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY
(oven dinner)

BAKED CHICKEN PAPRIKA

We had this with buttered beets and finely shredded cole slaw to which I added one parsley chili pepper and one chopped green onion.

Four chicken legs with thighs (separated into 8 pieces), one 20-ounce can tomatoes, well drained, 1 Spanish onion, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 teaspoon celery salt, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon sugar.

In large shallow casserole melt the butter in the oven. Don't let it brown—just melt it. Peel onion and cut into halves from top to bottom, then slice these halves thinly crosswise. Arrange in an even layer in buttered casserole in a big mix together the dry ingredients and shake the chicken pieces in them to coat. Arrange in single layer over onions. Pour drained tomatoes over evenly. Bake, covered with a piece of foil, at 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes then reduce heat to 300 for 1 hour.

BATTERED CHICKEN

1 4-lb. ready-to-cook stewing chicken, cut up; 3 cups chicken broth (see below); 2 egg whites; 3 egg yolks, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup undiluted evaporated milk, 1 cup of shortening or lard, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Simmer chicken until tender in 3 cups water, covered. Refrigerate meat and broth. About 30 minutes before serving time make Gravy: For 3 cups melt together 3 tablespoons each flour and butter and stir in 2 1-2 cups chicken broth until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste. For Cream Gravy substitute a little cream or sour cream for some of the broth — but not more than 1-2 cup. Keep hot. Beat egg whites until stiff; with same beater, beat yolks with flour, salt and milk; fold in white. In large frying pan, heat lard and butter. Dip chicken meat into batter. Drain a little. Brown on both sides in hot fat about 3 minutes. Serve at once with mashed potatoes, or hot noodles or hot rice, and chicken gravy. Makes 6 servings.

Foxboro United W.M.S. Names New Officers

The January meeting of the Foxboro United Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Dafoe.

Mrs. W. Scott was in charge of the call to worship. The Scripture reading, 1 John: 4 was given by Mrs. C. H. Rue followed by prayer by Mrs. Hayton.

A solo by Mrs. W. Rombough "Someone Needs a Blessing," was followed by a reading "The Open Door" from the "Onward" in two parts by Mrs. E. Sills and Mrs. H. Elliott.

The business part of the meeting was in charge of Mrs. G. Priest. Seventeen members and three visitors were present. Reports were given by the secretaries of the different committees; the allocation of $365. had been reached with a balance on hand.

The February meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. C. Arthurs with the program in charge of Mrs. C. Wilson. Mrs. H. Beatty, and Mrs. J. Daniels

1960 OFFICERS

The following officers for 1960 were given by the nominating committee: honorary president — Mrs. G. Meyers; president — Mrs. G. Priest; 1st vice-president — Mrs. C. H. SWITCHED CHOICE

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — The Junior Chamber of Commerce, meeting to select Granby's "man of the year" for 1959, decided to change the award to "Centenarian of the year," naming Therese Bedard as the recipient. Miss Bedard, a native of Edmonton, was 100 years, Mr. Russell figured.

Congregational Meeting

WHITE'S CHURCH, BAYSIDE

WHITE'S DISTRICT—White's Church, Bayside, held its congregational meeting on Monday evening with a fair attendance.

Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, in the absence of the Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., acted as chairman. Mrs. Rickard opened the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt gave a report of last year's meeting, which was adopted as read, and Mrs. R. Ketcheson the report of treasurer's funds showing a good year with several new members.

Mrs. L. Hunt also reported for the Sunday school showing there was a good average attendance. The Missionary and Temperance superintendents were active. Sunday school was open each Sunday except for four Sundays in the summer months. A picnic was held in July and a pot-luck supper in December provided a decided success. This was followed by a donation towards and the visit of old Santa.

Mrs. Rickard thanked fifteen members in the junior congregation.

Mrs. Walter Jones gave the report for the Woman's Association showing a good year with money received from a bazaar, tea-meetings, quilting, bas, potluck dinners, collections and dues.

All trustees remain the same and all elders were re-elected for 1960. The stewards for 1960 are: Walter Jones, Arnold Ketcheson, Jermyn Palmer, Cecil Jeffery, Fred Bowers, Percy Cotten, Garnet Jones and Geo. Bilham.

The grounds committee and the parsonage committee were re-elected. The secretary, Mr. Lorne Hunt, was re-elected. For the reception committee the session is to appoint members for Sundays throughout the year. The auditors, Lorne Hunt and Gilbert Sarles, were re-elected. The meeting was closed with prayer.

HEFTY TWINS

AJAX, Ont. (CP) — The twins born to Mrs. Lionel Russell in this community just east of Toronto were no lightweights. Philip weighed nine pounds 10 ounces and Phyllis weighed in at seven pounds, three ounces. "I won't have any income tax to pay for 10 years," Mr. Russell figured.

Little Fashions

BY ALICE ALDEN

It's fashionable to be fashionable, even for little girls! Out to play goes our little missy, all dressed up in togs that are as pretty as they are practical. The two-piece set is a rich combination of blue corduroy slacks and white knit overblouse. Highlight is the novel treatment of a band of delicate white needlepoint down the sides of the slacks and around the waist and collar of the blouse. Washable, the set comes in red with gold and in old gold and black—both high-fashion color combinations. The price tag is sensible.

Womenfolk Begin Agitation For Quicker Road Completion

— KILLARNEY, Ont. (CP) — An unfinished road has come between the men and women of this isolated Georgian Bay summer resort, a favorite playground for wealthy Americans, yachtsmen and fishermen.

A village with a winter population of 500, Killarney has no highway connection with the outside world though it is only 42 miles southwest of Sudbury. It relies in summer on water transport to link it with the nearest town, Little Current on Manitoulin Island 20 miles to the west. In winter it is accessible only by air or across the ice.

Recently the womenfolk decided they had endured long enough the isolation from doctors, dentists and high schools. They began agitating for quicker completion of the road that has been under construction for the last five years and still has a gap of 20 miles.

But they got little or no support from the men who fear that opening up the village will drive away the free-spending summer tourists, who are Killarney's main source of revenue and like it for its unspoiled isolation.

ROAD CONTROVERSY — The women of Killarney, a small summer resort on Georgian Bay, are demanding completion of a road that will end the village's isolation by land from other Ontario communities.

A road between the village and the Burwash Industrial farm has been under construction for five years but a 20-mile gap (broken line on map) still remains to be completed. The road would join Highway 69.

Only outside link at present is by water to Little Current in the summer and by air or across ice in the winter. (CP Newsmap)

MOTHER'S APPEAL

Leading the women is Mrs. Basil Roque, mother of seven. When fog grounded air services recently, cutting off bread and milk supplies, she telephoned Sudbury television station CKSO-TV to complain that the community was in danger of starving.

Mrs. Roque charges the village council has asked the Ontario highways department to go slow on building the road which, when completed, will link Killarney with Highway 69 at the Burwash Industrial farm south of Sudbury.

She said that except for the 50 men from here working on the new road not one in the village has a full - time winter job.

Councillors deny there is any go - slow plan.

The road is a matter of life and death to our people but the government doesn't seem to be doing anything about it," said 72-year - old Mrs. Nancy Pittfield, a Killarney native who earned a nursing degree at Hotel Dieu in Montreal and has been the unofficial doctor here for the last 50 years. During that time she has delivered 312 babies.

FLYING AMBULANCE

Most emergencies are handled by Bruce Rogers, 26, a former Mountie who flies between Little Current and Killarney. He flew sick people to hospital last month. Cost of the flight is $18 each way.

Tom Jackman, spokesman for the men, says: "Seventy - five per cent of the people don't want the road completed. What else would the people of Killarney have to do if they didn't have this road to build? The fishing industry kept the people before, but now it's all shot."

The man in the middle, conductor Joe Ellis of Massey, Ont., maintains the only thing holding up completion of the road is the rugged terrain.

"It's terrible. We have to blast our way along through rock. And we're up against a lot of muskeg and beaver dams."

Congregational Meeting

ST. ANDREW'S UNITED

MARMORA — St. Andrew's United Church of Marmora, held its congregational meeting following a pot-luck supper served by the W.A. with a large number of the congregation present.

Copies of financial statements of each branch of the church were distributed which was a departure from the oral reports usually given.

The Sunday School superintendent, Mr. James Sproule, gave the average attendance for the year as 130. Last Sunday 143 attended.

There are 25 members in the senior choir with Mrs. J. M. D. McLeod as organist, with Mrs. A. F. Fraser as assistant. Their work has been much appreciated.

The junior choir's work has been outstanding with the sextette being called to sing at other church functions.

Mr. S. Sandham, clerk of the session, was re-elected and five new members were added. They are Messrs. Glen Watson, D. F. Marett, R. E. Neal, J. Cram, and V. Glover. Mr. McLeod reported 12 weddings, 31 baptisms and 11 funerals during the year.

R. E. Neal was re-elected chairman of stewards which were re-elected. The trustees were also re-elected.

Miss Richardson, secretary of the W.A. and Mrs. Thomas Bolman secretary of the W.M.S. gave reports on the activities of their organizations.

The Rev. J. M. D. McLeod reported on the growth of the C.G.I.T. and James Sproule, chairman of the M. and M. Fund, gave a report.

Mr. L. Stetson was appointed secretary of church activities, thus avoiding conflicting dates of church functions. All branches are to report coming events and have the dates sanctioned.

The Rev. J. Glover was again appointed treasurer of the Board, with Mr. J. Cram and Mr. A. F. Fraser as auditors.

Following the election of naming of officers there was a lengthy discussion of a proposed new addition to the church. Mr. Don Marett showed plans received from Craig and Zeidler, Peterborough architects, for a separate building on the east lawn. Mr. V. Glover and Mr. L. Stetson had consulted a representative of the Wells association a professional fund raising organization. A representative from the Wells company will visit Marmora congregation this coming week.

Vienna-Born Artist Repairs Damage Done to 6 Paintings Stolen From Toronto Gallery

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—For the second time in six years Vienna-born Edvard Zukowski is repairing damage to Peter Paul Rubens' famous painting, Elevation of the Cross.

Both times, the damage was caused when the masterpiece was stolen.

In the first major theft from the Toronto Art Gallery in May, 1954, the 17th-century work was taken out on a stretcher and was recovered only slightly damaged in nearby Queen's Park.

The work was one of six looted from the gallery again last Sept. 14. These six were recovered less than a month later, rolled up in proper fashion—paintside up—in a west end garage. But when the six paintings were stolen that time they were cut from their frames, and damage was more extensive.

CAREFUL RESTORATION

The work of weaving the torn edges together, repairing chipped paint and generally restoring the paintings was begun by Mr. Zukowski shortly after the latest theft.

"It will be spring before all six works are completed," he said. The stolen paintings were: Isaak Abrahamsz Massa and Vincent Laurensz van der Vinne by Frans Hals; Portrait of a Lady with a Lap Dog and Portrait of a Lady with a Handkerchief by Rembrandt; Portrait de Claude by Auguste Renoir; and the Elevation of the Cross by Rubens.

The old protective coating of varnish has loosened from the paintings and created cloudy patches on the works. The exacting job of removing the old varnish is carried out in two-inch patches.

"This is the most dangerous job," Mr. Zukowski explained. A special cleaning solution is applied to remove the varnish, then a neutralizer is added "just like in a permanent" to stop the action so that the paint won't be damaged.

DISCOVER CHANGES

Previous repairs and corrections by the artist are sometimes revealed when the cracked and yellowed varnish is removed and a new backing applied.

Two such corrections by Frans Hals have shown up in the restored portrait of Isaak Abrahamsz Massa. It now is apparent that the artist originally intended his subject's hat to be larger and that he changed the lace on the sleeves of the coat.

As the work goes, the old paint tends to become transparent and corrections made by the artist show through the top coat of paint, explained Mr. Zukowski. The discovered protective varnish usually hides the artist's secret. Although the true colors re-emerge when the paintings are stored, gallery officials would sooner not touch the old masters.

Paintings are valuable in two ways, he said — because of the artist who has done them and the condition of the work.

As soon as damage becomes known the value of a picture is reduced, Mr. Baldwin expects these paintings, which were frequently loaned in the past, will lose some of their attraction with the new repairs.

Portrait of a Lady with Handkerchief was on loan to the gallery from Mrs. R. Y. Eaton. The other Rembrandt, Lady with Lap Dog, and the two Frans Hals portraits were acquired by the gallery in 1955. The Renoir work was purchased in 1955, and the Rubens in 1928.

INTERNATIONAL CITY

The Moroccan port of Casablanca has an African setting, a Spanish name and an international population.

RESTORES PAINTINGS — Edward Zukowski, an employee of the Toronto Art Gallery, repairs damage to one of six masterpieces stolen from the gallery late in 1959 and recovered a month later. He is shown here working on Peter Rubens' 17th century masterpiece "The Elevation of the Cross." The stolen paintings were recovered in a Toronto garage but had been cut from their frames and damaged extensively. Mr. Zukowski, a native of Vienna, expects the work of weaving torn edges, removing old varnish and repairing chipped paint will take until spring. (CP Photo).

Precipitation Above Normal In S. Ontario

In its monthly Ontario weather review, the weather office reported that the bulk of snow was recorded at Muskoka at the end of the month. This was 20 inches more than usual and represents an above normal precipitation of two inches, calculated on the basis of 10 inches of snow equaling one inch of rain.

Elsewhere in Southern Ontario snowfall was near normal, but rainfall was heavier than usual. The Toronto area, which averages just under one inch, recorded 1-3 inches of rain.

Precipitation in Northern Ontario was half an inch to one inch below normal with little freezing rain. Only 10 to 11 inches of snow was recorded, against a normal of 20 inches.

Average maximum temperatures were just above normal in most of Southern Ontario and two to five degrees above normal in Northern Ontario.

REHABILITATION MOVE

WINDSOR (CP) — Commissioner W. Wycliffe Booth, leader of the Salvation Army in Canada, called Monday for construction of government-sponsored institutions for the rehabilitation of alcoholics and prostitutes. Commissioner Booth told Windsor Rotary Club that in 1958 there were 27,000 known alcoholics in Canada and added that Toronto alone has "hundreds of prostitutes."

Albury

ALBURY — Mr. and Mrs. H. Weese spent the tea hour Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner.

The Albury euchre was held in the school on Monday evening with nine tables in play. The winners were: ladies, Mrs. W. LaTour and Mrs. Fern Church; low, Marjorie Peck. Men: Ken Higgins, Earl Onderdonk; low, Peter Dafoe. Lunch was served.

Several attended the quilting at the school on Tuesday and a number came for dinner. Proceeds $15.30.

Mrs. Lela Weeks spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bonter.

A goodly number attended Quinte Chapter, O.E.S., euchre at Ameliasburg on Tuesday evening. There were 20 tables in play. Lunch was served.

The Albury Sunday school and Y.P.A. held a skating party at Brighton arena on Wednesday evening.

Felix Adler, 50 Years Under Big Top, Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Felix Adler, 62, who tickled five decades of circus audiences by waddling around the rings in a droopy clown's suit followed by honking piglets, died Monday.

Adler, who left the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus last May after 50 years under the big top, died during an operation—his second since Jan. 15 when he entered hospital suffering from an ulcer.

Adler knew the same gimmicks got laughs year after year, and his life was dedicated to laughter.

Children and grown-ups alike roared when he topped his grotesquely mishapen costume with a tiny umbrella or when the red light glowed in the tip of his make-believe nose.

But his piglets, always the tiniest creatures he could find, provided the biggest laughs. He trained them to stand on their hind legs and to prance along with him around the rings.

COVER ARTIST — Free-lance artist James Hill, 29, of Hamilton does many his wife a sample of the type of cover she paints for three United States publishers of pocket-size books. Mr. Hill says publishers still want half-dressed women on covers. But they are ask for impressions of more elegant women. Mr. Hill and his wife Margaret, an artist from Peterborough, Ont., pose for the photographs which are used in preliminary sketches for the covers. (CP Photo).

Covers on Paperback Books Becoming Less Voluptuous Says Free Lance Artist

TORONTO (CP) — The sexy covers on the paperback books in your corner drugstore are here to stay but they've becoming slightly less voluptuous.

That's the view of James Hill, 29-year-old Hamilton - born freelance commercial artist who makes his living painting covers for three United States firms which publish the pocked - sized books.

"The general view of women on paperback covers has changed," he said in an interview. "Publishers now want an impression of women that is more fanatical and more elegant. They want a higher class woman on covers but they still want to show her half dressed."

One of the reasons they're able to get this sexy deception more now than a few years ago is because "there's a better class of artists now offering work for the covers." Hill says their work is more skilful and more polished.

SEX IN STORY

As a guiding rule to paperback cover design, Hill finds "the more sex there is in the story the less necessity of selling the book with a sexy cover."

He also finds "the better known the author the less need for a sexy jacket to attract attention."

Hill has been designing paperback covers for 18 months and has completed some 30 of them for Dell, Signet and Pocket Books Inc.

He's a modest young man who himself rates himself into the artistic specialty after a Toronto engraving company let him out in 1951 because there wasn't enough work for its large staff.

After a few turns at free-lance magazine illustration on a freelance basis he went to work for and was married. Before the month was out he had his first cover assignment, "Low Down," a Dell paperback about a young singer. He painted her scantily-clad and in bright, eye-catching colors.

MORE FLOWS IN

Now the couple just flows in from the New York publishing houses and the bearded artist is considering moving with his wife Margaret and their two young children there.

At present they live in a small rented house on the northeastern outskirts of Metropolitan Toronto in a cluster of houses shown on the maps as Hillcrest Village. The low - ceilinged upstairs is his studio.

Work begins when the publisher sends him a selection of titles usually two or four at a time and suggests deadlines of something like two weeks.

If the book is a classic, such as Charlotte Bronte's "Jane Eyre" for which he did a recent cover, he gets a copy at the library. If it's a little-known work the publisher sends him the original hardcover book.

He treats paperback covers as a form of art and tried to re-create the mood of the book in simple realistic design using bright colors and the female form as eye-catchers. He can usually do a sketch in a day.

WIFE IS MODEL

His models are himself and his beautiful blond wife, Margaret, herself a commercial artist until the arrival of their second child who now is three. They pose for each other before their Polaroid Land camera which produces quick, self - made positive prints from which he does the sketching.

After the sketch has been approved, sometimes not without being redone, the finished work takes another three to five days to complete and paint on an oil board some 10 times the size of the actual cover.

Hill, who began painting in his hometown where he studied art at the Hamilton Technical Institute, calls himself simply a commercial artist and harbors a desire to do a masterpiece in oils. His medium is carein-based water colors.

It was while freelancing in 1951 that he met Margaret Stewart, then assistant art director for the Canadian Home Journal. She had come to Toronto from Peterborough, Ont., to study art at Central Technical School.

"She was a much better painter than I," Hill says of the girl he later married. "She did some quite good portraits. But that was before Christopher was born. Since then there is no time or opportunity for both of us to paint."

SAYS SHIP SANK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Norwegian yachtsman has told the state department that a yacht on which an Oddensburg, N.Y., girl was believed to be sailing sank in the Atlantic Ocean in October. Peter Tangvald told the department can consulate office in Martinique he is certain the yacht, Raider, sank on a trip out of port with Miss Harriet Benton, 22, of Oddensburg, and Colin Gallon, an Englishman, are believed to have been aboard.

Trade Policies Attacked by Liberal Member

OTTAWA (CP) — A former Liberal cabinet minister said Tuesday night he doesn't know whether the Progressive Conservative government supports free trade or protectionism.

Interviewed on the CBC television program Press Conference, Paul Martin, member of the Commons for Essex East, said the government's trade policies were "ad hoc." The government addressed itself to trade situations on the basis of expediency, political expediency in some cases.

Asked whether he favored unfettered free trade, he said he supported this "as an objective."

Mr. Martin, whose constituency takes in the motor city of Windsor, said he did not think free trade would injure the Canadian automobile industry. He said this also was the view of the captains of this industry.

Two More Bills Dealt With Death Penalty Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Two more private bills dealing with the death penalty were introduced in the Commons Tuesday.

Both presented by John Drysdale (Conservative, Burnaby-Richmond), one would abolish the death penalty for crimes of arson but retain it for the murder of a policeman or prison guard and for murder committed during violent theft or robbery and those in which explosives are used. The second would abolish the death penalty for treason and for a person convicted of two or more murders.

Mr. Drysdale's second bill would provide for a penalty of death or life imprisonment for non-addict drug traffickers.

New System For Speeches Is Advanced

OTTAWA (CP)—A system of "speaker's chairs" in Parliament was suggested jokingly Tuesday in the Commons.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Toronto Greenwood) noted during the budget debate William L. Houck (L—Niagara Falls) had said it cost an estimated $10,000 to send him to Parliament and that therefore a 20-minute speech was worth $600.

Mr. Macdonnell suggested a "meter could get so much for everyone who stayed in to listen to him." There might be an extra charge for anybody who left each member who stayed in "and did not walk out."

With a flat $600 payment for a speech, members might forget their address and decide "I will take the $600."

Hoodlums Run Protection Racket in Montreal But Law Has No Complaint Before It

MONTREAL (CP) — Strong-arm hoodlums run an ugly protection racket in Montreal while the law stands by helplessly.

"We have no complaints to work on," is the bitter explanation of deputy police director Romeo Longpre, a 30-year veteran with the force.

"Victims are afraid to come forward and tell us about it. We can't collect sufficient evidence for convictions in court. But there appears to be little doubt extortion rings are operating."

He said in an interview they first appeared here about three or four years ago, forcing victims to make "insurance" payments against beatings and property damage.

So far the thugs have preyed only on taverns and night clubs, notoriously wooing independently. But at least three of Montreal's 22 murders last year were traced to the racket.

ENTERTAINERS PROTEST

The latest development came last month when more than 300 night club entertainers applied for a court order to halt what they described as a $10-a-week "kickback" racket.

Deputy director Longpre said police were not called in on the case.

The performers—dancers, singers, comedians and musicians were all members of the American Guild of Variety Artists (CLC), which has negotiated contracts with 80 Montreal clubs. Edgar Hamilton Technical Institute, calls himself simply a commercial artist and harbors a desire to do a masterpiece in oils. His medium is carein-based water colors.

Eddie Black, guild representative, was reported to have been beaten unconscious in early January when he refused to hand over on east-end St. Catherine Street on the night he was visited by some of the thugwits.

Early last year a flare-up of violence tipped police that the protection thugs were putting the pressure on the operators of several east - end bars mirrors were shattered, tables and chairs smashed to splinters and patrons warned to stay away.

But the operators—with fear apparently replacing rebellion—declined to file official complaints and there was nothing police could do.

Then a story of terror came to light in court testimony arising from three slayings in lower St. Lawrence Boulevard, a gaudy night club strip and underworld haunt known as the Main.

Yvon Verville, 33, a burly tavern waiter charged with stabbing two men to death Jan. 14, 1959, testified he had been paying protection money to them for six months prior to the knifing. First it was $5 a week, said Verville, then $10 and finally $20.

When he refused to pay anymore, his boss fired him, saying he had been warned the taverns would be wrecked unless he did so.

RECALLS STRUGGLE

Verville said he met the two victims, Lucien Mesnier, 47, and Jean-Paul Servant, 33, and after an exchange of words Servant suddenly produced a knife.

In the wild struggle, Mesnier and Servant were fatally stabbed.

Verville pleaded guilty to manslaughter and May 16 was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary.

A week later Gilles Petit, 24, a recreation worker, was shot to death while walking on the sidewalk in front of another tavern by one of the innocent victim of a gun fight.

Robert Miron, 23, also a waiter, was sentenced June 3 to eight years in penitentiary for manslaughter and lesser sentences were imposed on four of five brothers of the Dubois family.

Police said the court he had refused to pay the Dubois brothers for protection and we know you don't come across you'll get hurt."

STARTED CARRYING PISTOL

He said he started to carry a pistol after the Petit killing.

The day Petit was killed, the brothers went to the tavern and beat up Miron badly.

Blood-covered, he crawled to the home of Eddie Black for car and he said he heard someone [illegible] shoot.

Miron fired and a hot struck Jean Guy Dubois, 23, married while the case was before the courts, was sentenced to two years for assault with intent to maim and illegally possessing a pistol. His brothers Normand, 25, Rene, 23, and Claude, 22, received lesser terms.

Another brother, Raymond, 27, was acquitted.

END OF A HEIFER — Elizabeth, a one-year-old Holstein heifer, turns away as veterinarian Dr. George Harrison of Aylmer, Ont., prepares to shoot tranquillizer pellets into her. A short time later Elizabeth died, ending a brief and strange existence. At various times her split personality got the better of her and she thought she was a deer or a pony. It was then that owner Leroy Guest wanted to get her away from ponies on a nearby farm. He asked that the nicotine sulphate pellets be used to stun the heifer. But the unpredictable drug proved fatal. (CP Photo).

Virus Traced to Ticks Carried By Squirrels, Rabbits, Chipmunks

SUDBURY (CP)—A form of deadly encephalitis has been traced to ticks carried by squirrels, rabbits and chipmunks, says Dr. D. M. McLean, virologist at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, who says residents elsewhere should avoid handling these animals.

A vaccine will have to be found to protect against the virus.

Dr. McLean called the virus, it was discovered and named by Dr. McLean after the death of a boy from Powassan, 20 miles south of North Bay, where the boy died in the Hospital for Sick Children.

"Anyone who handles any of these animals is laying himself open to the probability of getting the virus," Dr. McLean said in an interview. "I would warn children especially to keep their hands off these animals and not make pets of them."

DOING RESEARCH

He is doing research work on the Powassan virus in the Sudbury, Manitoulin areas. One project is taking blood samples from 12 members of the lands and forest's outdoors staff. Dr. McLean also has seven men hired their work likely have been in contact with the virus-carrying tick.

The disease attacks the brain and can cause fatal or partial paralysis unless antibodies fight it off. It is a distinct form of encephalitis as "most people are highly susceptible.

Dr. McLean has up evidence of the virus in blood studied at blood banks.

TO SOME LIKE FLU

"In our first samples of blood from Sudbury we found no traces of antibodies," he said. "More recently, blood samples have shown that a few people in Sudbury have had the virus . . . they probably thought they had a touch of flu."

Dr. McLean said his investigations so far show that there are "a lot of cold" carriers of the strain. Ticks in one area have been found to be loaded with the virus while those 50 miles away are not.

o stress the seriousness of the virus, Dr. McLean recalled a recent outbreak of encephalitis in New Jersey in which 21 of the 24 victims died. Those who survived left mentally retarded and only one made a complete recovery.

Most people, however, appear to throw off the Powassan virus. Dr. McLean said that tests convinced us that many people have had it without knowledge," said Dr. McLean.

RECORD DAMAGES

LONDON (Reuters)—A judge ordered Mrs. Elizabeth Rose Lee £51,865 ($138,460)—believed to be the highest ever given by an English court—for personal injuries—to a Canadian stockbroker who lost a leg in a water skiing accident. Stockbroker Peter Hubbard, 50, of Montreal, was thrown from a motorboat owned and driven off Monte Carlo by Anthony Hubbard, son of the man who introduced the Woolworth chain stores to Britain and partner to a $6,000,000 fortune.

Ontario Jersey Club Threatens To Leave League

KITCHENER (CP) — The Ontario Jersey Club has threatened to withdraw from the Ontario Whols Milk League if the price differential for butter fat content is increased.

J. D. Oliver of Toronto, the club's business manager, says the league is asking for the increase to squeeze jersey producers out of the market.

He said the league, which contributes distributors in Ontario, passed a resolution at its annual meeting that the present 70-per-cent differential be directly related to the price of butterfat.

This would increase the price paid by dairies for jersey milk by about 40 cents a hundred weight. Dairies would not then be able to sell it.

Toronto dairies now pay $3.10 a hundredweight for standard 3.6-per-cent butterfat milk, he said, and $5.65 for five-per-cent jersey milk.

John Dull of Brampton, chairman of the club's milk committee, said if requested negotiations between the league and jersey and Guernsey milk producers fail to settle the differential question breeders will leave the league.

GAS WAR

OTTAWA (CP)—Motorists got a break Tuesday as most motor gasoline companies dropped the price of their products by two cents a gallon after a number of stations slashed prices over the week-end. The reduction brings the price to motorists at regular-grade gas to 40.9 cents a gallon and of premium gas to 43.9 cents.

British General Tells Reason For Not Carrying Out Order

LONDON (CP)—British General Sir John Crocker told a court Tuesday he still thinks he was justified in refusing to carry out a wartime order by Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of the 1st Canadian Army.

Speaking quietly and without bitterness, Crocker added that he is sorry to hear Crerar attributed the refusal to personal or emotional considerations.

The British general, now retired and living in London, made the comments to a reporter who was standing in the corridor during the last volume of an official history of the Canadian Army, just published in Canada.

The history by Col. C. P. Stacey and entitled The Victory Campaign, says at one point that Crocker declined justified to carry out Crerar's order for an operation near Caen, France, after the 1944 landings.

The history says that Crerar, writing in the Canadian Army Journal Montgomery, conveyed the impression that Crocker, his subordinate officer, "resented being placed under my command and receiving any directive from me."

Crerar's letter said further: "I do not know whether this attitude is personal or because of the fact that I am a Canadian."

In London Tuesday, Crocker said it is "absurd" to think that Crerar was anti-British or anything but military considerations.

"I am very reluctant to discuss matters "should have been disclosed in this way," he said. "The occasion relates to an initial phase that occurred during some time ago. Our relations later were admirable, and I consider myself a friend of Gen. Crerar."

Crocker, commander of the 1st British Corps under Crerar, said he lacked the resources for the operation and it was "completely out of control" at the time Montgomery's objectives in the area.

"In my view it was a perfectly strong view, it was an impracticable operation.

"There comes a time when a responsible commander must say what is thinks. So I told Gen. Crerar I was sorry I could not carry out the operation. I was quite right in going to Montgomery and telling him this."

Crocker said Montgomery supported him without a "moment's hesitation."

Crocker, 64, now is vice-chairman of the Imperial War Graves Commission.

The Stacey history emphasizes that the relationship between Crocker and Crerar continued "without any serious friction and with, apparently, steadily increasing mutual regard."

Elizabeth, Holstein Heifer, Had a Split Personality, Wanted to Live With Ponies

AYLMER, Ont. (CP)—This is the sad but true story of Elizabeth, a lively, sensitive, brown-eyed one-year-old whose brief span of life ended tragically.

Perhaps in the end it was all for the best. Elizabeth could hardly have gone on living in a world of make-believe—a world where, like Alice in Wonderland, she did not belong.

Elizabeth was a Holstein heifer with a split personality. For at least two months of her brief life she apparently thought she was a pony.

During her last 60 days she lived with a band of ponies, romping in play like an awkward, over - grown sister; eating her with them; accepted and content.

ONCE WAS NORMAL

Elizabeth was born on the farm of Leroy Guest at Mossley, a few miles east of this western Ontario town. For a time she behaved no differently than any other heifer on the farm.

It wasn't until last summer, after she and her sisters had been put out to pasture on the farm of Mr. Guest's brother-in-law, Jack Burroughs, that a hitherto latent schizophrenia became apparent.

She drew away from the other heifers and took to spending much of her time in the farm woodlot, hiding in the heavy brush, sensitive to any danger that threatened her newly-found freedom and constantly on the alert.

This strange behavior, however, did not particularly concern either Mr. Guest or his brother-in-law since the area was fenced. They could catch her when they wanted her. Or so they thought.

BECAME A PROBLEM

They realized they had a real problem when they discovered one day this Elizabeth was jumping fences as gracefully as a deer. Efforts to capture her ended in frustration.

No one could come within 75 feet before she was off at a gallop. Perhaps at this time she thought she was a deer and perhaps that's the way it would have ended had she not found the ponies.

They were next door on the farm of Alvin Turpin, Mr. Burroughs' father-in-law—five fiery mares and a stallion called Dandy named Claude who had the run of the hilly, eight-acre field, just right for browsing, climbing and fun.

RIGHT AT HOME

She forgot all about being a deer and decided on the spot—it was a pony. The farmers delivered hay to the field every day and Elizabeth had stood at a safe distance until he had gone, then join her friends for lunch.

Late in January, still anxious to retrieve his delinquent heifer, Mr. Guest asked Dr. George Harrison, Aylmer veterinarian, to shoot Liz with a tranquilizer pellet.

The veterinarian came with Lloyd Stock, assistant district biologist for the department of lands and forests. They shot pellets filled with nicotine sulphate into Elizabeth's hind quarters. Elizabeth went down but not without a struggle. Finally she burst through a barbed wire fence into an evergreen woodlot, stumbled and was captured.

The men put her carefully into a truck for the long ride home but it was no use. She died on the way.

Mr. Guest had known the risk when he tried to capture her. The reaction of his drug on any given animal is impossible to foretell accurately although as in most cases the results are not harmful or fatal.

Witness Gives Evidence in Own Bedroom

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Gina C. Mallet, 30-year-old free lance, couldn't go to court because she was in bed with flu a few days ago. So the court went to her.

Thaxis conveyed a 21-member party to her home on west-end Ruskin Avenue. It included Mr. Justice F. R. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court, counsel and reporters and a jury of twelve.

While the group stood in her bedroom, Dr. Mallet, a psychiatrist, a pathologist, gave evidence on tests she had made on the alleged rape victim, Lucien Bertrand, charged in the case, stood nearby. Her husband hurt inside the door.

After 12 minutes of evidence taking, Mr. Justice Barlow thanked Mrs. Mallkin and the court returned to the court room.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A comprehensive 20-year traffic plan costing $51,000,000 was recommended for the London area Monday night in a report submitted to city council by traffic engineers A. D. Margison and Associates.

Improved Economic Climate Cause of Immigration Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — The flow of immigrants to Canada in the 1959 topped British arrivals for the second year in the post-war period.

Statistics issued Tuesday by the immigration department show that more than one-quarter of the 106,928 immigrants who arrived last year were of Italian ethnic origin.

British arrivals totalled 26,822, a slight decrease from 28,564 in 1958. Immigrants from northern and western Europe declined sharply to 19,321 from 25,622.

One of the main reasons for the drop in British immigration is the improved economic climate in Britain.

Consequently the immigration department now is conducting a drive to speed the flow of skilled immigrants from Britain and western Europe. Emphasis is being placed on attracting immigrants with skills and professions.

Arrivals of 106,928 in 1959 represented a decrease of 17,923 compared with 124,851 in 1958 and was 62 per cent below 1957's figure of 282,164.

Immigration from the United States totalled 11,238, up from 10,846 in 1958.

Within basic groups, only 11 showed increases over last year. The biggest increase was in arrivals of Portuguese at 4,350, up from 2,177 in 1958.

Polish immigrants rose to 3,733 from 2,966, Negro to 989 from 781 and Jewish to 2,686 from 2,292.

Immigration Minister Fairclough said in the Commons Tuesday that nearly 1,400 stateless refugees entered Canada in the last six months of 1959.

The immigration department said arrivals of immigrants of English origin declined to 31,938 from 36,000 in 1958 and 2,489 from 3,291. Scottish to 4,508 from 5,5, Irish to 2,678 from 3,169 and Welsh to 428 from 640.

German arrivals fell to 10,781 from 14,449 in 1958, French to 1,797 from 2,190 and Dutch to 2,354 from 7,555.

Of the 106,928 immigrants who arrived in 1959, 53,551 were destined to the labor force and 53,377 were dependents. The 53,551 workers included only 8,940 listed as housewives.

Nearly three-quarters of the workers were between 20 and 44. Only 4,000 immigrants were 60 years of age or over.

PARASITE CONTROLLED — After years of experimenting Canadian and U.S. scientists believe they have gained control of the sea lamprey, a deadly parasite which has destroyed the trout and white fish industry in the Great Lakes. Using an underwater electrical barrier and a recently-developed spawning ground poison scientists have reduced the number of these eel-like primitive fish in the lakes. The lamprey kills by fastening itself to a fish and sucking out blood. They have been known to stay attached to prey for as long as two weeks, slowly killing it. The lamprey's almost-circular mouth is lined with pointed teeth and fitted with a rasped tongue. (CP Photo).

Canadian, U.S. Scientists Optimistic of Victory in Battle Against Sea Lamprey

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian and United States scientists now seem optimistic of victory in their battle against the sea lamprey in Lake Superior. In fact, it looks like a rout.

For the last four years, operating under the 1955 treaty that set up the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission, the scientists have co - operated in a crash program to kill off enough of Superior's lamprey to save the last known refuge of trout in the five lakes.

Using water - activated electrical shocks and a radical spawning-ground poison, they appear to have killed sufficient millions of these ugly blood - sucking creatures to be able to say that at least they have gained control of them.

Firm evidence of this now is being sought. It consists of a count of would-be spawning lampreys killed at electric barriers erected on the lake's tributary streams, along with the number of netted trout bearing scars indicating a lamprey attack.

The commission hopes to have this proof of success by Spring.

EXPANDING OPERATIONS

Meanwhile, it plans this year to use its anti - lamprey techniques in Lakes Huron and Michigan where even bigger trout fisheries were wiped out several years ago, and in Georgian Bay where the few remaining pockets of lake trout are believed near collapse as a result of the lamprey invasion.

The trout - killer is the Atlantic species of lamprey, one of several known to exist in the Great Lakes. It has been in the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario for centuries.

A primitive, eel - like fish, it grows to a length of 12 to 24 inches. It kills by fastening itself to a fish with an almost-circular mouth lined with pointed teeth and fitted with a rasped tongue. There is stays, sucking blood while one of its special glands dissolves the torn flesh.

The opening of the Welland Canal in 1829 enabled these fast-swimming vampires to bypass Niagara Falls, but because they prefer cold water it took them nearly 100 years to cross warm, shallow Lake Erie.

ONLY 50 POUNDS

Within 18 years after first being spotted in Lake Huron in 1938, they reduced that lake's annual catch of lake trout from 6,000,000 pounds to about 50. Then Superior took over. Lake Michigan and by 1953 had wiped out a commercial trout fishery which in 1946 — the last good year—had yielded 5,500,000 pounds.

By the time the commission was established in 1955, the only remaining large quantity of lake trout was in Lake Superior. Even there the lampreys reduced the catch to some 1,500,000 pounds in 1959 from 4,700,000 in 1950.

Now there is a definite sign of encouragement for Superior. The lamprey, which won't attach itself to a small fish as long as there is a big one around, appears to have been controlled before it got around to feeding on the younger generation of trout.

Supplementing the natural propagation of these young survivors, about 700,000 hatchery-reared trout yearlings were planted in Superior last year in a co - operative effort by Ontario and the states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. A slightly greater number are expected to be planted this year.

"In only one case can we report anything but complete success," he said.

"So far we have treated stream areas which produce up to 40 per cent of the lamprey population in Lake Superior."

Although it took the lampreys only a few years to make a drastic reduction in Superior's lake trout population, few biologists are prepared to say how long it will take the lake to regain its original stature. This could take two years or 15 — depending on growth conditions and other variable factors.

The cost of the lamprey control program so far has been close to $5,000,000. The sharing formula has been about one - third Canada, two - thirds the U.S. — relative to the approximate benefits each country could expect.

BRIGITTE BACK AT WORK

PARIS (AP)—Brigitte Bardot returned to the studios Monday for the first time since giving birth to a son, Nicolas, two weeks ago. The actress started rehearsals for La Verite (The Truth). Henri - Georges Clouzot, the master of suspense who did The Wages of Fear, is directing the new film.

This Could Be the Answer To Many Senior A Problems

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Lindsay Junior C hockey players do some of their heaviest work after the game, and not because they run the team themselves.

Players had to decide whether to give up or take charge after their sponsor abandoned them in December.

"The sponsor left and the team folded on a Friday night," said Dave Waisman, 18, who plays centre and is a club director. "We phoned the players on a Saturday, had a meeting on Sunday and were back in business Monday. We actually missed only one game."

VOTE ON EVERYTHING

"It sure is different from playing on any other team," says defenceman Al Pearson, 19, a club director. "We have a vote on everything, from buying new sticks to our playing system. Also the rules we have imposed on ourselves are stricter than with most teams."

"If a player breaks a stick by slapping it on the boards or banging it on the ice he has to buy a new one," says Waisman. "If a player misses or is late for a practice he's benched. If he gets a misconduct penalty he has to pay the $10 fine to the Ontario Hockey Association himself. We won't pay it, and until he pays it out of his own pocket he doesn't play."

Waisman also says "the players are to clean up after the ring room, take care of their own equipment and help the managers to see the equipment is properly stored away."

"The club also responsible for balancing the books, buying new equipment, arranging practice time, placing advertisements in newspapers, making travelling arrangements and all other details connected with running the club.

To meet OHA rules they have three adults on the executive—real estate man Ray Lawson, Mrs. R. Pvesley and Mrs. N. Pyett.

"GOOD EXPERIENCE"

"It's good experience for us," says Waisman. "We are getting more out of hockey than most players on regular teams. But there are times when we wonder if we took on too much."

The team has recently been plagued with injuries. Missing for long periods are Ralph Anderson and Presley but all were expected back before the playoffs.

The club has a bye into the Junior C playdowns since there are no other competing teams in their area. We must play 24 games for completion. In the D loop we have sunk to second place since the injuries started. How are they doing financially? "So far we're making money," said Pearson. "And if we've got any left at the end of the year we're going to buy ourselves some jackets."

Maybe Calgary was lucky it didn't get the 1964 Winter Olympic Games. The Westerners would have had to flush out more oil wells to pay the costs of such an undertaking.

In case Calgarians haven't heard, a lot of frustration, squabbling and plain hard work, plus about $20,000,000, has been necessary to provide some $00 athletes from 31 countries with the necessary fa - i i l i t i e s for next month's Winter Games at Squaw Valley, Calif. It is reasonable to assume that Calgary's costs would be about the same.

At Squaw Valley there is an 8,500 - seat $5,000,000 arena, courtesy of the United States government, and an Olympic village, a little city in itself, courtesy of the state of California. The state's contribution so far: $8,000,000 and, say experts, another $1,000,000 might be needed to pay the bills after the Feb. 18-28 Games.

H.D. Thoreau, managing director of the 11 - day winter carnival, sees only minor problems remaining. But it has been a great fight since 1955 when the state Olympic commission first asked the California legislature for $1,000,000.

Twice more, additional funds were sought. The lawmakers came through, but only after bitter argument. Then there were negotiations with landowners and there squabbles were no picnic. They've had to build a 400-metre speed - skating oval, ski jumps, an Olympic village to house the competitors and officials, village post office, bank, telephone office, four dormitories, a 14 - bed hospital, two theatres and several recreation buildings.

Athletes will sit in a 8,000-seat centre, a magnificent structure with a huge, grey stone fireplace and 90 - foot - plus ceiling.

A minor headache cropped up when Olympic officials tried to get bilingual or multi - lingual personnel for the kitchen and dining room. A dishwasher was the only job without a two - language requirement. One boy, a student from India, speaks five languages.

Menus will be printed in at least five languages, and placed in all rooms so everyone may know what's ahead. Lunch and dinner will be high protein—featuring meat, cheese, eggs and unlimited quantities of milk, fresh fruit and juices, honey, raisins and chocolate bars.

Not on the menu, but available, are beer, wine and even aquavit. Steak will be served twice a week and the men in charge of food hire know what's ahead. Lunch and dinner will be high protein—featuring meat, cheese, eggs and unlimited quantities of milk, fresh fruit and juices, honey, raisins and chocolate bars.

Lunch and dinner will be high protein—featuring meat, cheese, eggs and unlimited quantities of milk, fresh fruit and juices, honey, raisins and chocolate bars.

About the only thing needed now to make the Games a success is a big turnout of spectators. But officials aren't optimistic. A maximum 35,000 - capacity crowd limit has been set by the Olympic Committee for events such as the cross - country skiing, but tickets haven't been sold.

Officials now expect 2,000 to 3,000 visitors a day for week-day competition and 10,000 to 20,000 on the two Saturdays and Sundays involved.

Two World Titles on Live Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The weatherman holds the key to the fate of California's biggest outdoor boxing show—two 15-round world title fights scheduled for Memorial Coliseum Thursday night.

If the elements are fair, upward of 30,000 fans are expected to pay a record gate to see the action.

Promoter Cal Eaton said he is confident the California record gate of $256,521 will be broken. Advance sales are well beyond $200,000.

The fight will go Friday night or Saturday afternoon if postponement is necessary.

West Indies Has Big Task In Cricket Test

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters)—West Indies, set the mammoth task of scoring 301 in 10 hours for victory, struggled grimly for runs on the fifth day of the second test against England today.

With one day left for play, West Indies was 366 runs behind with eight second innings wickets in hand. It was then 134 for two, having made 112 in reply to England's first innings total of 366. England declared its second innings this morning at 230 for nine.

England batted 45 minutes in adding 34 runs for the loss of two wickets before Peter May declared this morning. This left West Indies 10 hours batting but it never looked like accepting the challenge for it soon fell far behind the clock in its anxiety to keep wickets intact against some tight bowling.

Levine Busy Making Money, No Worries Over Charges

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joseph Levine, the bustling Bostonian, was in town to drum his latest product and deal the film Indians some advice on how to survive.

Hollywood might well listen. For Levine is the super-salesman who promoted such imports as Attila and Hercules into immense profits.

As might be expected, he is not without his detractors. There are some who claim he is a junk dealer who hustles wares that are stifled and prettied up, but remain junk. Levine is too busy making money to worry about such accusations.

"Take Hercules," he suggested. "I knew it was not going to be a critics' picture. But I also knew there was something in it that the public would like. And they did."

He cited another of his releases, Attila. No one wanted to issue it in the United States, and it languished for four years until Levine snapped it up for $100,000. The Sophia Loren-Anthony Quinn epic grossed $2,000,000.

"I made money with Attila because there was something in it that the public liked," he said.

But that isn't all it takes for movie moneymakers nowadays, he said. Selling must be added. And that's where he feels the major companies fall down.

"I've seen pictures after picture that could earn millions if they are properly sold. But they won't go all out. They spend a lot of money for advertising in a few towns, then skimp after that. They figure it isn't needed."

Levine spent 14 months in drum beating for Hercules, and about half that for his new release, Jack the Ripper. The former had a record 600 prints in release at once; the latter will go all out with 700.

Wynn, Lahr Give Splendid Performances in Comedy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A team of two great prot—Ed Wynn and Bert Lahr—succeeded Tuesday night in giving humor and heart to what surely was one of the most macabre tales ever presented on television. It was a comedy—repeat, comedy—about a lonely old man determined to hang himself in a desperate effort to achieve some sort of public notice.

The play was Startime's adaptation of The Greatest Man Alive, a 1957 play by Tony Webster. Wynn played the old man who decides to go out with a blaze of notoriety by hanging himself while wearing a derby. Lahr played his obliging pal, who promised to tell the newspapers what a truly great man his friend was.

Wynn and Lahr were funny and heartwarming. But in spite of them the central theme—suicide—had a muting effect on all the fun and on the witty little moral lesson.

Arthur Godfrey, reported feeling fit and too busy to be interviewed, takes off within a few days for a month's visit to India, China and other areas of the Far East. He will tape sequences for future TV specials.

An associate reports Godfrey has completely regained his strength and his appetite, weighs his usual 194 pounds and is still smoking cigars.

His next TV special now is scheduled for May 6—the one originally planned for showing this month but postponed because no sponsor was found.

Recommended tonight:

The Tempest, NBC, 7:30-9 p.m. —An adaptation of Shakespeare's play, with Maurice Evans, Roddy McDowell and Tom Poston.

Kingston Trims Montreal 6-3

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Frontenacs, in last placefor most of the first half of the season, moved into a tie for third spot in the Eastern Professional Hockey League Tuesday night as they trounced Montreal Royals 6-3.

Frontenacs and Trois-Rivieres Lions have 47 points, six less than the Royals. Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds and Hull - Ottawa Canadiens are last, each with 44 points.

SCORELESS FOR CHANGE

Montreal held Kingston's Orval Tessier, the league's top scorer, off the score sheet, but not his teammates. Skip Teal scored three goals while Stan Maxwell, Jerry Ouellette and Barney Krake got the others.

Montreal scorers were Bill Sutherland, Moe Mantha and Fern Perreault.

Kingston scored two goals in each period and their goalie Normand Jacques blocked 29 shots compared with only 19 by Montreal's Claude Cyr.

The same teams battle again tonight at Kingston, only game scheduled.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A little while ago stories that a pack of wolves was roaming the Foulden area, brought out trigger-happy hunters all parts of the district. Helicopters and other seek-gadgets were brought into play but the yield per minrod was negligible.

In fact some furry private eye must have tipped the pack off, for the majority was conspicuous by its absence. They apparently remembered a previous engagement with some polar bears back north of Bancroft.

So the wolfless, bountyless hunters went back home, put away their trusty sawbuzzers and took up bridge, television, poker, wife-beating or whatever their general winter pastime is.

But there is hope for them, if they want to make the long hike.

A letter from a friend of ours down in Decatur, Alabammy, says there's a welcome mat down thataway for hunters of all ages, if they care to draw a bead on Ole Jim Crow.

For down around Decatur is one of the largest concentrations of crows anywheres in the south, or in the United States and Canada for that matter.

Some 250,000 of the ebony marauders are ganged up down there defying all and sundry, government or Republican, to oust them.

The nuisance is so bad, the letter says, that snooty landowners who formerly forbade a rimrod to set foot on their acres, are now throwing their domains open to anyone carrying a gun and crow-murder in his eyes.

The crows, it seems, have been attracted to this area by the feed strips of a United States Wildlife Refuge which cater to nomadic flocks of wild ducks and geese numbering up to 80,000.

The black freeloaders have peppered the fields around the refuge for miles all winter long.

The Refuge movement contrived to break up the "roost" temporarily by holding three hunts for local "gunners." From 100 to 150 appeared each day. They slew 2,000 to 2,500 crows.

That actually didn't break the roost entirely. Brer Crow and his huge flock merely scattered, then settled down again about a mile in every direction.

It is an old story for the boss-man of the Refuge and his staff. A couple of years ago he tried dynamite-bombing; that is, dynamite was wired in the trees and exploded by electricity at intervals after the crows had gone to roost at night.

It killed a few Ole Black Joes, but the rest merely opened their beaks, yawned, moved a few yards out of reach of the blasts, and settled down to sleep.

About the same thing occurred when he used fire-crackers, except that the crows got used to them and wouldn't move at all. Anti-aircraft searchlights played on the roost trees all night long but didn't do any good. The crows merely turned over to keep the light out of their eyes—and went back to sleep.

The packs of hunters seem to be the best bet. They have moved the "roost" about a mile away. Now larger concentrations of hunters are being organized. Electronic crow-callers will be used, so it looks like Brer Crow is in for a blasted good time.

"Open House" has been declared on the dusky invaders, so if any hunters hereabouts want to make the trip, there they are, for free.

CZECHS WANT TO PLAY MACS

As was mentioned in this column some time ago, the Czechoslovakian national hockey team will play a five-game exhibition tour of Canada following the Olympic games. The Czechs will play in Windsor, Kitchener, North Bay and Sudbury. They requested to meet the Belleville McFarlands, but we learned in Kitchener the other night that the twain shall not meet. It would be in Toronto. This, apparently, for financial reasons.

We are also informed that plans are in the making for an exhibition game to be played here between the McFarlands and the Royal Military College team of Kingston for a charity cause. The date has not been decided thus far.

Macs Regain Stride With 4-1 Win Over Dunlops

Muir, Payette, Ike Pace Pack To Well-Deserved Victory Over Man-Shy Loop Leaders

By GEORGE M. CARVER

Sports Editor

There is no sentiment in sport and you couldn't blame the McFarlands for not feeling sorry for the Whitby Dunlops because some of their stars are Olympics bound.

The McFarlands, in a reversal of form from their disastrous Saturday performance, handed the shorthanded Allan Cuppers a decisive 4-1 defeat to keep their playoff hopes agliimmer.

The win enabled the Macs to crawl two points closer to the Chatham Maroons who clost last night to the Windsor Bulldogs by a 8-2 score. The Macs have 32 points, the Maroons 46, and Windsor, now alone in third place, 48.

True the Dunnies had Ralph Hosking up from the Dutchmen but the Macs had Ronnie Muir, Paul Payette and Ike Hildebrand up for the night. And therein lay the tale.

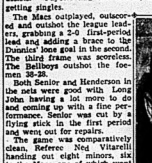
This line was the best on the ice, accounting for two of the Macs goals and six of their eleven scoring points. "Wiener" Brown and Denis Boucher scored the others with both adding assists. Payette had two assists, with Muir, Ike and Bradley getting singles.

The Macs outplayed, outscored and outshot the league leaders, grabbing a 2-0 first-period lead and adding a brace to the Dunnies' lone goal in the second. The game was scoreless. The Belltboys outshot the foemen 38-28.

Both Senior and Henderson in the nets were good with Long John having a bit more to do and coming up with a fine performance. Senior was cut by a flying stick in the first period and went out for repairs.

The game was comparatively clean. Referee Ned Vitarelli handing out eight minutes, six in the Macs, six of which went to Senior. The Jone Whitby goal was scored when the Macs were shorthanded.

The Hildebrand, Payette line was clicking like castanets all night. Payette set up two beautiful goals with his wingers flashing in for fine passing plays to score twice. Muir played one of his best games in a McFarland uniform.



IKE HILDEBRAND

ally of the period but the Dunnies' defence held. Although Payette and Crawford missed scoring.

The Macs outshot the Dunnies 13-7 in the period, Gribbons got the gate for tripping with seconds to go.

The Macs stopped the Dunnies' power drives in the second period and lashed back to tie attack when at full strength. At 4.22 Paul Payette again set up linemate Muir and Hildebrand with ike scoring when he swept in from the wing to bat home Muir's perfect cross-goal pass.

Senior was heaved for slashing at 5.05 and the Dunnies quickly took advantage of the manpower. They ganged in and Brodie slapshot Williams' screen 29 feet out for the Dunnies' first score.

The teams played the fastest hockey of the game for both goalies being tested hard. Henderson was particularly good, especially when the Brown, Boucher, Bradley line drove in on him at 15.51. Brown and Bradley's drives at close range were followed by one by John but Boucher netted his shot to give the Macs a 2-1 lead.

Chaczewski was chased with two seconds to go in the period.

The teams battled evenly in a scoreless third period, the goalies splitting 24 shots, and blocking out several from their dogged efforts.

Henderson foiled all the Macs' attempts to score while at one Whitby Senior came within a hairsbreadth of clearing the puck to Hildebrand in the right wing and the slipped a beauty to Ron Muir who scored his first Henderson rest, tally and scored.

PAUL PAYETTE
. . . The Engineer

Three minutes of play had gone in the first period when the Macs drew first scoring blood on a fine passing play set up by Paul Payette. Payette slipped the puck to Hildebrand on the right wing and the slipped a beauty to Ron Muir who scored his first Henderson rest, tally and scored.

RON MUIR

Crawford was chased at eight minutes but no damage was done during the minutes as a Macs ganging attack "Wiener" Brown beat Henderson from 20 feet out with a low sizzling "slapper." Boucher was in on the play.

Play was delayed for about 10 minutes at 15.51 when Bob Senior was slashed, after the play was stopped by Whitby's Duke Brodie. No penalty was given and senior had to go for stitch repairs.

Babando drew the second penalty of the period but the Dunnies' defence held.

Laufman Holds Senior League Points Lead

KITCHENER (CP) — Centre Ken Laufman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen has taken the lead again, probably for the last time this season, in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series scoring race.

Laufman, ousted a week ago by Irwin Gross of Windsor Bulldogs, has a one-point lead in statistics released today which include games of last Sunday. The Kitchener - Waterloo veteran now is on an exhibition tour with the Dutchmen who will compete in the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Laufman concluding his season's schedule with 40 points on 25 goals and 47 assists for 72 points in 47 games.

Gross, who has 12 games remaining this season, has scored 26 goals while assisting on 44 others for 71 points.

Jim Cooper of Chatham Maroons also is going to the Olympics and he finished the season with 30 goals and 33 assists for 63 points and is tied with Bob Attersley of Whitby Dunlops for third position. Attersley will also represent Canada at Olympic Hockey.

HEAD STILL LEADS

Don Head, who will join the Dutchmen for the Olympics, tops the netminders with a 2.83 average.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Russ Runnel of Sudbury Wolves leads the Kapuskasing Huskies has a one-point lead over Gerry Pilote of Timmins and Cliff Connelly and Rolly Fassette of Rouyn-Noranda Aluettes.

Runnel had 42 points on 18 goals and 24 assists. Powers has 42 goals and 19 assists, Connelly has 27 goals—the league high—and Pilote and Fassette has 24 goals and 17 assists.

Ernie Domenico of Timmins Flyers has 36 points for fifth place with Valentino of Kapuskasing has 35.

Bobby Smith of Rouyn-Noranda Flambeaus leads goaltenders, allowing 2.96 goals a game.

Canada's Olympics Manager Says We Have Top Prospects

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian hopes in the Winter Olympics are in far-flung centres for their final week of intensive training, but athletes will start gathering at Squaw Valley, Calif., next week to become accustomed to the altitude—6,000 feet above sea level.

Olympic association officials here gave this rundown Tuesday on what the Canadians are doing:

The downhill and slalom skiers are in Aspen, Colo., for Roch Cup races, their last competitive event before the Olympics. The jumpers are training at Steamboat Springs, Colo.

The speedskaters are in Edmonton, the figure skaters are gathering for the Canadian championships this weekend at Kingston, and the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are on a western swing of five exhibition hockey games.

SOME TOP PROSPECTS

Canada's best prospects for gold medals, in the opinion of Frank Shaughnessy, Jr., general manager of the Winter Olympic team, are Bob Paul and Barbara Wagner of Toronto and Otto and Maria Jelinek of Bronte in figure skating pairs; Bob Jackson of Oshawa, in the men's single figure skating; Anne Heggtveit of Ottawa in skiing and the Dutchmen in hockey.

The world champion Paul-Wagner figure skating team is considered in a class by itself and officials believe their strongest competition may come from the Jelineks pair. Colorful Don Jackson came second to David Jenkins of the U.S., in last year's world championship.

Donald McPherson, of Strafford, 14, probably will be the youngest athlete in the Olympics. He is Canadian junior champion and is competing in the men's singles. Wendy Grieve of Thornhill, Sandra Tewkesbury of Chatham are entered in the women's singles.

Kitchener - Waterloo is said to be stronger than the Belleville McFarlands which won the world hockey championship at Prague last year. The team leaves here Thursday, Feb. 11, four days before the games begin.

Ontario Rinks Rule Roost In International Bonspiel

By LAURENT CHASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Ontario rinks continued to dominate the field today after two days of play in the Canada - U.S. annual international bonspiel.

Fourteen of the 24 rinks that have qualified for play in the bonspiel's grand prize—the Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy—are from Ontario. Three Ontario rinks reached the semi-finals of the finals for the Chateau International Trophy, one will be among the semi-finalists for the Omega International Trophy and four more are through to the quarter-finals for the Francois Jobin Gold Cup.

All rinks that reached the quarter-finals of the Chateau, Omega and the Francois Jobin Cup qualified to play for the Lieutenant - Governor's. The rinks qualified for Lieutenant - Governor's play also continue to play in their respective divisions.

32 FROM ONTARIO

Ontario has 53 of the bonspiel's 128 entries.

Newfoundland's only entry E. L. Hickman's supplanting Skuba's, which withdrew minutes Tuesday night, winning its fourth straight game to advance to the Omega semi-finals.

Only the seven other rinks in the semi-finals of the Chateau and Omega also remain unbeaten.

First-round play for the Lieutenant-Governor's will be Thursday with semi-finals Friday and Saturday.

Chateau and Omega semi-finals will be held Thursday and finals in both divisions Friday night. First games in all divisions will be 12-end matches, instead of 10 ends in earlier games.

There are only four draws scheduled today as more than 500 participants take a breather. A Kirkland Lake rink, skipped by O. Archer and A. S. Donaldson's Weston rink play in one semi-final round for the Chateau while Malcolm Kirkpatrick's Lachute Canadian rink and Quebec's Joe Thomas foursome meet in the other.

In the Omega division, Hickman's rink will meet the Lavoilette, Que., rink of M. Baril in one semi-final while Labaie's Cap de la Madeleine, Que., rink and O. E. Crawford's Oshawa rink battle in the other.

Bisons Blank Quebec Aces 4-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons are doing something about securing the fourth-place playoff berth in the American Hockey League.

They knocked off the last-place Quebec Aces 4-0 Tuesday night to open a five-point lead over the Providence Reds and Cleveland. The Bisons are three points behind first-spot Providence Reds.

Bisons had their sixth straight victory, the Bisons had help from all sides. Their top scorer, Phil Maloney, scored once and assisted twice as Buffalo scored two goals each of the first and third periods.

Second Place Toronto Leafs Are Worst Scorers in Loop

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The puzzling thing about Toronto Maple Leafs is not just that they're in second place in the National Hockey League but that they're not NHL at all.

A look at the way Toronto players are scoring goals might break the heart of any Leaf fan. They are, collectively, the worst regular shots in the league. Even New York Rangers, in the cellar, have 137 goals—10 more than Toronto.

Only defenceman Allan Stanley has any hope of making an all-star team, but there the Leafs are one point ahead of Detroit Red Wings who own all-star forward Gordie Howe, defenceman Marcel Pronovost, and goalie Terry Sawchuk.

Last year, when the Leafs made their spectacular squeeze from the cellar to the playoffs to the Stanley Cup finals, their opponents explained it all by saying that they were fighting over their heads, that they had youth and hustle enough for short stretches of high-calibre play, but nobody outstanding to keep them going.

NO SUPER-STARS

They still have no super-stars but darn it, something is keeping them going. Maybe it is the happy knack of keeping the opposition's scores down. Except for Montreal's first-place Canadiens, no team has had as few goals scored against it as Toronto.

The Leafs have allowed 132 goals, Montreal 117, Detroit, with its great Terry Sawchuk in nets, has allowed 134.

Toronto seems to win close games. They have won eight and lost three games decided by one goal. Even Montreal has been matched. Detroit record, winning seven of 11 squeakers. A great deal of the credit must go to Ontario Bert Olmstead, 33, goalkeeper Johnny Bower, 35, and Stanley, 33.

The young boys have been good but hardly outstanding. Last year four scored at least 20 goals: Frank Mahovlich, Dick Duff, Bob Pulford and Billy Harris. So did veterans George Armstrong and Ron Stewart.

This season Pulford tops Leafs with 18 goals and 20 assists and 16th place in standings. Every team but Chicago has a scoring threat. Players rate less of him. Chicago has one—Bobby Hull.

Mahovlich has 16 goals and Duff 14, but Stewart is down to a miserable 10. Harris is five, and Mahovlich 12.

Stanley, in fact, with his seven goals and 21 assists is leading Harris and Mahovlich and is tied with Pronovost on total points.

Olmstead's total points — 21, matches Mahovlich's and Gimpy's record is the best of his long career.

Coach Punch Imlach stems to have got the most out of everyone's youth and age.

Tonight, Toronto plays in New York in the only game scheduled.

Stamps, Canucks Win Over Flyers, Winnipeg

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hopes, fallacies and a big one by Edmonton Flyers. That was the story in Western Hockey League juncture Tuesday night as Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Warriors, fighting for fifth place, lost and Vancouver netminder Hank Bassen established an all-time shutout record by eight minutes.

Bassen, who is to Flyers, who stand both goals in the first period. Canucks defeated Winnipeg 6-1, but the Warrior goal came in time to ruin Bassen's efforts to equal the shutout record of 185 minutes, 34 seconds.

Bassen stopped 29 shots, the same number as Winnipeg's Al Rollins.

Winnipeg's only goal came in the 12th minute of the first period when Bill Polik scored on a power-play. Cecil Ray Gray made it 1-1 with less than two minutes in the second period remaining and scored again in the third period with Collin Kilburn and Dave Duke.

In Calgary, Chuck Holmes and Dennis Achtymichuk scored for Flyers and Deania Riggin kicked 29 of 37 shots to keep Stampeders scoreless.

Olympic Flame Is Carried 9,000 Miles From Greece to Squaw Valley Winter Games

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. — On January 20, in a sacred grove long known to the gods, a young girl — Tula Vlachou, 17-year-old daughter of a Greek goat herder — by torch bearer and by air — from Greece to this high mountain amphitheatre, to carry the opening of the VIII Olympic Winter Games, February 18 to 28.

Here in Squaw Valley 800 athletes representing more than 30 nations will compete in 27 winter sports before an estimated 100,000 spectators and a TV audience reaching 100 Colin Kilburn and Dave Duke. running on main travelled highways.

As runners approach towns and cities on the 600-mile route, other runners representing the various communities will take the Flame and bear it into their towns, where a miniature of the great Olympic Torch in Squaw Valley will be lit from the Flame, for the duration of the Games.

Special Olympic cars will trail the runners throughout the route, carrying fresh fuel for the torches, and picking up runners as they finish their relays.

On its northbound journey, the Flame will pause at Stockton for a unique detour. Here it will be taken aboard a yacht manned by an honour guard and sail across San Joaquin River and Stockton Channel to San Francisco Bay.

Arriving at San Francisco's picturesque landmark, the Ferry Building, the Flame will be borne up broad Market Street to the Civic Auditorium city hall in silly center, where Mayor George Christopher will welcoming committee will pay homage.

After further ceremonies next day in Oakland, the Flame will journey back to Stockton by yacht, then to resume its overland journey. At Sacramento in an Avenue of Flags before the State Capitol, Governor Edmund G. Brown will salute the Flame.

Entering the Emigrant Gap snow level in the high Sierra, the Flame will be passed to relays of skiers who will carry torches up steep, snow-covered mountain slopes, arriving at Papoose Peak overlooking Squaw Valley, the site of the Olympic Winter Games, about 1 p.m. Thursday, February 16.

Passing on 3,300-foot high Papoose Peak, Andrea Mead Lawrence, four-time Olympic Gold Medalist American skier, will receive the Flame down hill over glistening snow and ice, again an honor guard of eight skiers carrying flame, torch and Olympic cup in their right hands, arriving directly in front of the Olympic Ice Arena.

Here Miss Lawrence will pass the torch to an ice skater, who will circle the rink, then speed skating rink and halt for a salute at the Tribune of Honor.

The response will be given by Vice-President Richard Nixon as the representative of President Eisenhower.

Then the Flame will be carried to the 15-foot high iron tripod and placed in a great classic-shaped bowl 7 feet in diameter, to burn throughout the Games.

And so the 9,000-mile journey of the Olympic Flame from Olympia, Greece, to Squaw Valley, California, comes to an end.

And that Flame, kindled by the burning glass of a young Greek girl in a sacred grove will leap high in America's Sierra Nevada range as a symbol of the sports unity of five continents — in peaceful competition at the VIII Olympic Winter Games.

Will History Repeat Itself For Creighton?

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Creighton is back in hockey's big league and he's wondering what he has to do to stay there.

Creighton had his best season in the National League two years ago, scoring 52 points (17 goals, 35 assists) for New York Rangers. Six months later, the veteran centre was sent to the minors, where he remained until Toronto Maple Leafs brought him up 10 days ago.

"It was a tremendous disappointment when the Rangers let me go," he said Tuesday. "I figured that I fitted in perfectly with their style of play and after having such a good year it was a shock. I stuck to it and out they gave up on me."

In his eight NHL seasons, Creighton has scored 140 goals. He has played with every team except Montreal and Detroit. With Rochester this season, he had 15 goals.

"I was having a good year down there," he said. "But I never figured I had a chance to go back up. After all, not too many 29-year-old guys get another chance."

Creighton already has made the move pay for Leafs. Last Wednesday, Dave scored the winning goal as Toronto edged Chicago Black Hawks 2-1.

BCI Junior Hoopsters Win Easily, Bantams Lose Against Napanee CI

By PETER CARVER

In a Quinte District COSSA basketball double-header playon last night at Napanee, Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School Juniors won by a 63-26 score, while the local bantam team went down to defeat by a 30-12 score.

JUNIOR GAME

Belleville opened up very quickly but then settled down for a 19-6 lead at quarter time. The second quarter was quite fast-moving but BCI's sharp passing and shooting paved the way to a 32-9 margin at half time.

The third stanza was fairly evenly fought as both teams were checking hard and close. Napanee was outscored 12-6. The homesters slowed down considerably in the last period, being outscored 17-5 by BCI's sharp rebounding and shooting.

Larry Campbell, the BCIVS centre, scored a total of 18 points and hit for 15 points. Peter Weston had 12.

BCIVS—Annis (8), Bristow, Burr, Campbell (15), Dahl (6), McCabe (3), Baker (1), Rogerson (2), Roberts (10), Weston (12), Soule (1), Chestnut (4).

Napanee—Hart (7), Sherman (7), Holland (3), Warner, Mc-Cutcheon (2), Paul, Close (3), Taylor.

BANTAM GAME

The first quarter was rather dull, bad passing on both teams' part as the BCI boys led Napanee at quarter time. Both teams perked up a bit in the 2nd stanza. Napanee showed good passing plays but their poor shooting kept down the score. The winners led 13-7 at half time.

BCI was again outplayed and outscored 7-0 in the third quarter as BCI couldn't click. The last fast-moving but BCI's sharp passing and shooting paved the way to a 32-9 margin at half time.

The third stanza was fairly evenly fought as both teams were checking hard and close. Napanee was outscored 12-6. The homesters slowed down considerably in the last period, being outscored 17-5 by BCI's sharp rebounding and shooting.

Fiddles Around With Its Taxes On Fiddling

By HAL R. COOPER

LONDON (AP) — Conservative MP Gerald Nabarro complained Tuesday that the country is fiddling around with its taxes on fiddling.

Nabarro had the House of Commons that a bank of horses tail, used by violinists, making one violin bow carries a retail purchase tax of 25 per cent.

But there is no tax on a whole horsetail of hair. Nabarro regards this as ridiculous.

"Will the chancellor of the exchequer," he demanded, "remove all bow-hair for violins from the purchase tax schedules?"

Chancellor Derick Heathcoat Amory said no.

"A tail of horse hair," explained the chancellor, "is more raw material. A piece of such hair, selected and prepared on behalf of a violinist is an accessory to a musical instrument."

Nabarro has a huge moustache which forms a pair of handlebars of a size and shape dor rarely seen in the relatively hairless 20th century. It could probably provide enough hair to re-hair the bows of an entire philharmonic orchestra.

The moustache now positively bristled.

"Is not the chancellor adding confusion to confusion?" he suggested and a whole new instance by all members of the community is requested. ISSUE further.

Miss Vivian Bullwinkel is making good progress toward recovery.

Hillier South

HILLIER SOUTH — The senior Extension Course, supervised by Department of Agriculture, Toronto, meetings by the Hillier group are being planned; the first to be held this week at home of Mrs. A. Wannamaker.

Mr. Keith Munroe visited his husband Tuesday, Mrs. Bridgeford and Mr. Badger Saturday. Bobby and Dale returned home with their Aunt Pat, Mrs. Bridgeford.

Mr. and Mrs. Breeding and family, Belleville, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Timmerman.

The Hillier W.I. sponsored a card party in Hillier Hall on evening of January 28. Mrs. W. Wright, Mrs. M. Wannamaker and Mrs. Jordon were the committee in charge. A good crowd attended. Refreshments were served.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Delbert Grant and family, whose son, Mrs. Elliott, Tuesday, passed away, recently.

The Hillier United Church W.A. will hold its February meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Taylor on evening of Feb. 11.

Mrs. Norman Tice visited relative in Belleville, at the week-end.

Mrs. Earl Martin and George motored to Sault Ste Marie, on business trip. Mrs. Martin will remain with her daughter, Mrs. John Bryant at present, Mr. Bryant is confined in hospital.

Miss Gail Kellar is recovering from an attack of mumps.

Mrs. F. Way has been appointed to organize a meeting for a branch of the Girls of Interior Children. A guest speaker is expected and a full attendance by all members of the community is requested. ISSUE further.

Mrs. Vivian Bullwinkel is making good progress toward recovery.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually helps break down fats for assimilation. Bile is so important in fat digestion that if bile is lacking, fats are poorly digested, may cause gas, bloating, heartburn after eating.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats in two ways. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats . . . into smaller and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients reinforces your natural supply of bile. Thus, they help digest fats effectively. At the same time, it actually helps to form soft bulky stools and to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, bilious from eating fats—just take Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, you need not only relieve irregularity, but actually increase the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

New Outbreak Reported on Syrian Border

DAMASCUS (Reuters) — A Syrian spokesman reported a fresh outbreak of violence today between Syrian and Israeli troops on the border region.

The spokesman said outposts of the United Arab Republic opened fire on an Israeli patrol of five men seen moving toward the outpost at Tawafik.

The spokesman said the men of the Israeli patrol "fell down."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, February 4

General tendencies: Until 1 A. M. you have considerable resourcefulness and ingenuity and can see quite clearly how to make a greater success by bending energy released to good purpose. Rest of day and evening are not good for taking chances. Look into ways to protect reputation, assets. Then all's well. But you have to use self-control for such to be the case.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — There is apt to be confusion between your emotional and financial desires until 11 A.M. It is best simply to cement better relations with higher-ups. Rest of the day be certain to concentrate on economy. Do not be jealous of anyone.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Morning is ideal for contacting those who can be helpful. Be sure to get vital data from new sources if possible. Later, be certain you do not get into arguments at abode. Be loyal instead of critical.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Serious thought upon private matters whether of the heart or concerning business will see them handled properly in A. M. Later, be sure you drive most carefully and think carefully before you speak. A harsh word could be unfortunate.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Morning is ideal time to show associates and friends gratitude for their helpfulness. Work together harmoniously. Take care later that you are not extravagant where some personal desire is concerned. Be sensible.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — It is imperative that you labor most efficiently in A. M. so that you meet with the favor of higher-ups. Advancement and prestige can be yours. Later in the day, steer clear of one executive with whom you do not see eye to eye.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Delving into new channels of endeavor excellent in A. M. so that you feel you are rightfully progressing in your career. P. M. do not give such importance to a relatively small matter or you will become upset unnecessarily.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Be sure to pay attention to an idea given you by one under your roof for it has great merit. Follow through. Later, do not heed an individual who wants to steer you in the wrong direction.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A. M. is excellent for conferring with partners, customers, friends. Work out plans for the future constructively. The remainder of the day, avoid getting into an argument between a friend and a higher-up. Remain neutral.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be sure you get your daily work efficiently operating during A. M. and put all financial affairs in order. Sincere application will work wonders. However, be on guard that a superficial person does not waste your time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A. M. is especially fine for treatments that will improve your health and enhance your charm. Also good for recreation and hobbies. During the rest of the day follow the advice of one in power or you get activities confused.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be certain to listen attentively and follow the advice given you by closest of kin during the morning. Later in the day there may be confusing situations with others, but if you put a check on your temper you will win out.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A. M. is ideal time to study what is expected by those who are vital in your affairs. Strive for ideally harmonious relationships. After lunch and thereafter unpleasantness may arise through others. Be calm.

If your child is born today — The highly intelligent child born today will early show a most practical side to his, or her, nature, which is excellent, but subconsciously there is also a decided humanitarian strain here. So be sure to teach early how to plan the daily hours on that important activity in both realms is possible. Also, prepare your youngster to cope wisely, intelligently with any emergencies.

Consumer Price Index Declines At End Of Year

Cheaper Food, Clothing Drop Index 4 Notches

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's consumer price index at Jan. 1 eased four-tenths of a point to 127.5 from 127.9, a month earlier, as a result of lower food, clothing and home furnishing prices, the bureau of statistics said today.

The index—based on 1949 prices as equalling 100—fell for a second consecutive month after increasing 0.2 points in the previous four months. It rose to a record 128.3 at Nov. 1.

The Jan. 1 figure of 127.5 represents an increase of 1.4 points compared with 126.1 on the corresponding date a year ago.

The index of industrial wages and salaries at Dec. 1 — latest future available — was 172.9, down from 173.8 at Nov. 1, and up from 166.7 at Dec. 1, 1958. This index is based on 1949 figures equalling 100.

The wage and salaries index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 19 persons and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of weekly wages paid.

The food sub-index declined eight-tenths of a point to 116.0 from 122.4 at Dec. 1. The Jan. 1 figure was also seven-tenths of a point lower than the 122.3 on the corresponding rate of 1959.

The clothing index declined at Jan. 1 dropped 1.2 points to 110.2 from 111.4 a month earlier. This reflected a traditional post-holiday slump in sales on a wide range of men's, women's and children's clothing and some footwear items.

Bailiffs Freed On Charges of Forcible Entry

TORONTO (CP) — Gerald Doucette, 33, William Edward Denigan, 36, William McNutt, 22, bailiffs for Murray and Company, were acquitted Wednesday of forcible entry and assault in connection with the repossession of furniture for finance companies from two homes last year.

Crown counsel J. B. Galbraith, claiming the Magna Carta principle that a man's house is his castle, said the bailiffs had no right to enter the homes without the tenants' permission or a court order.

The court was told the bailiffs entered the home of John William Chappell last November and took his television set because payments were missed on the house.

There was a scuffle.

Another complainant, Mrs. Elsie Bush, a cripple, said she was eight months pregnant in December when Doucette and Denigan pushed her over to seize a chesterfield set and a washing machine.

Defence counsel David Rose said the bailiffs were not guilty of forcible entry as they intended only to repossess a chattel, not to take control of the house itself. He said they could only be charged with trespassing.

Dismissing the charge, Judge E. L. Weaver said the accused must have the benefit of the doubt. He said Mr. Chappell "was the author of his own misfortune."

Estimates Show Record Year of Expenditures

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal aid for prairie farmers with snowed in grain crops and for municipal relief projects have helped boost this year's expenditures by the government of $4 expenditures for the current fiscal year.

Those costs were the major items in $21,960,311 of supplementary spending put to Parliament by Finance Minister Fleming Wednesday.

The proposed appropriations increase the government's program of budgetary expenditures to $5,681,550,047 for the fiscal year ending March 31. Old age pension payments — not counted in budget arrangements — push the total spending program to a record $6,259,550,047.

Actual expenditures were $5,-729,319,391, including pensions, in the 1958-59 year.

Mr. Fleming is expected to present shortly his main spending program for the 1960-61 fiscal year. He has said the government is to bring its expenditures into line with revenues.

Largest item in Wednesday's supplementary spending proposals was $15,000,000 to cover half the labor costs of municipal winter works projects this winter.

A total $6,000,000 is earmarked to pay half the cost of provincial government payments to prairie farmers with grain crops caught in the fields last fall by early snows.

Today's Chuckle

Two women were just ready to board a big airliner. One of them turned to the pilot and announced: "Please don't go faster than sound. We want to talk."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Skies are mainly clear over Southern Ontario this morning but cloud has been forecast to spread northward to to Ontario by Friday. A weak disturbance will bring elderly skies to most of Northern Ontario today. Snow occurring in the northern James Bay region will spread slowly southward into most of the north country by Friday.

BIG STORM — This is normally the busiest intersection in Halifax at mid-morning. But with 16 inches of snow on the ground and no relief in sight, only a few hardy pedestrians venture forth. All transportation facilities were knocked out by the storm, termed the worst in at least 66 years by the weather office. Most businesses were closed and plows were unable to keep pace with the snowfall. (CP Wirephoto).

HOUSE EMBARKS ON STORMY SEAS OF TRADE STAMPS

Private Member's Bill to Be Debated

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons embarks on the stormy seas of the trading stamps controversy today as it considers a private member's bill to outlaw the colored coupons.

Frank Howard CCF — Skeena (B.C.) gave second reading — approval in principle—of his bill aimed at outlawing trading stamps through the abolition of the sort of stamp plans prohibited under the Criminal Code.

The bill would place under the ban "breaker trading stamps commonly so-called, any form of cash receipt, receipt, coupon, premium ticket or other device designed or intended to be given to the purchaser of goods by the vendor thereof or on his behalf, and to represent a discount on the price of goods or a premium to the purchaser thereof that may be redeemed".

ALL-DAY DEBATE

Discussion of Mr. Howard's bill is expected to take the full day, first this session devoted exclusively to private members' legislation. One other full day is set aside for discussion of private measures.

The chances of Mr. Howard's bill passing the second reading stage are slim. Unless it is voted on today, it drops to the bottom of a long list of other private measures with little chance of coming up again this session.

The government has made its position clear. Justice Minister Fulton has said that insofar as trading stamp plans are merchandising devices they come within provincial legislative jurisdiction.

Where they affect the federal powers to issue and regulate currency they are used to defraud, they come within the Criminal Code's bon.

Mr. Fulton the attorney-general has retained a lawyer to look into trading stamps and take a stated case to the courts.

Eisenhower Faces Fight On Control of Nuclear Arms

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower may have a congressional fight on his hands as he seeks ways of turning over custody and control of U.S. atomic weapons to trusted allies including Canada and Britain.

The joint congressional atomic committee—U.S. nuclear watchdog—indicated it will want to give any Eisenhower proposal careful study before reaching a decision. And while one Republican member suggested Eisenhower will get what he wants, a group of Democratic members indicated he may not.

The issue boiled up Wednesday as the Republican president told a press conference he favors letting the U.S. nuclear "last more liberal," thus yielding custody over U.S. atomic weapons stored in foreign lands. This yield of custody and control is strictly forbidden under the present law adopted two years ago.

Later, White House press secretary James Hagerty confirmed that Eisenhower is considering the possibility of asking Congress to change the present laws.

The chairman of the committee, Senator Anderson, a New Mexico Democrat and atomic committee chairman, did not indicate he would oppose a conventional to nuclear weapons legislative amendment.

"It is one thing to give Britain a do-it-yourself kit and another to give her sealed plutonium-type weapons," he said in an interview.

He was referring to legislative amendments passed last year giving Canada, Britain and five other North Atlantic Allies certain nuclear secrets and equipment, but withholding custody and control over American atomic weapons stockpiled in three countries.

He called on the president to make his proposals known immediately so that Congress and the public could fully consider "the tremendously important question."

Another committee member, Senator Henry C. Dworshak (Dem., Idaho), said he trusted Canada and Britain, but Congress should not be left out of the picture. Congress "must have a responsibility in maintaining certain safeguards and controls over these weapons."

Representative James E. Van Zandt, Pennsylvania Republican, figured Eisenhower will get what he wants. Otherwise, Allies might not be able to defend themselves in the world switch from

Scout Masters' Canoe Trip On Last Lap

SUDBURY (CP) — Two bearded Boy Scout masters from Nova Scotia are seeing through the Sudbury area on the last lap of a year-long, 4,200-mile journey with a canoe.

Al Helenofski and Ted Noftle, both 22, and 5ft. 2ins. tall, from Yarmouth, N.S., set out from Quebec on their coast-to-coast trip last April 15. They have paddled nearly 1,600 miles to reach Portage la Prairie, Man.

Interviewed at Espanola, 45 miles southwest of here, Wednesday, Helenofski said they chose the cold weather set in they pushed their canoe on bicycle wheels during highways. They also did camping equipment and dehydrated food.

Two Sets Twins In Succession

KINGSTON (CP) — In gamblers' parlance, the odds of 468,000-to-one is a real long shot, but it worked out for Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rea today.

Mrs. Rea gave birth to twins early today. The boy and girl are the second set of twins to be born to the Rea family in succession.

The other set, two girls, celebrated their second birthday on December 29. Mr. and Mrs. Rea already have a daughter, Sheri, Karen Lynn, four years old, and a son, Paul, two years old.

Dies of Injuries

HAMILTON (CP) — Robert Bolton, 48, of Grimsby, was fatally injured in a two-car crash near Grimsby Sunday, died Wednesday.

Enlisted Men Told How to Wash General's Dogs and Shine His Shoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force has sheepishly withdrawn a cheaply-assembled manual telling enlisted men how to wash the general's dog; set his tea table, make drinks for his guests and shine his shoes.

Members of a House of Representatives manpower subcommittee pounced on the hasbeen loud brouchure Wednesday and read portions aloud to Stephen Hadra, a deputy assistant defence secretary.

Addressed to enlisted men assigned as aides or stewards to general officers, it said at one point:

"Occasionally pets require baths. The best way to accomplish this is by using soap, water and plenty of elbow grease. The fingers are better than any mechanical device for applying soap. Rinse the animal thoroughly by pouring water over him, then keep him warm and dry . . ."

Devoting six paragraphs to "Shoe polishing isn't a large task, but does require an exacting degree."

"She polishing isn't a large task, but does require an exacting degree."

Jackson and Brig. Gen. Albert H. Clark, air force personnel director, listened uncomfortably. The red-faced Clark conceded the manual was a mistake, especially the part about the dogs. Jackson said it would be withdrawn, and a new directive would prohibit "assignment of enlisted personnel to duties which contribute only to the personal benefit of officers . . ."

Footprints Lead To Hole in Ice Of Credit River

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (CP)—A diver was to plunge beneath ice in the Credit River today in an effort to locate the body of six-year-old Jope Verheul, missing from his home here since Monday.

Fears that the boy was drowned in the river were revived last Thursday by the discovery of a single set of small footprints leading to a hole in river ice.

The child was believed by police to have been abducted. Search parties hunted the lakefront and riverbank in this village 10 miles west of Toronto but found no sign of the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Verheul.

The village offered a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the boy's disappearance, Joye was last seen playing in the backyard of his home.

Galt Youth Freed of Charge

KITCHENER (CP) — A Supreme Court jury Wednesday night acquitted Lawrence Hammond of Galt, of criminal negligence in a two - death highway crash last October.

Hammond was charged with the deaths of Wayne Beggs, 17, of Kitchener in a two-car collision which also killed Jean Ireland, 18, of Kitchener.

Hammond testified Wednesday he saw a car swing out from behind a road barrier on Highway 8 but doesn't remember anything else until he woke up in Preston hospital next morning.

He denied the testimony of Margaret Paszko, 17, who suffered a broken neck in the crash. Miss Paszko earlier quoted Hammond as saying, "Does anybody want to play chicken?" just before the crash.

Hammond, giving his own version, said he asked Miss Ireland, "Is your sister chicken because I'm in the car?"

30 INCHES SNOW AT HALIFAX HALTS TRAFFIC

All Downtown Stores Closed

HALIFAX (CP)—A bright sun beamed on the Halifax metropolitan area today, greeting a new danger as residents dug out from under the worst snow storm of the century.

Tons of snow from the 30-inch fall that accumulated on roofs of homes, schools and businesses melted quickly under the sun and mild temperatures. Cascades of snow could be seen tumbling from roofs and shovellers were trying to ease the danger as much as possible.

Air service here was expected to be resumed late this afternoon. All other Nova Scotia airports and those in Newfoundland —which had been closed Wednesday by fog—were open today.

Trains were getting back on schedule but buses were still being delayed.

By early today the storm was reported to be a few snowflurries, but it was expected to be at least 40 hours before the area returned to anything resembling normal operations. The city's trolley system was at a standstill, airports here at Greenwood and Yarmouth were closed and trains were running as much as eight hours late.

The storm struck without warning. Street-clearing officials were prepared for intermittent snow, rain and drizzle.

Highways engineers said the battle against the drifting snow was useless until the winds, gusting to 60 miles an hour, eased. Winds of 25 miles an hour were predicted for today.

WEEK'S TIE-UP

Cross-peninsula roads may take a week to clear.

Thousands of workers didn't bother to get to their jobs Wednesday. Almost all stores in the downtown area closed for hours.

Weather records show the only storm approaching yesterday's blast was in 1894 when 21 inches of snow fell in a 24-hour period.

Struck by Tree

DORCHESTER (CP) — Harold Hart, 20, Kennedy corners, North Dorchester Township and brother-in-law, Ernest Kennedy, was killed Wednesday when struck by the limb of a falling tree on his son's farm.

Seventeen Unsolved Murders Mar Books of Montreal Homicide Squad

Capt. Homeo Senecal, head of the division since 1948, says: "We never throw in the sponge on a murder case".

But he admits progress is at a standstill in almost all of the investigations.

The backlog has accumulated in the last 15 years and as least half of the cases are believed gangland executions, the product of underworld double-crosses and reprisals.

More Shooting Reported From Israeli Border

Middle East in Store For New Violent Shock

JERUSALEM (AP) — Border violence between the Syrians and Israelis shifted north of the Sea of Galilee today, when a heavy exchange of fire developed between units of both countries.

An Israeli military spokesman announced: "At 12.30 p.m. fire opened from Syrian strongholds on an Israeli patrol near the Shaar Yashuv settlement. The fire was returned. One of the patrol was slightly wounded."

It was reported the first shot wounded was a border policeman.

He was the second Israeli wounded in frontier strife Tuesday.

Reporting the Syrian version of the incident in northern Galilee, an army spokesman for the United Arab Republic said in Damascus that Syrian forces damaged an Israeli armored car.

The spokesman said the armored car penetrated the demilitarized zone at 12.30 p.m. and opened fire on Syrian outposts. He said the Syrians did not return the fire at first.

BOTH FIRE

Half an hour later, the spokesman said, another Israeli armored car entered the zone and fired upon the opposite Syrian positions.

"Our outposts were obliged to return the fire and the exchange continued for 20 minutes, one enmy armored car which was later towed into occupied Israelite territory," the spokesman added. He said there were no casualties on the U.N. side.

Earlier the Israelis claimed that a woman civilian was wounded by Syrian gunfire 25 miles to the south in the demilitarized zone on the west shore of the Sea of Galilee. He said the fire was not returned and there was no further shooting in that area, where the border crisis of the past week had been centred.

WELL MEET

In Jerusalem, a U.N. spokesman was optimistic that Syria and Israel would meet their armistice commission, deemed since 1957 when the Israelis refused to participate.

UN spokesman Albert Grand said neither country had yet replied to the UN's request to withdraw armed forces and weapons from the demilitarized zone in the Southern Galilee area.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman in Tel Aviv commented: "I think the chances of both sides meeting are very good."

Grand said he had also been informed by the Syrians provided this dis-

Kingston Cabbie Pistol-Whipped By Assailant

KINGSTON (CP) — Donald Clinton McKenzie, 31, of Cornwall, Ont., was charged with theft of a car and robbery and theft early today after the attempted robbery and pistol whipping of a taxi driver on a road two miles south of here.

Taxi driver Everton Kennedy said he picked up a man at the Kingston hotel who later pulled a gun and ordered him to put his money on the front seat.

Kennedy said he produced his money and then grabbed the gun. In the scuffle the gun discharged, the bullet striking Kennedy in the right thigh.

Kennedy managed to get away from his assailant, who fled on foot. The taxi driver was found by police about 1.30 a.m.

Thibault, a house-painter whom police described as a minor gangland figure, was shot in the back four times last Dec. 27. He refused to identify his killer before he died in hospital two hours later.

Rail Engineers In U.S. Agree To Arbitration

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers announced today it has agreed to arbitration of its wage dispute with the U.S. railroads.

It is the first time the B.L.E. has agreed to arbitration of a wage dispute since 1954, when it failed to get a settlement.

The brotherhood guaranteed that it would not strike over wages. However, it and other railroad unions still are trying to settle differences with the railroads over work rules.

The brotherhood is asking a 12-per-cent wage increase. The railroads have asked for a wage cut of 15 cents an hour. The brotherhood estimates engineers pay is $2.82 an hour.

Money Found Stuffed in Box

TORONTO (CP)—Police Wednesday night found several thousand dollars in cash in a tin and locked in a suitcase under the bed of Mrs. Mary Baxter, 84, found dead after a neighbor broke down the door of her room in suburban York Township.

Police said she had died during the day of a coronary thrombosis.

Police declined to state the exact amount of money found, but said it was more than $2,000 bills. The stack of bills was about four inches thick.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

NO DAMAGE

Firemen were called out to investigate a set of overheated stove pipes on Peter Street yesterday evening. No damage was sustained however. This was the only call over the past day.

ROBIN SEEN ON SELINA AVE.

The first robin of the year to be reported in the city was seen yesterday on Selina Avenue at about 12.00 noon by Gordon Osterhout whilst making a truck delivery. It was not reported as to whether the robin saw a groundhog's shadow or not but it is assumed that more robins will be seen in increasing numbers in the near future, and spring must be near.

Topic at G.O.A. Outlined 'Shock Absorbers'

The first meeting of 1960 Hastings and Prince Edward Branch of the Garage Operators Association was held recently at the Belleville Shrine Club. President Jack Wilson was in the chair and approximately 25 members present.

An efficient and satisfactory report of the annual convention. The last provincial directors meeting was given by Mr. Ron Moorman, provincial director, who outlined several projects to be considered by that Board for the year which should be of much value to the Garage Operators and the travelling public.

The president extended the thanks of the Branch and pointed out that these projects could be accomplished only if each member gave his full support.

After the business part of the meeting, Mr. Frank Daniels introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Scott Denton, who gave an interesting talk together with a film on "Shock Absorbers." He urged each operator to examine the shocks carefully on each customer's car and to check their shops for repairs or lubrication, as many accidents were traced to the faulty shocks.

A vote of thanks was extended by Mr. C. Waters.

The meeting was adjourned and a buffet lunch was served by the stewards of the Shrine Club.

Sports Night Held by Cadets Of Three Corps

Air Cadet Squadron 608 of the Belleville Secondary School celebrated Air Force Week with a sports night yesterday evening at the high school. Participating in this event were the cadets of the Boy's Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" and the air cadets of the Trenton High School Squadron 173.

The main item of the evening was a rifle competition between the three corps, which was handily won by the latter, with an average score of 87.8 out of a possible 100, followed by the Sea Cadets with an average of 85.5. The Trenton Air Cadets showed up with an average of 74.8

The top marksman for the Quinte Air Cadets was Henry Tom who scored 97 out of a possible 100 on a very plucky shot target. High man for the visiting Trenton squad was Peter McKnight with a 92. There was a tie between Cadet Snider and Robert Lott of the Sea Cadets for best shot amongst the Boy's Canadian men with a score of 91 each.

A most entertaining and spirited nature was also held for the spectators' pleasure between the Sea Cadets and the local Air Cadets with the hostiz winning the tilt by a score of 32-27. At the conclusion of the sports program refreshments were served to all participants in the school cafeteria with Squadron Leader Jack Mason, commanding officer of the host cadet corps, handling this service.

The Quinte Secondary School will finish the Air Cadet and Air Force Week this evening with a formal Air Cadet Ball.

Obituaries

BABY DEANNA McEWEN

Funeral of Deanna McEwen, infant daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. McEwen of Bannockburn, who died at her home on January 28th, 1960, was held from her late residence to Bannockburn Pentecostal Church for service.

The funeral was under the direction of the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc.

Interment was in Cataraqui cemetery.

MRS. FREDERICK MERAW

Funeral of Mrs. Frederick Meraw, Madoc township, was held Tuesday morning, February 2nd, from her late residence to Sacred Heart of Mary Church where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Very Rev. R. J. Conway (CSSR). Present in the sanctuary were Rev. R. McKenna (CSSR), Rev. J. F. Feeney (PT), and Rev. J. E. Tuite, pastor of Sacred Heart of Mary Church.

The many friends and relatives in attendance and the many spiritual offerings received, testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held in her community.

Interment was in Sacred Heart of Mary cemetery. Committal service was offered by Rev. J. E. Trainor, assisted by Rev. J. F. Feeney.

Bearers were: Don O'Connell, William Latimer, James Lacey, Robert O'Riordon, Don Golan and Larry Meraw.

MRS. ANNA GERTRUDE BENCE

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Gertrude Bence was held from the John R. Bell Funeral Home to St. Joseph's Church this Thursday morning. Father Mrs. Buckley celebrated the Requiem Mass and also said the committal rites at St. Jame cemetery.

The bearers were Gordon Stout, Arnold York, Lionel Jamieson, Bill Thompson, Manford Thomas and Art Dunlop.

HARRY BLAKE LOCKWOOD
Campbellcroft, Ont.

A retired CNR trainman, Harry Blake Lockwood, of R.R. 1 Campbellcroft, Ont., died on Tuesday in Peterborough Civic Hospital. He was in his 68th year.

Born near Belleville, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lockwood. He resided at his late residence for the past 20 years.

Besides his wife, the former Florence Belch, he is survived by five sons, Percy of Montreal, Que., Charles of Kingston, and Gordon, Raymond and David of Toronto; and three daughters, Mrs. Ray (Dorothy) Sheriden of Lindsay, Mrs. Lillian McVay of Belleville and Mrs. D. M. (Florence) Smith of Bigar, Sask.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 64-72 Highland Avenue. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this issue.

Tests Disclose No Signs of Life in Shaft

COALBROOK, South Africa (AP)—Tests where 433 coal miners are believed trapped 353 feet below ground disclosed no sign of life today.

The men were trapped 13 days ago by a rock fall in the Clydesdale shaft, 20 miles where they were believed trapped was reached by drilling a borehole from the surface.

When the shaft was completed a microphone was lowered. There was no answer from below except the gurgling of water.

Legion Branch Reports Many Activities

TRENTON — Both cribbage teams entered from the Trenton Branch, 110 Canadian Legion, were winners at the zone tournament held at Campbellford on Saturday. Each team composed of 10 players; they now go on to represent the Branch in the district play-offs, the winners of which will compete in the provincial finals later on in the season.

The chairman of the house committee, Lt. vice-president, Ken Craddock, over the weekend had several volunteer members laying a new tile floor on the stage, plus several other pending improvements to the hall in general. These volunteers were Lawrence Amesh, Jack Patterson, Bert Atkinson, Bob Seeley, Harry Bell, Wesley Wilson and Doug Fairman. Very gratifying to have these men give up their own time for the betterment of the Branch.

The annual birthday party for the Ladies Auxiliary was once again a grand success, under the capable chairmanship of Mrs. Reeve. The event was enjoyed by all who attended. Wednesday, the 24th February has definitely been written in the annals as another "Ladies Night Out".

Saturday last, the hall was filled to the limit for entertainment by chairman, Geo. Ament, was once again obliged to lock the doors before the arrival of these dancers have become so popular that the management with the Rail Band has built larger. However, those who come early enough are assured of a table, which the next few years at least, it will be necessary to reserve them but only a limited number of couples can be filled. Saturday week, the 13th Feb. a hard times dance will be the order. In addition to the regular orchestra, it is planned to have a guitar player will be in attendance. Prizes will be awarded for a couple of real old squares in addition to the regular style of dancing.

More than 20 Items of Veterans legislation, sponsored by the Legion, have been passed by the Government within a few years?

Last year alone the Legion's Service Bureau enabled individual Canadians to obtain more than $214,000 in pensions and allowances?

These are only some of the benefits that the Legion offers to members. This organization is geared to assist ex-service persons in many other ways.

On Friday night a testimonial dinner will be given to John Farrell, who leaves shortly for a new post in the north country. A limited number of tickets are available. Phone Ex 2-2740 for reservations.

There being one extra day this year, the room has decided to use it to advantage. Official permission has been granted to close the usual operating hours on the evening, and the entire building will be used in the entertainment of hundreds who are expected to turn out to the masonic temple. Will all be staged that night. A grand prize of $300 will be given away, plus a door prize of $50 and many free games.

You are urged to get your tickets early, because a limited number of advance tickets are on sale now, and will be taken off sale when the capacity number has been sold. Proceeds from this project will be used to help furnish the men's quarters with comfortable furniture, which is badly needed. Chairman of this committee is Don Craig, assisted by committee members, John Cole, Bill Milne, Don Biegmueller and Bruce MacDonald.

Smoke Indices Shows Town In Good Shape

TRENTON — For a number of years Mr. S. S. Pane, chairman of the Board of Health, has been conducting smoke indice tests at various parts of Trenton, by means of a machine loaned to him by the Department of Health in Toronto.

Mr. Pane has received a report from the department, comparing the smoke indices in Trenton with those in other locations at the corner of Bay and College Streets in Toronto.

In a test taken at the municipal offices in Trenton from October 22nd, to November 13th the smoke indice was 161 as compared with 399 in the Toronto location; the index on Market Street in Trenton, from November 15th to December 14th, was 143, Toronto, 226; on Gould Street in Trenton, from December 14th to January 6th, 139, Toronto, 305.

The lowest possible smoke index is 100 and the smoke indices at Trenton are moderate, indicating that part-time air pollution control is desirable.

Tests taken from the west side of the river in Trenton are now being considered by the department and a report will be forwarded to Mr. Pane.

Form Chamber of Commerce At Well-Attended Gathering

TRENTON — Trenton now has a new Chamber of Commerce. At a well-attended meeting in the Trenton Community Gardens auditorium last night representatives of business and industry, as well as representatives from Air Transport Command Headquarters, voted to form the civic organization. Ten directors were elected from interested and five from the dissolved Retail Merchants' Association. Presentation of money from the executive of the new body will be by George Kennedy, general manager of Erie Rolsiter in Canada; Walter Wrightsman, president of Quinte Machine and Repair Co.; Ted Kinsella, business manager, S. H. Camp Company; Robert Blight, office manager, Canada Creosoting Company; and Tom Keenan, manager of Dofti Gelatin plant.

Quinte Manufacturers' Association, Douglas Whitley, John Lytle, Peter DeDuke, Ian Darling and Don Pennock, were elected.

TO NAME 5 MORE

Those ten elected members of the executive will appoint five other persons, one from the RCAF, one from Trenton council, one professional man, one representative of service clubs in town and one from the police department and the fire department to sit on the executive during alternate years.

It is expected that these appointees will be suggested by members of the various bodies of which they form a part, the suggestions will be considered by the existing executive, and the names proposed for appointment at a general meeting.

Those present at the meeting were welcomed by Mayor James MacDonald, who urged the unlimited citizens to organize a truly representative Chamber of Commerce.

Reports of previous meetings and activities of the Retail Merchants' Association were read by D. Whitley, I. Darling and J. Lytle.

Douglas Whitley, treasurer of the Retail Merchants Association was present at the meeting at the evening.

The first guest speaker, W/C Fred Craig, DFC, CD, of Air Transport Command Headquarters, was introduced by Don Biegmueller.

RCAF CONTRIBUTION

W/C Craig gave a resume of the contribution the RCAF Station has made to Trenton.

He said that from 1935 to 1950 air force personnel lives at points outside the station. A great many of these rent livingaccommodations in Trenton.

He said that 4000 personnel live on the station and draw an annual payroll of 12 million dollars annually, less than one per cent of which is spent on the station for things which could in any way be considered as competing with Trenton merchants. Four percent of this sum is also spent on the station for the upkeep and operation of messes and canteens. Non-public funds earned by recreational and service institutions on the station are also used for further recreational facilities and an entertainment fund.

A great deal of money comes into the town from personnel supplied to the air force, such as fuel, hydro, telephone, a certain amount of food supplies for the station, and other services. Civilian personnel also spend a lot of money in the area and local construction companies are employed wherever possible.

The speaker pointed out that while the great mass of food for the station was supplied through Toronto and Montreal firms, entering into contract with the Department of National Defence, there was no law against local firms tendering for contracts to the supply job.

W/C Craig also touched on the service, past and present, of the RCAF Women's Auxiliary to the town, and mentioned various recreational facilities in the town to which the air force has donated funds.

He said that the air force considered it had an obligation to the community and had no desire to compete with local merchants but hoped, rather, to live in friendly co-operation with the townspeople.

The second speaker for the evening was O. W. Larry, clerk-treasurer for the town of Trenton.

Mr. Larry said that he felt a Chamber of Commerce would promote the best interests of the community. He referred to the fact that the past Chamber of Commerce was dissolved a few years ago but he said that he felt Trenton's businessmen had learned a lesson and that a new organization would "go forward".

He outlined briefly the amenities of the town, pointing out its strategic location, railway facilities and industrial, commercial and recreational facilities. The speaker said that the proximity of the air station put the town in a stable position economically. He mentioned the tourist attractions of the town, the excellent business services, the fact that Trenton was now a "planned" town, the fine medical and hospital facilities provided and the large labor force which is efficiently organized and intelligently led.

He told his listeners to ask themselves if they thought that Trenton's good points were being exploited to the best advantage, before deciding on the necessity of a Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Larry referred to the efforts of past bodies of this nature to "put Trenton on the map", and extolled the Chamber of Commerce in the early 30's when the whole community benefited by the efforts of its members.

The speaker went to move, "since seem to drop in their lap" the speaker, "not a psychological factor, someone in the community sparks the interest and the Chamber of Commerce is the community moving. Personnel changes in the Chamber of Commerce is a good thing".

Following the addresses of the guest speaker a motion was passed dissolving the Retail Merchants' Association and the new Chamber of Commerce was formed and the proposed executive announced and voted in.

As on the day you passed away, Sweetheart, so will be your memory for my dear husband. Forgotten never, dear Percy, you left us all so suddenly. Sadly missed by his loving wife, Ethel. Another year has passed, dear Percy, since you left us, Friends may think the wound is healed, But they little know the scar concealed. Sadly missed by his daughter-in-law Lina.

In loving memory of my dear husband, Percy.
Gone from us, but not forgotten,
Sadly missed by his wife, Ethel.

IN MEMORIAM

ASSELSTINE. — In memory of my mother-in-law Mrs. Emily Asselstine who passed away February 4th, 1956.
God's little world of pain and sorrow,
Into a world of tomorrow;
He took us by the hand,
As on the day you passed away.
Remembered by her daughter-in-law Lina.

In loving memory of my dear husband, Percy.
Gone from us, but not forgotten,
Sadly missed by his wife, Ethel.
Another year has passed, dear Percy, since you left us, Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the scar concealed.
That lies within the heart concealed.
Never remembered by his daughter-in-law Lina.

CARE OF CHILDREN

I would like to extend my sincere appreciation to everyone to all who sent me cards, gifts, flowers, telegrams and letters during my recent illness. Special thanks to Dr. Crook, Sr., and Dr. Crook, Jr., and Nurse West.

cussions cover steps to "prevent further border incursions and shootings" but not the status of the demilitarized zone.

Israel charged Wednesday night that Syrian gunners fired in the southern Galilee area despite UN request for a military withdrawal.

Both the United Arab Republic and Israel accused each other of aggression in complaints filed with the UN Security Council in New York. Neither requested immediate council action, however.

The U.A.R. said Israeli troops were massing in a move to occupy the zone. Israel said "Syrian acts of aggression in the zone" were aimed at giving Syria control over the area and represented another step in a U.A.R. "policy of active belligerency towards Israel."

A member of the Israeli-Syrian mixed armistice commission in Jerusalem said neither the U.A.R. nor Israel has responded to Tuesday's withdrawal requests.

An Israeli spokesman Wednesday denied the existence of any Israeli forces in the zone, where fighting broke out last Friday.

NEW SHOOTING

The flareup in shooting was reported by an Israeli army Wednesday night a few hours after the U.A.R. 1st Syrian Army announced a skirmish with Israeli patrols during a heavy rain.

There still has been no confirmation of a Tuesday report by the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram that Egypt — Syria's partner in the U.A.R. — is massing troops on the unpatrolled Egyptian-Israeli frontier.

As participants in the Toronto show, the McCutcheon girls will be appearing along with the world's top amateur skaters. Olympic champions to be decided this month at Squaw Valley in California, will be invited to skate at the Toronto Ice review.

Liberia Gives Baby Hippo To Eisenhower

PALL RIVER, Mass. AP — There's a gift on its way to President Eisenhower—a bit different from other gifts he has been collecting: A hippopotamus.

It's only a teeny - weeny baby hippopotamus 2½ years old, weighing 250 pounds, the gift of President William V.S. Tubman of the African Republic of Liberia. Still the keeper awaits the freighter African Glade which will here Wednesday unloading African rubber, says the little fellow will get much bigger.

It's expected he'll wind up living in the National Zoo in Washington.

Now Eisenhower has to think of something to send Tubman.

Graham Winds Up Crusade in Western Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The old-time religion in Africa has had a severe shaking up since Billy Graham pitched his first pulpit in Monrovia late in January and then headed south through the palm trees.

Graham's nine-man team of evangelists is spreading the gospel in this continent as it never had been done before. Old-time admonitions are plugged by slow river boats, long jungle hikes and medieval mo-quito—would not believe it.

Every move, every meeting, almost every prayer, has been planned in advance with a precision that would charm a general.

The American evangelist wound up his crusade in Western Nigeria Wednesday night before a crowd of 40,000. About 850 came forward to embrace the Christian faith, including Moslems and Animists — a primitive religion whose followers believe all objects possess souls.

The Graham organization said in the first eight days of his African tour 2,306 persons were converted and about 7,000 Christians rededicated.

He has run into some hostility but the over-all reception has been enthusiastic.

Two Remanded For Sentence On Fraud Counts

Pleading guilty to multiple charges of false pretences involving the passing of worthless cheques at Belleville and at Trenton, two Ottawa young people, Royal Rene Lacroix, and Barbara Parsons, have been remanded for sentence on Monday.

Four other Ottawa young people, Robert Bertholomew, Arthur Thomas Hill, Patrick O'Hearn and Marina "Bunny" Riviergas, have been charged with conspiracy to obtain money by false pretences and will appear Monday morning for trial before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The six young people were arrested several weeks ago following a series of bad cheques being passed at Kingston, Belleville and in Sidney township just outside Trenton. Four were apprehended at a Trenton district motel and the other two at Oshawa.

Yesterday before Magistrate Wills, Lacroix pleaded guilty to 12 different charges, including one of breaking and entering at Oshawa where a cheque writing machine was stolen, three of uttering bad cheques at Ottawa, three of false pretences at Kingston, three at Belleville, and one charge of false pretences at Trenton, and also to being in possession of instruments adapted to forgery.

Miss Parsons pleaded guilty to three charges of false pretences at Kingston, two at Belleville and one at Trenton.

WORKS IN WHEELCHAIR — Mrs. George LeBlanc, a former Weymouth, N.S., resident paralyzed from the waist down since being stricken by polio in 1940, says she has "nothing to complain about."

Mrs. LeBlanc looks after her five-room bungalow at Oshawa, Ont., her husband George and son Larry, 14, without any apparent difficulty.

She left a Halifax hospital after two years of treatment, determined to continue where she left off. When a maid who had been doing the housework had to leave, Mrs. LeBlanc set out to prove she could handle the job herself.

No Anglers' Licenses, Please

About a fortnight ago, Hon. J. W. Spooner, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, denied his department was considering requiring Ontario anglers to take out licences. Then Ontario hunters and anglers held a convention. Some of the clubs represented supported licences for resident anglers. Now nobody knows what will eventually happen.

On the face of it, the organized clubs which urge licensing anglers have a case. They want conservation and restocking projects increased. Why should not anglers pay for their fun?

That is the argument. But it is a poor one. Are we going to require every barefoot boy to take out a licence before he dangles a hook in a creek on the back forty, or fishes from the dock at the family's summer cottage? Some may reply that the licence requirement could be applied only to adults. What equality is there between charging the man who dangles a line from the city bridge on a summer weekend, picking up a few perch or sunfish, the same licence fee as the man who fishes for pickerel, bass, lunge or lake trout every weekend?

As a matter of fact, no licence fee is needed to make anglers pay the cost of conservation and restocking projects and there is no good reason for believing the institution of such a fee would necessarily increase the amount of money spent on such work.

Ardent anglers, as distinguished from the hook-and-worm sunfish-seekers, spend a lot for equipment. Part of the cost of this equipment, a large part, is made up of a variety of taxes, paid by the manufacturer, the wholesaler and the retailer. We can be certain governments, federal, provincial and municipal, collect much more money from these taxes than is spent on restocking streams. This disposes of the argument that the angler should pay for his fun. He already does.

If anglers were required to purchase licences and this money was earmarked for conservation, there would be a distinct danger that before long this would not be regarded as additional money to finance conservation projects but would be required to carry the full cost of such work.

But, most important of all, is the fact that we would have another nuisance tax added to the multitudinous array which plagues us.

Russians Fight Polio

Last year the Soviet Union staged a mass vaccination campaign against polio. The vaccine used, though, was not that discovered by Dr. Salk, but a live virus vaccine given by mouth. The Communists, though, were not displaying some sort of stubborn pride in refusing to use a vaccine developed in America. On the contrary, the live virus vaccine was also an American project and one of its developers, Dr. Sabin of Cincinnati, supplied the vaccine to the USSR. Another American, Dr. Dorothy M. Horstman of the Yale School of Medicine, visited the Soviet Union to evaluate the safety and efficiency of the new method. Dr. Horstman says that, though there was a marked reduction in polio where oral vaccination was applied, it will be another year before a valid judgment can be made. Meanwhile we can applaud an encouraging example of international co-operation.

After proven effectiveness of the Salk vaccine, and after the few scares resulting from virus not being dead before being used in this vaccine, testing a live virus vaccine in the U.S. would have been impossible. Yet, if the new method is proven effective and safe, it has an obvious advantage—since the vaccine is taken orally it would be relatively easy to employ it in any country short of doctors and nurses. Memory seems to remind us, too, that there have been suggestions that a live virus vaccine might provide protection more long lasting than Dr. Salk's dead virus vaccine.

Dean B. C. Diltz of the Ontario College of Education feels that the school has been asked to bear so many extraneous social burdens that it has little energy left to perform its real duties. While we don't want to get back to the Little Red Schoolhouse routine, there is something in what the Dean says. (Brantford Expositor.)

Historic Hastings

Our Historic Sites

Article 198

It is encouraging to learn that the Historic Sites Branch of the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity has been active throughout 1959.

Acting on the advice of the Ontario Archaeological and Historic Sites Board, the department erected more than fifty historic plaques last year.

One of these was unveiled at Belleville in August to Commemorate Capt. John W. Meyers and the founding of this city.

Several others are also of considerable importance to this area.

The Bath centennial celebration was marked by the unveiling of plaques commemorating the Bath Academy (one of the province's earliest and most successful publicly owned schools) and the Hawley House (one of Ontario's finest surviving houses, built by Jeptha Hawley, M.P., in 1789-92).

At nearby Adolphustown, a plaque marks the site where the United Empire Loyalists landed on June 16, 1784.

Near Cobourg on Amherst Island, a plaque honors Daniel Fowler, a prominent early Canadian painter.

In Presqu'ile Provincial Park, a plaque commemorates one of the most tragic events in Canada's early history, the sinking of the schooner "Speedy." This ship sank off Presqu'ile Point in October, 1806, taking with it to the bottom of Lake Ontario several of the leading citizens of Upper Canada, on their way to attend a murder trial at Presqu'ile Point.

The White (Conger) Chapel near Picton was also remembered. This is one of Ontario's oldest religious edifices, and its interior arrangement and furnishings are much as they were in the early 19th century.

Plaques were also—unveiled commemorating Peterborough's oldest church, St. John's Anglican (erected in the 1830's), and Adam Hoodless, remembered throughout Hastings County and the province for his work as the Women's Institute of Canada.

The Provincial Department of Travel and Publicity is to be congratulated on its recognition of Ontario's history.

It is gratifying that so much attention should have given to commemorating the past of the province.

Next week has been done to mark these sites; much remains

Murderers Not All Same

By Charlotte Whitton in the Hamilton Spectator.

Wouldn't it aid clearer thinking were the issue, now before the Parliament of Canada, quite plain? Is it not, simply, the abolition of the power of the courts to impose a sentence of death on any killer, in any circumstances whatever, rather than the "abolition of capital punishment?"

Indeed, Mr. Diefenbaker, John Pratt, MP for Dorval, says most MPs consider having to live in Ottawa one form of capital punishment.

Some points are beyond debate.

One is sacred. From that it follows that any organized, responsible, democratic society must protect itself and its members from those who accord neither value nor morality to human life.

Here, as F. Tennyson Jesse put it in her brilliant, "Murder and Its Motives," since society must be protected, this means protection of the criminal also. That involves humiliation of the criminal's life as continued to live and to return to community life.

With supreme logic, she simplifies the whole—question. "If punishment is to be neither a penalty nor vengeful, but treatment, then criminals must be classified according to two categories—"those who can be cured and those who cannot."

If he or she can be taught to respect life, and be re-educated to its value, then the death sentence should be based on irremediability.

In this approach there is leeway for discretion, for the plea of mercy in the sudden, unforeseen "snap," in any case that could indicate, fundamentally, a normal, decent person, seduced by the highest "mother love" instincts, "driven to kill not economically" released by family from the poverty and misery in which they were so long bound.

She was later paroled and disappeared. When located, she had been working for nine months in the diet kitchen of a large hospital. She was then re-arrested on technical grounds, it being obviously somewhere difficult to accept as to whether she had followed any of her previous inclinations in a similar psychological setting.

There are congenital killers—murderers, so born, so bred, in whom no regard for life can be developed. There are those possessed of a lust for killing. There are the psychopath and brutal deviate.

In sheer regard for human life, surely any responsible society must be able to sentence such as these to death.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 4th, 1940

The occasion being the nature of an anniversary, the band having been formed just two years ago by Mr. Ross, School Band entertained their parents in the Oddfellows' Hall on Wednesday evening. Under the direction of Mr. Alf Cooper this group of young musicians was selected from each of the Public Schools in the city has attained considerable fame. High lights of the evening were the cornet solo by Ted Higgins, accompanied by Mr. Leo Higgs; Trombone Duet by Don Dafoe and Gordon Williamson, Lieut. F. Jobson, conductor of the Band of the Regt. gave an interesting talk on the value of music in a boy's life.—J.

In the comfort of his modest home on Great St. James St. Mr. George E. Rutan chatted with a reporter about the good old days of the 70's and Mrs. Rutan are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary today and are rounded by their admiring family and immediate friends. On display is a piece of faded and yellowish paper. It was a page torn from the old-fashioned scribbler, vintage 1890, but on its surface was inscribed the wedding nuptials of George E. Ruttan and Kate E. Dean. It bears the signature of the Rev. Thos. W. Bowen, minister of the then Congregational Church on Bridge Street. Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church on Victoria Avenue. The wedding was solemnized February 5th, 1890.

Friends of Mrs. Fred Cory, Pinnacle Street, honored her in an enjoyable surprise party last night, marking the occasion of her birthday. Mrs. Cory was presented with a handsome table by the gathering.

This Mineral Like Textile

Fort William Times-Journal

Asbestos may be woven into cloth, rolled into felt or pressed into paper. We can make it behave like a textile. Most textiles, however, are woven from plant, animal or synthetic fibres. Asbestos is a mineral formed in the ground. Unlike other minerals, it comes in long, silky threads, tightly wadded together. Because it is a mineral, asbestos has a great advantage over organic fibres: It is very tough and refuses to burn.

The Canadian asbestos industry supplies over 60 per cent of the world's requirements of asbestos fibre.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

OSTEOMYELITIS IS AN INFECTION OF THE BONE

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a known cause or cure for osteomyelitis? Does it seem to be related to age or sex? — D. S."

Staphylococcus is a common culprit, but sometimes it can be the bacillus which causes tuberculosis, or some other bacteria. Any of these organisms may be responsible.

Osteomyelitis means an infection of the bone, and can be any bone in the body's structure. Sometimes it gains entry by the way for the germ to establish the area of infection. Again, the germ may have entered the blood stream and may have been carried to that spot before the body's germ-fighting abilities reached it. In such a case, of course, osteomyelitis can occur even though there is no injury.

Just as example of this, I've seen patients who developed osteomyelitis of the jaw bone following severe tonsillitis and fever, of course, is caused by one variety of strep germ, but other varieties of infection in the tonsils were the original cause.

Anyways, osteomyelitis frequently tends to become chronic. The resulting draining sores that refuse to heal.

A rather unpleasant prospect. But you might cheer up. The outlook, today, is far, far better than it was 10 or 15 years ago, or even five or 10 years ago.

It used to be that the chief reliance was in surgery, a complete clean-out of the infected bone, so that new bone could grow. Even then, there was not always a chance to heal. It was a tidious process, as you can well imagine.

Since the development of the antibiotics, many of these cases are being halted by the use of these drugs — usually a good reason why they have been rightly dubbed "wonder drugs."

If the precise germ can be identified (a culture can be taken), with suitable laboratory work) then it becomes possible to choose the antibiotic which is most effective against that particular germ. Using antibiotics isn't a guessing game, or a gun matter!

Sometimes this averts the need for surgery altogether. Sometimes some degree of surgery is necessary to remove the diseased portion of bone.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you give me any information on streptococcus — where does it come from? — Mrs. L. R.

No, I don't know where it comes from. I don't know where daisies or chickens or people or anglewroms come from. Or big black seals, or little black ones, or littler red ones.

I'm not being sarcastic, friend reader, but just trying to point out that your question is a difficult as the question, "Where does life come from?"

The streptococcus, while it is a bacterium, or germ, is still a form of life, just a small and ornery form that preys on other forms of life.

Every form of life, the streptococcus by the process of reproduction keeps creating new generations. But where it originally comes in the first place, no mortal can say.

THE PACKSAK

You have doubtless noticed how when one person in a bus gives a big yawn, everybody who observes it gives a big yawn within the next few minutes. A good yawner can set a whole bus yawning, all in a couple of minutes.

There is another field in which the power of suggestion works with equally comic effect.

Let one woman open her handbag or purse and start groping for a handkerchief, and on either side of a minute, half the women within sight of her are doing the same thing. This is especially true of the home-going crowds, when everyone is tired and weary and more amenable to suggestion.

On the street car last evening, as the crowded car droned its weary way from office glitter across the slale from the opened her handbag and with one hand began feeling in its contents about with an absent-minded air. Almost instantly a woman sitting across the aisle a seat ahead of her, glancing back, opened her purse and did the same a moment of gazing into space, then, too opened her handbag and started groping. I assure you, in less than five minutes, there were explorers at work. And one of them was an elderly man who, with a pair of paper shopping bag on her lap, packed away in the depths of her handbag. The power of suggestion around her that she had to delve in her purse, too, and so, turning everything over, taking some of its packed out to look at, methodically on her knees, while the complete contents of her purse, and like the others, she appeared to be in a sort of trance.

Puritan Turns Sin Into A Pleasure

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

The Puritan may object to a lot of flattery you give him, but he does not object to the fact that you credit him with originality.

We decide the Russians forcrediting their own children with the inventions of other lands — yet most Americans are convinced that the man who invented electricity, that Robert Fulton invented the steamboat and that Abner Doubleday founded baseball.

Whenever a man says to me in an easy drawl, "I'm just a simple country boy," I know that he has been outfoxing city slickers for years.

If we wonder why the Chinese masses are so cool toward "the American way," consider Pearl Buck's little-heeded comment of 30 years ago: "We send missionaries to China as the richest field to get to heaven, but we won't let them into our country."

The folly of the Puritan is that by declaring pleasure to be a sin, he makes sin into a pleasure.

Not until we frankly accept the fact that we are a high-life, wire walker in order to see him fell can we achieve the self-knowledge and humility to acknowledge and finally master our inherent weakness.

The paradox of feminility was neatly put by Jean Herold, when he said: "Women give us solace, but if it were not for women we should rarely need solace."

Why can't modern technology devise musical instruments that don't have to be tuned between movements? Nothing breaks the spell more than the audience listening to the strings tuning up

Leo Doherty Heads Seymour Fair Board

CAMPBELLFORD — Leo Doherty, well-known Campbellford barber, has been elected president of the Seymour Agricultural Society following the annual meeting of the organization held recently. Mr. Doherty succeeds Clare Ingram.

Jesse S. Locke was re-elected secretary, and Everett Parr was named 1st vice-president; 2nd vice-president is Alex Linn.

Eighteen directors were also named. They are: Morden McMillan; Leonard McGee, Clare Ingram, R. P. Seymour, Leo Doherty, Everett Parr, Ernest Irwin, Marcus Curic, Victor Irwin, Percy Oddie, Donald W. Clarke, W. A. Hume, Lisle Bennett, Ray Parr, Harold Milne, Douglas Sager, Craig Nelson and A. C. Watson.

Mrs. Gordon McCulloch was named president of the ladies' division. Mrs. Kenneth Oddie and Mrs. Everett Parr were named 1st and 2nd vice-presidents respectively, and Mrs. Craig Nelson was named associate secretary.

Mr. C. S. Haig and Mrs. M. H. Weir were named auditors.

Group Capt. Schroeder Lauds Work of Air Cadet Program

The part played by the Air Cadet movement and its contribution to citizenship of Canadian youth was the theme of an address delivered to the annual "Father-Son Banquet" of 608 Air Cadet Squadron, Belleville, by Group Captain W. H. Schroeder, Chief Staff Officer Administration, at Air Transport Command Headquarters.

The talk by Group Captain Schroeder was the highlight of Tuesday's program of activities at Quinte Secondary School where the Air Cadet Squadron has been celebrating Air Cadet Week in Belleville. Following the dinner and the address, fathers and cadets adjourned to the shooting range where competitions were held between the cadets and their parents.

"The importance of a broad program of citizenship education features co-operation between home, school and other institutes, and the Air Cadet Squadron is one of the other institutions," stated G/C Schroeder in his remarks to the large group of parents and boys attending the banquet.

"Here, boys from representative communities and homes come together, learn to accept and acknowledge each other, share in purposeful projects, through drill are taught discipline and willing response to discipline, through trade lectures their minds are opened to vocational potentialities and generally they achieve healthy emotional adjustment. They learn responsibility of the individual to the group and to contribute to the general welfare."

Group Captain Schroeder also complimented Squadron Leader Sisson, Commanding Officer of 608 Squadron, on their fine record since its conception in 1955, particularly in winning the Strathcona Trophy for efficiency in 1958. He congratulated Mr. L. F. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School and the Quinte District High School Board, which sponsors the Squadron.

Also in attendance at the gathering were Flight Lieutenant M. Sills and Flying Officer L. D. O'Brien, Liaison Officer, and Flying Officer L. Johnson, public relations officer at Station Trenton.

The executive committee comprises the chairman, vice-chairman, and three advisory board chairmen, J. H. Sprackett, Victor Hughson and W. Van Steenburg. F. A. R. McFadden of Belleville was named auditor.

GENERAL MAINTENANCE LEVY

The authority will levy for $1,950 for general maintenance and administration. Any special project will come under a separate levy on the municipality benefiting. The amount will give the authority a total of $9,700 after anticipated maximum grants are received.

It was decided to establish a $100 minimum levy on municipalities in order that each would at least contribute on the expenses of its member on the board. The balance of $750 of the $1,950 will come from the municipalities having the largest equalized assessments.

The authority is made up of 12 member municipalities, four of which will be required to pay only the minimum.

A resolution authorizing the signing officers to borrow up to $10,000 was passed.

MARMORA DAM

Complete figures for the Marmora dam are not yet available, however, bills totalling $25,000 have been received. There are a number of credits to be applied.

Liability insurance of $100,000 was authorized on the Marmora dam at a cost of $46.80 per year.

The authority's budget for 1960 will again include $1,000 for reforestation.

After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Benson.

R.C. Has New Blood Donors System

CAMPBELLFORD — The Campbellford Red Cross announced this week that methods of collecting blood for use in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital have been changed. Instead of the "Walking Blood Bank," under which system persons registered and blood-typed with the Red Cross were called to give blood in cases of emergency, the organization now makes use of clinics to gather the blood required.

The new system is carried out in accordance with the Ontario Hospital Association, whereby blood is provided through four central depots in Ontario. The depot serving Campbellford is located in Toronto.

BI-ANNUALLY

Clinics will be held in the town twice each year, with the first such clinic slated for Wednesday, March 2, at the Masonic Temple on Front Street, Afternoon and evening clinics will be held.

The Red Cross Society stressed the point that donors need not be previously registered with the Red Cross, now must their blood have been typed previously. Anyone over the age of 16 is being invited to donate blood.

LOOKING FORWARD

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP) — Mrs. Minerva Tweedie, marking her 100th Birthday here recently said "I'm much better prepared for my second century than I was for my first." She greeted birthday visitors until 10 p.m. although confined to a hospital bed with a mild case of pneumonia.

Senior Citizens Group Enjoys B.S. Quartet

The regular monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens Social Club was held on February 1 with a good attendance.

The guest speaker, James Brennan, opened the meeting.

The "Birthday Song," was sung for Mrs. J. Preston, who was the lone member with a February birthday.

One minute of silence was observed for deceased members during the month and Mr. James Taylor. All joined in singing "Abide With Me."

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the Belleville Barbershop Quartet, under the direction of Mr. Evans. Several musical numbers were rendered after which all enjoyed a few bands of euchre. Ladies' first went to Mrs. Haley; second to Mrs. Gist; men; first was won by Mr. Doyle; second by Mr. Brennan.

Another door prize, a lovely basket of fruit, was won by Mr. A. Shirley.

All persons over 60 years of age are invited to join this social club.

Christ Church P.G. Sponsors Euchre, Bridge

The ladies of the Parish Guild were hostesses in the spacious and beautiful parish hall at Christ Church, to a large bridge and euchre party on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. R. H. Dawson, the president and Mrs. Everett P. Smith welcomed the guests in the downstairs auditorium and Mrs. H. Masstah and Mrs. Charles Bishop, in the upstairs hall.

Pots of red tulips, crimson candles, and valentine hearts decorated the tea tables. There were 39 tables in play: Mrs. John Boyle won first prize for the euchre games, and also for the most lone hands. Second prize went to Mrs. Grace Brown.

Mrs. Tatham won first prize for bridge, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith second and Mrs. Moran, hidden score prize; Mrs. Roy Woodcock won the door prize, and Mrs. Jack Cannon, Mrs. A. W. Jordan, Mrs. William Kempton and Mrs. Alfred Miller won lucky number prizes.

Mrs. Fred Lazier was treasurer.

The success of the party was due to the capable efforts of the conveners, Mrs. Mark Vanner and Mrs. Harry Thompson.

Mrs. J. W. Fox Reaches 85th Milestone

A surprise birthday party was held last evening at the home of Mrs. E. Roberts, Station Street, in honor of her mother, Mrs. J. W. Fox, who was celebrating her 85th anniversary.

Her immediate family, with the exception of a son, who was ill, and a grandson, LAC Curtis Bayley, who is stationed with the RCAF in Parent, Quebec, from whom she received a telephone call, were all present, including granchildren and great-grandchildren.

Others present included neighboring friends and relatives in the city.

Following a time of reminiscing of days gone by, refreshments were served including a pretty decorated birthday cakes donated by her daughters-in-law.

Mrs. Fox was the happy recipient of many lovely floral and personal gifts, as well as good wishes for the years ahead from her community friends.

Mrs. Efremova said in an interview Wednesday that she liked the Dior sweater suits, loose waisted dress and jacket ensembles and any colours for

May Court Ball to Have Western Setting This Year

By ELIZABETH MOTHERWELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A society affair organized 62 years ago—the May Court Ball — will feature horns and hides Friday night in its annual charity show.

The ball averages $8,000 from 900 patrons annually. They pay $20 and $25 a couple, depending on seating, to see MPs, diplomats and society figures stage a cabaret show.

Proceeds go to the May Court Club, a women's charity founded by the late Countess of Aberdeen during her husband's term as governor-general. The club now supports 18 projects, including a women's convalescent home and tuberculosis clinic.

The extra charity take, over admission, is derived from games of chance or skill. This year the cash will be wooed in a setting out of the wild west. Wagon wheels will be rolled into the Chateau Laurier and featured games will include sharpshooting and horseshoe pitching.

The May Court idea began here in 1898 has branched into six other Ontario communities—London, Windsor, St. Catharines, Chatham, Sault Ste. Marie and Oakville.

The cabaret show this year is called Shoot the Works—a spoof of Ottawa life. It will be staged as a western with Transport Minister Hees, Dr. Albert Trueman of the Canada Council and Maj.-Gen. J. Desmond Smith among those depicting the "rough customers" who upset the back woods slumber of Bottleneck—Ottawa.

Barry O'Brien, president of Ottawa Rough Riders football club, is assured a "colorful yokel" who resent the intrusion of "dips"—diplomats—and "feds"—members of Parliament styled in the skit as eastern fishermen, western cowboys and big-city financiers. Diplomats act as peacemakers.

British Girl Likes Work of Policewoman

VANCOUVER (CP) — The toughest thing for Barbara Jones to master was the Thompson submachine — gun.

With that under control, plus a few essentials, Miss Jones has become Policewoman No. 183. One of 30 applicants accepted for a recent training course, she joined 16 other women on the Vancouver force.

Miss Jones is five - foot - five, slim and delicate but she passed the police academy course with honors, topping the men in the class in indoor target shooting and swimming.

She admitted in an interview that the training was "pretty tough" — there were at least two trips to a doctor for sprains and bruises.

The recoil of the guns had her reeling, and the tight mechanisms skinned her knuckles. But along with the sub - machine - gun she learned to handle a 12-gauge shotgun and a .38-calibre revolver. Now she carries a gun with a specially - made small handle in a holster - sized bag along with assorted lipsticks.

Born in Kent, England, Miss Jones came to Canada eight years ago. She worked as a stenographer but always had an ambition to join the police force.

"I had a girl friend who was on the Metropolitan Police Force in London and her work always sounded so exciting — at least it did to a stenographer."

Her training officer, George. K. Pinchin, said one of the requirements of a policewoman is a turkish towel on each shoulder.

"She has to soak up a lot of tears shed by deserted wives and crying children. She must be able to soother these storms and not take the troubles home with her."

Congregational Meeting

GLAD TIDINGS PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

CAMPBELLFORD — The annual congregational meeting of the Glad Tidings Pentecostal Church was recently held on Friday evening, when financial statements and reports from the various church organizations were heard.

Reports revealed an increase over last year, as also in the Sunday School and general fund offerings were concerned. Tithing is credited by the church officials for making 1959 the best year for the church, financially.

Sunday School attendance showed an increase, with 22 persons responding to the church's altar services.

Following the reports of the various departments, officers were named for 1960 and the meeting adjourned.

St. Margaret's E.G. Plans Future Events

The regular meeting of St. Margaret's Evening Guild was held on Monday evening with the president, Mrs. A. Paradis presiding.

Several new projects were discussed which the Guild might like to pursue.

Plans were made to have a bake sale in March and an auction sale in April.

After the adjournment of the business meeting, members exchanged and purchased each other's favorite recipes.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Poulton and her group.

HOME PERMANENTS

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Helen N. — I've got double mother-in-law trouble.

Arnold M. — Why owe something to my sister.

Helen N. — I'm having mother-in-law trouble — only with me, it's two mothers-in-law.

I am ready to show every respect and consideration to my husband's mother, but when it comes to his sister, I draw the line. This older sister is single and lives with her mother. She takes a very critical attitude toward me, tries to boss me around, yet wants to be invited along on all our occasions and evenings out. Last summer, both she and Arnold's mother came on our vacation and I felt as though I had two mothers-in-law on my back at every moment.

I have two young children to bring up and this is making me a nervous wreck.

Arnold N. — I know my sister can be a pest, but Helen should consider this — if Celia didn't stay with my mother and take care of her, we would have to have Mother living with us. And Mother really can be difficult.

I feel very sorry about Celia. She was married at 17 to a heel and that kind of soured on all men and life in general. She never wanted to marry again after this guy ran out on her. She has a hard life, catering to Mother's whims, and I feel we should treat her well and provide her with a little change and entertainment.

If I didn't try to do something for Celia, she would be left with nothing but work.

The Council: We agree that Arnold has a duty to fulfill in relation to his mother and sister, but we think he has gone a little overboard on exactly what his responsibilities are.

It is certainly unfair to burden the sister with the entire responsibility for the care of the mother. Arnold owes his sister respite. He should be willing to take his mother into his home occasionally while his sister gets a chance to have evenings out or a vacation with her friends.

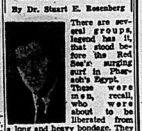
But Arnold should not assume the responsibility for providing his sister with the only entertainment and change in her meager life. He has very little sympathy for her, but it is not his business to make up to her for her own "martyr" attitude. Nothing he can do would bring her any real happiness in life. Pleasure and relaxation will not come to her until she is ready to give something of herself to others. She must find her own friends and own interests.

Arnold is actually doing his sister a disservice by allowing her to be dragged upon him for her good times. She cannot enjoy herself when she takes her along out of a sense of duty. She needs to win her own social people. When she has earned the right to be liked and invited to join a group, she can participate heartily, feeling that she is really wanted. Among outsiders, she will also feel a responsibility for contributing to the pleasure of others and will not give free rein to her surly feelings.

We also wonder whether Arnold's mother is quite as helpless as Arnold seems to believe. Has she ever made this woman more helpless than a necessary out of her own need for a purpose in life.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg



There are several groups, legend has it, that stood before the Red Sea's surging surf in Pharaoh's Egypt. These were men, recall, who were about to be liberated from a long and heavy bondage. They should have been united by the hope of a new freedom.

They should have been thrilled by their opportunity. But they were still enthralled by their own small fears. They were paralyzed by fright, ironically some men will prefer the ease of slavery to freedom. They are overwhelmed by the duties, responsibilities spiritual exertions which true liberty requires.

So it was that one of these groups counselled friends to return to Egypt. He saw no other way to avoid "taking the plunge" into freedom.

We still hear echoes of this cry down to our day. There are uneasy, who, in fact, long for slavery or in their national outlook, cannot face up to the challenge of decision-making for today.

They can only retreat, singing hymns to the "good old times" while lamenting the ills of a new day.

Frenzy gripped the others when they saw that they had to their unconfigured perils of the path of least immediate resistance.

They are tempted to think like cowards, for their jittery fears betray them.

They are tempted into believing that destruction paves the way to peace. But it can no more achieve this than self-destruction can make for life.

It is no accident that all of these people were looking the wrong way: They faced Egypt. Their backs were turned on the land of promise. Nor do we today remember any of them. They are part of the nameless oblivion of the legions of fear that have blocked the doors of hope.

One man we do remember. We remember him because he didn't succumb to the cowardly chatter of these noisy nobodies. He faced a different way. He spoke a different word. He said: Let us go forward! This inspired faith had something to do with the miracle of the wel-dividing.

And every time we look to the promise and find the courage to face our future, similar miracles can take place for each of us.

Young People Organize Y.P.U. Group

MADOC JUNCTION — A number of young people of the community gathered on Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs Carl Bridge to organize a Y.P.U. group with the following officers: president, Allen Reid; vice-president, Donald Bridge; secretary, Arsenne Clarke; treasurer, Shirley Frost and sarah secretary, Audrey Sagoley.

The next meeting to be held on Wednesday night, February 10, at the home of Annarene Clarke.

Plans were discussed on having a sleigh-riding party.

Several games were enjoyed. At the close, Mrs. Bridges served refreshments.

QUESTION BOX

Question: When a large formal wedding has been planned (but the invitations have not gone out) and a death suddenly occurs in the bride or family, what should be done? Must the ceremony be postponed, or is it possible to proceed as planned?

Answer: The wedding need not be postponed, but all plans following the traditional rules for a formal ceremony must be changed to make it a simple ceremony with only relatives and very close friends being asked to attend. The invitations should be extended by a personal note or by telephone. No engraved invitations should be issued.

It is correct in this case that engraved announcements be sent out on the day of the wedding to all those who would originally have been invited. "Even then, in other formalities, such as a large reception, etc., are dispensed with. It is perfectly correct for the bride to wear the traditional wedding gown and her attendants may be attired in soft pastel shades. A small reception may follow the ceremony, but only those guests invited in the first place should be invited. No additional guests should be included.

Question: When celery or radishes are served, and you want a dip there, is it correct to put the salt on the table? Or do you use a salt cellar?

Answer: Neither one, please! Place a little salt on the edge of your plate and do your dipping there. If there is a butter plate, sprinkling the salt on that is satisfactory. Never place it on the table or use the salt cellar itself.

Question: When sending out birth announcements, is there any way that the maiden name of the mother can be indicated? If she has been away from her home town for several years, and there are those she would like to have know about the happy event, it is quite possible that the recipients might not remember her married name.

Answer: It would be difficult to accomplish this if sending the formal, engraved announcement card. However, if using the informal card it is perfectly permissible to say "Mary Phipps Doe and Henry John Doe announce the birth, —."

Question: What is the usual percentage that one prescribes as a tip after dining in a restaurant?

Answer: In years long gone by, ten per cent of the total check was considered correct. Today however, fifteen or twenty per cent is the accepted amount of the tip.

Community Friends Honor Hiram Ashley on 94th Birthday

MADOC JUNCTION — Mr. Hiram Ashley, the oldest resident of the community, celebrated his 94th birthday on Saturday 20th.

He is remarkably smart for his years and keeps well informed on all current events by reading and listening to radio.

He has a wonderful memory and greatly enjoys visiting with his friends and reminiscing of years gone by; and with his great age and varied experiences has many fascinating stories which the children of this generation delight in hearing.

Mrs. T. Kovach, Wayne and Kenneth and Mrs. B. Brownrigg of Nancy and David, spent the dinner hour on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Ashley.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hamilton, also Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly of Foxboro, visited at the same home.

In the evening about 25, a few near neighbors and several members of Eggleston Sunday School, called to extend their congratulations.

PRESENTATION

After visiting and singing a number of choruses sung in the Sunday School, Audrey Slapley and Sharon Reid, on behalf of the Sunday School, presented Mr. Ashley with a large pretilly birthday card.

Annarene Clarke, Isobelle Prest and Vickie Browning helped to light the candles on the beautifully decorated birthday cake which Annarene carried to the living room. All joined in singing "Happy Birthday."

Refreshments of sandwiches, cheese, jelly roll, cookies, birthday cake and tea were served. Mr. Ashley received the thanks of several gifts and a large number of birthday cards and letters extending best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashley thanked their friends for making this birthday anniversary such a happy day.

Others who were unable to be there on Saturday, but who visited at Mr. and Mrs. Ashley's on the previous Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Ashley, Sandra and Heather, of Bateman; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Clarke of Stirling and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke.

ARCTIC TEACHER — Joan Ryan, 27-year-old teacher-at-large with the northern affairs department, considers a fox-trimmed parka, caribou mukluks and wolf mitts as part of her wardrobe. Her job takes her from the department's Ottawa headquarters to any part of the Arctic. Besides teaching, she gives health lessons to Eskimo parents and instructs them on hygenic methods of storing native foods. Here Miss Ryan points toward Igloolik, an Eskimo community on an island off the Melville Peninsula where she will help open a new school. (CP Photo)

Parka, Mukluks and Mitts, All Fur-Trimmed, Are Basic Necessities for Arctic Wear

By ELIZABETH MOTHERWELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A fox-trimmed parka, caribou mukluks and wolf mitts are basic wardrobe necessities for an Arctic teacher, says Joan Ryan. A taste for fish helps too.

Miss Ryan, teacher - at - large for the northern affairs department, may be sent at any time from her Ottawa headquarters to the aid of an isolated teacher almost anywhere in the Northwest Territories and northern Quebec.

Instead of an apple for the teacher, she's likely to get a fish from her pupils. "Every day there is a knock and then, 'teacher, fish, fish!'"

As well as teaching, she has many side duties. She instructs Eskimo parents on hygienic methods of storing native foods such as seal and whale meat and gives health tips to prevent dysentery and scabies.

Recently Miss Ryan packed her kit bag to attend the first field workshop for Arctic teachers at Fort Churchill, Man., followed by a journey to remote teaching posts.

DOG SLED TRAVEL

At Igloolik, on an island off Melville Peninsula, her job was to help a new teacher open a school. From there her itinerary took her to Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island. Travel is one of her chief problems. It isn't unusual for her to undertake a 60 - mile trek by dog team when weather grounds aircraft.

The 27 - year - old teacher finds her work in the North rewarding but is occasionally lonely as the only non-Eskimo woman at an Arctic post and enjoys getting back to Ottawa where, she says, "it's nice to be able to talk about cooking and other feminine interests."

In an interview she told of some of the difficulties of teaching among the Eskimos. Last summer she travelled by boat to 13 pupils scattered among five fishing camps along the Central River near Ungava Bay in northern Quebec.

The Eskimos there split up for summer fishing and a boat operated by the fishermen's co - operative follows their camps to pick up the catch. Miss Ryan's task was to catch pupils for lessons lasting anywhere from 20 minutes to three hours depending on how long tides kept the boat at [illegible]

ST[illegible]NO ENGLISH

For the first five weeks Miss Ryan lived among Eskimos speaking no English but for the second five weeks she was joined by northern affairs officials.

Her tent never dried out and she always felt damp and grubby but the Eskimo women were eager to help with the wash and the men volunteered as wood-choppers. "The helpfulness made life much more pleasant."

During the trip back, an 80 - mile - an - hour gale forced her boat to shelter in a cove for five days.

Being able to sleep between sheets again and getting a professional hairdo and manicure were among the joys she counted on return to civilization.

"Don't bother giving your friends your address — we can't guarantee another plane out this summer," Miss Ryan was told when she started her first northern duty with the Dog Rib Indians at Lac la Martre in the Mackenzie district of the Northwest Territories, 100 miles by water from the nearest white settlement.

But unexpectedly that year she and another young woman teacher had 27 non-scheduled flights land at their doorstep. Fisheries officials, mining engineers and geographers were among the callers.

Miss Ryan's experience included teaching delinquent girls near Montreal before the lure of the North sent her to the Arctic.

She majored in psychology at Carleton University in Ottawa and received her masters degree in education at the University of Alaska. Her thesis compared education systems in the Northwest Territories and Alaska.

CANADIAN MINING "FIRSTS"

The first mining claim staked in Canada was by a nephew of Jacques Cartier in 1598. It was for a copper mine on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River.

The first recorded discovery of silver in Canada was made by the French in Acadia in 1735. The find was considered to be of sufficient importance to be reported to the French government in Paris.

The first gold discovered by white settlers in Canada was found by a woman. In 1823, a Mrs. Gilbert was berry-picking on the banks of a little stream near the Chaudiere River, in Southern Quebec. She tore some moss from a tree to mark her berries in, and uncovered the little vein of gold beneath it. Her discovery was investigated by the Royal Engineers — then stationed in Canada — who reported that there was high possibility of gold being found in other parts of Canada.

French-Canadian settlers first prospected for, and found, iron as far back as 1650. The first smelting of iron was done in 1742, in the St. Maurice River Valley.

Nature stores her treasures in the ground, and keeps them safe and sound. If you have to store your household furniture and family treasures, the very best and safest place for them is in the modern and fire-resistant Storage Warehouses of Fox Cartage and Storage Limited. Infectious Communicable Childhood Diseases Detailed

By DR. McCOLL METCALFE M.D.H.

Infectious or communicable diseases can be divided into those caused by bacteria and those caused by viruses. Those caused by bacteria are scarlet fever, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, typhoid fever, dysentery and gastro enteritis By virus infection are: measles, mumps, chickenpox, German measles and small pox.

Scarlet fever is a general toxic manifestation of a streptococcal infection and the child who develops the disease has most likely been exposed to a person with scarlet fever or to a healthy carrier or a throat infection which has been caused by streptococcal bacteria. The incubation period or the period between the infection and the first appearance of symptoms is between two and seven days but 48 hours is the most common time.

SCARLET FEVER SYMPTOMS

Symptoms: sudden onset headache, fever, nausea and vomiting, sore throat and rash with the following signs: flushed face, abnormal redness of the skin with small pin point inflammatory elevations which spread from the upper part of the neck and chest downward. Petechias in the axillaries region. There is a discoloration at the bend of the elbow. The rash is seen over the surface of the body most evidently on the chest and abdomen, back, arms and thighs. Findings in the mouth and throat are characteristic. The tongue the first day is white coated with red papillae showing through. On the second and third day there is a scaling or cleasing of about half the tongue leaving a red base with large swollen red papillae and the fourth day the tongue is completely clear of its white coating leaving a red base and red papilla, the so-called strawberry tongue.

FINAL STAGE

The final stage is the shrinking of the surface of the tongue leaving a shiny surface. The throat is fiery red with swelling of the uvula. The tonsils are red and swollen and often times a pussy discharge is seen. These symptoms last from one to four days depending on the severity of the case and the rash begins first to fade on the third or fourth day. Peeling may start on the face early in the first week, later on the body. In the third week in some cases peeling of large flakes of skin off the exterem ities.

With modern treatment recovery is very quick in the average case without complications.

Diphtheria: This is an acute communicable disease characterized by a local inflammation with a membrane formation on the upper respiratory passages and a generalized toxic condition. The disease has a slow onset and its symptoms are a low grade fever, headache, general malaise with generalized aches and pains and a sore throat. The general or constitutional symptoms are often out of proportion and the patient appears ill more than the throat condition.

The course of diphtheria is rapid and progressive unless checked with an adequate and appropriate measures. It is important to diagnose diphtheria as early as possible since there is specific treatment for the disease. Usually its characteristic odor and its signs distinguish it.

TOXOID PREVENTION

The general use of diphtheria toxoid in children prevents its occurrence. Diphtheria toxoid can be obtained from your family physician or at any of the Belleville Health Department's immunization clinics.

Whooping Cough: Is an acute communicable disease characterized by a simple cough which becomes worse as days and weeks pass. Starting as a cough coming on only in the night, the coughing develops into spasms of several coughs ending with whooping and coughing up lastings from six to nine months.

INCUBATION PERIOD

The incubation period ranges form ten to fourteen days. Infants and children in the early stages have few symptoms other than a slight irritating cough, mainly disturbing at night. After about a week to ten days of this night cough the spells come more spasmodic with several expulsive coughs occurring before inspiration takes place. In the second and third week the inspiration "Whoop" typical of the disease. These spasms are followed by severe vomiting of mucus and food. Other than these there are very few symptoms. Recurrent attacks of Whooping Cough are not likely.

Tetanus: or lockjaw is an infection of the superficial or deep tissues as a result of some injury. The nervous system is affected resulting in muscle spasms of groups of muscles.

The disease is caused by a bacillus distributed in the soil, the bacillus lives and grows where there is no air. Cases appear every month of the year but most common in July, August and September as more injuries to children outdoors at play occur in this period. More common in boys. When first seen the signs and symptoms are slight and apart from difficulty in opening the mouth, the mouth may be normal.

JAW STIFFNESS

During the next 24 hours there is more stiffness of the jaw, more rigidity, spasms commence and the whole musculature including the abdominal muscles become rigid. Sooner or later the jaw locks very powerfully and very often quickly. The face assumes a characteristic expression which results from spasm of facial muscles and raising of the eyebrows. The head goes back; contraction of the back muscles causing a bowing of the back, the limbs go into spasm in extended position with clenched fists and feet. There is intense sweating and the patient suffers extreme pain. The spasms may become more frequent or after several days the patient may become less severe until after the seventh day the outlook becomes brighter.

VIRUS INFECTION

Poliomyelitis: This disease is caused by a virus and there is more than one type of this virus. The incubation period is usually seven to 14 days although some have mentioned twice to 21 days. Two clinical forms of poliomyelitis, nonparalytic and paralytic are most often encountered but several clinical types are seen including among others spinal paralytic involving mainly the arms and legs and bulbar involving the cranial nerves.

In order of their frequency the signs and symptoms are fever, headache, nausea and vomiting, drowsiness, some neck pains in the extremities, weakness, some form of constipation, diarrhoea and tremor. Headache is almost constant, sore throat slight. The exact way in which the virus enters the body is still unknown, but many feel it is by the gastro intestinal tract.

ACUTE COMMUNICABLE

Smallpox: is an acute communicable disease characterized by a severe constitutional upset with purulent rash followed by desquamation with possibility of permanent scarring. The incubation period varies from ten to 14 days usual period is 12 days. The onset is characterized by extreme constitutional symptoms headache, fever, aching of back and limbs and extreme prostration are the early stages. The color of the rash is similar to that of a boiled lobster. Fever often rises to 105°F. or over. On the third or fourth day the eruption appears and there is characteristic of the lesions over the body most numerous on exposed and pressure surfaces, namely the face, shoulders and external surfaces of wrists, legs and feet, however in severe cases they may also appear on the abdomen.

IMMUNIZATION OBTAINABLE

Immunization against any or all of the above diseases can be obtained from your family physician or at any of the immunization clinics held requiarly by the Belleville Health Department.

Infectious Hepatisis: The incubation period is usually 30 days and a generalized malaise develops in the patient before jaundice appears. The usual symptoms are loss of appetite, weakness, fever, abdominal discomfort, headache and vomiting. These symptoms last from one to three weeks before jaundice develops. The sclera or white of the eye may first be tinged and then generalized jaundice appears. During this stage the symptoms may be accentuated.

Some become intensely jaundiced, stools are clay colored. The disease is due to a virus but its mode of spread is not definitely known and as a result of this prevention of the disease is difficult. It is wise to carry out precaution against infection in each patient. Improvement of sanitation and personal hygiene, disinfection of stools, bed pan, disease and clothing of the patient will likely do much to limit the spread of the disease.

Chocolate Log

by Mary Moore

When and if I sign myself "your devoted servant" remember I mean it.

Read these excerpts from a reader's letter: "This is my query: It is called a Chocolate Christmas "Jelly"? It seems it is a jelly roll but the filling is the special part which is chocolate and just out of this world. When asked if I might have the recipe told they are sorry, it is secret . . . I believe with what filling is leftover it is poured over the outside of roll and decorated as a log." I ate just such a chocolate log at the Golden Jubilee Convention of the Press Club at the Royal York in 1934 and from that distant start gradually acquired the recipe.

CHOCOLATE LOG:

Chocolate Sponge Cake: 3-4 cup sifted cake flour, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon powdered instant coffee, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 cup cocoa, 1-4 cup salad oil, 3 egg yolks, 6 tablespoons water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 3 egg whites, icing sugar.

Mix and sift first 7 dry ingredients into a deep bowl. Make a well and add in order, salad oil, egg yolks, water and vanilla; beat with spoon until smooth. Add cream of tartar to egg whites; beat until egg whites form very stiff peaks. Fold first mixture gently into egg whites until well blended. Fold, do not stir. Line a 10 x 18" jelly roll pan with waxed paper and grease paper lightly; turn batter into pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 12 minutes or until cake springs back when touched lightly with finger. Immediately turn out on a clean towel covered with icing sugar. Peel off waxed paper; quickly cut off the crisp edges. Roll up in towel; by starting at the longer side (enclosing towel in roll); cool well. Unroll and remove towel; spread cake with

FRENCH CHOCOLATE FILLING:

3 squares (oz). unsweetened chocolate, 1 cup unsifted icing sugar, 1-4 lb. (1-2 cup) unsalted butter, 2 eggs.

Melt chocolate. Cream butter, add sugar while creaming. Beat eggs into creamed mixture thoroughly. Slowly add melted chocolate while beating. Spread filling on cooled cake and roll up. Reserve some filling for top and mark it with a broad-tined fork to resemble the bark on a log, if desired, for a festive occasion, sprinkle with green-colored sugar or decorate with "flowers" made from quartered maraschino cherries with silver dragee centres.

Brookdale F.F. Discusses 'Advertising'

6th SIDNEY — Ten members of Brookdale Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost on Monday evening. After listening to a broadcast on "Farm Advertising — Does It Pay?" there followed a lively discussion.

The group thought that it is hard to advertise farm products as so many of them are processed before going to the consumer and the processor advertises them in his way for his benefit.

Advertising of brand names of processed products through the years sells the product as fabulous prices, (e.g.), cheese and milk products.

An overall national food advertising program would make the Canadian people conscious of their country's products, instil a pride in them and cause a preference for them.

The local cheese factories could have a refrigerated room attached to the factory where cheese could be displayed for sale. Also other products of the farm would be on sale (e.g.) eggs and cream and in season fresh fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. George Vanderwater attended Calvary Temple Church service with Mr. and Mrs. John Homan on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Dafoe called on Mr. and Mrs. R. Laurenson on Sunday afternoon.

STRIKE ENDS

WELLAND (CP)—A sympathy strike of 300 employees of the General Tire and Rubber Corporation ended Tuesday when workers voted to resume production today. They walked off Friday when the firm suspended 11 women employees in a disciplinary move.

ARTISTIC ICEMAN — Peter Paglia is a sculptor but his work isn't for posterity. It returns to a shapeless mass a few hours after it is put on display.

Paglia's creations are all in ice. He became an ice sculptor in Toronto after he arrived from Italy two years ago and carves figures from 400-pound blocks in the 20-degree atmosphere of an ice company's refrigerated storeroom.

Most of his art is for parties. He has produced such works as a Santa Claus, a model of a new car, a manure spreader for a farm machinery manufacturer, a jet plane, an Italian gondola and a merry-go-round on a turntable.

Special items cost from $25 to $100 and it takes Paglia 12 to 20 hours to make his most detailed production but they last no more than eight to 10 hours.

"My biggest job so far has been four horses drawing an old-fashioned beer wagon," Peter said. This was used at an industry convention and was nearly eight feet long. He uses vegetable dyes to tint the models. (CP Photo).

Gag Caused 1875-Mile Bike Ride

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A motorcycle messenger, bemused and saddlesore, headed back home today after an 1,875-mile journey to pick up a book that wasn't here.

The story began in Los Angeles where Henry R. Davis, a blueprint company executive, discovered he had lent out a copy of a treasured book that was never returned.

When Davis sent his Christmas cards, he included a note on each one urging the book borrower, whoever he might be, to speak up. Reasoning that some friend in Los Angeles must have the book, Davis concluded, the note with this postscript: "I'll send a motorcycle messenger over to pick it up."

The plea brought a letter from his friend, Wray Williams of Memphis. Williams wrote that he had the volume and dared Davis, in effect, to send the messenger.

Williams got the surprise of his life when the messenger, Fred Klopping of Los Angeles, arrived into his office Tuesday. He had to tell the weary motorcyclist the whole thing was a gag, that he didn't have the book.

"I was just kidding," he explained. "I didn't think he would really send you."

It took Klopping four days of hard cycling to reach Memphis. But he isn't cycling back to Los Angeles. He had his motorcycle shipped home and he's taking the train.

Hydro, Parks Commission Will Be Asked to Appear To Explain Certain Matters

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Hydro and the Niagara Parks Commission will be asked to appear before the legislature's public accounts committee to answer questions about their financial operations.

Allan Grossman (PC—St. Andrew), elected Wednesday as chairman of the committee, agreed to extend the invitations for next Wednesday upon request of a group of Liberal members.

Liberal Leader Jores Wintermeyer said Tuesday in the legislature he wants to ask Hydro about land near Sarnia at $3,000 an acre when a federal government evaluation of the land placed it's value at $2,200 an acre.

He also claims to have information that there is a discrepancy in expenditures of the parks commission.

COMMITTEE MATTER

It now appears that his questions to the two bodies will be asked before the public accounts committee, which has not been called since 1958. It is one of 19 standing committees of the legislature.

The Liberals nominated Ross Belcher (L—Lincoln) for chairman of the public accounts committee but Mr. Grossman was elected by a show of hands.

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) said Mr. Frost had hinted he would not be a member of the energy committee, established this year to deal with problems of energy resources.

Stewart Clarkson, deputy minister of energy, has indicated that the committee will be one of the most active in the legislature. The department already has established an energy study branch.

If nuclear power is not utilized in the next 20 years, Ontario will have to burn 25,000,000 tons of United States coal each year to generate electricity, Mr. Clarkson said. Hydro has already used up all of Ontario's water resources. Canadian coal is not competitive with U.S. coal for thermal power plants, Mr. Clarkson said.

OTHER CHAIRMEN

Other committee chairmen elected were:

Ron McNeil (PC—Glengarry) agriculture, George Gomme (PC—Lanark) conservation, Alex Carruthers (PC — Durham) education, W. Grenke Johnston (PC—Carleton) game and fish, John White (PC—London South) government expenditures, William Stewart (PC—Middlesex North) health, Garth Brown (PC—Peterborough) highway safety, H. E. Leslie Rowntree (PC—York West) labor, William Noden (PC—Rainy River) lands and forests, Allan Lawrence (PC — St. George) legal bills, John Fullerton (PC — Ottawa-Manitoulin) mining, Hollis Beckett (PC—York East) municipal law, Mr. Rowntree, private bills, Stanley Hall (PC—Lambton) standing orders, Stanley Haskett, W. Bec Lewis (PC—York-Humber) travel and publicity.

Chairmen have not yet been named for the committees of printing, and privileges and elections.

The legislature did not sit Wednesday. The day was devoted to organizing standing committees.

Remarks Bring Spirited Protest From Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — Still burning from having his car towed off Parliament Hill at 8CMP orders, Guy Rouleau, L-Montreal Rollard, introduced a bill in the Commons Wednesday to empower the parliamentary protective staff to regulate hill traffic.

The protective staff, he said, would be substituted "for the RCMP who can still continue parading around the grounds and being photographed with pretty girls, which at times seems to be their main occupation."

His remarks brought a spirited protest from Justice Minister Fulton who said the RCMP are "some rather unfortunate experiences" with some MPs, "and the honorable member knows well of what I am speaking."

His remarks brought protests from Lionel Chevrier L—Montreal Laurier and Hazen Argue CCF House leader, but the ruffled feathers were smoothed down by Speaker Michener, who said he didn't think the time minister's accusations were very strong.

Import of Cars Not Included

OTTAWA (CP) — Current Canada-Soviet trade talks do not include the question of the export of Russian made automobiles to Canada, Mitchell Sharp said Wednesday.

The talks between Canada and the Soviet Union, which opened Jan. 21 at separate conference headed by Canada's Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce Dana Wilgress and Soviet Deputy Minister of Foreign Trade Nikolai Patolichev, are expected to end this week.

An official of the Soviet Embassy here was quoted by the Ottawa Journal Jan. 21 as saying Avto Export Company was negotiating with a Toronto importer for an initial shipment of 2,000 of the Russian cars.

5,400 Man, Seven-Country UN Emergency Force Plays Big Role in Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Mounting tension between Israel and the United Arab Republic has focused attention once more on the role being played in the Middle East by the 5,400-man, seven-country UN Emergency Force.

It is the first "peace force" ever put in a specific trouble area by The United Nations. But it is not stationed at the current hot spots around the Sea of Galilee, the scene of armed clashes this week.

Proposed by Canada at the height of the Suez crisis more than three years ago, the force was created in November, 1956, by a vote of UN General Assembly.

It patrols the frontier between Israel and the Egyptian part of the United Arab Republic—and the U.A.R. side—and maintains an outpost at Sharm el Sheikh at the entrance of the Gulf of Aqaba. Syria, where the current Israeli trouble centres, joined Egypt in the U.A.R. after the force was set up.

Dag Hammarskjold has praised UNEF as a "remarkable" peace factor in preventing hostilities and restoring calm in a troubled area.

But the secretary - general has also pointed out UNEF is not a fighting force.

It is not equipped or intended to cope with major military action.

As a police force it has a good record. Its patrols—which have no authority to fire first—have maintained a relative quiet along the frontier between Israel and Egypt ever since UNEF was established.

It costs about $20,000,000 a year to maintain the force. The United States pays about 31 per cent of the total as its regular assessment and also substantial additional contributions on a voluntary basis, as does Britain.

The Soviet bloc has contributed nothing, arguing that creation of UNEF by the assembly was illegal, and that only the Security Council has authority under the UN charter to set up an international armed force.

Many other countries—notably Latin American and Arab nations—are delinquent in their payments.

The seven nations making up UNEF a 11 volunteered their troops. They are Canada, Denmark, India, Norway, Sweden, and Yugoslavia. The contingents were furnished also by Colombia, Finland and Indonesia.

All wear their national uniforms, but are distinguished by badges, light blue berets, fatigue caps, turbans and helmets.

Energy Board Moves Into Final Phase of Hearings

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Energy Board today will move into the final phase of its gas export hearings, now in their fifth week.

Niagara Gas Transmission Limited is expected to wind up its evidence on proposed export of Canadian gas to the northern New York state, thus opening the way for argument by the 18 companies and organizations intervening in the hearings.

Montreal Oil Limited extended Wednesday that got filing the present export application likely create in the long run those prices in Canada would be increased which it was intended to prevent."

Two of the intervenors — the only two believed to be in opposition — have said they will call five applications before the board —got in their first likes Wednesday. They were Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation and the New York State Gas Company.

Niagara Mohawk now supplies gas to the Iroquois pipeline line from New York State Gas Company. Now before the U.S. Federal Power Commission is a Niagara Mohawk application to export gas to the same state area proposed by Niagara Gas Transmission.

George D. Finlayson of Toronto, counsel for the Americans intervenors, argued that it would be pointless for the Canadian board to approve the Niagara export application until the U.S. agency decides which company to serve the proposed market area.

His objections to having the Canadian application heard now were overruled by board chairman Ian McKinnon.

Backers, Foes Of Apartheid Praise Speech

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters) — Supporters and opponents of racial segregation joined today in applauding Harold Macmillan's statement here Wednesday that the British government would not support the South African government's apartheid policy.

South African newspapers generally disagreed with Macmillan's opposition to race segregation but praised the British prime minister for making his stand public before Parliament.

"We South Africans can neither evade nor ignore what he has said," a sense Mr. Macmillan was telling us on behalf or the whole West that we cannot count on continued support and other political developments unless directly at variance with the basic philosophy which the West is so magnificently determined to uphold," The Times said.

Most British newspapers praised Macmillan's opposition to apartheid but The Guardian Guardian of Manchester said his statement did not go far enough.

It he had truly spoken the beliefs of the British people about South Africa it would not have been greeted with the hesitancy applaud at the end, The Guardian said.

STEADY NEW MISSILE

WASHINGTON (AP) — House space committee members discussed Wednesday behind closed doors a proposed anti - missile weapon which one congressman said might be able to melt a Russian in the air. It is under study by Varo Manufacturing Company, at Garland, Tex., and on the basis of information available would render an enemy's incoming missile ineffective as it passed through a radiation belt.

Work on Missile Site in Quebec Falling Behind

OTTAWA (CP)—Work on the Avro Arrow missile launching site near Mont Laurier, Que., is behind that for a similar base near North Bay, because missiles for the Quebec site will arrive later, Defence Minister Pearkes said Wednesday.

Replying to questions in the Commons from Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) and Guy Rouleau (L—Montreal Rollard), Mr. Pearkes said work is being timed with delivery of the weapons for the sites. The North Bay weapons are to arrive earlier.

Only survey work has been carried out at Mont Laurier, he said.

In reply to another question, Mr. Pearkes declined to make a statement on a statement by Dr. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. army chief of staff from 1955 to 1959, that the Bomarc is being developed too late to be an effective weapon.

Mr. Pearkes said the statement was made by a foreign officer who is not an adviser of the Canadian defence department.

Gen. Taylor, in a new book, has charged that the Bomarc is too late in relation to the waning bomber threat and is doubling up needlessly on technical and fiscal feasibility."

Mr. Pearkes has repeatedly stated the government has not changed its decision to procure Bomarc missiles for Canada.

Would Welcome Move Says Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday that Canada would welcome any United States move that would ease Canada and other allies' greater control over U.S. nuclear warheads assigned to their use.

He was commenting in the Commons on a Washington report that President Eisenhower had told a press conference he would like to see the U.S. share more of its atomic secrets with Canada.

The Washington dispatch said there has been reports that the administration may seek a change in the law to allow allied greater custody and control over nuclear weapons provided by the U.S.

Mr. Diefenbaker, replying to Opposition Leader Pearson, said any action like that would assure implementation of Canada's policy that the Canadian government should have full freedom over use of such warheads.

The government plans to obtain U.S. nuclear warheads for its proposed Bomarc missile bases.

Finch Lawyer Says Shooting An Accident

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The major mystery at the Finch murder trial—how Dr. Bernard Finch would explain his claim that he shot his wife in the back by accidents—is a mystery no more.

It happened, his lawyer says, when a gun the two were fighting over fired by mischance as the deadbolt he threw it out of harm's way.

The wealthy surgeon, on trial with his mistress, Carole Tregoff, was expected to tell that detail of the death struggle with his socialite wife when he returned to the stand today.

BLUNT DENIAL

"Doctor, did you, on the night of July 18, 1959, murder your wife?" his lawyer asked after the handsome defendant took the witness box Wednesday.

"Absolutely not," Finch answered.

"Or at any other time?"

"No."

"Dr. Finch, did you at any time conspire, combine, confederate or agree or enter into any kind of conspiracy with Jack Cody, with Carole Tregoff or with any other living person to kill and murder your wife?"

"No, sir, I certainly did not."

Finch, 42, appeared calm and assured. Listening at the counsel table was pretty, red-haired Miss Tregoff.

The state charges they conspiried to kill Mrs. Barbara Finch, 36, and that Finch shot her so they could marry and not have to share her estate. Mrs. Finch once estimated at $150,000.

Finch testified that his wife gradually became sexually frigid toward him after the birth of their son, Raymond Jr., in April 1953.

By November 1956 they no longer had sexual relations, Finch said.

The following January Finch first dated Miss Tregoff, a one-time model then working as a receptionist in the doctor's clinic.

The state also charges that Carole and Finch hired an exparolee convict named John Patrick Cody to kill Mrs. Finch.

Mikoyan Calls At Gander on Flight to Cuba

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — A plane carrying Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan to Cuba took off from here today after a 45-minute refuelling stop.

The plane arrived here from Moscow.

The big Russian airliner carrying the Mikoyan party and his party arrived for a two-hour refuelling stop.

Mr. Mikoyan left the plane and was greeted by local officials and representatives of the Soviet Embassy at Ottawa.

This is the third time the Soviet leader has been on Canadian soil. He visited briefly in November he stopped at Halifax and Gander on flights to and from Moscow.

This time he is bound to Havana where he will visit with Premier Castro.

Besides the Russian ambassador to Canada, Mr. Mikoyan also was greeted by Cuba's diplomatic representative to that country.

Mr. Mikoyan said Russia would be happy to have a visit from Cuban Premier Fidel Castro. Mr. Mikoyan's main object in visiting Cuba was to get first hand information about the people's problems and to get to know them better.

Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

MILTON (CP)—John Cutts, 24, was fined $500 and given a nine-month sentence in jail after he was found guilty of manslaughter by an Ontario Supreme Court jury here yesterday.

Cutts told police he fired as a man jumped eight feet from a high door of a barn and frightened him. The body of Gerald Schmalz, 38, chairman of the Milton separate school board, was found near the barn two days after the shooting.

Cutts was remanded in custody until Friday for sentence.

PREFER SHOWGIRLS?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A girl's Las Vegas showgirl will join the Crosby clan Saturday when Linda Ray, youngest son of Crooner Bing by the late Dixie Lee Crosby, marries Barbara Freder ickson. Miss Frederickson recently was chosen queen of the Los Angeles home show.

Dr. Tom Casey, Neurologist, Outstanding Negro Football Star, Wants Research Work

LONDON (CP) — When Ohio-born Tom Casey went to Canada 11 years ago, he tackled two careers. In both his record was impressive.

In football, first with Hamilton Wildcats and later with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the genial Negro developed into one of the outstanding players in the country.

At the same time he sweated through a gruelling University of Manitoba medical course.

There was no bitterness when the passage of time forced him to turn his back on football. Eight years in Winnipeg had made it possible for him to become Dr. Tom Casey. He did a year's stint as an intern at the Winnipeg General Hospital and another year of post-graduate work before coming to Britain to study neurology.

FIRM HOPES

In an oak-panelled dining room of a Fleet Street restaurant, Dr. Tom talked of his hopes and aspirations.

"I'm going to try to prepare myself as best I can in this field," he said.

"Then the only thing to do is to try to find a place where I am accepted in the community and can be reasonably happy in my work."

Even while immersed in study and observation of the work of some of the world's leading neurologists at the London Institute of Neurology, Dr. Tom looks forward to another dual career.

RESEARCH AIMS

He wants ultimately to have a practice that will give him time for research as well as time for with patients. He told of a research project he and a colleague started working on during the last year.

He declined to go into details beyond saying it involved study of language disorders. But the two young doctors became interested in the problems of a man who lost the power to read, write and talk after an accident. They found that this was due to be divulged at a conference in Montreal during the later this year.

"A fair number of specialists have fields in which they want to do research," he said. "My ideas still are in the embryo stage. Perhaps later this year, after more study, I will have a more developed more."

In June, he plans to return to Winnipeg for a three-week vacation. Later, he will work for a time at the Maudsley Hospital, the Jersey City medical centre in the United States.

Would he consider eventually going back to Winnipeg to practice?

He shrugged.

"I naturally have a preference for Winnipeg. I have many true and good friends there and there are many things in the city that I enjoy. I would like to go back unless there are strong reasons for not doing so."

Although he didn't say so explicitly, the "strong reasons" turned out to be his concern that there may be some discrimination against him on racial grounds. He discussed the topic without rancor. He wondered if the same people who cheered wildly for him as a football player would go to a Negro doctor for treatment.

"One has only one life and one has to weigh the factors as well as one can before making a decision."

BIG THINGS

The things he considers important are having a congenial medical environment to work in, being able to do things that interest him and being able to live in a place where one is an accepted member of the community.

"Winnipeg is like home to me. But if I can't find the work I like or the social environment there I'll have to look elsewhere."

Dr. Tom has some vivid recollections of racial attitudes he came across in London in the midst of the 1958 race riots in Notting Hill. He had trouble finding suitable accommodation.

He found them cool and it took almost a year before his research on initial intense dislike of London.

BACKWARD LOOK

Looking back on this period now, it may be that the reason was just the reaction of a racial group to a foreigner and that it was not a hostility directed against any individual racial group.

"Here in London people seemed to assume that anybody from North America was loaded with money and that it was trying to be a material god to the

"I tried to find a common ground with the people but it was difficult. During the last year, however, I have been fortunate in making a few friends and people with whom I can relax. I still find a lot of reaction against the foreigner, but now it doesn't seem any worse than it would be anywhere else."

I think I'll be able to stick it out."

No Change in Basic Defence Structure Despite Big Budget

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If Britain's defence budget rises by 3 per cent—the figure for next year—and reliable sources predict that it will—probably won't mean any change in the country's basic defence structure.

Most of the money, say defence experts, will go toward higher salaries, the ever-rising cost of material and speeding the program of re-equipping the traditional land forces.

None of these items—are particular costs that Britain's defence levy were first announced.

Some sources have predicted that this year's defence budget will increase by more than £400,000,000, bringing it to an unequaled £1,640,000,000. The increase would follow two consecutive decreases.

SHIFT TO NUCLEAR

The decreases are part of a five - year streamlining program, launched three years ago by former defence minister Duncan Sandys, in which British would rely almost entirely on nuclear deterrents. Conventional force would be severely small, tidy units.

But there are strong indications that this isn't successful. Defence Watkinson, is not going to follow the program to the letter. Last month he said in a speech that it would be wrong for Britain to withdraw from under a nuclear umbrella.

He also said a "creditable deterrent" could be maintained with balanced nuclear and conventional forces. Some senior military advisers are known to hold this view.

ENOUGH VOLUNTEERS

The program to cut down the size of Britain's armed forces will continue, however, and the reduced strength will be met, about 1962, by volunteers. And no basic change is expected in the nuclear field.

But defence spokesman say more emphasis can be exercised in conventional forces in the defence while paper expected about mid - February. Additions are expected to troop - carrying fleets and helicopters, and more money will be set aside to train more officers for the army.

But the sources say there will be no apparent change in the role of former defence ministers. Sandys' original program will be left largely enough to provide for any shift of emphasis.

Shot in Back

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Ernest Ouellette was shot in the back with a shotgun while hunting deer in Derby Township Wednesday. He is in fair condition.

Police said Ouellette was using a glass a concession road about 90 feet ahead of his friends. One bullet struck him in the back went off and the full charge caught Quesnel in the left of the back.

DEW EXECUTION STORY

VIENNA, Austria (Reuters)— The Hungarian foreign ministry Wednesday denied a Western report that a number of young Hungarians had been put to death arising out of the 1956 uprising were executed on reaching the age of 18. The Hungarian news agency MTI reported that the Hungarian foreign ministry's spokesman vigorously denied "these lies which obviously serve the objects of the cold war."

High School Activities

By TRINA JANITCH

Last Thursday and Friday "Charley's Aunt" showed once again why it is a favorite of drama clubs the world over. The B.C.I.V.S. presentation of this play was remarkable for its professional smoothness, and in the choice of Alan Barkley for the Radcliffe role. Alan, in his plum part of Lord Fancourt Babberley, demonstrated his outstanding comedy talent, giving sparkle to the whole play. The rest of the cast was flawlessly capable, and Miss Morrison and Mr. Boate did their usual excellent job in extracting the best from their players.

The R.C.A.F. Transport band was a most welcome guest at the Collegiate last week. This famous organization, including three former former students (one a Mr. B.C.I.V.S.), provided listeners an hour of wonderful music ranging from Mozart to Shoobie Lee. As Mr. Orr later commented, the rapt attention of the audience showed how much this performance was appreciated.

The Girls' Athletics Society presented its annual assembly last Wednesday. This consisted of a demonstration of skills carried in P.E. Tumbling, dance, pyramida, box-horse displays, added up to a miniature Kamous Kapers, while a Fashion (?) Show added humor. The G.A.S. is to be praised for giving us a change of pace in assemblies.

Last October the B.C.I.V.S. junior football team played Trenton High School in Trenton. Our boys lost the game and with it their hopes for the championship. It was a pretty bleak day, but at that time no one was aware of its full tragedy. In that game, Mike Wamboldt, playing for B.C.I.V.S. broke his leg. It seemed like an ordinary injury and everyone expected to see this popular boy back at school in a few weeks, perhaps with a cast on which we could write witty comments.

Since that October afternoon, Mike has spent his time in a hospital bed. Severe complications set in, finally resulting in his transfer to Kingston last week. It looks as if there are many more hospital days before "Mick" is fully recovered. During this time the students of B.C.I.V.S. have not forgotten him: his personal friends visit him, most keep up-to-date on his progress, and all talk of him and his 'tough breaks". Last week, however, the Key and Keyette clubs initiated a Mike Wamboldt fund. Donations were accepted from all students and to top it off the Boys' Athletics held a Mike Wamboldt night. This weekend, Mike will receive a handsome T.V. set and, attached to it, the huge list of the names of students who helped in his presentation. We hope Mike will know that B.C.I. has been, is, and will be behind him every step of the way.

What looked like a mass emigration from the Collegiate last Monday was really only the Hi-Y's and the grade thirteens leaving for trips to Toronto for the Ice Follies, and to Kingston for a performance of "Murder in the Cathedral" respectively.

The Hi-Y trip is an annual affair, anticipated for months before and unhashed for months afterwards. This year's trip was the usual joyous combination of jokes, singing and general "making whoopee" not to mention the dazzling beauty of the Follies. A tired and happy crowd returned to Belleville that night with exciting memories of a wonderful, wonderful time.

The grade thirteens were fortunate in being able to attend a live performance of the modern play that they will shortly begin to study. "Murder in the Cathedral" by T. S. Eliot, and presented by the Domino players, was entertaining as well as worthwhile.

This Friday our teachers will attend a district Educational Conference held in Picton, and as a result no classes will be held. Holidays are wonderful, but a holiday when the teachers have to work — pure bliss!

CHURCH BURNS

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— The St. Columban Roman Catholic Church was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. Loss was estimated at $150,000. Four of 60 firemen who fought the blaze were overcome by smoke and one was reported to have a broken leg.

Deseronto

POTLUCK SUPPER

DESERONTO — The Ladies' Auxiliary Bowling League from Branch 260 held a potluck supper at the Legion hall on the evening of January 29th. Each lady brought her husband as a guest and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A wonderful variety of food was offered as each donated two dishes of her own choice and there was something to please the palate of the guests.

After the dinner the evening was spent in euchre and some spirited card playing took place. The winners were, lone hand Mrs. William Calder; ladies' high score, Mrs. Vera Hutchinson; low, Mrs. E. Fraser. The high score for men was won by Albert Fraser and Don Armitage captured the low score. The booby prize was won by Mrs. Fran Transue.

BANTAMS TIE

On Saturday morning at the local rink the bantam hockey match attracted a fairly good crowd of supporters for the teams competing. An interesting game was offered between the Shannonville Bantams and the Deseronto Bantams and the score of one goal each shows how closely the teams were matched. This endeavor of the Athletic Association is attracting more and more attention in the town and surrounding district as it is the proper and only way to provide the hockey players of the future.

The Association is now hoping to be able to enter a Peewee team in tournament matches.

If they continue their efforts perhaps in a few years Deseronto will again have a hockey teams that the town was noted for in the distant past.

Deseronto Ice Carnival Well Attended, Greatly Enjoyed

DESERONTO — Ideal weather and a jovial crowd combined to make the Ice Carnival at the Skating Rink a huge success on Saturday Night. The carnival was sponsored by the Athletic Association and provided a great deal of enjoyment for the large crowd that attended. As well as the hundreds on the ice there was an excellent turnout of spectators. The rink was decorated with a vast number of multi-colored ballons and the lighting was supplied by flares which combined to provide a very colorful atmosphere for the many and varied costumes.

Shortly after seven the night was started by a broom ball game between the Firemen and the Athletic Association. There was some exciting play and many spills before the game ended. The referee, Jack Spence, did the honors of some show partiality to the Athletic Association when he penalized two firemen at once and thus allowed the Athletics to tie the score. The game ended in one goal each. There were some sore shins and stiff joints the following day.

The announcer for the evening was Richard Brant and the judging of the costumes was done by J. Howard, R. Brant, F. Stevenson, and D. Keenan. In addition to the regular prizes, Mr. S. Marek donated a number of free passes to the theatre. The refreshment booth was handled by some of the mothers' aides, Mrs. Doris Brant, Mrs. Mabel Moore, Mrs. Helen Jackson, and

Crofton

CROFTON — The Good Neighbor's Club held its euchre party at the school on Thursday evening.

Mrs. George Hutson called on Mrs. E. Crook and Mrs. D. B. Munro on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Victor Bongard attended the euchre party at Allisonville, on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Val Squire, of Burr's neighborhood, called on Mrs. E. Crook on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Sandra Gray was a guest of Miss Lois Squire on Saturday.

Mrs. Joan Claus.

PRIZE WINNERS

The prize winners were as follows Youngest skater, Miss Polly Cole — three years old; best dressed girl, Miss Valerie McMahon; best dressed boy, Kelvin Loney and Barry Brummell tied; best comic, Mrs. Edgar Sweet; best lady skater, Miss Linda Topping; best gentleman skater, Delbert Green; best dressed lady, Mrs. A. Hrytzak; best dressed gentleman, Joseph Brant; oldest couple on skates, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dimmell; biggest family on skates, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dimmell with their four children.

The prize for this was a basket of groceries.

3rd Hillier

BRD HILLIER — Hillier Institute held a card party in the Hillier town hall on Friday night with 12 tables in play. The committee, Mrs. Morley Wannamaker, Mrs. W. Jordon and Mrs. Will Wright attended to the getting of the prizes, which went to: ladies, Mrs. Bob Cunningham, Mrs. Ed Carson; low, Mrs. Norris Defoe; men, Sherman Foster, Will Adams; low, Will Alexander; lone hands, Will Adams.

The Institute members served lunch, and are planning another party for February 19 in the town hall.

The Christ Church Guild will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Morton of Wellington. This is the election of officers for the coming year at the January meeting had to be postponed.

Mr. Herman Wyeas of Pleasant Bay is home from Kingston General Hospital.

Mrs. King Terry continues ill at her home, under the doctor's care.

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Defoe entertained on Thursday, Mrs. Ardella Transue, Mrs. Ethel Jones, Mrs. Annie Vancott and Mrs. Herbert Lunn at a dinner party.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Trumpoor spent Sunday evening with his mother, Mrs. Marshall Trumpoor.

At Least She Made An Impression

SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. Marie Carter took her driver's test Tuesday and did just fine except for one thing: When the examiner told her to park the car at the end of the test she drove it through the wall of his office.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Master Frank Shaughnessy, Jr., boss-man of the Canadian Olympics team, breathes optimism like Ole Lady Vesuvius gushes lava when she goes on an eruption binge. He made the public prints the other day with a pre-games ovation as to how many gold medals the Canadians will or should win.

What interested this corner most was the statement that the Olympics Dutchmen is a better club than the Belleville McFarlands which represented Canada in the world tournament at Prague last year.

We trust Mr. Shaughnessy is a much better predictor than his Olympics confrere, one Thomas Farmer, who unsight and unseen, said the Macs were a "bunch of tired old pros who couldn't do anything for Canada," before the ultimate world champions left for Europe.

It could be that Mr. Shaughnessy's best Sunday fedora, like that of Mr. Farmer last year, has been punctured with birdshot, in both cases the voice seems to emanate from that direction.

The two have a lot in common... Neither of these Olympics savants saw the teams of their choice or anything close play. Nor have they seen the Russian, Czech, Swedish or any foreign national teams in action.

Shaughnessy should not be blamed for breathing optimistic statements. It is good for the morale, his own, and that of the rest of the country. Besides if he utters them often enough he will be believing them himself.

But he should be careful when he makes such statements that the Olympics Dutchmen team is a better club than the world tournament McFarlands. Because, brother, that just ain't so.

The only place they can come close is up front. And as Hollywood and cigaret ads state "That is what counts."

For consistency of performance we would not trade Gordie Bell for Bost Hurley, and his associates. After all Gordie was just named one of the tournament topgoalie alot by a vote or two by Russia's Fuchkeh.

For downright savvy, know-how and what have you the Lamlrande-Dewsbury-led Macs' defence could give the Dutchie rearguard aces and spades, especially against European squads.

The Dutchmen front lines should have a good scoring punch once they get organized. But they haven't got a centre man as effective as Red Berenson when it comes to international ice.

Actually—the Kitchener Dutchmen Olympics squad is an all-star aggregation, with one exception, of the Ontario senior "A" league. The original CAHA idea of the Dutchmen mammoth recruiting drive "last summer" from all parts of Canada collapsed with a thud. It produced one western player, Cliff Pennington, who joined the Dutchies early.

So it happened the Dutchmen, after ditching their pros, picked up eight amateur stars. And we believe they got the best the senior amateurs could produce. Summit hockey men state the western calibre of senior hockey it well below that of the east.

Regardless of what the Shaughnessys, Farmers, and those ultra-loyal Kitchener cohorts say, and at the risk of being shot at dawn for being a traitor, we cannot see the Dutchmen bringing home the Olympics bacon. And we hope we have to eat that statement.

While they have the advantage of environment, partisan crowds and homelike atmospheres, it must not be taken for granted the calibre of European teams, especially Russia, the Czechs, Swedes, etc., has not improved.

They have been investing in outfits for the past several months. Indicative of this, was the recent news despatch that the Czech national team indulged in three weeks mountain climbing as part of their Olympics conditioning. Canada was lucky to get its Olympics team together in time to catch the train for Squaw Valley.

Jack (Windsor Star) Dulmage columns: "There is no call to go overboard on Kitchener's chances. It must be remembered the club is stripped of ex-pros. In the past this column has maintained that the finest possible Canadian Olympic team wouldn't be able to get past the Russian army. I see no reason to alter that opinion, although I hope Kitchener alters it for me. Short of having had considerable professional experience, there is just so much immediate potential that a amateur team can possess. Whether it will be sufficient..In this case, we shall soon know."

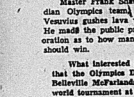
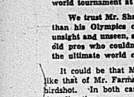
DON'T STAND AND WAIT





Many a tight game has been lost because someone let the man get away from him just long enough to take a pass and go in for the winning goal. This is why coaches are constantly exhorting the player to pick up his man and stay with him from the moment the puck is lost.

A common error occurs when the puck is being brought out of the opposing blue line zone. The defending players often stand and wait for their man to reach them before picking them up. If the man comin out is moving fast he will often break right past and get in the clear, and skating before your man reaches you in order to have enough speed to start with-him.

If your man gets by — chase him!

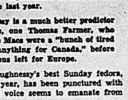
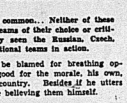
SIGN TENNIS PACTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Promoter Jack Kramer said Wednesday he has re-signed Australia's Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall to pro professional tennis contracts covering seven years. "With Pancho Gonzales taking retirement, these boys should dominate pro tennis for a long time," said Kramer said. Gonzales, 31, the pro king, has said this is his last year.





"Certainly I brought am for firewood. Did you think I was silly enough to try to JUMP OVER six barrels?"

Lead Wings by Three Points After Racking up 4-2 Win Over Floundering Rangers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Punch Imlach's scoring program is headed undeniably for the rocks but his Toronto Maple Leafs are happily travelling in the opposite direction.

Wednesday night in New York they got two goals from tall Billy Harris and turned back the floundering Rangers 4-2 to strengthen a hold on the runner-up spot in the National Hockey League.

It was the schedule's only action.

Before the season opened coach Imlach, flushed with Toronto's late-season success the previous campaign, mapped out an offensive objective.

GOAL TARGETS

He wanted 106 goals from five of his top guns. The assignments were 26 for Dickie Duff, 21 apiece for Bobby Pulford and Harris and 20 apiece for Frank Mahovlich and Bob Nevin.

So far the five have produced only 61 goals and with 21 games left in Toronto's schedule they stand little chance of hitting the collective objective.

Pulford, with 18, should reach his individual target and Mahovlich, seven Nevin, eight, should make it. But Duff has only 14, Stewart nine and the pair Wednesday night gave Harris a slim seven.

Nonetheless, there the team is in the No. 2 spot. Wednesday night's win gave Toronto 56 points, leaving the club 17 ahead Montreal's runaway Canadiens but good enough for a three-point margin over Detroit's third-place Red Wings.

LEAFS OUTSHOT

A crowd of 9,175 saw New York fruitlessly outshoot the Leafs 31-27 and a 13-3 bulge in the scores less first period. But the setback ran a 9-game streak by the Leafs and left the Rangers mired in last place.

Defenceman Allan Stanley, a former Ranger having a great day of his own, and Wilson, the NHL's iron man playing his 507 consecutive game, scored a game rounded off Toronto's scoring.

Dean Prentice and Jim Mikkelsen were defenceman Lou Fontinato —who scored off a power play with 2½ minutes left in the game —and new left-winger Art Stratton.

Last Seven Unbeaten Rinks Have Big Jobs Ahead Today

BY LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—The last seven, will lose in the Lieutenant-Governor's finals Saturday. unbeaten rinks in Quebec's 47th annual international bonspiel get to face stern assignments today as play heads into the crucial stage.

Three rinks from Ontario, three from Quebec and Newfoundland's lone entry—got by first - round competition for the Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy Wednesday and each now has a perfect 5-0 record.

Regardless of what happens in the second round of the Lieutenant-Governor's—top event at the bonspiel—there won't possibly be more than four undefeated rinks left at the end of today's play.

The seven rinks along with Reval Kirkland Lake, defending rink, which was beaten for the first time in the first round of the Lieutenant-Governor's, will be semi-finalists in either the Chateau International Trophy or the Omega International Trophy and semi-finals in both sections will be held late tonight.

Kirkland Lake goes against unbeaten A. S. Dorval's newly-won rink in one semi-final round for the Chateau Bon Matapedia, Toronto and Joe Thomas of Quebec City, both undefeated, battle in the other Chateau semi-final.

The other four unbeaten rinks play in the Omega semi-finals. Dr. Hickman of St. John's, Nfld., opposes M. Baril of Lavioletie, Que., and R. Lalaie of Cap de la Madeleine, Que., goes against O. E. Crawford of Oshawa.

If four rinks are still unbeaten after today's play, two of them will lose Friday night in either the Chateau or Omega finals. If the two Chateau and Omega winners are undefeated one of them

Peterborough Curling Club Wins Consols Playoff in City

Curling at its best was the concensus of the large gallery that followed the play in the Consols playoffs held at the Quinte Curling Club on Wednesday. The ice was thrown shortly before the midnight hour to permit curlers to see the end of a wonderful day of their favorite sport.

Jack Hall, Park, E. Post, Vic Brown and Bert Harrison from the Peterborough Curling Club won three games to capture the championship of District No. 4 and become eligible to compete in the second round, in Kingston on February 9th. This match will be against the winner of the eastern district and a two-out-of-three affair. The winner of this game will come to Wellesley for three days in a round-robin to decide the best curling rink in Ontario and eligible to go to the Dominion games in Calgary.

It was not an easy win for a youthful rink from Peterborough. Perrin, Terrill, Bill May and John McGee, gave them a real tussle in the final game and were only beaten by a 9-6 score with four ends of the game being tied. The Peterborough rink won the game by expert sweeping and their ability to draw the shots when the chips were the key.

The Belleville entry of Dr. F. McCorquodale, Bob Lansing, Doug Ashley and Ben Corke in skip, put up a gallant fight, winning from a Trenton RCAF rink by the score of 9-6. The Lindsay youngsters 10-6. A couple of three-enders hurt the cause of the local rink but they certainly were not disgraced by any means and the Quinte Club will be heard from in the years to come in this class of competition.

TERRIFIC SHOTS MADE

Some terrific shots were made during the day's play. One especially took the eyes of all and it was made by Jerry Fraser of Trenton RCAF. When he went to the end last end, he was told by the opposition was laying a big five and it seemed impossible for them to make a dent in the figure but after carefully surveying the situation he took careful aim and when the smoke had cleared all five rocks had disappeared from the "house" and he was lying shot by the score of one. He received hearty applause from the gallery for his fine play. Peterborough experienced and showed how the "rocks and ice" can make a team with "double knockout" wrecking mate. It was an exciting day of curling and the local rinks are to be congratulated in bringing the curling title here.

There were nine teams in competition, the Peterborough Curling Club, the Peterborough Curling Club, the Lindsay Curling Club, the Trenton RCAF Curling Club, the Trenton Golf and Country Club, the Bancroft Curling Club, the Orono Curling Club and the Cobourg Curling Club. It was necessary to have a preliminary round to get the teams into the eights and then straight knockout with Jack McArthur was the official umpire and Jack Ferguson conducted the draw. The women's section of the Peterborough Curling Club played during the entire day and are to be congratulated on the splendid manner which scored over 200 room, many of the games were played during the afternoon.

The results were:

Minor Hockey

The midget hockey league action at Memorial Arena last night was strictly one-sided as the Bruins clobbered the Black Hawks 9-1. Rangers whipped Leafs last night 13-2 and Canadiens downed the Red Wings 5-1.

No scores were turned in for the juvenile division.

Barbara Andrews was in the starring role for the Bruins, scoring a hat trick in the first period of the campaign, with a four-goal performance. She also got an assist for a five-point night.

Kerry Soden potted two goals for the winners as for Dick Pringle, M. Foxon and Brian McBride. Pringle also drew three assists and Wayne Brenton one. Jerry Keene scored the Black Hawk goal with Gene Yorke assisting.

Bob Jeffreys with three goals, Dave Fisher and Norn Richards with two goals and two assists each, sparked the second-place Rangers attack. Don Holloway fired two goals while Gary Theobald and Stan Woodcock had one and one respectively. Bob Morris and Don Gardiner a goal. Jay Kiser, Bob Boyle, Ron Hawley and Wayne Jerry got assists.

Ron Jeffreys with three goals, Dave Fisher and Norn Richards with two goals and two assists each, sparked the second-place Rangers attack. Don Holloway fired two goals while Gary Theobald and Stan Woodcock had one and one respectively. Bob Morris and Don Gardiner a goal. Jay Kiser, Bob Boyle, Ron Hawley and Wayne Jerry got assists.

Bob Carmichael with two goals, St. Denis had single assists. Doug Fisher scored once more and helped Bruce Symons with the other Maple Leaf goal.

Gary Hall paced the first-place Canadiens to their 10-1 victory with three goals and assisting on three others. Jim Rutherford had two goals and Ron Hawley and Pete Emerson two goals. Single markers went to Ron Reddy, Garry Slee, Don Goodfellow and Carl Boomhower. Tom Davis got the lone Rowland drew assists. Bruce Seams potted the lone Red Wing counter.

Habs Only Club With Decrease In Home Crowds

MONTREAL (AP) — Although Montreal Canadiens are hockey's big draw both at home and on the road, the runaway National Hockey League leaders are the only club showing a decrease in home attendance. Overall, the league has a gain of 8.2 per cent over last season with the Canadiens the sole exception.

In official estimates through games of last Sunday, the Canadiens have drawn 3,000 from last year's pace. Yet in their last five home games, the Canadiens have played before capacity crowds totalling 90,000. Their 25 home games have drawn 349,000.

Detroit Red Wings, cellar occupants last season, have the largest gate increase at home. The thirsty Wings are up 39,000 at 247,000.

Chicago Stadium, home of the Black Hawks, can accommodate the largest crowd—20,004, including standees—in the league at rinks. Other c apacities are: Madison Square Garden, New York, 15,925; Montreal Forum, 15,708; Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, 13,909; Boston Stadium, Detroit, 14,500, and Boston Garden, 13,909.

Detroit (25) 247,000, up 29,000 from 218,000; Chicago (27) 305,000, up 28,000 from 177,000; Boston (25) 249,000, up 19,000 from 230,000; Toronto (24) 331,000, up 15,000 from 316,000; New York (25) 249,000, up 3,000 from 246,000; Montreal (25) 349,00, down 3,000 from 352,000.

This year's total attendance for the 146 games the six teams have played is 1,640,000—86,000 more than the 1,547,000 for the same number of games last year.

Indies Loses To England

PORT of SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — England defeated the West Indies with about two hours to spare on the last day of the second cricket test here Wednesday despite a magnificent 259-run knock-out by Captain Frank Kanhai.

The West Indies, 134 runs for six wickets overnight, were dismissed for 244 runs to give England victory by 256 runs and a 2-0 lead in the five-match series. The first test was a draw.

England scores were: England 382 and 220 for 9 declared; West Indies 113 and 244.

PREDICTS SUCCESS

TORONTO (CP)—Roy Campanella, former catcher with Brooklyn Dodgers, says he thinks the newly-formed Continental Baseball League will be a success. But it will take time.

Here for a TV appearance, he said in an interview Tuesday he thinks the league will succeed because it has "a good man heading the way and if anybody can get the job done, he can."

He was referring to Branch Rickey, formerly of the Dodgers organization and now president of the Continental League.

In 1958-59 Red Kelly, Unknown to Many, Played With a Broken Ankle

TORONTO (CP)—When veteran defenceman Red Kelly of the National Hockey League's Toronto Maple Leafs was playing like a man with a broken ankle last season, it was only the latest chapter in the 32-year old star's career was about ended.

The reason, Kelly says in a story published in The Fan, a sport weekly magazine, is that he did have a broken ankle but for strategic reasons, the team's management kept his disability a secret.

According to the report, Kelly was asked by Jack Adams, the Wings' general-manager, if he would go back into the Wings against Chicago Black Hawks Jan. 31.

Although he'd broken his ankle only six days before and still was wearing a plaster cast, Kelly agreed to give it a try. He helped the Wings to a 3-2 victory and finished out the schedule without missing another game.

The Detroit tonight, Adams denied Kelly was forced to play but insisted that he knew it "was not broken at all." He added: "All we knew was that it was one of their contracts that when they are hurt, that's the end of it for them, when they shall play."

The story says Kelly did not reveal the secret of the broken ankle because the Wing players were fined $100 each for lack of effort. It quotes Kelly as having announced that 'I had a sprain. I guess they didn't want other teams to know it was broken, and maybe start taking whacks at it. I didn't figure it was up to me to say anything. I figured I must admit now that I was surprised when I got that $100."

To play the games, Kelly had to get removed and his leg taped tightly from the instep almost to the knee. The support he says the taping jobs caused him as much pain as the ankle itself.

"It was bound tight for games and then taken off after them. Then my leg began to bleed every time the tape came off so the doctor had to delve a smaller type and binding that just covered the ankle."

"But on the ice I couldn't get hurt. I'm a poor player and I were shoving along the boards for the puck, I always had to give way. And I began taking more penalties than I should've."

He said the ankle was still so tender that he was unable to play golf and it did not heal to the point he could run after the fifth or sixth game this season.

Kelly also says the rumors about Kelly's below-par play nearly cost him his confidence. It quotes Kelly:

"I knew what was wrong. I couldn't help getting discouraged. When you start getting down on everything, you begin to wonder if you have lost your touch altogether. It hurt an awful lot to think that maybe I was washed up."

Two World Boxing Crowns Go on Outdoor Block Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two world boxing championships go on the outdoor block in Memorial Coliseum tonight.

Featherweight champion Jose Becerra of Mexico risks his title against former champion Alphonse Halimi of France in a return of two classic fight staged here last July.

And junior welterweight king Duilio Loi of Italy defends his crown against sensational Raymundo (Battling) Torres of Mexico, only 18 and unbeaten in 20 professional starts.

There will be no radio or television broadcast.

Both Becerra-Halimi fight is set to start at midnight EST as the first of the two 15-round main events.

$200,000 GATE POSSIBLE

Promoter Cal Eaton and matchmaker George Parnassus hope for a $200,000 gate. Tickets aimed at a California record gate of $300,000.

Thousands of Mexicans are here for the fights. The betting favorite, Becerra, 23 — a native of Puerto Rico, at 10 to 7 to retain the title he captured in world division title. He acquired it when he stopped Kenny Lane in 10 rounds in New York.

Becerra, 22, a native of Guadalajara, is a 10-to-5 favorite over the dapper 27-year-old French Algerian.

Greaves Wins Decision Over Tiger Jones

CHICAGO (CP)—Wilf Greaves of Edmonton, Canadian middleweight boxing champion, outboxed two-fisted swarming tactics into a unanimous 10-round decision over Pro Tiger Jones Wednesday night.

After 2½ years in big time boxing, rust seems to be gathering on Jones—every place but his fists. The 31-year-old veteran of 87 fights has been a ring specialist. But even if he had been his usual sharp self in his seven months, the 31-year-old veteran would have pulled a tough decision

Young Jocks Threaten to Stage Strike

NEWMARKET, England (Reuter) — Labor trouble rumbled across the paddock in this famous racing town Wednesday.

More than 70 apprentice jockeys are threatening to strike unless their hostel welfare officer is reinstated.

Welfare officer William Welham was fired from the hostel, leased to trainers by the Jockey club, on the ground that his salary could be put to better use in buying food for the undersized would-be jocks.

But the lads, complaining about poor living conditions, snorted that Welham was the "only one who'd done anything for us."

They also said they get meagre pay and the odds are long against them ever becoming full-fledged jockeys.

"Training's" said one. "They just put you on a horse and it's up to you."

Flyers Win Four in Row

By The Canadian Press

Edmonton Flyers struck for their fourth straight win Wednesday night as they defeated Calgary 3-1.

The victory kept Edmonton in a third-place tie in the Western Hockey League, abreast of Victoria Cougars, who defeated Winnipeg Warriors 2-1 in overtime. Flyers are only two points behind the second-place Seattle Totems and 11 back of the leading Vancouver Canucks.

Bob Solinger, Gord Labossiere and Lloyd Haddon scored for Flyers. Les Colwill scored for Stampeders.

One star at Victoria was Winnipeg goaltender Al Nicholson who stopped 46 shots in a wide-open game that went into overtime after Victoria's Arnie Schmautz scored the equalizer with three minutes remaining.

Victoria's winning goal was scored by Doug MacAulay with a minute of overtime left.

Barrie Flyers Defeat Cubs 3-1

BARRIE (CP)—Barrie Flyers strengthened their hold on second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Wednesday night with a 3-1 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cubs.

Less than 1,000 fans—the smallest crowd of the season in Barrie—watched a scoreless first period. The Flyers took a 2-1 lead in the second.

Billy Knibbs scored two Barrie goals and Nelson Leslie the other. Neil Forth scored for Hamilton.

Junior Player Gets Suspension'

WHITBY (CP) — Gordon Luke of the Whitby Junior C hockey team has been suspended for six games for swinging his stick at Referee Joe Saddler in a game here Monday against Orillia Bulldozers.

The news was received Wednesday in a letter from the Ontario Hockey Association to the club managements.

Whitby leads the Central Ontario Junior League and needs only a tie in its remaining three games to clinch first place.

Crewe Crushed By Spurs 13-2

LONDON (AP)—First-Division Tottenham Hotspur, the favorite to win the Football Association Cup, Wednesday night crushed Fourth-Division Crewe Alexandra 13-2 in their fifth-round replay.

In another fourth-round replay Blackburn Rovers blanked Bluepool 3-0 to advance to the fifth round against Tottenham.

Rotherham United and Brighton tied at 1-1 in their replay of their fourth-round match. They played 30 minutes of overtime.

The teams will meet a third time in an effort to decide the fifth-round opponent for Preston North End, Rotherham got in the fourth round only after playing Arsenal three times, finally winning 2-0.

In replays of Scottish Cup first - round matches, Dunfermline defeated St. Johnstone 4-1 and Aberdeen defeated Brechin City 3-0 in extra time.

In a first-round match of Irish Cup play, Distillery defeated Bangor 4-1.

Ban 'Hurricane' From Fighting In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain's boxing authorities Wednesday banned New York heavyweight Tommy Hurricane Jackson from fighting in Britain until he's cleared by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Jackson, 28, was signed Tuesday to meet Welshman Dick Richardson, Britain's third-ranked heavyweight, at Leicester, Feb. 16.

A one-time leading contender, Jackson was barred by the New York commission, the National Boxing Association and the California commission after he had absorbed beatings by Floyd Patterson and Eddie Machen in 1957.

Last Season Says James

NEW YORK (CP) — Gerry James says that "if everything goes well" this will be his last season with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

James disclosed Wednesday he is trying to enter the service station business in West Kildonan, a suburb of Winnipeg, where his wife and four children live.

Five Tied For Lead in Rich Tourney

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Palmer, a 41-year-old pro who gave up touring five years ago, Wednesday night found himself tied for the first-round lead with four others in the $100,000 Palm Springs Desert Open — the world's richest golf tournament.

Palmer, pro at the Tulsa Country Club, was tied with Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa.; Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif.; Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.; and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn. All shot 67s.

Lloyd Mangrum of Apple Valley, Calif.; Frank Stranahan, Crystal River, Fla.; Leo Biagetti, Arhland, Ohio; Al Besselink, Grossinger, N.Y.; Earl Stewart Jr., Dallas, Tex.; Dutch Harrison, St. Louis; John McMullen, Fair Oaks, Calif., and Harry Weetman, London, England, were next at 68.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver fired a 70 at Balboa and a 73. Moe Norman 75 and Jerry Magee 74. All are from Toronto.

Russians Beat Calgary 5-3

CALGARY (CP)— Two quick goals late in the second period gave Moscow Selects a come-from-behind 5-3 win over the Big Six Intermediate Hockey League all-stars in an exhibition hockey game before 7,483 fans Wednesday night.

The Russians thus completed their 10-game Canadian tour with six victories and four defeats.

Moscow got single goals from Yuri Krylov, Vladimir Orekhov, Juri Pantyukhov, Boris Mayorov and Slava Starshinov.

Archie Scott, Art Krowchuk and Neil Winchester scored for the all-stars.

Unionville Reaches Final

OSHAWA (CP) — A Unionville rink skipped by Ted Selinger, living in third consecutive berth in the national curling championships, Wednesday reached the final of the Ontario Curling Association Division 5 playoffs.

Sellers, defending provincial champ, defeated Scarborough's Art Burns 12-9 and Clare Morgan of Cannington 12-6.

The province is divided into 16 divisions and each pair play off to determine the eight rinks that will take part in the championship round-robin at Welland Feb. 17-19.

Gaels Shade Redmen 4-3

KINGSTON (CP) —Last-period goals by Bill Colvin and Ken Linesman gave Queen's Gaels a 4-3 win over McGill Redmen in an Eastern Intercollegiate Hockey League game Wednesday night.

The game was dominated throughout by the brilliant work of Art Herron in the McGill nets and it seemed for a time that his antics would break the Gaels' two-game winning streak.

AT THE BELLE — Left, beautiful Dolores Michaels plays the starring role in "Five Gates to Hell", Twentieth Century-Fox presentation, featuring Patricia Owens and Neville Brand as stars with Rex Reason and Betty Lou Gerson in moving story of a man's fight pitted against a vengeful woman's hate, "The Miracle of the Hills", the worthy companion feature presentation at the Belle Theatre.

Joanne Woodward May Quit To Be Near Actor Husband

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Retirement for Oscar winner Joanne Woodward? She says it's likely.

"I don't see any other course than a gradual retirement from acting," she says. "I won't be separated from my husband (Paul Newman) and it gets too complicated so try to adjust my movie plans to his."

Last summer she was able to do The Fugitive Kind in New York while he was doing Sweet Bird of Youth on Broadway. Their situation is ideal now — both are working in From the Terrace. But he next goes to Israel for Exodus, and that will mean a long absence from film work for her.

"When it got out that I would be spending all that time in Israel, I got a lot of scripts that would be filmed there," she said. "But none was any good."

Wouldn't she miss acting? Not necessarily. She has other engrossing interests, such as her study of psychiatry and Hebrew. I asked how her studio, 20th Century-Fox feels, about her probable retirement.

"I don't think they're ready to accept it," I told Joanne with scant concern.

Alfred Hitchcock says his current Psycho is his first real horror picture. Only one of his films came close. That was The Lodger (1926), "but it was more of a suspense film about whether the man who lived upstairs was really Jack the Ripper."

He has a diabolical scheme for producing a real chiller: "When a victim starts, the audience is sitting in a well-heated theatre. Then I would have the manager gradually turn the heat down and start running the cooling system up. The theatre would be frigid at the end."

MYSTERY MASTER

Alfred Hitchcock, the movie director whose mystery plays are a prominent television feature, was born in England in 1899.

Shakespeare's Tale of Magic, Revenge and Love Splendid

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's occasional presentation of a classic—such as Wednesday night's abridged adaptation of The Tempest—is one of the most useful functions of the medium. It can bring to life for many people characters they have encountered before only on the printed page—and usually as homework from school at that.

Shakespeare's tale of magic, revenge and love on an enchanted island is sheer fantasy, and NBC's production gave it a sort of ballet-like treatment: Imaginative settings and beautiful costumes.

The play started with exciting shots of a terrible storm at sea, but then required a little patience from the audience while Prospero, the island sorcerer, and his daughter Miranda conducted a lengthy filibuster about events leading up to the opening of the play. After that the plot got thicker, more complicated and action-filled.

The cast, and it was a large one, was excellent, particularly Maurice Evans, who made an authoritative Prospero. But the real star of the show was the designer, Peter Wolf — Arduinian, who dreamed up those beautiful sets, the magnificent make -up and costumes.

Although NBC has sent out the word to its program producers to be careful in the handling of violence and sex on its future programs, effect of the new standards probably won't be noticed much until September. Most of the filmed shows, the westerns and the crime-adventure series—are completed for this season.

The new directive seems long overdue. It is a relief to know that at long last NEC is of the opinion that "to show an actor firing bullets into a victim already dead is entirely superfluous, not to say morbid," and that prolonged fistfights and closeups of resulting facial injuries are sadistic.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, February 5

General tendencies: In the morning, you have every chance to look to the details of your money, property and possessions and to work them out in an intelligent manner. Then the afternoon and evening finds a lightening of conditions in operation so you can discuss logical commonsense ideas for expansion, growth, development. Take trips and correspond, write. Action.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — During the morning, concentrate upon any improvements you wish to make on real estate or other holdings. After lunch is then good for being in the world of activity, having conferences, gathering data, study, etc.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Any time this morning is improve your appearance by treatments, haircut, etc. They flaws are often detrimental to success. P. M. get budget straightened out. Take care of any health problems, especially your throat.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A morning tele-a-tele with a specialist, or a very wise individual clue to you, will bring excellent results in career or personal affairs. After lunch and put in motion some efficient methods so you get more profitable results. Later, fine for romance.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Ideal morning for laboring speedily and efficiently. Get well caught up and come to better understanding with associates. Then take your partners out to dinner and work out problems amicably. But be very charming.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — This morning is just fine for taking the treatments that will improve your appearance and state of health. Then be off for an enjoyable and profitable time. P. M. Be sure you get your wardrobe in fine order. Retire early.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — If you listen courteously to the ideas of others at own residence, you can come to a far better understanding with them. Later in the day and through the evening you will then be able to enjoy favorite hobbies or activities.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Morning is ideal to shop or get regular work performed quickly and efficiently. Write those important letters. P. M. be most diplomatic with the persons under own roof and increase harmony there. Kindness always wins out.

If your child is born today — The dear child born today is the seemingly slow, deliberate type of individual, but the fact is that the mind is so busy learning everything thoroughly that activity is limited. However, at maturity there is tremendous dynamism in this chart. Give your progeny a fine education. Ideal horoscope for professions of a social or civic nature.

Had Indigestion; "No Appetite, Always Tired"

Also Suffered With Rheumatic Pains. Tells of Relief Syntona Gave.

Thousands of men and women every day take Syntona Herbal Compound for minor complaints of the stomach, liver and bowels and associated symptoms such as digestive upset, backache, headache and rundown conditions.

Personal Experience

Another example of the good results Syntona gives is the experience of Mrs. C. O. Sanderson, 36 Hawkins Street, London, Ontario, who said:

"I find Syntona the best tonic I ever used. I've taken it off and on for years and still do at times. I feel not up to the mark. Recently, for months, I had very severe pains with indigestion. I was always tired, had no appetite and felt generally run down. Syntona has given me the relief I need. I enjoy my meals, sleep at night, feel better, have much more energy and I feel better throughout the day."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

DESERONTO
P.S. Contest Winners Announced

DESERONTO — The public speaking contests for the High School students under the auspices of the Lions Club were held at the Lion's Hall on Friday night. There were 4 contestants who spoke on a prepared subject for at least five minutes and also made an impromptu speech of two minutes duration.

The Judges were Father G. T. Martin, Dr. R. Casselman and Mr. Ian Gray.

Chairman for the evening was Gerald Lott who spoke briefly in his opening remarks of the importance of the Lions Club to the young people of the country. During the evening the girls' trio choir from the school entertained.

The senior speakers were Norman Babcooke, who spoke on "Civil Defence" and Dorothy Crabbe whose subject was, "Foreign Investments in Canada". The prompter's subjects of these two were: "Are the Adventures of Edmund Worth and the Hard Work to Get It" and "Space Travel," as it will be in the near future.

SENIOR WINNER
Miss Dorothy Crabbe was the winning speaker in the senior class.

The juniors were Lorraine Harvey, whose subject was "Canada", McDonald on "The Teen-Agers Greatest Challenge", Alex Ramsay, who spoke on "Easter Island," and Roger Brown on, "The Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

The impromptu speeches of the juniors were: Lorraine Harvey to Have a Swimming Pool in the Lions Park, Alex Ramsay, "How Would a Picton-Deseronto Causeway Benefit Deseronto," "Should Capital Punishment be Abolished," and "My Favourite Sport" by Roger Brown.

In the junior event the judges decreed Evans as the winner.

In awarding their decisions the judges gave a knowledge of the addresses as a whole and offered constructive criticism and suggestions to the speakers.

The senior and senior winners will compete in the inter-Lions Club public speaking contest on February 12th at Bata's dancing School in Belleville. The senior winner will also compete in the district Lions Club Public Speaking contest. This district or regional contest will include the area from Brockville in the east, Brighton on the west and north to Madoc and will be held in Deseronto sometime in March or early April.

DESERONTO
Council Votes To Cooperate On Causeway

DESERONTO — At the regular meeting of the town council on Monday night under the chairmanship of Mayor Gerald Lott presided. Mayor Sweetman is away on a cruise to South America. All other members were present.

A letter from the Department of Highways concerning the amount that the province could spend on roads this year was turned over to the streets committee. Three recommendations from the Board of Health were considered and two of them were turned over to the streets committee also. One concerned the filling in of the ditch on North Mill Street and the other was about the street drains on Center and Main Streets. The latter thought that drains could be installed to prevent the odors that arise from the drains near the Post Office and Malloy store. The request for a by-law to govern traffic on the three lily guarters was laid over to the next regular meeting.

The township of Sophiasburg asked council to concur in their motion that section be taken at once to build the causeway between this shore and the Prince Edward county shore. The Reeve spoke on the subject and said that he believed the council should work through the elected members and asked that council appoint a committee to meet Sophiasburg. Mr. Mills, Reeve, said that the clerk should notify Sophiasburg that the town is taking the matter into consideration. The mayor appointed the reeve as chairman of the committee which will include the mayor and councillors Therrien and Spence. The clerk will be to write the Council of the Indian Band to see if they will join the point the Chief as a member of the committee to assist in the effort.

A letter from the Trent Valley Police Association containing the schedule of wages for police officers was referred to the police committee. The finance committee requested that all accounts for the year be submitted by March 1st. The streets committee reported to council that the tractor was in really bad shape and would have to be replaced this year.

Councillor Howard gave a lengthy motion on the new governing licensing of house trailers in the town.

Three by-laws were passed. One to govern the use of street drains and the other to prevent pollity of connecting cellar drains on the house owner. The town will not assume any responsibility for such drains. Another by-law to prevent the drawing of water from roofs and built-up lawns on town streets or sidewalks in the winter months this is now being done the owners will have to remove the cause.

The subject of dogs running at large was again introduced and a notice of motion of a by-law to be presented at the next meeting was given. This by-law will control the dogs running at large.

At the close of the meeting the chairman of the causeway committee, Mr. Mills, reported to remain so that the matter could be discussed.

APPOINT EX-MAYOR

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert P. Macaulay, ex-mayor of Weston, has been appointed manager of the organization service department of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today. Mr. Richardson, a former mayor of Mesord, Ont., will head a department which works closely with the national board's more than 750 member boards of trade and chambers of commerce. He succeeds James M. Fraser who has left the chamber.

FRANKFORD
Delegates Give Hi-C Convention Report

F R A N K F O R D — Christian Youth Sunday found a capacity congregation in Frankford United Church, and in the pulpit, conducting the service of the old Quinte Secondary School student Bill Dafoe, Hastings South member of Ontario Old Boys' Parliament and president of Frankford United Church Young People's Union, supported by co-president Marilyn Hall, Stockdale, and a group of teen-agers who together arranged one of the most inspiring worship services of the year. Carl Richards and Colleen Chase, delegates to a five-day Hi-C convention at the U.C. Christian Workers Centre on Five Oaks, Paris, gave an impressive account of their experiences.

The young people' choir, under the direction of Mrs. S. C. Martin, rendered two appropriate anthems and a vocal number and led the congregation in singing. Anna Judd's well known children's story was read by Barbara Judd.

Rev. Stanley Hall, minister of the United Church, conducted the prayer and Neil Roote read the Scripture lesson. The minister was invited to pronounce the benediction and come down from the congregation to do so.

WORKING BACKWARDS

LONDON (CP)—Former prime minister Sir Anthony Eden is writing his memoirs back to front. He is working on a volume covering the years 1951 to 1957 and including the Suez invasion. Previously the first hand account of that period which I can present is a page to give and would not be delayed," he said. Later he will write about earlier events, Sors' Club held its euchre party

Young Existentialist Actress From Sandy Hill District of Ottawa Makes Hit in Paris

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP) — Madeleine Gobeil is an unusual girl with an unusual story.

She is a vibrant young existentialist actress from the Sandy Hill district of Ottawa. In a foray on Paris, she has:

Impressed French theatre critics while playing the part of a corpse.

Developed a close friendship with Simone de Beauvoir, queen of French intellectuals and No. 2 in the existentialist hierarchy to philosopher Jean - Paul Sartre.

"Sometimes it all seems a dream," says Madeleine, fully conscious she may be a actress to watch in their early 20s, fresh from Canada.

USED TO BE BLONDE

One of nine children of Charles Gobeil, friendly chief librarian of the Supreme Court of Canada, Madeleine is medium - small, with a sword - slim figure, heart-shaped face and dark shoulder-length hair that used to be blonde. Actor - producer Jean-Louis Barrault suggested the change.

He said people might think I was trying to look like Brigitte Bardot," she said, weaving cascades of dark chestnut round her fingers. "It's more dramatic like this, don't you think?"

Talking to a reporter at lunch as rain streaked impressionist squiggles on restaurant windows and clock - conscious waiters missed impatience, she unfolded the story of a scholarship-studded career in Canada, a flight from what she regards as Canadian conformity, the fairy - tale friendship with Miss de Beauvoir and her short - lived success on the French stage.

The theatrical episode started "entirely by chance" in Montreal where, as a student magazine reporter, she met Jean - Louis Barrault for the first time. He suggested she go to see him in Paris. In 1958 she went to Brussels with a group of Canadians, bumped into Barrault again and received a second invitation.

She went. Last fall, to her utter delight, Barrault gave her a part in Paul Claudel's Tete d'Or at the Odeon Theatre, presented to Barrault by culture - promoting cabinet minister Andre Malraux, one of President de Gaulle's close associates.

NON-SPEAKING ROLE

Though playing a non - speaking role as a dead girl, she had important scenes with Alain Cuny and Laurent Terzieff, two top actors. Cuny, who has toured Quebec, plays in Louis Malle's film The Lovers.

After two weeks, Miss Gobeil left the cast. With some French players out of work, she could not obtain a permit. Now she is running short of money.

"I will probably go back home in July," she said. "In order to broaden my theatrical knowledge, I may try this time to play also with English - speaking companies."

A man who interests himself in theatre said that if she works as hard as she has done in Paris, she can become a leading actress in Canada. For her own part, she hopes that she may be good enough to play with Jean Gascon's Theatre du Nouveau Monde. She says Gascon is "as good as Barrault."

The girl from Osgoode Avenue loves Paris, but is clear - eyed about French weaknesses. She lives in a tiny "maid's room" in the beautiful Bois de Boulogne, paying only "a few dollars a week" in a city of high rents.

SELF-DOUBTING

She describes herself as a "revolutionary," but doubts she herself as seriously as that might suggest. Her philosophy, akin to existentialism, is concerned with human personality and self-realization. She is intense, self - doubting, unquestionably sincere. Despite her long hair, she is no St. Germain des Pres stereotype in jeans and sloppy jersey.

A fan letter written from Ottawa when she was "about 15" led to friendship with Miss de Beauvoir, through whom she also met Sartre. Her admiration for Miss de Beauvoir's literary gifts stops just short of idolatry. She has read all the works of the author of "The Mandarins and as her friend's suggestion is grappling with James Joyce's Ulysses.

As she talked, switching from imperfect English ("I am no shy any more") to the fluent French that made her Ontario's leading student of the language in 1954, the Ottawa university graduate emerged as a likeable rebel, perhaps less audacious than she thinks, her youthful impetuosity and reforming zeal tempered by self - questioning.

ACTRESS IN PARIS—Madeleine Gobeil, an existentialist actress from Ottawa, plays a role as a dead girl in a scene from Paul Claudel's controversial "Tete d'Or" at the L'Odeon theatre in Paris. Bending over her is a leading French actor, Alain Cuny, who has toured Quebec. Miss Gobeil, in her early 20s, got the part as a result of a chance meeting in Montreal with actor-producer Jean-Louis Barrault. She was invited to Paris by Mr. Barrault at the time but did not go until after meeting him a second time in 1958 at Brussels. (CP Photo).

SAFETY MEASURE

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — A coroner said here that pedestrians at night should wear clothes with luminous cuffs and belts, to cut down road fatalities.

CROWDING IN

GLASGOW, Scotland (CP)—Twenty-four students from Glasgow University have claimed the world "car cramming" record by squeezing into a 1935 Baby Austin.

MLAs' Pensions To come up For Action

TORONTO (CP)—One of the Ontario legislature's favorite topics — a contributory pension scheme for members of the House—is expected to come up for action at the current session. And individual members indicate that any superannuation plan introduced is almost certain to be passed.

The MPPs feel they are entitled to a pension the same as Ontario civil servants. The civil servant in some ways is better off than a member of the legislature. His average wage is about $4,000 a year. A member of the provincial House is paid $3,600 a year, in addition to an $1,800 expense account.

Several provinces, including Quebec and Nova Scotia, already have pension plans for members of their legislatures. Federal members also are covered by superannuation.

The Ontario plan is expected to follow parts of the Quebec pension scheme, where a member is eligible after 10 years' service. He contributes five per cent of his salary into a fund. His monthly pension is paid on 75 per cent of contributions.

The Ontario plan would be paid on a 50-50 basis; shared by the member and the government.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — Mrs. Ethel Desford and Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Scott and Paula of Belleville visited Mrs. A. Andrews on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. C. Fitchett and Mrs. M. Clancy called on Mrs. Nathan Wannemaker, of Stirling, on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Stapley and family were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Summers and family.

Miss Audrey Stapley is spending this week in Stirling with her grandmother, Mrs. C. Summers.

Federal Spending Program Biggest In Our History

Finance Minister Sees More Balanced Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — The biggest federal spending program in Canadian history was laid down in Parliament Thursday. It calls for an outlay of $5,330,168,900 in the fiscal year starting April 1.

How will it be paid for? The answer will come in Finance Minister Fleming's springtime budget. His avowed course is toward a balanced budget balance than the $393,000,000 deficit he forecast in the current year.

This will require collecting something close to the $5,740,168,900 main expenditure estimate for the new 1960-61 year. Added to this is $595,000,000 for the $55-a-month old age pension, on which the government keeps separate books.

A year ago, Mr. Fleming set out main budgetary estimates of $5,585,848,537 for the current year. They were swelled to $5,981,- 950,047 by two lots of supplementary estimates. Added to that was $577,600,000 in old age pension costs to boost the grand total for the current year to $6,- 239,550,047.

SOME LARGE CUTS

The estimated increase of $70,- 618,872 in spending for the approaching fiscal year could be spite of hefty cuts in the budget for defence and public works and substantial reductions for transport, northern affairs and external affairs.

More than offsetting these reductions are large debt charges and increases in allocations to the departments of labor, for trade, health and welfare, and mines and technical surveys. The atomic energy agency will vote more, as will unemployment insurance.

The estimate of spending undoubtedly will be increased by supplementary estimates during the year.

DEFENCE SLASHED

The outstanding cutbacks for 1960-61:

1. The defence budget is sliced by six per cent to $1,596,272,268— lowest point since the Korean War buildup of 1951-52. Weapons and new equipment are held at $44,000,000 instead of construction by $22,000,000.

2. Public works expenditures are down by more than $30,000,- 000 to $125,500,000 from $226,064,- 164. Reductions include $17,500,- 000 for public buildings, $7,346,- 051 less for harbors and rivers; and $4,024,000 less for national parks construction.

3. The transport budget is lowered by $17,127,669 to $251,- 381,424. This includes an $11,- 000,000 cutback in the airports program.

4. External affairs loses $9,- 881,062 from last year in a $61,- 681,062 estimate of $83,764,202. Missing from the $70,000,000 appropriation in last year's estimates for a NATO food bank, indicating this expenditure has abandoned this idea.

5. Just over $10,677,000 is lopped from the northern affairs department's estimates.

TURBLE DEBT COSTS JUMP

One of the big expenditure increases over last year in interest and other charges on the public debt. The debt now stands around $15,- 000,000,000, up from $13,900,000,- 000 for the 1958-59 fiscal year.

Cost of carrying the debt is estimated at $744,600,000 in the coming year, around $30,000,000 more than this year.

The higher debt costs are included in the finance department's swopping estimate of $1,- 442,958,631, up $176,318,026 from this year. Also reflected is an additional $66,643,000 more in tax - sharing payments to the provinces.

A $38,619,384 rise in health and welfare spending to $1,429,240,729 includes these items: $13,000,000 for family allowances; $12,400,000 in pensions to those over 70; $7,- 500,000 for hospital insurance plan program, and $17,700,000 for relief to those not eligible for unemployment insurance.

Canada Plans Space Rocket

Ottawa (CP)—The De-fence Research Board plans to launch next year a new high altitude research rocket called the Snow Goose, informants said today.

The unemployment insurance commission will get a budgetary increase of $13,319,500.

There is a $5,500,955 increase in the atomic energy program.

Mr.-Fleming told the House on tabling the estimates:

"These estimates provide for sustaining, and in some cases enlarging, the expenditures relating directly to national development such as atomic energy, exploration and scientific research, and the development of natural resources. Other controllable costs have been sharply reduced.

Old age pension payments, up $12,400,000 in the coming year, are financed by a special three-per-cent tax on incomes and sales.

Pension fund withdrawals consistently have been stepped now, and until recently the deficits were financed through temporary borrowings. However, Mr. Fleming has said the estimated $42,000,000 deficit for this year will be carried over into 1960-61.

Red Atom Subs Said on Patrol In Arctic Ocean

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Three atom - powered Soviet submarines carrying intermediate range missiles with atomic warheads are patrolling the Arctic Ocean off Norway, the conservative Oslo newspaper Aftenbladet said Thursday. No source was given for the report. Norwegian military sources declined comment.

Argentine Drops Bombs on Sub

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Reports from the southern naval base Bahia Blanca said Thursday a submarine recently spotted off the coast apparently had been hit by a depth bomb.

The reports, which could not be confirmed in the naval ministry, said depth bombs dropped by Argentinian military planes damaged the submarine after Argentine naval ships found it by electronics.

The reports said the sub, when attacked, was trying to enter the mouth of Golfo Nuevo, 200 miles south of here.

Seadogs Taking to Fancy Vests But Higher-ups Are Not Amused

OTTAWA (CP) — Seadogs at naval headquarters here are taking to fancy waistcoats to poke fun at a new mess order.

Higher-ups are said to be not amused.

This order, effective last January 1, did away with trade cuts for officers' messes in the case of surgeons.

Formerly, in their working rank insignia, officers were colored stripes to denote their special trades. There were nine colors besides the retained scarlet for surgeons.

Like officers in the other services, they wear the dress uniforms here only one day a week, apparently with the object of making the public think there are fewer headquarters types than there actually are.

They wear civilian clothes the other four work days and some naval officers have taken to wearing vests with the colors of their old trade stripes.

The headquarters wardroom, where navy blue uniforms and dark civilian suits predominated at lunch time, now has taken on the appearance of a fancy waistcoat factory.

Stripe colors adopted to waistcoats include purple for engineers, white for supply officers, light blue for instructors, dark blue for ordnance officers, silver grey for constructors, dark green for medical officers, emerald green for special branch officers, yellow for civil engineers and maroon for medical administrative and technical officers.

The engineers held a recent party at which the dinner jackets and colored stripes was deplored. The invitations were printed on cards edged not in black but in purple, the old engineer color.

The stripes were done away when the navy overheauled its trade structure.

Incidentally, the only branch in the navy that didn't have a color stripe was the executive branch — the men who command the warships.

WILL ASK MORE MONEY FROM FEDERAL GOVT.

Frost Favors Pension Plan for Members

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government will attempt to pry an additional $100,000,000 out of Ottawa during the federal-provincial fiscal conference this summer, Premier Frost said Thursday.

Speaking during the throne speech debate, Mr. Frost said the conference offers a challenge to Canadian statesmen in finding an equitable settlement of the complex tax problem.

Other provincial-federal conferences, he said, have resulted in important advances for Ontario, among them the introduction of the hospital insurance program and an increase of the province's share of income tax to 13 per cent from 9 per cent.

He said Ontario will aim for a further increase of two per cent in the income tax field.

NOT THE ANSWER

Amendments to the British North America Act, as suggested by Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer, "would certainly not the answer, Mr. Frost said.

"What I am asking for constitutional amendments," he added, "would be an operation within the act as it is."

There is a possibility, he said, that annual grants for a larger share of liquor revenue. Ontario now receives levies of 40 per cent tax on liquor, while the federal government gets 60 per cent.

Mr. Frost also went on record as favoring contributory pension plan for members of the Ontario legislature.

Mr. Frost said it is als opinion that members in Ontario should be given the same kind of security as that enjoyed in five other provinces and by members of the House of Commons.

Mr. Frost said the government will never allow the secession of municipalities from the Metropolitan Toronto system. The Greater Toronto area cannot be allowed to revert to conditions prior to 1954 when the metropolitan plan of government was adopted, he said.

CCF ACCUSATION

CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald charged the government with an about-face in its policy on Toronto transit.

He said the government's attitude in refusing to let marketing be been reversed since Agriculture Minister Thomas Kennedy promised two years ago that "farmers have the right to work out their own methods."

Now, he added, the government is pressing for changes demanded by big business.

He quoted Mr. Goodfellow as saying recently that "the present selling method in the case of hogs is not in the long term interest of orderly marketing. The government has given consent to some modifications in selling techniques."

MAIN QUESTION

Farquhar Oliver (L — Grey South) asked if it was the intention of the minister to dismiss the Gordon report by having it dealt with by a select committee.

The Gordon report on the organization of government in Ontario recommends numerous changes in departments and government equipment.

"I made it clear the report of the committee will be subjected to the findings of this House," Mr. Frost replied.

$62,000 for Wharf Job Here Put in Federal Estimates

The Federal government announced this morning that $62,- 000 had been set aside in this year's public works appropriations for reconstruction of the wharf in the Belleville harbor. The announcement was the culmination of several months' activity by the Belleville Harbor Commission and Lee Grills, MP, to obtain government aid for improving the wooden wharf which presently serves for a coal dock on the east side of the Bridge Street bridge.

Representation was first made for improvements to this structure, which was beginning to rot away at its waterline, last July when the members of the Belleville Harbor Commission, Chairman G. H. "Bud" Trill, Harbourmaster Mac Smith, and Harry Rollins, accompanied by John Wence, went to Ottawa. Representation was then made to the proper authorities with the assistance of Lee Grills, MP, for Hastings South.

In October federal engineers made an inspection of the existing facilities and their report is believed to have been made to Ottawa last week by members of the harbor commission.

No Intention of Interfering In South Africa -- Macmillan

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan today said Britain has no intention of interfering in South Africa's policies but wants to reach "a good understanding" of its problems.

He said Britain's attitude to overseas and South African reporters at a press conference here before his departure by boat for home at the end of a 17,000- mile journey.

He said there is "no single or simple answer to the South African problems" in South Africa and that "only patient and constructive over-simplifying them".

"We in Britain are taking a great interest in what is going on not with the intention of interfering but to reach a good understanding."

He declined to amplify a speech he made to the South African Parliament Wednesday in which he said Britain could not support South Africa's racial segregation policies "without being false to our own deep convictions about the political destinies of free men."

Sousetelle, Cornut-Gentille Taken off French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle today strengthened his cabinet by promoting his steadfast supporters and dropping Jacques Soustelle, chief spokesman for the Algerian rebels.

The expected cabinet reshuffle was brought on by the crisis which followed the week-end insurgent rising in Algeria. The cabinet was split by the crisis and some members wanted to consider ousting the rightist leader unless de Gaulle stood firm and won a smashing political victory.

The new cabinet was announced by the press office of de Gaulle's staff. It said simply that "General de Gaulle has approved the departure" of Soustelle and Bernard Cornut-Gentille, minister of communications.

Soustelle, once touted as the strong man of de Gaulle's supporters, was ousted from the post of minister of Algerian affairs, a new energy and overseas possessions because of his identification with the Algiers insurgents who unsuccessfully defied de Gaulle last week.

Cornut - Gentille also had been identified with the rebellious French settler.

Govt. Gambles That World Tensions Continue to Ease

OTTAWA (CP)—The government made it pretty plain Thursday that it is gambling on continuation of easier world tensions and possibly an East-West disarmament agreement.

External Affairs Minister Green has said he hopes and hope now for a disarmament agreement such as at any time in the last 14 years.

This hope has been translated into a cut totalling $100,000,000 —six per cent—in defence spending, with the likelihood that existing procurement of new weapons and equipment.

Officials said the provision is made in the spending estimates for the new fiscal year starting April 1 for any new item of equipment beyond those already announced but not yet delivered.

The armed forces will have to get along with the bits existing equipment they now have.

In the coming fiscal year, defence outlays will account for 27.8 per cent of the government's total expenditures doinpared with 29.6 per cent in the current fiscal year. The percentage a decade ago was 40.

Defence now takes up about four per cent of the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced in the country — compared with about nine per cent a decade ago.

Estimated expenditures on weapons and equipment were $1,596,272,268 this year, $1,696,- 000,000, to $383,000,000.

Other expenditures are on construction of bases for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile program, including hangars, runways, taxiways, and more radars, are included in the $125,500,000 item.

The navy will get more for ships — $10,433,000 against $29,- 282,000—and the CF-104 jet plane program will be $11,000,000 more. Cost of the Arrow jet fighter will be $75,000,000 in 1930. The plane is not scheduled to fly before April, 1961.

Cuts in other major weapons field, spending is cut. There is no provision for the Lacrosse air-to-surface missile, and numerous personnel carrier or helicopters for the army.

Warsaw Pact Powers Behind Nikita on German Problem

MOSCOW (AP)—The Warsaw pact powers have lined up behind Nikita Khrushchev for a showdown on the German problem at the East-West summit talks in May.

The eight-country Communist alliance wound up a one-day conference Thursday night by threatening again to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany "and so solve on this basis the question of West Berlin as well."

The Soviet-led bloc backed the policies already laid down by Khrushchev—including the offer of a non-aggression pact with the Western military alliance, universal disarmament, a ban on nuclear weapons and conversion of West Berlin into a "free city".

But the Red alliance seemed to show impatience on the German issue, declaring in a communique:

"Further, patient conditions a peace treaty can be signed only by both German states. We cannot agree that the solution to this question be delayed endlessly."

DEBATE BLOCKS ANY ACTION ON TRADING STAMPS

Bill to Ban Drop To Bottom of List

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons talked and talked Thursday about trading stamps. Members talked at such length that they effectively blocked any action on a proposal to outlaw them completely.

Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena), describing them as a "cancerous merry-go-round" of competitive promotion, made the bid for a complete ban with a private member's bill to amend the Criminal Code.

Since no decision was reached after a full day's debate, the bill drops to the bottom of a long list of private measures with little prospect of getting a further hearing at this session.

A considerable number of speakers shared Mr. Howard's views are less than fond of trading stamps but few went along with his suggested remedy. The justice minister entered the debate.

Several considered it outside the province of the law to ban a blanket ban. J. P. Deschatelets (Montmorency—Laval—Beaumont) suggested the Supreme Court be given the job of settling the whether it was within provincial matter.

Gordon Churchill (PC — York-Humber) saw it as too trivial a matter to occupy the House even for a full day and said she detected a typical Socialist attitude in opposition to free enterprise and competition.

Mr. Howard's plea that members permit the bill to come to a vote and that party lines be ignored drew little response.

Munda Martin (CCF—Timmins) and Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) rose to the defence of their party-mate, the former saying Parliament should act to stop the stamps because a minority tend to give the impression the consumer is getting something for nothing.

Mr. Peters pictured the women-folk being misled by propaganda about the benefits of stamps.

Sixty Killed In Plane Crash

LA PAZ, Bolivia Reuters — Sixty persons were killed today when a Bolivian airliner crashed. The plane exploded in flames miles south of La Paz.

The crash was the worst air disaster ever recorded in Bolivia— was thought to have been caused by an engine failure.

The airliner, a four - engined aircraft, was owned by Lloyd Aereo Boliviano.

ENROLMENT GROWS

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian university enrolment for full-time undergraduate courses has risen 6.1, to 81.1 per cent from the comparable 1958 figure, the Dominion bureau of statistics said Thursday. The Ontario increase was 5.8 per cent to 29,400.

Change CBC Has Reduced Canadian Content of Programs Brings Denial

TORONTO (CP)—Charges were made and denied Thursday night that the CBC has reduced its Canadian - produced English-language television shows, threatening Canadian talent and jobs and employment for professional performers.

The Association of Canadian Radio and Television Artists, which with affiliates has a pact with the CBC for minimum fees for all English-language performers other than musicians, said the current trend will bring discouragement to any further development of theatre enonomy.

Reginald Hamm, national executive director of the association, said:

"It appears that the only means by which Canadian performers may attain financial recognition and the respect of Canadian producers is by leaving the country and then returning with import status."

The association said the CBC is "bringing about the collapse of Canadian talent, resources" by said import performers are paid more than Canadians of equal competence.

H.G. Walker, general manager of CBC's English network, said the accusations were not true.

He said there will be a 34-per-cent reduction in non-Canadian imports for the fall - winter season—from last October to next June—compared with the same period in 1958-59.

He said the number of import performers is not large. In Oc-

Intense Gunfire Greets Mikoyan At Cuban Show

Shooting Breaks Out As He Enters Building

HAVANA (AP)—Intense gunfire broke out today in the vicinity of the Hall of Labor where Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos prepared to open the Soviet Trade Exposition here.

Wild shooting broke out from a balcony across the street from the Fine Arts Palace just as Mikoyan and Dorticos stepped inside its doors.

There were no signs anyone was hit in the crowd of about 30,000 outside the exposition building.

The Havana police radio quickly announced the arrest of two men on a charge of attempting to sabotage the appearance of Mikoyan at the exposition.

Armed police were seen running down street from the palace toward the seawall after, almost in the heart of the city.

The firing lasted about 10 minutes.

Syrian Leader Charges Israel Provokes Strife

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The military commander of Syria charged Israel today with "frank, deliberate provocation" to spread hostilities all along the tense Syrian-Israeli armistice line.

Bell I want to announce to the whole world that we are on the alert all along the 70-mile frontier, ready to repel any aggression," Brig. Gen. Gamal Faisal, commander of the United Arab Republic's 1st Army.

His statement was released after an exchange of fire Thursday on a second sector of the frontier, near Shaar Yashuv, 25 miles north of the Tawafik battle zone in which the Syrians and Israelis had duelled earlier in the week. There were no reports of any shooting across the frontier Thursday night.

The United Nations, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold said Thursday that quiet is being restored on the Syrian-Israeli front.

He expressed hope that both sides would enter negotiations under UN auspices to settle the dispute.

Hammarskjold said Maj.-Gen. Carl Von Horn, head of the UN Palestine truce organization, is pressing for agreement with both sides "to live in accordance with the rules governing even the demilitarized zone under the Israeli-Syrian armistice agreement.

Satellite Fails To Achieve Orbit

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (AP) — Military and civilian teams, busy on both coasts recorded a successful doubleheader in space Thursday — and a delayed fizzle at this base on Thursday.

The Discoverer IX satellite blasted left its pad at Vandenberg in fine form, but officials at the California installation reported that the rocket failed to achieve orbital velocity.

They said they lacked information on whether the second stage engine fired properly. After falling to reach orbital speed, the rocket fell back into the atmosphere.

Hundreds Seized By Trujillo

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — The Dominican Republic's charge d'affaires Alfred Fernandez Simo, resigned Thursday saying he was "in complete disaccord" with dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Hundreds have been reported under arrest in the Dominican Republic in a Trujillo crackdown on opposition.

Pablo Udicelli Velasquez, secretary of the Dominican Embassy, also resigned. This left Trujillo without diplomatic representation in Costa Rica.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department expressed concern Thursday over reports of internal troubles in the Dominican Republic.

Safety Flag Again Flying At Q.V. School

Pupils of Queen Victoria Public School on Pine Street are happy again today.

The school's Elmer the Elephant safety flag is again flying on the schoolyard flagpole.

Early in January the school Elmer flag had to come down following a traffic accident in front of the school in which one of the school pupils was slightly injured. The flag had to remain down a month.

This morning at the morning recess, school pupils were assembled around the flag pole and following a brief ceremony Elmer's flag was again raised. Attending the ceremony were Hiwanis club officials, Sgt. Dennis Robson, schools' safety officer and school pupils and staff members.

Fairs Give Youth Valuable Training and Experience Members Fairs Assoc. Told

"Your fairs give youth some important place in the community-life of the province.

"Your fairs give youth some training and experience in citizenship and agriculture," Floyd A. Lashley, superintendent of the Ontario Agricultural Societies for the provincial Department of Agriculture, told some 150 delegates to the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association, District Three, held at the Kiwanis Centre yesterday afternoon.

As guest speaker Mr. Lashley gave his listeners some of whom he'd come all the way from Coe Hill, Picton, Kingston and Port Hope, many and varied ideas, facts and suggestions for the coming fair season. It became clear out that the fairs gave the younger members of the communities sponsoring fairs a chance to learn what has happened in the past and also to get an idea of what might go on in the future. Mr. Lashley's remarks in this respect were although brief, chock full of suggestions minds after hearing the many favorable reports, which the various fair boards had made earlier in the day on the increasing success and importance of events for the Junior Farmers and 4-H Clubs.

SPEED IN PUBLICITY SCORE

Looking to the future Mr. Lashley pointed out that a tremendous population growth was taking place, especially in the urban and suburban areas, and that the fairs boards should prepare to attract people from these areas. He suggested that classes be set up for new Canadians, where they might have a chance to display some of the many talents which they have brought to Canada from their native lands and gave general advice to fair boards had already tried this with great success.

He also suggested that jobs and exhibits might be found for people of the fairs to feel that their interest would be attracted to the various fairs across the province. This, he said, would serve to achieve the principal purpose of a fair and "to encourage people to do something for themselves and for the community"

BIG BUSINESS

The speaker also pointed out that fairs were big business across the Province of Ontario with over $900,000 paid out in 1959 in prize money alone amongst 245 fairs, adding that this amount was only a small portion of the overall costs of operating a fair, the total amounts of operation and suggested means of financing the revenue required for the operation of these fairs, many of which are small in size but large which are not entitled to federal government support, provincial aid, such as beef dinners and dances, and the raffling of cars at the smaller communities' fairs were suggested.

Mr. Lashley also mentioned the high respect which the Canadian fairs have attained at the International Convention of Fairs and Exhibitions held at Chicago where the past president commented that the Americans considered the Canadian National Exhibition to be the largest in the world. The larger fairs and exhibitions however, he said, would not be able to carry on if it were not for the many smaller ones which take a very Occupants of this car escaped serious injury late Thursday afternoon when the vehicle skidded into the side of a freight train at the E. Moira St. level crossing.

Car Skids Into Side of Diesel, Two Escape

Donald Marshall, 105 1-2 Station Street, and Leo Griggs, same address, escaped without serious injury late yesterday afternoon when the car in which they were driving skidded into the side of a CNR diesel at the East Moira Street level crossing.

The car was swung around and pulled the length of itself down the right-of-way but both Marshall and his passenger escaped with little more than a shaking up. Mr. Marshall suffered a laceration on his left temple.

The auto was eastbound along Moira when, as it approached the level crossing the driver apparently failed to see the eastbound freight which was already slowly drawing for passage into the Belleville yards. When the driver saw the train being down on the crossing he applied his brakes but the vehicle skidded on the icy roadway and slid into the side of the first diesel unit.

Damage to the car was not extensive.

Analysis Shows Dogs Killed Were Rabid

PICTON — Residents should be alert for signs of rabies in animals, Prince Edward County Health Unit warned yesterday.

A year ago, there were a considerable number of cases here. The Unit was advised yesterday that a report of an analysis had revealed that a dog shot at Bloomfield and another at Point Petre has proved the animals rabid. As a result of the Point Petre occurrence, Archie Wigstaff and his nephew, J. Rosebush are receiving treatment. The Bloomfield dog was shot before it came into contact with the owner. It was suspected when it killed a cat.

Woman Killed, 3 Injured In Crash Near Marysville

An elderly woman was killed and three men suffered serious injuries near Marysville late last night as two cars collided headon on No. 2 highway at a time when vision was reduced by a heavy rainfall.

Dead is Mrs. Hattie Richards of Deseronto who was thrown out into the ditch after the two cars collided and spun into the ditch.

Injured and in Belleville General Hospital are Sidney "Bud" Fox, 32 of Deseronto, with whom Mrs. Richards was riding; Raymond Murphy, 34, Belleville carpenter living at 218 Front Ave., and Orville Cole, of 55 Dundas Street East, occupant of the second car.

Extent of injuries suffered by the three men were not determined at last night's report.

Fox was said to have head lacerations. Two of the injured were taken to Hospital by Bush's ambulance.

Police said it was believed that the Cole vehicle was westbound towards Belleville, when a short distance from the Marysville restaurant, it was in collision with an eastbound vehicle driven by Mr. Murphy.

The impact was on the left front corner of the two vehicles. The force of the impact spun the cars around and they skidded backwards into opposite ditches with their front facing onto the highway.

Police said there was a heavy fog condition at the time of the accident. Coroner Dr. John Stone of Belleville attended at the scene. It had not been decided this morning whether there would be an inquest.

William Townson Named President Builders' Group

William Townson was elected president of the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange on Wednesday night at a business meeting held in the New Queen's Hotel.

This was announced yesterday by secretary-manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, Earl Dicknoether. Mr. Dicknoether is also secretary-treasurer of the Builders' Exchange.

The 50-member organization of construction contractors and sub-contractors met to revitalize their organization. The meeting was under the chairmanship of immediate past president Mel Talbot.

The other officer elected was Hugh Mitway as 1st vice-president. Four directors were elected to office and they were Douglas Black, Albert Payne, Jack Ward and Jack Hamil.

Speakers at the meeting were Don Chutters, Ottawa, general manager of the Canadian Construction Association and Harold Sheridan, president of the Ottawa Builders' Exchange.

In his address Mr. Chutters noted that construction is the largest industry in Canada, employing 600,000 people, and doing seven and one-half billion dollars a year of business in Canada annually.

"Builders should have a voice . . . and that voice is found in the Builders Exchanges," he said.

Mr. Chutters urged members of the local Builders Exchange to regard the time they devote to the Builders Exchange as a part of the life that they add to the church in olden times.

He mentioned several requisites of a good Builders Exchange, among them a planning room in a place where all contractors and sub-contractors have access to plans drawn up), and active apprenticeship promotion.

The speaker explained Builders Exchanges, of which there are 34 across Canada, and also told to the social life of the members that he provides a congenial atmosphere in which to talk over problems.

In conclusion he stressed the Canadian Construction Association relies on individual builders' exchanges for information and view points, in formulating C.C.A. policy.

Mr. Sheridan spoke briefly from the floor and paid a nice tribute to Mel Talbot for a "job well done" during his term of office.

SOOTFALL DECLINES

Since New York city set up an air pollution control department in 1952, sootfall now is about half what it was in 1945.

Allan R. Schryver Completes 50 Years in Drug Business

Fifty years ago today a new drug store opened its doors for business in this city. This store was known as the Belleville Pharmacy Ltd. and the proprietor was Allan Ross Schryver and James H. Dyer. The location of the store was on Front St. East now occupied by Ed Logan, Jeweller.

Two years later Mr. Schryver bought out the partnership and the business became known as Schryver Pharmacy in 1921 the business was moved to 204 Front Street, where it thrived for 35 years, on September 24th, 1957 due to the impending expansion of the Toronto-Dominion Bank the location was changed to 214 Front Street when all new self-service fixtures were installed.

Allan Schryver served his apprenticeship with R. S. Templeton Ltd. which was then located in the building now occupied by the Bank of Montreal. He graduated from the College of Pharmacy in 1902 with honours and spent the next few years dispensing in the T. Eaton store and in the old Bell Memorial store on Church St., Toronto before moving to the Queen's Hotel business block in 1906 the business again became a partnership with Ross Schryver, father of Allan, the business after being discharged from the army. Allan graduated at the Ontario College of Pharmacy in 1943.

Although the drug business demands long hours Allan Schryver found time to curl and golf in his younger days. He was also active in the Masonic Order being Past Master of the Belleville Lodge A.F. and A.M. in 1922. Past First Principal of Quinte Friendship Chapter, 1927 Past Thrice Illustrious Master of King Baldwin Preceptory No. 6. He is also a member of Rameses Shrine in Toronto and the Bel Ile Mosque in Belleville. Mr. Schryver is also a member of the Scottish Rite.

Mr. Schryver was for many years very active in music circles. He was a tenor soloist in Bridge Street United Church choir for many years and a member of the Belleville men's chorus. He was also active in civic affairs being a member of the Board of Education and served for two years as chairman of that body. In recent years his health has not been too robust but he still lives his life based on business pulse and looks after the bookkeeping of the store at his home on Hillcrest Road.

The business is now managed by his son, Ross Schryver, who is a former member of the Kinsmen Club and is also food chairman of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. Ross Schryver still is now president of the Belleville Chapter of the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires.

'Beautiful Scotland' Enthralls Large Audience at B.C.I.

Last evening, "Beautiful Scotland," land of heather, land of legend and thrilling history and romance, with its lochs and mountains, its castle banks and bonnie braes, was colorfully presented to a capacity audience in the Collegiate auditorium by Colonel Nicol Mackintosh, assisted by a highly interesting narrative. This was the fourth in the 1959-60 series of travels presented by the Kiwanis Club, and brought to attention this island country, its sturdy, thrifty, tough and sports-loving people, all of whom maintain their lovely castles.

"Scotland," said the speaker, "has an area of approximately 30,500 square miles; its greatest length is 287 miles and the mainland is no more than 40 miles from the sea." Edinburgh, the Gaelic city, with Edinburgh as the capital with a population of 439,000."

TWO-PART TRAVELOGUE

The travelogue was in two parts, the first one dealing with salmon fishing on the Solway River, where a fortnight's fishing of salmon were taken by nets, each man receiving his position at the incoming of the tide, by lot, and his dexterity in stowing his catch in the bag under the deck. These magnificent salmon must have brought a stiffness of pride to many "Izaak Waltons" in the assembly!

Gretna Green came next, famous for its runaway marriages. Col. Smith told of the story of how a blacksmith had posed as minister and during his years in that role married 1,700 couples before he was found out. Then came Dumfries, central gardens of Loch Castle; Culzean Castle, of which President Eisenhower has a share; Burns' castle; the home in Ayr of Robbie Burns and visits to Alloway and Dumfries; the lovely interior of Abbotsford, the home of Sir Walter Scott; several abbeys, including Melrose; Lochinch, with its great wall of stone; Stirling, magnificent interior showing the heraldic clock; the Trossachs with gorgeous azealas which bloom so profusely due to the warm rains from the Gulf Stream and his rich peat soil; pictures of Highland cattle and Highland fillis; the malfeasance of Glencoe; Loch Lomond, finally concluding with a beautiful travelogue of Edinburgh, the capital city, its castle, its Princes Street, its just-180 years ago, there was three houses.

Other scenes were of Loch Lomond, the Island of Skye, its famous cattle; and then to Loch Ness and "Nessie" where for several persons whom Col. Smith had interviewed stated they personally had seen it, severed foot, 15 inches long, thought to be the foot of a dinosaur was shown, with webbed claws. Loch Ness has a depth of 1,000 feet.

A beautiful picture which held the attention of the entire audience in the famous Inverness castle with its board of trustees with regalia, furniture and settings; the lovely costumes of the lassies and the laddies, and the march round of the highland dancers, the reel and the fling, and finally the honoring of the piper on his birthday, while the guests move round about him in graceful dance.

James Walker Again President Of Golf Club

At the first directors' meeting of the Bay of Quinte Golf Club for this year the following officers and directors were elected:

President, James Walker; vice president, G. H. Trill; secretary-treasurer, R. A. Lennox.

Various committee chairmen are as follows: Finance, G. H. Trill; Grounds, R. Bowerman; co-chairman, G. S. Wonnacott; Entertainment, Mrs. Bowerman; co-chairman, J. L. Diamond; games, S. Bowerman; membership and publicity, R. Lennox.

The 1960 season promises to be a busy one for the Belleville golfing history. For several years, the popularity of the game of golf has been gaining and its rapidly increasing junior membership, have necessitated the need for an 18-hole course. This season will see the realization of a long standing hope for most Belleville golfers with the construction and operation of an additional nine holes.

Mr. Bowerman, one of Canada's foremost golf course architects, has planned and designed the new Quinte Golf Club course to become one of the finest and most demanding tests of golf in Eastern Ontario.

Laurie Lewis Dies in Ottawa, Ill Short Time

Laurie Lewis, former merchant and Alderman of this city and now resident of Ottawa, died in his home, 502 Driveway, in that city early this morning. He had undergone surgery a short time ago and was at his home convalescing.

Mr. Lewis was born at Bath, England, 71 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis. He was educated in that city and came to Canada in 1912 and in 1916 married his wife, the former Margaret Edith Duncan. For 20 years he was with the T. Eaton Company as manager of various departments. In 1935 Mr. Lewis came to Belleville, purchasing the stationery business of Jennings and Sherry and later operated a gift shop on Bridge Street, East. He purchased the property of the late E. Gus Porter on Dunbar Street, which he still owns.

He was most interested in community civic affairs and was elected as an Alderman in 1936 and served for four years. He was also on many committees of council and to each he brought his wealth of knowledge to the many questions brought before them. He was also interested in his church and social affairs and was highly regarded by a large circle of friends.

Mr. Lewis moved to Ottawa in 1946, shortly after which he was a member of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in the same division. On completion of government position, Mr. Lewis entered the real estate business with the H. C. Brennan Company of Ottawa and took over that business in 1952, successfully operating at the time of his death. He was vitally connected in the Property Owners' Association in Ottawa and was a past president of the organization. A few weeks ago was elected as vice-president of Property Owners' Association of Ontario.

In all his business life Mr. Lewis was held in high regard. While in this city he entered into all activities of the community and although he was firm in his beliefs and desires he always enjoyed the friendship of others. He was a firm friend, one easy to approach and one who was ever ready to help.

Besides his wife, a member of St. Giles Presbyterian Church in Ottawa where he was also the same could be said of him, when he was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city. He is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Edith Duncan, two sons, Donald of Lauderdale, Florida and Frederick of Scheffervile, Quebec and one daughter, Mrs. J. (Laurece) Dixon of Eastview, Ont. Donald Lewis was killed in action in the Second World War.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at two from the funeral home of Hicks and Playfair, 315 McLeod Street in Ottawa with interment in Beechwood cemetery.

Robbers Find Tweed Steel Co. Safe Is Empty

Safe robbers had their work for nothing at a Tweed last night when they cut the side out of the Tweed Steel Products office safe only to find that there was no money in the strongbox.

Provincial Police Officer Walter Higgins said only office records were found in the safe.

Entry to the premises was said to have been gained through an unlocked window, following which the intruders proceeded to the 500-lb. office safe to a corridor between the office and the shop.

Then they used acetylene torches from the foundry to cut the side out of the safe.

Home Nursing Care Program Explained at VON Gathering

TRENTON — Miss Doris Moore, Reg. N., of the Home-Nursing and Nurses' Services branch of the Department of Public Welfare, was the guest speaker at the 41st annual meeting of the Trenton branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses held in the Wednesday night. The dinner meeting was held in the dining parlors of King Street United Church. Miss Moore was introduced by Mr. S. Mowbray.

Miss Moore commenced her address by explaining the Trenton branch for 41 years of outstanding service to the community.

She said that the Victorian Order of Nurses, as a province-wide organization, had played a remarkable role in the health services provided in the province.

With the interception of the Hospital Insurance Plan, hospital services had become available to everyone, and a great strain had been placed on existing facilities. Hence a television set was ed to belch clouds of smoke Mrs. Garrison disconnected it power cord and there was further danger by the time fire had arrived. The incident was attributed to faulty wiring in the set.

Dangerous Argument

Don Gillis, former recve of Neelon-Garson townships in the Sudbury district and now president of Sudbury's local 598 of the Mine-Mill Union, has started a new campaign. This time, instead of fighting Communist influence in his union, he is seeking to correct what he regards as an injustice in taxation. He wants the amount paid on municipal taxes exempt from personal income taxes.

The Sudbury Star supports him. "A Sudbury homeowner pays $300 a year in municipal taxes," says the Star. "He earns $5,000 a year but his exemptions bring his taxable income to $2,500 on which he pays personal income tax of $315. This mean that he has paid out $615 a year in taxes. It is the principle of paying personal income tax on his $300 municipal taxes that hurts. It is taxes on taxes."

So what? We don't like the idea of taxes on taxes any more than does the Sudbury Star, but there are so many taxes these days that it would be practically impossible to unravel the skein so as to eliminate all taxes on taxes. The situation with regard to municipal taxes is no different from other taxes, but the same. We all pay taxes on the money required to pay our income tax, for example. Why should municipal taxes be the exception to the "taxes on taxes" rule?

We don't know what the Sudbury tax rate is, but let us suppose it is ten mills. That would mean that the property on which the Star's example pays $300 taxes is assessed at $5,000. Suppose again that Sudbury's assessment is a third of actual value in today's market. Then his property is worth $15,000. If the property is debt-free, the owner pays $300 tax, could sell it and invest the proceeds, say at 5 per cent. He would add $750 to his income. On this he would pay income tax, the amount of which would depend partly on the nature of his investment, but which could be in the neighborhood of $150.

He escapes paying this income tax because the fact that he had rent-free use of his $15,000 home is not considered in computing his income. There are those who argue that it should be. The reply generally given those advancing this view is that, while the home-owner escapes paying income tax on the "dividends" from the investment in a home he pays municipal taxes—in the Sudbury case more than double what the income tax would be if the money invested in the home were otherwise invested. But the answer to this argument is that none of us escape paying municipal taxes, regardless of whether we rent or own our places of residence. It strikes us that Mr. Gillis had better save well enough alone or home-owners may find themselves taxed on the rental value of the properties they own and occupy.

Poor Way to Sild a Lily

"How valuable is a covered bridge as a tourist attraction?" asks the Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

The question arises from the fact that New Jersey's one covered bridge has been closed to traffic as unsafe and efforts are afoot to have it repaired and retained. Three thousand people a year have been going to see it.

"The usefulness of this old structure as a tourist attraction should be of particular interest to New Brunswick, which has listed 200 covered bridges, including the longest in the world at Hartland, for the benefit of visitors," says the Telegraph-Journal.

At the risk of offending the Saint John paper, we venture the opinion that the value of covered bridges as a tourist attraction in New Brunswick is virtually nil.

Anybody who can pass through the valley of the Saint John, with the broad, smooth-flowing waters of the river below and the towering hills rising on the other side, and have more than a momentary interest in that overgrown shed across the majestic river at Hartland must have a peculiar idea of what is truly attractive.

The bridge over the Saint John which deserves mention in the tourist folders is not the long covered one at Hartland but the short, uncovered one at Grand Falls, where one can look down into the awe-inspiring chasm below with its leaping, frothing waters.

Sailor Lived Jonah's Tale

By David Gunsten in the War Cry

Of all the stories in the Old Testament, none has provoked more skepticism and disbelief than Jonah and the whale. Agnostics have found it particularly easy to ridicule the tale of the prophet who spent three days and three nights in the belly of a great whale, emerging alive and unscathed to carry on his ministry.

Assuming that "the great fish" was in fact a whale, the great stumbling - block disbelievers have found in this story is the impossibility of a whale swallowing a full-grown man and keeping him there as in the stomach. These large whales, say some, have throats no bigger around than a human wrist and live entirely on minute shrimps. But these "experts" forget the great sperm whale, which attains 60 to 70 feet long at maturity and weigh perhaps 80 tons, whose gullets are several feet across and whose diets of available include pieces of squid, large fish, up to 16 feet in length—and human beings. For in the perilous days of eighteenth whaling, many a staunch whaleman was in fact swallowed whole by a sperm whale wounded by the pain of harpoons.

There is nothing so very strange about such a whale swallowing a man, therefore. What is remarkable about the Jonah story is that he should have survived incarceration in the whale's stomach. Yet even that is not impossible. Movies that actually happened in modern times.

It was February 1891. The English whaling Star of the East was hunting sperm whales off the then famous whaling grounds of the Falkland Islands.

One day the lookout sighted a whale some three miles distant, blowing the customary fine, tall fountain of vapor into the air. Two of the ship's boats were manned and lowered, and off they went with the monster. After one harpoon had found its mark, one of the boats was fouled by the line and its occupants scattered in the water. It was the whale's huge whip-like tail that caused the disaster, an occurrence by no means uncommon in those days.

One man was drowned, and the rest of the first boat picked up by the survivors, another man was reported as missing. He was James Bartley, a tough young whaleman.

The whale itself was killed, towed up, and, in a few hours, its limp carcass was lying alongside the Star of the East secured to it by fenced and cut into pieces. The ship's crew set to work with their long-handled knives, working the rest of that day and part of the night. Tired and weary they resumed their unsavory task and, having laid bare the whale's vast paunch, proceeded to hoist it onto the deck.

As the job lowered, one of the men gave a shout. He had noticed a slight, spasmodic movement from within. Curious to see what part of the other prey was still alive in the whale's belly, the men carefully slit it open. To their amazement and horror, there was the crouched, doubled up body of their lost shipmate. He was perfectly unconscious but still living.

With trembling hands and probably with the recollection of Jonah in their minds, they dosed Bartley again and again with sea water after laying him on the deck. This was the best thing they could have done. The big mouthful of salt water brought him round, and he was put to bed in the captain's cabin, where at last he completely regained his senses but one—his reason.

Although he was physically not much harmed by his ordeal, his mind had been so shocked under the strain and horror. For two weeks he was a raving maniac, and had to be kept under lock and key in the captain's quarters.

But eventually his troubled mind began to clear and, by the end of the third week, he was almost normal, and anxious to resume his duties on ship-board. One thing alone remained to tell of his experiences, and that he was destined to carry to his grave. Where his body was unclothed, the scald of the cresset's grease had left it. Bartley died his face, neck and hands a ghastly white. Even later hospital treatment failed to remove this evidence, probably because part of the skilful treatment failed to remove the wonderful efficiency of today.

His mind cleared, Bartley's recollection of his strange fate remembered being thrown into the sea and being the prey of tremendous swirling noise made by the whale's tail. Then, as he himself put it, he was "enclosed, passed by a great darkness," feeling himself being—drawn along a smooth passage into a dark place, where he suddenly realized he had more room. Groping about, his hands discovered the walls of his prison; they were slimy and yielding. He also became aware of the uncanny silence, the intense, body-destroying heat and the darkness—but nothing could penetrate.

Then he realized his fate. Facing death was not easy, and he felt sick and weak. Though he felt sure that he could feel his ribs heat and the sheer terror of it all, he lost consciousness. He came him, and he passed out, remembering nothing more until he awoke in the captain's cabin many hours later.

On his ship's return to England, both the captain and an officer issued separate accounts of what had happened, which were corroborated by the crew. Bartley himself, a modest man of simple faith, tried in spite of his terrible ordeal to forget the incident. He deliberately avoided, so friends said, the limelight of fame, after which he disappeared from sight and was seen no more.

And why? Well, for 3,000,000 the reason was money—extra money to spend on Christmas. With smaller families and more to buy, Canadian parents have had more time to try their earning capicity outside the traditional home.

But does this make them better wives including home, or just anexcess to the husband's earning capability? The answer to this question is one of the most interesting in the report. Certainly the working wife does improve of their wives working beyond the five-a-day point, many expressing more appreciation for the effect of this work on their outlook on mental equipment of their companions than for the salary it put into the family sock.

Husband's wife physically improved, the report said, "owing to the wider interests and greater conversation of the wife." This is not to say that husband's interests have not further improved by some more of the same for the husband. But the husband has always had well under way as the "little men's" interest in the family efficient ways to wash dishes and he has only to say) revealed his own outlook on life's opportunities.

Woman's place is more than ever in the home, say the housewives who have taken jobs outside. In fact, 70 per cent, in any rate, of a report by a research committee of the Harvard School of Economics. To Your Good Health

METAL ALLERGY MEANS CONTACT DERMATITIS

"Dear Dr. Molner: I owe what I call a metal allergy — earrings, safety pins and rings make me break out in a red, itchy rash. I have had my ears pierced, but now they close and my back from bra clips. This has cleared up, but I have removed the metal, but I just can't keep my hands of this nuisance.—P.H."

Various metals are from time to time, responsible for this sort of thing, and "metal allergy" is a perfectly good term, I feel. Another term is "contact dermatitis" or skin trouble caused from contact with some material or other.

In a good many cases people have found that they could go back to wearing jewelry if they coated it (or coated the parts touching the skin) with clear lacquer. This may be of considerable help to you.

It is possible that an allergic might be to the nickel in the other in this respect. For one thing, of course, he may be able to determine which metals bother you, and that would simplify things. Nickel, chromium and a number of others are more likely to cause such trouble.

You already have a pretty good understanding of the trouble, your letter shows, and all probability the reason your hands continue to be red is that you (touch whatever metal (or metals) to which you are sensitive.

There are so many possibilities—metal in pens or pencils, keys, faucets, doorknobs, kitchen equipment, etc., that I can't begin to cover them. Even coins with metals that might be the ones you react to.

As an indication of the kind of watchfulness that is somethere is every indication that the efforts will be successful.

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER

This mighty river, 'scene of the recent gigantic power development, rises in Lake Superior, source to Lake Ontario, but its ultimate source is the St. Louis river in Northern Minnesota. In his second voyage to Canada in 1553, Cartier sailed into a little bay on the north shore of the gulf on the 10th of August. This is the feast day of St. Laurence, so he named the bay for him. Later, the name spread to the whole gulf and the river.

Strictly Personal

The End May Be Odd But It's Inevitable

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As customary, the National Safety Council has given us its estimate ensure in the St. Lawrence in Northern Minnesota. In his second voyage to Canada in 1553, Cartier sailed into a little bay on the north shore of the gulf on the 10th of August. This is the feast day of St. Laurence, so he named the bay for him. Later, the name spread to the whole gulf and the river.

Consider the unusual departure of Aeschylus, the great Greek playwright. He was suddenly killed when a tortoise, being carried off by an eagle to its tall right, its eyrie), fell from the bird's claws and struck the dramatist squarely on the head, by on his bald head.

Then there was Agathocles, the tyrant of Sicily, who was done to death by a toothpick, after a reign that set nothing of him at 96. And Anacreon, the erotic poet, who choked to death on a grape-seed, Gabrielle, the mistress of Henry IV, died from feeling an earring, and George, the Duke of Clarence, is reported to have been drowned in a butt of wine when he fell into a butt of wine. Perfectly sober, too.

Frederick Lewis, then Prince of Wales, died from the blow of a cricket-ball, while Charles VII struck his head against the lintel of a tennis-court, causing his death. Fabius, the Roman patriot, was choked by a single goat-hair in the milk he was healthfully drinking. While Louis VII may not have anything to do with nickel. It could be some other metal, but it's a good idea to keep nickel in mind. It may take quite a bit of watchfulness before you discover which things you touch are the one that bother you. There are many things we touch without thinking about it — knobs on drawers, doorknobs and such are examples. All the same, people have found that they could soon learned how to avoid it, and I trust that you will, too.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Where do fever blisters come from?—Mrs. G. McC."

The commonest cause appears to be a virus infection, which comes when you when your resistance is down. In short, you get a fever blister about the same way you get a cold.

"Dear Dr. Molner: How much milk should an adult consume per day? I drink two glasses plus a little more on cereals and in cooked foods. I am a diabetic diabetic and people tell me I am drinking too much. I thought an adult should have two glasses a day plus what is in cooked foods.—W. C."

I'd say two glasses — including what you get in cereals or in other foods—are enough for an adult. If you like more, drink it. Only when milk is a problem, make it skim milk, to avoid the calories while getting the calcium.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my musical friends was attempting to cure me of my dislike of the modern development of Jazz. It appears I cannot get it through my head that there is a classical field of Jazz which is constantly confuse with pop music, rock'n roll and other musical manifestations of our time. He asserts that I have no inherent right to discuss Jazz than I have to discuss nuclear fission, a subject of which I know nothing understand nothing.

"Sound," he says, "is one of the senses by which we live. And in the twentieth century, as in any other century, there has been a greater change and increase in sound than in the whole previous history of man. Our minds are therefore constantly attempting to adapt themselves to, appreciate and evaluate all the new sound on earth, that are due to the twenty-fold increase in industrial and mechanical revolutions of our time. Jazz is one of those classical field of modern sound, the consciousness of our time. Seeing my stupid expression, he said:

"Do you know why cowboys sing those high, whining, mournful songs? Because they are coyotes. Unconsciously, they are imitating the sounds they cover. In his musical expression, man is imitating the sounds of the new surroundings, for it is an effort to express, in art, a response to sound that is the product of our modern man society.

Anyway, I am a bit about coyotes and cowboys.

bret his death when a pig ran under his horse.

Quite a few famous persons have actually died from laughing, although not since the Marx brothers' early days. Other Philemens fell dead in a burst of laughter at seeing a jackass eat the figs that were provided for his own dessert. And Chaichas, the soothsayer, died predicted his own death, laughed so hard at the prediction that he had outlived the predicted time that he stopped dead. Talk about Nemesis.

Crassus died from laughter at the sight of a fox eating dirty thistles. Margotte collapsed while watching a monkey trying to pull up his boots. And Zeuxis, ancient painter, died of laughter at the sight of an old woman whom he had just depicted. And only a few years ago, Mrs. Flinbergbert died from laughter at the way Banister portrayed "Polly" in Gay Spark's Opera, at the Drury Lane Theatre.

Orway, the poet, bought a loaf of bread and — but perhaps the National Safety Council has had enough for the day.

Libraries Are Popular

Windsor Star

Despite the popularity of television and other entertainment, people continue to gain in Ontario.

There are 567 public libraries in Ontario and plans for additional structures are going ahead each day, says Mr. Angus Mowat, director of the Provincial library service.

These libraries have 20,000,000 volumes in circulation.

The steady growth and interest in books is a healthy sign. It means people intend to develop their minds and want to do it in the most satisfying way —

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NEVERTHELESS THEY EXIST

Today we take just a moment to examine the out-of-the-ordinary person, who does not mean the rest. Neither does it mean the person who has considerable success, or of great intelligence, or the fellow or girl with thousand friends.

The type of person I have in mind is the person who feels and thinks things which other people do not feel or see. Sometimes such people are called psychic, or a friend who claims he can see with the angels, and I believe he does. Emanuel Swedenborg was such an out-of-the-ordinary person. St. Francis of Assisi was another. Perhaps you have known friend, or a relative who is of this variety. The person may be a seer, in a few — a very few — cases such people are clairvoyant and in even fewer cases prophetic.

Don't sell these people short. Sometimes they hear things which others do not hear and see things which others do not see in insane asylums and be-long there. But there are real out-of-the-ordinary people who actually do see what the rest of us cannot see and people receive messages which never reach our ears.

Reserve your opinion if you meet such a person. He or she may be God's rich gift — to you, or to a host of friends, to the world.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON GOING YOUR OWN WAY

A favorite statement I often quoted in this column is this: "He either leads or he follows another up." I do not know its origin, but it has long blessed me. To be independent is easier than going it alone. But alone one gets acquainted with oneself, grows up and on, but stopping with the crowd. It cots to do this. Cherish your emotions and never undervalue them."

Not only was Henri a great artist, but a sane commenter on life. During most of our life we are compelled to do our way alone. Our inner self is the nearest friend and visitor. There is a certain spiritual path made for us and we follow it our own way alone.

How essential for us all to get the habit of learning to take many roads and unbroken paths — alone. About us we see only the foot-prints of centuries. We live in a mass of people in the world. The great treasures in the world of art, music, literature, science and so are yet to yield their rich and finest wealth. Even now we do a bad job of doing things — human help, for one. We are hardly half educated. During the last few days I have been privileged to see the discoveries at New York's great Metropolitan Museum. No stranger should leave this great city without seeing this remarkable display of masterpieces, and dead civilizations.

First General Re-assessment Of City to Be Carried Out In Many Years Under Way

Belleville householders are asked not to be alarmed if one of these days a man from city hall calls around and after knocking at the door proceeds to tap the living room walls.

The wall tapper will be the inspecting officer from the city assessment department and his apparently strange actions will mean merely that he is carrying out his duty in connection with the re-assessment of all city property, which is now underway.

"We have heard that some householders have been a bit alarmed when our inspecting officer has started tapping on the walls," noted city assessment commissioner Leighton Thompson, "but in some instances tapping the walls is the only way he can determine accurately whether a certain wall is plaster or wallboard of some kind."

Mr. Thompson noted that the city re-assessment program started last year in accordance with directions from city council. The work is expected to take possibly up to three years and is being carried out entirely by city assessment department employees.

Object of the re-assessment is to bring all city assessments, residential, commercial and industrial, to an equitable basis. It is the first general re-assessment to be carried out in the city in many years.

STARTED LAST FALL

The work was commenced last fall with Bridge Street, running completely across the city from the east to west boundaries being the starting point.

Field work on this first section of the city to be re-assessed has now been completed and work is commencing in sub-divisions of Ward 1.

A team of measurement officers who do outside measurements of the building or restaurant and the first members of the re-assessment crew to call. Generally, these men are followed by an inside officer, whose duty it is to enter the home and make a thorough inspection from basement to attic.

While in the home the inspecting officer takes note of the type of heating—whether by furnace or stove and the particular type of equipment—also the type of plumbing and the many other factors which go into home construction.

It is during this inspection that the inspecting officer might tap the walls of rooms in the residence.

"When a wall is covered with wallpaper only by tapping can it be determined whether there is plaster underneath or whether it is dry wall construction of some sort," was Mr. Thompson's explanation.

THEN APPLY RATES

Later at the assessment office other members of the assessment department will type the buildings and apply specific rates. But this phase of the re-assessment program is still considerably in the future.

Since the first of January assessment officers have been able to do two jobs with their one call. Information for the re-assessment program and also statistics for the 1960 assessment role are collected during the one visit.

Under the assessment act, statistics for the current year's assessment role must be collected during that year and this will mean that in areas where re-assessment crews started work last year, they will have to return this year for information for the current role.

Just for the information of householders, Mr. Thompson notes that the act calls for the assessment of land and buildings to be calculated by giving consideration to the present use, location, cost of replacement, rental value, sale value and such other circumstances effecting the value of the property.

For instance the replacement value of a certain property may be high, but obsolescence and sale value would be determining factors in arriving at a proper assessment.

GOOD CO-OPERATION

On the other hand the replacement value of a property may be low and its location may be undesirable, but a high rental value would be a big factor in arriving at the correct assessment.

On the whole Belleville householders are co-operating splendidly with assessment crews as they make their rounds.

But in view of the many door to door salesmen making calls these days, Mr. Thompson suggests that householders ask assessment officers to show their identification before allowing them into their homes.

He notes there is always the possibility that an unscrupulous salesman may represent himself as an assessment officer to gain entry to a home.

"We don't want that to happen here", Mr. Thompson said.

Safari for Souls
With Billy Graham in Africa

By TOM McMAHAN
Religion Editor, The State, Columbia, S.C.

LAGOS, Nigeria — Next fall they will haul the Union Jack down from the towering pole in front of the imposing mansion where Billy Graham lunched with the Governor-General of Nigeria last Saturday.

From the window, American evangelists and the British representant of a vanishing empire could look out on ships of many nations unloading at West Africa's most important port.

"With independence will come increased responsibility to Nigeria," Graham told crowds of twenty thousand and fifty thousand at two services on the broad, greenward of the race course surrounded by beautiful government buildings.

"The emerging free nations of Africa will have a special need for people of personal integrity and dedication to the common good," said Graham. "These and other vital virtues flow from personal encounter with Christ in Christ," he declared.

Built on island and swamp, Lagos is in an area once known as the "white man's grave." Now the skyline is being pierced by television aerials and ten-storey office buildings. But the rhythmic beat of talking drums is still heard in the land, and village life is duplicated in open air markets and ten thousand tiny shops.

BIZARRE SIGHTS

If you like the bizarre, Nigeria is a gold mine. You can find snake worshippers; medicine men who still compound dosages of rhubarb, soda and bats. In some remote areas drivers are warned never to stop if they hit a pedestrian lest local tribesmen chop them in pieces. In one report, adults play cowboy with great gusto.

Far more significant is the quiet appreciation for the better side of the British colonial policy and an outlook for continued freedom which make Nigeria perhaps the most hope-inspiring nation on this fast changing continent.

More important, too, are hundreds of churches where songs of praise mingle with a note of concern for the spiritual welfare of fellow Nigerians. Christian leaders hope this will be increasingly true in the wake of Graham's whirlwind visit. The Nigerian cities, his third in a series of African stops are palatial. Already the devotion of some of these people puts the average Christian to shame.

"Color bar," or segregation, just doesn't exist in Lagos which is probably the nation's most relaxed city with respect to race consciousness. The five thousand European residents live with three hundred thousand Africans in peace. Many of the Nigerian cities, his third in a series of African stops are palatial. Already the devotion of some of these people puts the average Christian to shame.

In many Ghana, a campaign is in full swing to condemn wholesale the practice of colonialism and to build up a cult of African personality centred around Prime Minister Nkrumah. Not so here. Instead of one central city, Nigeria has three or four, and sectional and tribal differences tend to strike a balance and dictate a moderate course.

Relations between Nigeria and Ghana cooled noticeably when Nkrumah deported several well heeled Nigerians and confiscated their property. But the thirty-five million Nigerians want no part in a Pan-Africa Federation led by six million Ghanaians. Nigerians are demanding for their country a place in the sun in keeping with her size and importance.

A British newspaper reported that Nigeria was the only African country which extended a wholehearted welcome to Prime Minister Macmillan last month. There is probably less bitterness and more political sophistication here than anywhere else in West Africa.

In this context Billy Graham challenged educated Nigerians to find true freedom under God.

The great crowds, the singing and the preaching thrilled Africans who had never before seen anything attempted on this scale by Evangelical Christians. A city counsellor who had not been to church for ten years quietly rededicated himself to Christ at the race course without going forward. Three policemen came to help handle the crowd and stayed to seek the Lord. People actually pushed their way to the front one night as the rush became a crush. Some jumped barriers to join the Inquirers who numbered around some five thousand in a week of campaigning. Including the preparatory services led by Associate Evangelist Grady Wilson.

Graham's messages were simple enough for children to grasp, also cut like a sword as he drove home Christ's demand for a complete break with lust, graft, lies, gossip, selfishness and all the rest.

Long after the evangelist returned to his hotel, little clusters of seekers sat on the grass or stood in circles as patient counsellors explained how to become a Christian and live like one.

LIKE MODERN PENTECOST

"It was like a modern Pentecost," commented the saved national chairman of Graham's Nigerian campaign, Dr. James T. Ayorinde, Baptist pastor and board chairman of Nigerian Broadcasting Corporation.

"It has stirred the spirit and conscience of the people and has showed us that there is a hunger and thirst after righteousness," said the Right Reverend A. W. Howells, Anglican Bishop of Lagos, and, like Ayorinde, an African.

"This has shown us that we can work together," said Dr. E. Jones, chairman of one of two Nigerian Methodist Synods. "Lagos has been hit harder than ever before by this united Protestant witness," he added.

Back in Nigeria today a hefty African auto parts dealer wearing cloth resembling leopard's skin, listened to a rebroadcast of the service over a transistor radio. "Billy Graham's message is for the whole wide world," he exclaimed.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mascoe, 11 Octavia St. wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Sgt. Murray Fleet of Nova Scotia, son of Mrs. Audrey Fleet and the late Mr. Fleet. Wedding to take place February 27th 9 a.m. at St. Michael's The Archangel Church.

Mrs. A. Porti, and Mrs. M. Farrell spent the weekend with the former's son, and his daughter, Mr and Mrs. Mayhew Porti, in Shannonville.

Miss Nancy De Carlo, 127 Humewood Drive, is a patient in the Kingston General Hospital.

Lakeside P.M. Club Enjoys Social Time

WELLINGTON — Soft lights and bright 'mums made an attractive setting Monday evening, when Mrs. Arthur Aylard entertained Lakeside Chapter Past Matrons' Club. The president, Miss Norma Foster, welcomed the members and opened with a poem, "Stone Walls Do Not a Prison Make" and a reading of a Korean girl, "I'm a Convert to Democracy."

The secretary reported on the correspondence. A card will be sent to Mrs. Vick with flowers for her sister; a get well card was signed by all for Mrs. Robert Upton, a charter member, who is ill in Hamilton General Hospital. Mrs. Elmer McFaul thanked the club for a plant received while ill. Several voiced thanks for cards.

Mrs. Vick being absent, sent her report which was given by Mrs. Yolt.

A committee will see about purchasing some silver for the use of the Chapter. The dues were paid.

The next meeting, April 4th, at the home of Mrs. Earl Marvin.

Lunch committee, Mesdames Harold Hall, Down, Ida McFaul.

Mrs. Harris moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for opening her home.

Four tables of euchre were in play. After six games the points were added. Some high scores were noted, and a few low ones, too.

The hostess presented the lovely favors to Mrs. Davern, Mrs. Dan Macdonald, Mrs. Stella Down, Mrs. Dorothy Rutter and Mrs. Yolt.

The lunch committee served the refreshments.

Miss Foster thanked the hostess for the donation of the prizes and the lunch committee.

"Loon Lake Parish" Talk at Christ Church C.C.

Monday evening the Contact Club of Christ Church was privileged to have Captain J. Willoughby of the Anglican Church Army as guest speaker.

By way of extremely colorful slides, Capt. Willoughby explained an interesting mission trip to Loon Lake, Alberta, where he and his wife took up ministerial duties at the Anglican parish there. Working with the Inhabitants and Cree Indians was rewarding as the little people had many devoted parishioners.

This closure is often visited by students from the University of Saskatchewan and the Anglican Travelling Van Workers. Of interest, too, was the Indian youth, "Danny," who studied to become an Anglican priest and came to the district to minister and teach the Indian children in their barren schools.

LOON LAKE PARISH

Although being a remote parish, the people of Loon Lake still have their church organizations, including a women's auxiliary, a junior auxiliary, and others.

Capt. Willoughby's slides captured the breath-taking beauty of the prairies and western skies from season to season, showing also the various shades of the western wheat fields.

This inspiring talk and films will long be remembered by the many members present. Capt. Willoughby is now serving at the parish of Roslin, Ontario.

The speaker was introduced by Mickey Lake and thanked by Joan Ford.

A short business session followed at which time, further plans for the coming fashion show were discussed.

NEW MEMBERS

New members: Oliver Rose, Jean Howes, Donny Bryant and Dolly Henry, were introduced.

Next Monday will be a business and work meeting.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Betty Ling, Marg Shappee and Eileen Talbot.

Dr. Nicholson To Speak Here

Dr. N. L. Nicholson, B.A., M.Sc., Ph.D., director of the Geographical Branch, Mines and Technical Surveys, and earlier a lecturer in geography at the University of Western Ontario, will address the Women's Canadian Club Monday evening in St. Michael's Academy on "Russia." His talk will be accompanied by slides.

Dr. Nicholson is also chairman of the Canadian Board of Geographical Names, and represents Canada on the commission on Geography of the Pan-American Institute of Geography and History. He is also chairman of the Editorial Committee of the Canadian Encyclopedia of Geographers.

Just recently he returned from a visit to the Soviet Union where he represented Canada at a scientific conference. His talk will embody many interesting accounts of what he saw and heard in the USSR.

Harmony S.C. Sponsors 'Girls' Night'

The Harmony Studio Club, featuring Girls' Night, met on the home of Mrs. R. Velyn 11 Holloway Street last Wednesday.

Mrs. C. Scott, chairman, welcomed the girls and their mothers.

Reports were given and Mrs. Scott announced the spring rummage sale in March and asked for donations and any assistance that could be given the morning of the sale.

SPECIAL GUEST

A special guest of the evening and a pleasing surprise guest of Mrs. Veley was Captain Greer of the Salvation Army. Captain Greer was introduced by Mrs. Scott and played a tambourine solo entitled "Christmas Joy". Later in the evening, she again favored with another solo, a march, "Looking Heavenward" with illuminated timbrel Joan Waters played "Waltz" by Kabalevsky and Judy Oliver rendered, "Scherzina" by Haydn.

Mrs. Scott led in an observation contest with Marina Bogard playing prelude in A by John Bach. Sharon MacDonald, two part invention (No. 10 and 14) by Bach and Marilyn Huntley Bource by Purcell.

Mrs. Percy Sutherland one of the mothers, related the story of "The Angry Mice and His Three Daughters", with the audience taking part, doing the sound effects.

Two more senior students entertained with Sandra Burns playing "Scherzo" by Schubert and Karen Flindall playing "Scherzino" by Beethoven.

The program closed with a piano duet "Sweetheart Waltz" (from The Gypsy Baron) by Strauss, played by Mrs. E. Veley and Mrs. Scott.

Refreshments were served.

Girl Guides Mark 50th Year With Golden Jubilee Luncheon

Ontario marked the 50th anniversary of the founding of Girl Guides in Canada with a Golden Jubilee luncheon on Friday, in the Chateau Laurier Ballroom, Saturday last. Over 600 Guiders from the Ottawa, and Eastern Ontario Valleys joined the provincial executive and had their tables festive with gold colored napkins and place cards in the form of a golden tulip.

Mrs. John Diefenbaker, former honorary president of the provincial birthday cake, which was beautifully decorated with gold leaves. Mrs. K. B. Clysdale of St. Marys, the Ontario Commissioner, with the other provincial commissioners from across Canada had been presented with the cake at the Dominion birthday party held last week in Toronto.

Among the guests were: Mrs. T. Waldo Monteith, former Commissioner of Stratford; Miss-M. E. Cawthorn, former Commissioner from Australia; Irwin Haskett, M.P. and Mrs. Haskett; Bishop E. S. Reed and Mrs. Reed; Mrs. Stewart Bates, Toronto, elected member of the Ontario Executive.

DIFFICULT GROWTH

In her address, Mrs. W. Rankine Nesbitt of Toronto, Chief Commissioner of the Girl Guides in Canada, stated that as it is difficult for a woman to grow old gracefully, it is equally difficult for an organization to grow up gracefully and keep the true bearing of maturity, but the Girl Guide Movement has done so, in order to merit the confidence which has been placed in it by Governments and by the public throughout Canada. She hoped that the energy of youth would be reflected through the camping, the training of leaders and the program of the Girl Guides and that they would look forward to the Centennial Year with maturity.

The Girl Guide movement has doubled in numbers in the last eight years and she thought it likely that it will do so in the next eight years. As Canada continues to welcome citizens from other lands, one of the most important tasks of the Girl Guides will be to help to develop a sense of common citizenship these new Canadians of many ethnic backgrounds.

WIDER EXPERIENCE

An important part which the Girl Guides will be able to fill in the future will be to give girls a wider experience and more friendship with people. Through Companies, Packs and camping, girls from different parts of the community, province, country, and even abroad, will get a new world, gain the experience of working with others.

Mrs. P. D. Four Candidates Receive Quintena Rebekah Degree

Tuesday night Quintena Rebekah Lodge held its regular meeting in the Odd Fellows hall which was filled to capacity, the occasion being the official visit of the Assembly President of Ontario, Sister Josephine Rose.

Lodge was opened in the regular form with Sisters Verna Summers, N.G., and Ilia Addy, V.G., in their respective chairs.

Sister Marguarita Rose was introduced by Sister Alice Addison, P.N.G. and escorted through the guard of honor, gowned in multi-colored floor-length gowns-to a seat of honor on the right of the N.G.

Sister Dorothy Fisher, D.D.P., Brother Ralph Hobbs, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Ontario and Sister Neva Vandervoort, degree staff captain of Laurel Lodge, Stirling, were introduced by Sisters Gertrude Cooke, Mary Plumpton, P.N.G. and Rhea Mitchell, P.N.G., respectively, and received the due guard of honor and seated.

The degree team consisted of Sisters Helen Brenton, Pearl Wilson, Verna Philpott, Merle Simpson, Ivy Williams and Margaret Sabine. Visitors were welcomed during the opening and closing ceremonies.

CANDIDATES CONFERRED

The Rebekah degree was then conferred on four candidates by Sister Josephine Sirlfin. It was beautifully done and over all the voice of Sister Marion Heath added a scientific conference. His talk will embody many interesting accounts of what he saw and heard in the USSR.

Sister Heath, assisted by Sister Josephine Sirlfin. It was beautifully done and over all the voice of Sister Marion Heath added a scientific conference solos, accompanied by Sister Marjorie Shappee on the piano.

After completion of regular business, N.G., Sister Verna Summers, called upon the President, Sister Marguarita Rose, for a few words.

Sisters Alice Adams, J.P.N.G., and Ilia Addy, accompanied with a nosegay bouquet of blooms tied around with dollar bills, for which she thanked the Lodges.

Sisters Alice Adams, J.P.N.G., and Joanna Merry presented sister Dorothy Fisher, D.D.P. with a gift from Quintena Lodge, for which she expressed her thanks.

Later, all retired to the upper hall to partake of a welcome cup of tea and light refreshments prepared and served by Sisters Ethel Ostrom, Jill Empey, and their committee.

Women's Activities

BRIDGE ST. JUBILEE E.A.

The Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge St. United Church met Tuesday evening and enjoyed a most delicious hot supper served by the Ladies Aid and her group.

The meeting opened with "Breathe on Me Breath of God" and prayer by the president, Mrs. Ross Anderson.

Reports from the secretary and treasurer were read.

Mrs. Sylvia Lazier introduced the White Cross Monthly Magazine and encouraged all members to take a subscription. She also announced that the program "I'll Sing, Not Cry," will be on TV Sunday, February 14. Miss Joy Nichols read the Scripture.

Mrs. Calnan introduced her subject "On the Bridge," and asked the ladies to imagine a radio broadcast which she and her group would do from Africa. The broadcast was most informative about the progress brought about by the professionals, nurses, doctors, technicians and lawyers who were aided by the church. The people there question the program so, wonder what is right and what is wrong and if they should stay "On the Bridge."

Mrs. Anderson voice the appreciation of the ladies to Mrs. Calnan.

Woman Studied Geology, Geography to Explore World

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Elizabeth Feller, international president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women, studied geology and geography at the Sorbonne University because she wanted to explore the world.

Instead, she has become president of a manufacturing firm in her native Horgen, a suburb of Zurich, Switzerland. She now is on a short visit in Canada and the United States.

She quit university life after the sudden death of her father and entered the family firm, a plant employing 600 men and women, which manufactures electrical switches, plugs and sockets. She has been president and chairman of the board since 1953.

PERSONAL PLANS

Her own pattern does not follow her criticism for other women. She says executives should have good training from the bottom up, and must know all the jobs in a plant.

Women executives must be broadminded, able to organize and to deputize work.

"Most women don't like to deputize jobs, but a good woman must," she says.

Women executives must learn to trust their employees. If they do, they can obtain a "family" atmosphere in the office more readily than a male executive could, she claims.

Although Miss Feller runs a factory, she is not allowed to vote. Women, except in a few cities, are not allowed to vote in Switzerland.

A vexing problem? Perhaps to some, but most Swiss women are not seeking enough to politics, says Miss Feller.

She is a member of the board of directors of World Veterans Federation, a world organization for ex-servicemen.

Equal pay for women along the factory work is one of the paper's campaigns.

The argument for the other side, Miss Feller says, is that women need special attention, absence is more frequent, women are not transferred so easily and interest is not the same.

"Although older women are usually more interested in their jobs and usually make excellent workers," she says.

Her own factory does not pay equal wages to women because the salary rates are governed by competition.

Miss Feller's interest does not begin and end at the factory. She lists the business and professional clubs as her foremost hobby but also serves on the board at Pestalozzi refugee village for orphaned European children.

Her philanthropic needs include support to modern artists and sculptors.

"I know the past is important but I am particularly interested in today," she says.

PARENTS ON PROBATION

PEMBROKE (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Potts were put on a year's probation Thursday under the Child Welfare Act for leaving their four children unattended without adequate supervision. The charge was laid following a fire Jan. 13 that destroyed the Potts' two - room cabin while the couple was visiting neighbors. The children were rescued from the cabin.

Unfair Picture of Indian Painted in TV Shows Says Authority of Their Culture

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Ethel Brant Monture doesn't like cowboys and Indians television shows.

Like many history books, she says, they paint an unfair picture of the North American Indian.

Mrs. Monture, a Mohawk who was born on the Six Nations reserve near Brantford, Ont., is considered an authority on Indian culture and history. She has collaborated on several books about Indians.

A widow with two children and nine grandchildren, she was recently named to the Toronto staff of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, an organization which pr m ot e s brotherhood among Canadians.

Gracious and attractive, she draws on a broad vocabulary as she speaks and writes with great pride of her ancestors and her childhood on the reservation.

"Why, the early explorers and missionaries couldn't have gone any place without the help and interpreting skills of the Indian," she said in an interview.

INDIANS MUST REBEL

Mrs. Monture says Indians must "rid themselves of superimposed authority."

"We will have to rebel against a lot of things. We don't need Canadian Indians to be just stuck on our feet and not have other people do our thinking."

One of a family of eight children, she is a great - great grandaughter of the Six Nations Chief Iatain Joseph Brant.

Her father contributed to her education. Mrs. Monture was subscribed to newspapers from San Francisco, Chicago and New York.

"When I was a girl I'd pin readying material to the curtains and read while I peeled vegetables for my mother."

During the early years of the Second World War Mrs. Monture worked with young Indians in a program sponsored by the department of Indian affairs and the Women's Institute. The program was one of encouraging Indians to "Not that we spent much; often we would buy prizes out of our own pockets."

She applied for another job with the department after she had. "But then they found I was Indian and I didn't have it. But that was good. It shook me into leaving and I needed to be helped."

She had begun to write on this and left for Rochester, N.Y., where she worked in a hospital blood bank and in an "elegant ladies store" while collaborating with Harvey Chalmers on Steamboat Down, N.Y., on a book. West to the Setting Sun. Later she collaborated on a second book, Joseph Brant: Mohawk.

Her latest work, Great Indian which she describes as an accurate source book, will be published in April by Clarke Irwin as one of its Series of Canadian portraits.

In her job with the council, Mrs. Monture hopes to promote a new understanding of Indians.

"Everybody wants us to change but I think it's nice to be different," she says.

Canada's Senior Citizens Come into Their Own

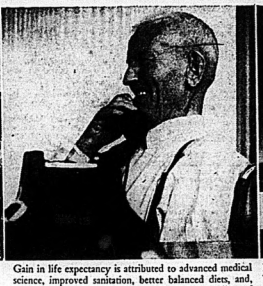
Saskatchewan's Geriatric and Rehabilitation Centre at Regina is the last word in the provision of care for the aged and a model to which the rest of the country looks with interest.

Municipalities within Canada's 10 provinces are planning their geriatric programs within the concept that care for the aged should be provided without taint or tinge of charity, that it is their just reward for long years of service to their community and to their country. Thanks to medical research and improved standards of living more people live to enjoy old age than ever before.

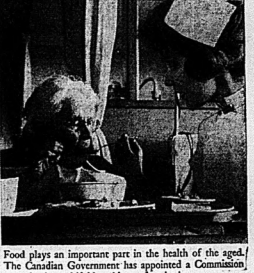
While mobility and self-care are encouraged at the Regina Centre, those who are unable to move about receive the finest in nursing care. Visits from family and friends are encouraged.

The skill may have lessened, but the love for music remains. Hobbies are considered one of the best therapeutic aids against aging and loneliness and are widely encouraged at the Regina Centre.

Two generations ago only one adult Canadian out of every 16 was over 65 years of age. Today the figure is closer to one in eight; within the next decade the ratio is expected to drop to one in six.



Gain in life expectancy is attributed to advanced medical science, improved sanitation, better balanced diets, and, very importantly, society's increasing understanding of the need for security among senior citizens.



Food plays an important part in the health of the aged. The Canadian Government has appointed a Commission to study the multifold problems of geriatrics.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Newton B. — I'll go if my inlaws don't.

Gloria B. — Am I supposed to kick my parents out?

* * *

Newton B. — I am a married man with three children. My problem is my in-laws who have been practically living with us since we were married ten years ago.

My wife was an only child so I took it for granted that her parents would be exceptionally attached to her. I figured in time they would get used to the idea of her being married.

Instead they moved nearer to our home and are with us most of the day and every evening. They spend all day talking to my wife, but when I get home I still can't get a word in edgeways. The worst of it is that they are nearly always quarrelling. Things have gotten so bad I'm ready to go if they don't.

Gloria B. — Just what am I supposed to do anyway? Kick my parents out of the house? Tell them they aren't welcome? Tell them my husband can't stand to look at them anymore?

Newton doesn't realize that this thing is harder for me than it is for him. My parents keep coming around to "help" me with the kids, but half the time they make things worse for me. I have to serve them lunch and see to it that the kids don't get too noisy because it upsets them.

Newton wants me to act like a monster to my parents, but I can't do that. They are old and ill and I am all they have in the world. All the pleasure in life they have comes out of seeing me and the children.

The Council: Gloria points out that her parents believe they are coming to help her, but that in fact they are a hindrance. Has she considered the possibility that she may believe she is helping them while actually doing the opposite?

Psychiatrists find that many adult children who strongly insist upon their parents' need of them turn out to be over-dependent upon their parents. They may marry and have their own families, but emotionally still feel that they are their parents' little children and the parents are overwhelmingly powerful forces. They may seem exceptionally devoted to their parents, but such men and women usually harbor deep feelings of resentment against one or both parents.

Gloria's resentment flares in spite of her good intentions toward her parents and she should be aware that her parents have an emotional understanding of all that is going on. They see her as their baby because she feels she is that and they also more or less consciously know that she is annoyed with their constant presence.

These parents are fortunate in that they are independent and they still have one another. There is much in life two elderly persons can explore together if they are not hamstrung by the idea that their permanent place is at the side of their daughter. The elderly couple can make friends, find hobbies, do a little sight-seeing in their area, go to entertainments or enjoy their home together. They should have a more varied life and Gloria is keeping them from it as long as she refuses to let them know that she wants more time alone with her family.

The elderly couple are undoubtedly aware that they are robbing Gloria of the enjoyment of the privacy of her home. When the issue is brought out into the open they may seem hurt at first, but they will adjust to the idea and recognize that it is for the best for everyone concerned.

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: When you are asked to a dinner and your husband is absent from town should you accept for yourself and regret for your husband?

Answer: It all depends. If invited by close friends, telephone and explain to the hostess and leave it up to her to decide whether or not she can get an extra man to fill in. If the invitation is received from someone whom you do not know very well, the courteous thing is to regret for both yourself and your husband. This is in fairness to the hostess, who has undoubtedly planned her dinner party to include the same number of men and women.

Question: It is really bad luck for a bride-to-be to take part in her own wedding rehearsal.

Answer: This is an old superstition that has come down through the years and many brides abide by it faithfully. Isn't this rather ridiculous, when you look at it from the common sense standpoint? After all, no one in a bridal party needs to rehearse more than the bride-to-be! She will naturally be the cynosure of all eyes. The sensible bride will disregard this old belief and take part in the wedding rehearsal so that she will be assured of being completely at ease for the role she is to play when the great day arrives.

Question: Is it permissible these days, when things are more or less informal, to use a typewriter for all letter writing?

Answer: Definitely not! In former years it was not considered proper to write any letters, other than business correspondence, on a typewriter. This rule has been modified today, however, and it is considered permissible to use the typewriter for general, informal letter writing, but only to close friends and relatives. To use one when answering an invitation, whether it be formal or informal, or to write a thank-you note, is in extremely bad taste.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: I have been watching your column for so long hoping I would find a recipe for stuffed dinner dates. I used to do them some years ago but have forgotten how I did them. One thing was crushed walnuts, what else? I can't remember and I used to roll them in crushed graham wafers . . . Mrs. Mary H.

Answer: I think this is what you have been looking for.

STUFFED DATES No. 1

Make a cut the entire length of choice table dates and remove stones. Fill cavities with pecans or English walnuts, and shape in original form. Roll in granulated sugar or crushed graham crackers.

STUFFED DATES No. 2

Remove stones from dates and fill cavities with cream cheese or Canton ginger and roll in finely chopped nuts.

Question: Do you have a recipe for "Heavenly Pie"? . . . had this dessert at a hotel . . . and it was super — Mrs. R. H.

FRIDAY

HEAVENLY PIE

(Sometimes called White Christmas Pie)

One cooled, baked pie shell, which may be pastry, or crack er crumb or cocoanut-macaroon crumb; 1 tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup flour, ½ tsp. salt, 1½ cups milk, ¾ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond extract, ½ cup whipping cream whipped until stiff, 3 egg whites, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup moist shredded cocoanut. Soak gelatin in cold water. Mix together in saucepan the first ½ cup sugar, flour and salt. Stir in milk and stir over low heat until thick and while it boils one minute. Remove from heat and stir in soaked gelatin. Cool. When it begins to congeal beat with rotary beater until smooth. Add vanilla and almond extract and fold in whipped whites and cream of tartar until foamy then gradually beat in the second ½ cup of sugar gradually until meringue is very stiff. Fold meringue and cocoanut into gelatin mixture. Pile into cooled, baked "9" pie shell. Sprinkle with additional moist shredded cocoanut. Chill thoroughly, but remove from refrigerator 20 minutes before serving time for perfect cutting.

Question . . . I am new at cooking and baking . . . when I try pastry it splits and is hard to lift into the pie plate . . . D.D.

Answer: Don't be discouraged. All amateurs have this trouble. As a starter and to give you confidence try

HOT WATER PASTRY

Two-thirds cup shortening, 7 tablespoons boiling water, 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt. Measure shortening into large bowl. Use measuring tablespoon to dip water that is actually boiling onto shortening, then beat mixture until it is smooth and creamy and cooled. Add sifted flour and salt and mix with fork until smooth. Shape into roll, cover well and chill. This amount makes two crusts for 9 or 10 inch pie or two single crust shells. Roll out on lightly floured board to desired size. Fold over to pick up and transfer to pie plate. You will find this handles much more satisfactorily than standard pastry. When you have mastered it try standard pastry again.

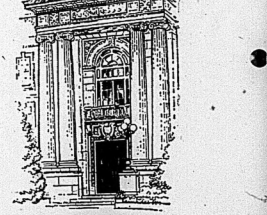
THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA completes its 90th YEAR OF LEADERSHIP in mutual life insurance



Main entrance, Head Office, Waterloo, Ontario.

Nineteen fifty-nine was a good year for policyholders of The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada. Dividend payments were higher than in any other year in the Company's history and an increase for 1960 has been announced.

More Canadians than ever before enjoyed the protection and financial security guaranteed by Mutual Life of Canada policies.

Payments to policyholders and their families in 1959 exceeded $48,000,000.

Highlights from the Annual Report

	1959	1958
NEW LIFE INSURANCE SOLD	$ 353,483,000	$ 329,324,000
LIFE INSURANCE IN FORCE	2,924,000,000	2,654,722,000
SURPLUS EARNINGS	15,772,000	14,116,000
ASSETS	630,775,000	589,832,000
DIVIDENDS TO POLICYHOLDERS	11,250,000	10,602,000

For the nineteenth consecutive year life insurance in force and assets were increased. Behind the figures lies a story of policyholder confidence in the future, of living security at low net cost, and of peace of mind provided by Mutual Life insurance. The complete figures are given in the 1959 Annual Report as presented at the 90th Annual Meeting. This report will be mailed to all policyholders, and to others on request.

MEET THE SHODANS!

You can call Jim Driscoll and, or Don Dalrymple, or both, Shodans if you like. It is not a "Smile when you say that, podner" greeting. They will do the smiling. You are paying them a very fine, well-deserved compliment.

To those uninitiated in the duo-sex of self-defence, judo, a "Shodan" is tops. It is the highest rank one can attain, a coveted title that only one in every 500 students of the art earns.

Dalrymple, four years in judo, and Driscoll, six years, were awarded the Black Belts that go with the title, which means in judo nomenclature "First Dan." Dalrymple earned his award through excellence in tournament showing, with Driscoll getting his for outstanding ability in instructional work. Jim is chief instructor at the "Y" here, with Don one of his assistants.

Other talented judo exponents of the city and district who received their "Brown Belts" are Constable Gordon Oliver of the provincial police here; Doctor H. C. Hallet, Trenton, a "Y" instructor, and Douglas Feley, instructor at St. Michael's school.

And don't leave the distaff side out. Miss Shirley Fleming of this city, has also been awarded her "Brown Belt." Miss Fleming has made quite a record for herself in the ladies' division.

The local club has done a fine job in its few years of existence. It has turned out over 200 students who have taken one or two years in the art, while a number of the original membership is still active.

It has participated in tournaments in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit. On February 27 the club will "fight" in Niagara Falls.

Dalrymple the grand master to come to the club is the winning of the Black Belts by Shodans Driscoll and Dalrymple. These belts were awarded only after very careful consideration by the Ontario Black Belt Association.

Its gradings are then approved by the Canadian Kodokan Black Belt Association, official representative of the Kodokan Judo Institute of Japan. The winners receive a certificate from the Canadian association and—the big one—from the Japanese Institute in Tokyo.

Driscoll and Dalrymple are the first exponents of judo in this district to earn the coveted "Black Belt." They have a right to be proud. As was said before, the rallie-of-judo concentrate earning the Black Belt is approximately one in 500.

GRATITUDE?

The McFarlands Booster Club executive is up in arms. And rightly so.

Last week they went to the effort and club expense of purchasing a lovely wreath, "Good Luck" emblem for the Olympics-bound Elizabeth Manley.

As is known, the floral "best wishes" was presented to the Dutchmen by Booster president Jim Matthews, through their captain, Kenny Laufman, in a mid-ice ceremony before some 2,400 fans.

The Dutchmen were also presented with good wishes from local officials, the Mace, H. J. McFarland, the mayor and members of parliament, not forgetting Premier Leslie Frost. They also received a large banner bearing "Good Luck Dutchies" and most important a cheque from Mayor McFarland for $400.

The Dutchmen may have been appreciative of the cheque and verbal good wishes if not for an 8-4 defeat at the hands of the Mace.

They certainly did not show much appreciation for the beautiful floral wreath.

It was found a few minutes after the Dutchmen left for home, a crumpled mass, near the west players' exit of Memorial Arena where it had been thrown.

The least they could have done, if they did not want to take it home, was to take it a few miles out of the city before disposing of it, thus saving the Boosters a little heartache and loss of faith in human nature, especially that of defeated visiting hockey clubs.

P.S.:—The $400 cheque was not to be found. It is assumed the Dutchmen took that with them.

ATTENTION BANTAMS!

Belleville bantam hockey all-stars will play in Madoc on Saturday afternoon in an exhibition game with the village team. All players are asked to be at Memorial Arena at 2.30 p.m. Saturday.

Lightfoots Trim Napanee 76-55 In Hoop Game

The Belleville Lightfoots on Thursday night defeated Napanee 76-55 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League game played at Moira Secondary School.

The Lightfoots took a first quarter lead of 14 to 9, but were outscored 21 to 19 by Napanee in the second quarter to cut their half-time lead to 33-30.

The two teams battled evenly throughout the third quarter, each hooping 14 points.

In the fourth quarter the Lightfoots put on their best offensive display of the season, hooping 29 points and holding Napanee to 11 points to win going away.

Bert Faulkner and Don Smith with 20 and 16 points respectively, were high scorers for the Lightfoots, followed by Phil Garrett with 10.

For Napanee, Robertson with 19 points and McCallister with 17 scored best.

The next home game for the Lightfoots will be Tuesday, February 9, when they entertain the first-place Trenton Wilsons.

The lineup:

Lightfoots, 76 — Farnsworth 3, Faulkner 20, Masters 4, Savage 1, Smith, 16, Reynolds 6, Walmsley 4, Ablarde 6 and Bennett 10.

Napanee, 55—Church 5, Babcock 4, Robertson 19, McCallister 17, Howlin, Bailey 4, and Mowers 6.

Referee: Jack Perry.

ALLOW RECORD

DAVOS, Switzerland (AP) — The International Speed-Skating Union ruled Thursday that the world record set by Finland's Johanni Jarvinen at Squaw Valley, Calif., last year would be allowed to stand. The union recognized Jarvinen's 2:08.5 for 1,500 metres as a world record. Although Hendryk Roos of the union's technical committee claimed the race had not been run entirely in accordance with international regulations.

Hawks Trounce Bruins; Habs Slap Leafs; Blues Win

Floundering Rangers Whip Red Wings' Sub Goalie 3-1; Boomer Prevents Toronto Rout

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A slim young goaltender under big-league fire for the first time made easy prey Thursday night for New York's flounding Rangers.

Detroit's third-place Red Wings, with substitute Dennis Riggin in goal, unleashed a 43-shot attack against New York but bowed 3-1 to the Rangers, who mustered only half as many shots on net.

Riggin, 23, from Detroit's Edmonton Flyers farm club in the Western Hockey League, was making his National Hockey League debut as a replacement for Terry Sawchuk, who asked the front office for a three-game rest.

In Montreal the Canadiens slapped down Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 before a crowd of 14,284, the largest of the season at the Forum. It gave the pace-setting Habs 73 points, a 19-point cushion over the fourth-place Leafs.

Chicago's visiting Black Hawks trounced Boston 7-2 in the night's third game and climbed into a 46-point tie with the Bruins for the No. 4 spot in standings.

MAINTAIN SCORING TIE

Bronco Horvath of the Bruins and Jean Beliveau of the Canadiens picked up a point apiece to remain deadlocked for the leadership with 68 points.

At Detroit the cellar - mired Rangers got third-period goals from Andy Bathgate and defenceman Harry Howell for the deciding margin.

Howell scored into an empty net after the Red Wings removed Riggin in favor of a sixth attacker for the last few seconds of play.

Bathgate's lily was a 35-foot drive that Riggin apparently figured would sail over the cross-bar.

Andy Hebenton scored for Rangers in the opening period and Red Wings tied it up in the second on rookie Brian Smith's big-league fire for the first time made easy prey Thursday night for New York's flounding Rangers.

It was New York's first win in 11 games.

WHARRAM LEADS HAWKS

Kenny Wharram paced Chicago's attack before 13,540 fans with a two-goal effort in the opening period, when the Hawks scored four consecutive goals to wipe out a 1-0 deficit. Earl Balfour counted his first goal of the campaign between Wharram's tallies and Tod Sloan rounded off the onslaught.

Jerry Toppazzini scored for Boston on a power play in the second before the Hawks came back with goals by Ultz Stelzenko and Murray Balfour. In the final period Ron Murphy added Chicago's last tally.

Horvath and Vic Stasiuk assisted on Johnny Bucyk's goal opening the scoring less than three minutes after the game got under way.

SWARM OVER LEAFS

In Montreal the Canadiens blasted a 54-shot offence at the Maple Leafs and only the stellar work of goalie Jacques Plante prevented a rout. Toronto fired 21 shots at Jacques Plante.

Bobby Rousseau, a last-stitch tongue injury in the opening period in a gum-chewing mixup, but returned after for 20 minutes and continued his fine work.

It was a rough contest. Referee Vern Buffey imposed 18 penalties, 10 against the Leafs, a 10-minute misconduct to veteran Bert Olmstead included.

Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard and Dickie Moore paced the Canadiens with a goal and an assist apiece. A power - play proposition Beliveau's goal and Ralph Backstrom was Montreal's other marksman.

For Toronto the scorers were Olmstead and Bob Baun.

ELLIS LEADS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)— Don Ellis, Torrey golfer who won the 1958 Canadian Open, shot a 70 over the rugged Tamarisk Country Thursday and emerged a one - stroke leader after two rounds of the $100,000 Palm Springs desert classic with a 136 total.

Ooo stroke back are John McMullin and Bill Johnston. All the pros were still firing away for the $50,000 hole-in-one money.

Al Balding of Toronto had a 69 for a two-round total of 142 to lead the Canadians, Moe Norman at 70 for a 146 total and Jerry Magee 77 for 151. Norman and Magee also are from Toronto.

Becerra, Ortez Retain Titles, Triumph Over Halimi, Torres

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Jose Becerra, a bombing bantamweight, and Manuel Ortiz, king of the junior welterweights, left no doubt about their ring talents after explosive knockout victories Thursday night.

Becerra came up with one big punch to stiffen France's Alphonse Halimi at the 2:46 mark of the ninth round of their scheduled 15-rounder. Becerra, a Mexico-old Mexican, retained the bantamweight crown he won from Halimi last year.

Ortiz, from New York, flattened Mexico's Raymundo (Baby Tony) Torres at 2:56 of the 10th round as he defended his junior welter crown.

Promoters who lured 31,830 fans into Memorial Coliseum were busy today dividing the $362,800, a record California gate.

Even the losers managed smiles. They picked up plenty of change and ringing bravos for gallant, if unsuccessful, bids for their divisions' highest honors.

HALIMI CAREFUL

Many of the fans had hoped the rematch between Becerra and Halimi would be a carbon copy of the little gamecocks's savage battle last July, when Becerra won the title by an eighth-round knockout.

But Halimi, who weighed 117 pounds, kept the hard,- socking Becerra at bay and was leading on all cards when he ran into a cocking left hook early in the ninth.

"I hit him right on the point of the chin," said the 118-pound Becerra in a dressing room crowded with jubilant Mexicans. "I knew he wasn't going to get up."

Ortiz were down the strong but inexperienced Torres with savage counter-punches. The end came with a barrage of lefts and rights that dropped Torres limp on the jaw.

COULDN'T ENDURE MORE

Torres, 18, admitted later that he just couldn't take any more. Ortiz, who had almost been repeatedly with fierce rights, said he didn't know what held the youngster up. Torres weighed 126 pounds, Ortiz 137.

In his dressing room, the 22-year-old Ortiz said:

"Now I want a shot at (Joe) Brown. He's the best light-welterweights around. I deserve a title shot."

He plans to toil in the light-weight vineyards now.

"I'm a natural lightweight (135-pounder)," he said. "And that's where the money is."

$50,000 GOLF CLASSIC

The victors had high praise for the vanquished.

"Halimi is a brave fighter," said Becerra.

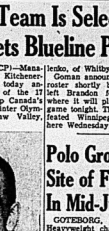
Ortiz ducked down the hall into Torres' dressing room and, pulling an arm around him in fatherly fashion, said: "You'll be a fine fight. All you need is one more years' experience and you'll be a champ with the best of them."

Torres, cut about the eye, managed a smile.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Olympic Team Is Selected, Benoit Gets Blueline Post

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Manager Ernie Goman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen today announced the names of the 17 players who make up Canada's hockey team in the winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, Calif.



MOE BENOIT

The team:

Goal: Harold (Boat) Hurley, Don Head;

Defence: Darryl Sly, Harry Sinden, Jack Douglas, Moe Benoit;

Forwards: Bob Attersley, Fred Etcher, George Samoleski, Ken Laufman, Floyd (Butch) Martin, Jim Connelly, Bob Rousseau, Bob McNight, Bob Forhan, Don Rope, Cliff Pennington.

Gorman said Head, who plays regularly with Windsor of the Ontario Senior Hockey Association, has been made available to the Dutchmen only for the 11 days of the Olympic competition.

The Dutchmen are to provide Windsor with a replacement goalkeeper during that time.

Other players on loan to Kitchener-Waterloo are Douglas and Connelly of Chatham Maroons, and Attersley, Etcher and Samoleski, of Whitby Dunlops.

Polo Ground Site of Fight In Mid-June

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)— Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson's adviser said Thursday that Johansson-Floyd Patterson return bout was all set now under the promotional banners of Feature Sports Incorporated.

In New York travel agent Bill Fugazy, one of the chief executives of Feature Sports, said the fight will be held in the New York Polo Grounds the week of June 19-25.

"The only thing holding us up now is getting our promotional licence from the New York State Athletic Commission," said Fugazy, "We hope to get it this week."

Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's adviser, arrived here Wednesday night following long hours of negotiations in New York with the new group headed by Fugazy and lawyer Roy Cohn.

"The return bout is as good as on now," said Ahlquist.

Fugazy said the fighters each will get 25 per cent of the gate.

Fugazy said radio, TV and movie rights are being re-negotiated so that the fighters will share 70 per cent of those rights.

Red Wings Trade Red Kelly In Swap With Blues

Blueline Veteran, McNeill Given for Gadsby and Shack In Cashless Four-Way Deal

DETROIT (CP)—Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers made the skids in the National Hockey League race, pulled off a four-player swap Thursday night with defencemen Red Kelly and Bill Gadsby the key men. No cash was involved.

Kelly, veteran all-star defence and a hero here, and right winger Billy McNeill were exchanged for Gadsby, Ranger's all - star defenceman, and left winger Eddie Shack.

It was hard to tell who got the better of the deal but both general managers, Jack Adams of the Wings and Muzz Patrick of the Rangers, were happy.

Kelly's departure from Detroit is a shocker. It came 24 hours after Adams denied a magazine story that Kelly was asked to sit out season with a broken ankle. Kelly also denied the story.

KELLY STAGGERED

Kelly, 32, was staggered by the news hinted he might not report to the Rangers because he "just want time to think it over," the Adams and Patrick were confident he would get into a Ranger uniform.

Kelly and Gadsby are longtime all-stars. Kelly, a native of Simcoe, Ont., made the select group of eight times in 12 seasons with the Wings. Gadsby, a six-foot native of Calgary, has been a first all-star team choice.

The Wings, in third place and unbeaten in their last six games, are tired of waiting for McNeill to develop. The 24 - year - old winger from Fort William was given up to Detroit in the 1956-57 season. He had scored only five goals in 57 games for the Wings this season.

SHACK HEATED

Shack, 25-year-old product of Sudbury, has been in hot water with the Rangers for apparent lack of effort, play, and was clashed with the switch.

"I've always wanted to play in Detroit," the rugged forward said. He has been booed by Detroit fans for his tactics while riding check on Gordie Howe.

Nobody would be surprised to see Shack, outstanding as a junior with Gordie Haldorson on the Ontario Hockey Association, end up on a line with Howe.

"We figure we'll get a whale some of our players up," said Jack. "And that's the change of scenery will do him good."

RIDICULES STORY

The story about Kelly's injury appeared in Star Weekly magazine. Adams termed it "ridiculous".

Referring to the swap, he said, "They are two good players and that's why we would have been made no matter what. Kelly has been a great player for this club for a dozen years. Gadsby will be the first because we feel it will help us."

The Rangers, who had spent a week in training camp before they defeated the Wings, are just about even on the scoring for a Stanley Cup playoff spot.

Bulletin

DETROIT (AP) — A four-player trade between the Detroit Red Wings and the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League was reported Thursday night and expected today to have been called off.

A Red Wing spokesman said he "understands" that both Leonard "Red Kelly and Billy McNeill had reported to report to New York and had been told the Rangers' relied refuse from hockey if the trade went through.

New York was reported to have picked up the two men from Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby and left winger Ed Shack. Gadsby is the player carried them in the team's bus to an airport to return to New York after the Stanley.

Lisker New York Rangers' general manager Muzz Patrick confirmed the call-off.

Birds, Royals Win Over Hull, Lions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie fans to the number of 3,150, saw their Greyhounds defeat the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 6-2 Tuesday night in Eastern Professional Hockey League action.

Hershey Thursday night.

But only 796 paid their way into the Hershey Rivieres rink where the visiting Montreal Royals edged the locals 4-3.

The crowds reflected the atmosphere of the two games. The Sault's Memorial Auditorium, for example, except for a 35-stop effort by Gerry Desaulniers, recorded his thing abstout of the season. Trois Rivieres netminder Gaston Mercier made only 24 stops. The puck that got by him was tied by Reggie Fleming with less than four minutes to play.

The Sault, Que., Hull-Ottawa fought hard in an effort to get out of the EPHL cellar. They moved into fifth recently transferred from the Royals, in exchange for pet.

Canadiens scored first. John Annable doing the trick. They added two more for four from the sticks of John Offidzal, Mervyn Hurykiw, Matt Ravlich and Al-an Caron. Bob Courcy got the Greyhounds second goal in the third period.

The Royals moved to within two points of the idle-heading Sudbury Wolves and 10 points ahead of Kingston Frontenacs, tied for third.

Unfold Plan To Indemnify Minor Leagues

BUFFALO (AP)—A plan under which the Continental Baseball League would indemnify the minor leagues for lost territory on the basis of the actual attendance figures during a five-year period was suggested Thursday.

Don Labbruzzo, general manager of the International League's Buffalo Bisons, advanced the plan and said it struck him as "very fair to the International League."

The International League's loss to the Continental includes Buffalo and Rochester.

In the case of Buffalo, Labbruzzo said, the club's net investment based on the difference between Bisons' average International League attendance over a prescribed number of years and the attendance in the seven city replaced Buffalo in the IL.

Labbruzzo's practice is to tap each club 20 cents a paid attendance for the first million and seven cents for the league.

If Buffalo's average attendance was pegged at 1,300,000—a figure Labbruzzo thinks is fair—and Buffalo's replacement city drew 200,000, the indemnity for the year would be 100,000 times 20 cents, or $27,000.

If this rate of payment was continued for five years, the total would be $135,000. If the same practice prevailed in Toronto's case, the grand total would be around $270,000. This is approximate figure from the league's asking price of $1,700,000.

Trenton Cagers Rack up Two Wins In COSSA Tripleheader With BCI

By PETER CARVER

The bantam and senior basketball squads from Trenton High School swept their games from teams representing Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School by scores of 39-28 and 57-37 here Tuesday. BCIVS juniors came through with an impressive 62-22 victory in a tripleheader played last night at Trenton.

SENIOR GAME

The senior game was a thriller from start to finish as close and hard checking played a leading role. Trenton outplayed the visitors for a 12-6 lead at quarter time. Both teams battled furiously in the second stanza, Trenton was outscored 14-13 by Belleville racked up an 18-16 lead at half time.

The third frame was very fast and the checking was close and hard. Both teams found the scoring tough as Trenton took a 32-27 lead. The last quarter was very tight but the visitors managed the lead several times. Trenton began to click in the last part of the quarter and hit for 16 points to BCIVS's 8.

Jim Hutchinson led the way for the winners, hitting for 20 points. Wayne Hutchinson had 13.

Nelson Benting collected 16 for BCI, Morton and McKenzie at his 9 apiece.

Lineups of senior game:

Trenton: Kerr (4), Stensburg (2), Hutchinson (20), Hutchinson (2), Nicholson (13), Rathbun (23), Byrne.

BCIVS: McKenzie (9), Morton (9), Benting (16), Davis, Reason (3), Dalmage, Parker, Pugsley, Mahon, Bronson, Bakker (1).

JUNIOR GAME

Belleville held an edge in play in the first quarter as Trenton couldn't hit around the basket. The quarter time score was 12-4 in favor of Belleville.

BCI again was all over Trenton in the second quarter as their "fast break" was working well. They outscored Trenton 19-1.

Belleville's passing and shooting helped to build up a 46-12 margin at three quarter time. BCIVS clicked around the basket in the last frame to add to their hosts' 9.

Pete Annis topped the Belleville hoopsters scoring 13 points. Bruce Regenburg swished in 10.

Alan Armstrong and Clarke evenly split 16 points for Trenton.

The line-up:

Trenton — Alexander, Armstrong 9, Clarke 9, Byrne, Owens, Wannamaker 1, Sprunton, Stewart 2, Whitley.

BCIVS — Annis 13, Burt, Regenburg 2, Dahl 6, McGuire 5, Muir 1, Regensburg 10, Scott 4, Weston 9, Chestnut, Soule.

BANTAM GAMES

Both squads battled closely in the first quarter but couldn't hit the basket on many of their attempts. Trenton led 8-7 at quarter time. Again both teams played well but couldn't do anything around the hoop as BCIVS's boys outscored the host a 12-10 lead for Trenton at half time.

The winners opened up in the third stanza as their good passing play with 6 points. Trenton a 25-14 margin at three-quarter time. Both teams battled fairly evenly in the last frame as Trenton nit for 14 points and Belleville 11.

Kaufman was the best for Trenton, collecting 9 points, while Bradt had 8.

Brian Skinner again topped the losers with 8 points. Dave Fuzzen, football helmet and all, had 7.

The line-up:

Trenton — Welsh 8, Payne, Kaufman 9, Perks, Whitley 5, Rathbun 2, Bouquean 2, Brillinger 4, Kaufman 9, Beale, Thenaile 3.

Belleville — Bakker 2, Lucas 1, Fuzzen 7, Stirling, Purdy, Anderson 4, Thompson, Ridley, Wilson 2, Huntley, Miller, Skinner 8.

2 Quebec Rinks Undefeated In International Bonspiel

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Two rinks from the province of Quebec are still undefeated as the showdown nears for major trophies in the 40th annual International Bonspiel here.

Finals leading to seven of the bonspiel's 15 trophies are scheduled tonight. All quarter - finals and most semi-finals leading to the bonspiel's other trophies are also scheduled today.

The two unbeaten rinks, skipped by Jean Lemieux of Quebec City and Bob Lahaie of Cap de la Madeleine, each posted two victories Thursday. Both entered the quarter-finals of the Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy.

Lemieux and Lahaie's rinks have 7-0 records and are top contenders for the Grand Aggregate Score which goes to the rink posting the best won-lost record in competition for the Governor's, Omega, Lieutenant - Governor's and Governor - General's trophies.

Thomas' rink meets A. S. Donovan and his Weston entry in the Governor's quarter-finals while Lahaie meets E. L. Hickman's rink from Ottawa in the Omega finals tonight.

Jim Dunbar, Quebec City, and R. W. Ott, Outremont, Que., meet for the John Cup while H. Lemieux, Quebec City, and B. Smith, N.S., rink skipped by Jake Lamb meet in the finals for the Cambrai Trophy.

Moncton, N.B. rink skipped by J. A. Vance and an Edmundston N.B. quartet skipped by J. D. Cotter meet tonight in the finals of the Holt-Renfrew event.

Semi-finals and finals for the other trophies will also be played today.

Semi-finalists for the Royal Bank Trophy include K. Conlin and Lahaie.

Thomas and Lahaie's rinks will each get a chance to fatten their

Chatham Girl Is Promising Figure Skater

REGINA (CP) — Sandra Tewsbury was seven when she borrowed her brother's hockey skates—that were four sizes too large—to go around the backyard rink in Chatham, Ont.

Now 17, she spends six hours a day practising for the Canadian senior women's figure-skating championship Saturday and the Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., later this month.

"I just wanted to skate", she recalled today as she looked back to the day she borrowed the skates. She didn't take skating seriously until she was 11 and received a pair of figure skates.

Miss Tewkesbury was on figure skates only a year or so when "I got the crazy notion I would like to work towards the 1960 Olympics".

She won the Olympic trials last year in the women's singles at Squaw Valley along with Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul.

The tiny brunette has already had a touch of international competition. She placed fifth in last year's North American trials, 10th in the world tournament and 11th in the European championships. She holds gold medals from the Canadian, Eastern and British skating associations.

What are Miss Tewkesbury's plans?

"I don't know what will come after the Olympics. I'll be going to finish a college education but I have not-decided on any career".

Last September and will represent work by correspondence through Toronto board of education.

Sports Celebrities Banquet Nets Wad for Crippled Kids

TORONTO (CP) — A hand-some youngster of 11, impeccably dressed in knee - length socks, short pants and blazer, shopped on a $25-plate dinner with 1,000 of the sport world Thursday night.

He carried crutches. And, ironically, he was top guest.

This was Timmy — Phillips Timmy of Toronto. He represents all the crippled children in Ontario during the 1960 Easter Seal campaign.

He must have been the envy of every kid in the country as he sat at the head table with 20 personalities representing sports from yachting to football.

PROCEEDS $22,000

A record 1,200 people paid to take part in the annual affair, sponsored by the Ontario Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association. They crowded the Royal York's largest dining room and contributed about $22,000 to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. The previous eight dinners turned over a total of $162,-000 to the society.

Timmy, a victim of polio who has been in a brace for two years, a big kick out of the guest speakers, who had made the honoree their guest for the night and sure to mention and came from all parts of North America.

Representing thoroughbred racing was Toronto-born Ted Atkinson, one of the all-time great jockeys. Quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders represented football. He was given a plaque as Ontario's athlete of 1959.

Other notables included fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, Brooks Maynard Sr., baseball of another era, and Dr. Smirle Lawson of Toronto, the original Hall Trek Toronto Argonaut football.

Frazer Thompson, Ernie Banks and Branch Rickey were there for baseball.

Track star George Rhoden of Jamaica, who holds the world 400-metre record, was there. He attends University of Toronto.

One of the most popular guests was Red Storey of Montreal, former National Hockey League referee and football star.

Russ Will Soon Equal Canada Say Selects

MONTREAL (CP)—The Moscow Selects are to leave for home today, apparently still convinced it's merely a question of time before Russia catches up to Canada in hockey.

The Selects—known as Russia's B squad—flew here Thursday from Calgary where they wound up a whirlwind Eastern Canada tour with a 5-3 triumph Wednesday night over an international all-star club.

That gave the Russians a record of six wins against four setbacks.

Uri Belkow, the team's assistant manager, said Russia will soon reach Canada's standards in hockey.

"The scores on the tour speak for themselves. And next year one game we lost we should have won."

MARCH WIN

Thursday night, the team attended the National Hockey League game here between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs.

One Flop Follows Four Hits And Critics Lower the Boom

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A little more respect for the ailing theatre, if you please, asks playwright William Inge.

Inge is here to oversee the local stage debut and the start of filming the The Dark at the Top of the Stairs, as well as to visit Disneyland, of all places. I had expected that he might issue a blast against the Broadway critics who recently torpedoed his first flop after four smash hits (Come Back, Little Sheba, Picnic, Bus Stop, Dark).

But no. The gentle-voiced midwesterner spoke plaintively, not in anger.

"I have no quarrel with the critics," he said. "I knew that A Loss of Roses was not right. I didn't even read the reviews. It was painful enough for me to realize that the play had gone wrong; I didn't need the further punishment of reading about it.

"But I will say something about the critics: It amazes me how violent they get when a play is not a hit. They act as though it were a personal affront to them that such a presentation should be made.

"Everyone realizes that the theatre is in bad condition. But you don't treat a sick child by beating her. I think a playwright who has set out to write a serious piece of work for the theatre ought to be able to expect respect. Instead, I was treated as if I had spit on the floor.

What went wrong with A Loss of Roses? Inge said he had a basic difference with director Danny Mann.

"Mann is fundamentally a film director," the playwright said. "He did all the rehearsals in small scenes and wouldn't let me see a full run-through until the last day. Then I realized things were wrong, but we were ready to open."

He said the play was cut "until it was synopsized," the curtain falling at 10:30 instead of the usual 11:15. Further, he realized Shirley Booth was miscast for the lead and he could not rewrite for the role until she was replaced by Betty Field. By that time, the play was set to come into New York. He feels another month on the road could have saved it.

Do Not Need Guest Stars When Chevalier Is in Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Maurice Chevalier demonstrated dramatically Thursday night that you don't need guest stars, a big chorus and sketches for an entertaining musical show.

Of course it's probable that you have to be Maurice Chevalier to do without them. Anyway, CBS' A Bouquet from Maurice Chevalier lived up to the promise of its title, all 60 minutes.

It was, as the engaging gentleman explained, a one-man show. All his onstage assistants were girls, but they were big-name guests—Joan Crawford's twins, Lucy Arnaz, Randy Paar and Barbara Britton's daughter. He chatted with and sang to them.

Chevalier sang most of the songs with which he is associated. But I do think I enjoyed him most with his version of Al Jolson songs, when he was longing for that Swanee River-era. He reminisced, p h l osophized, dasced and gave us a wonderful, informal time.

The show, as CBS carefully announced, was pre-recorded.

If you're looking closely at the commercials on United States networks these days, you are noticing that some changes are being made. That headache remedy, for instance, has a new look which substitutes a twisted rope and electric sparks in the head for that old pounding hammer. . . . A visiting movie-TV villain confides that his big problem with a TV-watching young son is that the boy is always creeping daddy being knocked off by the hero, with resulting trauma when father walks in alive and whistling, from the day's work. A number of readers, writing about their TV complaints, mention women in slacks—even the skinny ones!—and those commercials with the beautiful girls taking baths in public. . . .

Recommended tonight:

Art Carney Show, NBC, 9-9:30 — Three in One, consisting of this one . . . act plays by Sean O'Casey, Noel Coward and Eugene O'Neill, each starring Carney.

SIGN COACH

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mac Speedie, who set pass-catching records in three professional leagues, has been signed as an assistant coach at Houston Oilers of the American Football League.

Windsor Gets Cesare Maniago For Don Head

MOOSE JAW. (CP) — Kitchener's Waterloo Dutchmen were greeted on their arrival in Moose Jaw Thursday night by more than 300 persons. Official welcome was extended to the Canadian Olympic hockey representatives by Mayor B. B. Pyah.

The Dutchmen are in Moose Jaw for the third game of their pre-Olympic four which will wind up in Vancouver next week. Dutchies take on Moose Jaw Plaflors of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League tonight.

The K-W club announced sub goalkeeper Cesare Maniago will replace Don Head, who has been named to the Dutchmen's official Olympic lineup.

BOAT SHOW OPENS

TORONTO (CP) — Donald Campbell, British holder of the world's speed record on water opened the second annual Canadian Boat Show today. The eight-day event in the Exhibition Park Automotive Building will include about 400 Canadian, United States and British boats.

Figure-Skating Toronto Miss Is Favored

By PHIL ADLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — A young Toronto skater who displayed polish and precision in compulsory figures is favored to win the junior women's title at the Canadian figure - skating championships tonight.

Eleanor M'Good, triple gold medalist from the Toronto Granite Club, skated to a wide lead in Thursday's five compulsory figures. Her 1-5 ordinals accumulate Jane Mason is expected to stand up in tonight's free-skating although Miss Mason, Central Ontario senior champion, is stronger at figures.

Miss McLeod, who started figure - skating seriously nine years ago, was runnerup to the Canadian junior champion last year and in 1957.

Jocelyn Davidson placed third in the figures. Darlene Turk was fourth. Both are from Winnipeg Winter Club.

JUNIOR DANCE

Four couples advanced to tonight's final in the junior dance competition. They are Vivian Percival and Roger Wickson, Donna Lee Mitchell and John D. Mitchell, all of Vancouver, Paulette Doan and Dean Atkins of Guelph, and Marijane Lennie and Karl Benzing of Toronto.

The junior men will trace their compulsory figures before five judges to start today's activities.

Only one of the six competitors is from outside Ontario. He is Frank Clare of Vancouver. The others are Bill Nicol of Stamford, Bradley Black of St. Catharines, Maurice Lafrance of Sudbury, Gregory Folk of Burlington, and Luis James Strong of Unionville.

Canadians Win Curling Test

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A three-shot edge gave Canada's touring curlers the sixth of seven test matches for the Strathcona Trophy but left them 110 shots behind in total points.

The 88-85 win was Canada's second in the test matches, against four for Scotland. One test remains, at Kirkcaldy Saturday. The winner of the cup is decided by total points.

Observers said it was apparent the heavy schedule of exhibition games had taxed the strength of the Canadians.

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, February 6
By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: Now you have a Saturday when all kinds of work and tasks at hand can be performed with an unusual amount of ingenuity and resourcefulness. Be sure to show your most inventive capabilities. Time for correspondence, making out statements and reports, shopping, visits, etc. Tonight visit some companions and have fun.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — This Saturday gives you a fine opportunity to spend time with friends, companions or associates so that you can cement better relations. Clear up any disagreements wisely and kindly. Talk over plans. Grow mentally and spiritually.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — To have greater security and influence is uppermost in your mind right now. So take advantage of this free Saturday to think out plans towards that end. Then put surroundings in better order and improve appearance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You now have an opportunity to contact those individuals of power who can help you to greater success. Discuss your aims and problems honestly. P.M. be most affectionate with loved one. Don't be so reserved.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — An ideal day for investigative activity, if there is some particular, vital information you need immediately, to receive. Tonight it is then important that you use a good deal of kindness and generosity. Smile.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — It will be relatively easy to ally yourself with good comrades today to enjoy those activities that mean so much to you right now. P.M. also good for social affairs, especially where large groups are concerned. Be dynamic.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Now it is possible to gain far greater good will and prestige by efficiently and cleverly following the advice of higher-ups. You will then get more support and insure security for the future. Work steadily and quickly.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Perfect day for making new contacts, friends and visiting new places. Impress them with your intelligent and wide-awake attitude. Also, don't be narrow-minded in any way.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — An opportunity is yours now to scrutinize all reports, contracts, financial affairs minutely. Also any advice given you by business or personal associates. P.M. be most affectionate with loved. Have a lot of fun. Be witty.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) —Informal discussions at company with associates may appear to be just so much talk, but in reality greater success and harmony for the future will result. This applies to creative or social matters, too.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) —Now is the time to get rid of that accumulation of small but important tasks, whether at home in the garden, on the car or with pets, etc. Keep occupied throughout the day and early evening. Time retire early.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— The ideal day for you to have a ball. But be certain you first put your appearance at its best, then contact the truly congenial and be off together at the thing you like to do best. You deserve a little holiday.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— Every chance is yours now to do the things about the house that will make it more lovely and comfortable. Get important repairs made, see that you have no defective wiring, no leaky pipes, etc. Work relaxed.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today will have such dynamism that persons in the higher brackets will ever be attracted to him, or her, and much support is always available. So be sure to give as fine an education as possible. Excellent chart for the minister, the doctor, the educator, the artist, the designer — all white collar jobs of prestige and worth.

WE HAVE A HOME WHERE THE OWNER IS GONE

That is — we mean — gone out of town and waiting for you to come and buy his lovely brick bungalow, situated in Belleville's most desirable location. It has about a year — they have fixed up the basement into two lovely rooms as well and cared for the place in general and now they are transferred permanently to Toronto. We recommend this home to you at $16,900 terms. Down payment less than $2,500.

NORTH OF BELLEVILLE — Gas Station, 2 acres of land, 3-bedroom home. Ideal for a couple. This property is on one of the busiest highways. Ideal place for a farm machinery dealer. The owner retiring is prepared to lend money on the property. It is priced at only $7,500. with a low down payment. It would profit you to look into this.

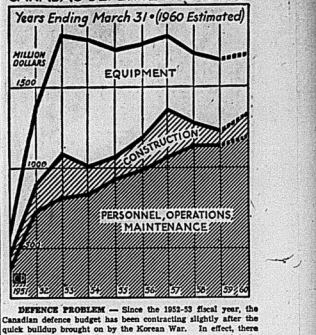
CANADA'S DEFENCE SPENDING



DEFENCE PROBLEM — Since the 1952-53 fiscal year, the Canadian defence budget has been contracting slightly in the quick buildup brought on by the Korean War. In effect, there has been a ceiling of about $1,700,000,000 a year on defence spending.

But, as graph shows, the cost of personnel, operations and maintenance has been rising steadily since the start of the Korean conflict in June of 1950. This has required a decrease in spending on new weapons and equipment if planners were to remain inside the defence budget ceiling.

This, in turn, has left the government with a three-sided problem: whether to increase military commitments, thus cutting down on personnel-operations-maintenance costs; to spend even less on weapons and leave the forces with obsolete equipment; or to carry on as now with the hope there will be an emergency requiring expenditures on new weapons. PAY TELEVISION — A section of the motion picture industry, in a move to recapture audiences lost to television, is investigating the appeal of pay-as-you-see TV in some 2,000 homes in the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke. The idea is to show first-run uninterrupted by commercials on TV sets by having the viewer insert coins in a home control box.. The Etobicoke pilot project has been started by Trans-Canada Telemeter Limited, wholly-owned subsidiary of Famous Players Canadian Corporation. Famous Players president, J. J. Fitzgibbon is shown here explaining use of the control box to Cathie Palmer of Etobicoke. Three channels will feed Telemeter television sets. Cost of films will range from a few cents to a maximum $12, paid in advance. One channel will carry free locally-produced films. (CP Photo).

Etobicoke Chosen as Pilot Area for Pay-as-You-See Movies and Other Programs

By ROBERT PHILLIPS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — One evening this month some 2,000 residents of the western suburb of Etobicoke may sit down before their new television screens and by inserting a few coins in an attached box watch one of the latest movies piped into their homes by the enterprising motion picture industry.

The enterpriser in this case is Trans Canada Telemeter Ltd., wholly-owned subsidiary of Famous Players Canadian Corp., Canada's largest movie house owner.

The scheme is the latest in the pay - as - you - see TV devices and is aimed at recapturing movie audiences lost since the advent of TV.

Telemeter officials say future expansion will depend on public reaction in Etobicoke, chosen as pilot area following a survey which showed a population of 150,000 in the area representing a wide variety of occupations, income and tastes and an already broad choice of regular TV channels. The area is served by TV from Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, N.Y.

PRESIDENT CONFIDENT

Famous Players President J.J. Fitzgibbons says he is confident of its success.

"We know through surveys and so on that if the viewer is offered top - flight entertainment unfettered by commercials he'll be glad to pay "DP 81 or so it will cost."

Initial cost to the customer is a flat $5 for installation of a small control and coinbox device and for the hookup by wires to the Telemeter studios. Viewing fees will vary from a few cents a film to the maximum of $2, paid in advance by inserting the coins in the box.

Telemeter offers a three - way choice. Channel A will carry first-run movies and any sports spectacles for which Telemeter is able to buy local televising rights.

It has already acquired rights for Sunday night away - games by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, the first to be brought in from New York Feb. 28. Channel B will carry second - run movies. Channel C, which will be free, will carry a variety of locally - produced filmed programs including neighborhood scenes.

The pay TV will not interfere with reception on regular channels.

THREAT TO THEATRES

The entertainment industry will watch the debut of this new kind of coinbox TV. Its success could bring down the curtain in more movie houses.

Although its Canadian sponsors promise there will be no movies shown before they reach downtown theatres, the plan has opponents among theatre owners.

Joseph Siraus, president of Theatre Owners of Quebec, says: "I'm going to fight this thing tooth and nail. They are saying that toll TV is going to be a big thing when in fact it is going to put theatre people out of business and make people pay for programs they now are getting free."

To this Famous Players replies that regular TV has already put many theatres out of business. In 1956 Famous Players operated 410 theatres across Canada; now they have 376.

Film distributor Nat Taylor, president of 30th Century Theatres in Canada, supports the idea. "If the public wants to buy movies through that medium we'll be glad to sell them. I would be glad to see it a financial success."

FREE OF CONTROL

Telemeter says it required no government authority to go into the business and is not subject to broadcasting regulations because it transmits by wire rather than the airwaves.

This is how telemeter works:

1. By twirling one of the control box's three dials — the one known as "the barker" — the customer hears a continuous taped announcement of programs, their length and time and the price, if any.

2. Having selected a program, the viewer inserts in the coin box at least a mark as the price of the show. The average movie price will likely be about $1 with a maximum of $2. If correct change is not available, a computing device will record the credit balance for use in the next selection.

3. Once money is paid, it will not be returned and the customer will not have the alternative of switching without extra charge to another paid show. Money will, however, be repaid when power or TV sets fail or for such things as rained - out baseball games.

For the third, free channel, Telemeter has arranged for time for local organizations such as the Red Cross, service clubs and clergymen to produce just about anything they wish. It hopes eventually to acquire local entertainment programs on tape for viewing on this channel. It does not plan to produce live entertainment programs.

Sunday School Lesson

God Has Many Allies

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the most important lessons any preacher of righteousness has to learn is the simple fact that God has many allies.

There are some churches and some preachers, in our land who need very badly to learn that they are not the only ones in their community, or in this land, who are battling for righteousness.

The Apostle Paul, arriving in the capital city of Corinth, in southern Greece, might have been excused for thinking he was the only godly man in town for no city in all the Mediterranean area had a worse reputation. To be known as a "Corinthian," anywhere around the sea was to fall immediately under suspicion. But before the evangelist had been in town more than a few weeks he had a vision, in which God assured him that He had "many people" in the city.

3 DISPLACED PERSONS

Our generation is all too familiar with the problem of the displaced person. There are disputable authorities estimating that there may be as many as 45 million of the uprooted around the earth. That is more than the total population of the United States—in excess of the total population of Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Holland and Belgium.

And everywhere the displaced person is a very appreciable numbers they are a problem for the authorities. In addition, they are always a problem to themselves.

The Emperor Claudius, for reasons best known to himself had ordered every Jew out of Rome, in the year 49 A.D. Suetonius, the Roman historian, says that it was because they fell to rioting over a certain Christus, which may have been a mistaken spelling of the name Christ.

The Uniform Sunday School lessons for February 7: "Perseverance in Christian Work," Acts 18: 1-23; 1 Corinthians 1-28 through 2: 5.

At any rate, a Roman Jew and his wife, by the names of Aquila and Priscilla, had contrived to get to Corinth and set up a small tent-making establishment. Upon Paul's arrival in Athens he appeared at Aquilla's place of business and asked for a job, he being a tentmaker by trade.

This was the beginning of the Christian church in the city. No one knows whether the tentmaker and his wife were Paul's first converts, or whether they had been Christians in Rome. At any rate, the church began with them—three displaced persons.

IN A DEPRESSION

It may sound a little odd to modern ears to hear that there was a "depression" on in Corinth at that very moment. The Roman government was afraid of its agricultural policies, the market for eastern Mediterranean wheat had hit bottom, and the Corinthian harbors (there were two) were filled with idle shipping.

This meant, of course, that there was a bad market for salt cloth and sail making, and this in turn had its effect on the economic fortunes of the three displaced tentmakers. None but Jews could have survived.

CHURCH WAS FOUNDED

It was in the midst of such circumstances, and while being tried by the people, that the Christian Church got under way.

Under any ordinary circumstances the casual observer would have said that it was an impossible situation. A good economist could have offered a total population of the city in figures—in excess of the total population of Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Holland and Belgium.

And everywhere the displaced person is a very appreciable numbers they are a problem for the authorities. In addition, they are always a problem to themselves.

The Emperor Claudius, for reasons best known to himself had ordered every Jew out of Rome, in the year 49 A.D. Suetonius, the Roman historian, says that it was because they fell to rioting over a certain Christus, which may have been a mistaken spelling of the name Christ.

Official Silence On Movements Of Mikoyan

Anti-Red Students Show Defiance of Castro Govt.

HAVANA (AP)—A curtain of official silence fell on Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's movements today following a outburst of gunfire that threw late turmoil Friday's opening of the new Russian cultural exposition in Havana.

The mystery shots came on the heels of an anti-Communist student demonstration in a nearby park that confronted Premier Fidel Castro with the first open defiance of his be-kind-to-the-Reds policies.

The shooting failed to shake or silence Mikoyan. The veteran Kremlin salesman told the Cubans the secret of Soviet Russia's success lay in "establishing the power of the workers and peasants — and confiscating without any compensation all means of production . . ."

Castro has called his revolution a revolution of workers, peasants and students. He has seized sugar plantations and cattle ranches but has promised compensation.

The violence marked the first open sign of unrest among the students since the fall of Batista's program.

The decision on Mikoyan's plans for today was seen as a test of Castro's willingness to avoid further embarrassing anti - Red demonstrations.

The source of gunfire echoed over a two-block area for about five minutes. Mikoyan remained calmly on the open platform waiting to make his prepared speech. There was no indication that the shooting was an assassination attempt on the Soviet leader.

A number of students were arrested, but police declined to say where they were taken or give any official version of the night events.

The red-carpet reception given Mikoyan by Castro set off heated street debates throughout the city. Many conflict between communism and anti-communism may be avoided, at least for the moment.

Two days before the Soviet exhibition ends Feb. 10, a huge anti-Communist rally is scheduled in Havana.

The Cuban government announced Friday that the Soviet exhibition has cost it a $21,500,000 worth of Cuban sugar.

HOUSE MAKES LITTLE PROGRESS IN LONG SESSION

Will Delve Into Tolls on Bridges

OTTAWA (CP)—Friday's Commons weather summary: Stormy, very windy.

Accomplishments: The Commons railway committee will delve into tolls on Montreal's federally-owned Jacques Cartier and Victoria bridges; two minor supplementary spending estimates were approved.

Transport Minister Hees called for the inquiry into Jacques Cartier bridge tolls only sharply since September after an automatic collecting system replaced the manual one.

Liberal Gordon Fogo (L—Montreal Laurier) said the investigation also should take in toll collection under the adjacent Victoria bridge.

LONG DISCUSSION

After an extended discussion, Mr. Hees' motion was passed with amendments to give powers extended to cover Victoria bridge.

The committee held an organization meeting Friday and elected as chairman Gordon K. Fraser (Peterborough), who headed it last year. It is expected to start bridge hearings Tuesday. Mr. Lamoureux will be given consideration of supplementary estimates.

The first two—$830,000 compensation for animals slaughtered in Ontario and Manitoba and $3,500,000 for freight assistance shipments of feed grain to be shipped to the west coast, central B.C. and the Maritimes—passed relatively easily.

NESBIT FLEA FAILS

Wallace Nesbit (Oxford), parliamentary assistant to External Affairs Minister Green; made a plea that provision for some farmers in his Ontario area whose cattle were killed before the compensation program went into effect last April 1, agriculture Minister Hamilton said three had to be a retroactive period somewhere and the government could not change the date.

Then the measure for emergency aid to Alberta farmers whose grain was buried under early fall snows came up. The government's estimate of October 1959 said the program's aim is to split the cost with the provinces—is $2,000,000.

The issue was debated to the adjournment hour without decision.

MANY DELAYS

During the 3½-hour sitting no fewer than 16 items of order were called by Speaker Roland Michener or his deputy, 15 identified members and others not identified.

At one point, Prime Minister Diefenbaker reacted in anger at persistent questioning by the Liberals on matters previously covered.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused the opposition of wasting the Commons' time by asking "frivolous, unnecessary and unjustified" questions.

The answer to his deputy, Jacques Flynn, had to call for order 15 times during the day because members were asking questions out of turn, were straying away from the subject in hand or just because there was too much noise to permit anybody at all to be heard.

Disidentified members called for order 14 times.

ONLY ONE OF 24 GOVT. MEASURES IS CONTESTED

Court Witnesses To Get Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Only one out of 24 government measures to change existing legislation was contested in the legislature Friday.

A bill introduced by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts and given second reading drew criticism from CCF members who objected to the new $8 and $15 fees to be paid to court witnesses.

The bill to amend the Crown Witnesses Act states an ordinary witness will be paid $8 a day, while professional people called to testify will get $15.

SEEK DISCRIMINATION

CCF Leader Donald C. Macdonald called the bill discriminatory. He said a working man would lose money by being away from his job all day.

Mr. Roberts replied that a court appearance might take a man from his work for only an hour or two.

Co-operative man, said Ken Bryden (CCF-Woodbine), would be more likely to be away from work all day if he had to attend court. The fee should be doubled, he said.

A bill to amend the Devolution Estates Act was also given second reading. It stipulates that a husband will be considered dead the same as the wife of a deceased husband, if he has left first $5,000 of an estate when he was killed.

All 24 bills were referred to the legal bills committee for clearer study.

LANDS, FORESTS REPORT

The 1958-59 report of the department of lands and forests was tabled. It showed cash receipts of $20,237,507 as compared to disbursements of $24,-721,298.

The lands and forests report said that the decrease of receipts from the province's share was caused in part by a cutback in timber operations with a resulting decrease in stumpage revenue.

The sharp increase in expenditures was caused by the development of lands and forests parks.

The report warns that Ontario, through its rapid population increase and industrial expansion, is becoming a less forward area in fish and wildlife management.

Monday, two bills respecting energy are to appear on the order paper for second reading.

Repatriation of Koreans Smooth, Communist Goal May Be Exceeded

TOKYO (AP)—Another tide of homeless, bitter people is on the move in Korea.

Nearly 7,000 Koreans have sailed from Japan for Communist North Korea since Dec. 14, lured by the promise of homes, jobs and a better life.

They are part of a key Western ally — the Republic of (South) Korea — involved in a serious propaganda defeat.

So smoothly is the controversial program progressing that the Japanese officials now believe the originally estimated goal of 130,000 repatriates may be exceeded. Police earlier estimated that the number could run to 500,000.

The 600,000 Koreans of Japan form the largest alien displaced populations of the world. The tide, 2,000,000 strong, first flowed into Japan during the fighting of the Second World War to work in factories and fields for Imperial Japan.

Although South Korea claims about 1,000,000 Koreans were forced laborers, the Japanese Red Cross Society said it made a survey showing that all except 365,363 came voluntarily, seeking jobs.

After the war more than 1,000,000 were repatriated, principally to what now is South Korea. Others drifted home from time to time. But the 600,000 remained, confident of being forced, if expected, discriminated against in employment, crowded together in the slums of Japan's cities.

South Korea, struggling with economic devastation of the Korean War, swung the door wide for their return in an orderly, planned basis. But it argued that Koreans should be compensated by Japan for the years they have labored in Japan. Tokyo refused.

North Korea promised everything. Its propaganda said there couldn't get in Japan—clean, spacious apartments; free schooling and work in their country's collectives.

The Soviet Red Cross ships, the Krylion and Tobulsk, sailed from Niigata, Japan, Dec. 14 with the first repatriates. This weekend the seventh westward crossing to Chongjin began, pushing the total returned to 6,936.

U.S., Not Russia Blocking Accord On A-Test Ban

Muffling Underground Blasts Very Difficult

WASHINGTON (CP) — Evidence before the United States Congress indicates the U.S. and not Russia may be mainly responsible for a near-collapse in the current East-West negotiations for a permanent ban on atomic tests.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev's own scientific advisers—members of a technical group who negotiated with the Soviet last year—agreed before a Senate subcommittee on disarmament this week that Russia sincerely wants a tests-ban pact.

And Russia seems willing to accept a certain degree of inspection and control to police the ban, with a limitation on the number of foreign inspections on Russian soil.

DIFFER ON BAN EXTENT

But Russia wants a complete ban on explosions above and below ground. The U.S., on the other hand, wants to favor a partial ban, excluding underground tests. Russia has denied technical studies showing that underground explosions are detectable and therefore are difficult to detect.

The scientists seem to suggest the importance of the U.S. arguments is not as great as some American diplomats have maintained. To muffle an explosion equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT —this would be relatively small by modern standards of nuclear warheads—would require a hole deep a half-mile down in some salty area.

COSTLY PRECAUTION

How big a hole? About the size of two city blocks, said the scientists. Dr. James B. Fisk and Dr. Wolfgang K. Panofsky estimated: Between $10,000,000 and $30,000,000. And how long would it take to dig it? Between two and four years, depending on the number of shifts employed.

Senator Hubert M. Humphrey asked why the government had failed to exert a stronger effort to develop explosion and had not been so eager to spend money on decoys for the Bomarc missile.

"We hear all about the problems. Why don't we also hear about the solutions?" he asked.

Humphrey said the U.S. government, after years of study, is running the risk of a breakdown in negotiations and a piling up of world criticism against the U.S.

May Relax Auto Licence Suspensions

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government is considering relaxing the province's licence suspension system, Transport Minister Yaremko indicated in the legislature Friday.

Proposed changes would benefit persons whose livelihood depends on driving and who have had their licences suspended for traffic infractions.

Mr. Yaremko believe that, in general, lengthy suspensions of drivers' licences are necessary," he told the legislature in tabling a report on Ontario's demerit system.

The system provides a three-month licence suspension for drivers who accumulate 12 points for traffic infractions over a two-year period.

Mr. Yaremko felt a person had only two basic choices in such a time in order to realize what an unpleasant situation driving is.

STUDY CONCESSION

Later, in an interview outside the chamber, he said a new embargo on driving was being considered for the first half of a suspension with the driver allowed to use a vehicle during the second half only if essential to his livelihood.

Mr. Yaremko said the average motorist commits a driving offence only through lack of proper attention. Many concessions would keep a man on the payroll who otherwise was suspended for a month or six weeks, if the man's duties require him to drive. But few would actually carry such an employee for three months' leave.

A total of 123,013 Ontario drivers were given demerit points in the first nine months of the system that went into effect April 1, 1959.

Only 80 drivers reached the 12-point level.

Titan Missile Blows Apart After Launching

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States Titan program again is in trouble following the in-flight explosion of one of the big intercontinental-range missiles.

The 95,000-pound rocket blew apart 57 seconds after launching Friday. The explosion, several thousand feet in the air, resembled an sudden sunburst.

Informed sources said the second stage apparently separated prematurely, sending the missile out of control.

The Martin-made Titan is being developed as the biggest U.S. military rocket, with a range of up to 9,000 miles.

The failure followed the successful firing of another Titan last Tuesday. That shot, in which second-stage ignition was achieved for the first time, was the first success for the Titan in nine months.

The Titan program had come in for much criticism because of a string of failures and other mishaps. Its troubles are being studied by three congressional committees.

Expect 401 To Be Completed By End of 1963

TORONTO (CP) — The department of highways has no plans at present for the extension of Highway 400 beyond Gravenhurst, W. J. Fullon, deputy minister of highways, said Friday.

Four-lane Highway 400 now runs from Toronto 80 miles north to Coldwater on Highway 12 northwest of Orillia. From Crown Hill, near Toronto, to Coldwater it is only a two-lane road.

The east-west Highway 401, from Windsor to the Quebec border—is expected to be completed by 1963 at a cost between $500,000 and $700,000 a mile, Mr. Fullon said. There will be no traffic lights or road intersections anywhere on the 510 miles of the four-lane highway.

W. A. Gault, chief engineer, said that in three to four years a motorist will be able to travel from Sudbury south to Toronto, west to St. Catharines, around the Homer Bridge now under construction and south to New York city without encountering a stop light.

Women Jurors Weep as Accused Gives Version

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Her story was very, very sad," she said. "I'm sorry, I should have listened."

"Take care of the kids,' she said. And she just went limp."

Thus Dr. R. Bernard Finch recalled the last moments of his wife's life. His voice, halting, choked with emotion, brought his murder trial to a smashing climax Friday.

A packed courtroom was hushed, people on the six women jurors wept.

Finch testified his wife's shooting was an accident.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Freezing rain or drizzle ending this morning across most of Ontario. The storm centre located over northern Ohio was advancing northeastward along the lower Great Lakes. In eastern sections the precipitation will continue throughout the day. Southern Ontario will have cloudy and somewhat colder weather tonight and Sunday except for a drop in temperature. Little change in weather is forecast for the north country Sunday.

Avalanche Threat in Rockies Can Be Removed by Gunfire

GLACIER, B.C. (CP) — A 25-year-old problem of how to eliminate killer snow avalanches in the Rocky Mountains appears to be solved.

The answer, in the opinion of park experts and public safety experts, is artillery shells or bursts aimed at buildups of snow high in the mountains, which if left alone would thunder down on roads below.

They say that by the fall of 1961 development of firing avalanche warning devices will have reached the stage where dangers from snow avalanches will be virtually eliminated.

The problem became more urgent when the Trans-Canada Highway was routed through Rogers Pass in Glacier National Park, a rugged section of east-central British Columbia which has claimed the lives of more than 225 persons in slides since 1883. The highway is to be opened late in 1961.

If plans are carried out, civilian artillery crews will be formed to patrol the highway. In the last three years experimental firing has been done by army units.

In an area where the average yearly snowfall is more than 20 feet, gun crews will be needed from early November to late June. The national parks branch estimates 25 men will be needed to forestall avalanches, handle the firing and keep the road clear of snow along one 25-mile stretch.

Macmillan Sails for Home Having Accomplished Mission

CAPETOWN, South Africa (CP)—Harold Macmillan left for home Friday flaying accompanied what he set out to do on his tour of Africa—simply to "listen and learn."

But he left the central African federation of Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland disappointed. Both white and black groups had hoped for some hint about the future.

The prime minister's speeches and press conferences in Africa were masterly examples of how to talk and answer questions without saying anything explicit.

In Ghana and Nigeria, the visit was mainly ceremonial but in the Rhodesias and Nyasaland more was expected.

Supporters of federation were hoping that the British leader would give a firm assurance that the federation would not be broken up. This is what the dominant white settler fears may result from a commission of inquiry into the Nyasaland disturbances which will begin hearings this year.

Opponents—the Negro majority which desires to have Nyasaland made independent of the Rhodesias and the European settlers—had hoped for pledges allowing a breakup of the federation and a promise that one of their leaders, Dr. Hastings Banda, would be released from jail.

Macmillan raised doubts in the minds of both sides. He said the Monckton commission's terms of reference won't be changed, seeming to preclude a breakup

Uneasy Citizens of Algiers Await Triumvirate's Orders

ALGIERS Reuters — A political paralysis numbed Algiers today as supporters of the abortive settlers' revolt waited nervously to see how three top members of the new French cabinet would decide their fate.

The city was calm, but an undercurrent of apprehension was evident as Premier Georges Pierre Messmer, defence, Edmond Michelet, justice, and Pierre Chatenet, information, flew here from Paris.

President de Gaulle ordered the ministers to fly here today to study measures for "putting things back in order" after the nine-day insurrection against his self-determination policy for Algeria.

Sweeping changes in administration, posts and the army are expected to be recommended by the ministers. They are to report Wednesday to the cabinet in Paris.

Soldier-administrator Messmer, 43, was named to the cabinet Friday in a reshuffle in which de Gaulle eliminated dissenters to his Algeria policy.

He was recalled from fighting the Moslem nationalist rebels in eastern Algeria to replace Pierre Guillaumat, who was given another cabinet post. Main feature of the shakeup was the dismissal of Jacques Soustelle as de Gaulle's stalwart for 20 years and one time hero of Algerian settlers.

Algiers seemed on the surface today to be back to normal following the collapse of the revolt Monday.

But demonstrators were lying low, many of their leaders had been rounded up, and strict censorship was still being enforced.

Several leaders of the demonstrators are under arrest or assigned to forced residence—and unofficial reports say policemen as well as civilians are being rounded up.

Official sources said many of those on an original list of about 40 persons wanted by the authorities had slipped away.

Young Liberals Called On To Produce Greater Effort

OTTAWA (CP) — Fledgling members of the Liberal party were called on Friday for greater efforts to show Canadians that Progressive Conservatives have only a veneer of liberalism and that no substitute is needed for the Liberal party.

J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal MP for Bonavista - Twillingate, admonished about 150 delegates to the national convention of the Canadian University Liberal Federation that "we must pay more attention to publicity.

He said the Liberals are running a poor third to the Conservatives and the new party being formed by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress in volume of propaganda.

Through "ceaseless propaganda" the Conservatives sought to convince people they are more liberal than the Liberals. And the question was raised how a new party was trying to make a bid as a major party for all liberally-minded Canadians.

This only demonstrates that the Liberal record is unique, the politician, Mr. Pickersgill said.

The convention also heard a plea from a noted educationist that education and thought be placed higher in their scale of values than "big (auto) tailfins and self-defrosting refrigerators."

Kurt Swinton, president of Ecclesiastica Britannica of Canada and of the Canadian Conference on Education, said education's big job in the future must be to train the young to adapt to rapidly - changing conditions.

Delegates paid lip service to the need for and value of education but balked at recognizing it as a primary ingredient of national survival.

Mr. Pickersgill's pep talk was the third of the day for the young Liberals. Earlier, Lionel Chevrier, Liberal MP for Montreal Lachine, urged them to perfect party organization and enlist politicians in the Liberal cause.

He preceded during a visit by delegates to the Parliament Buildings during which he sat in the Commons gallery at the question period, to be followed by another pep talk from Senator W. Ross Macdonald, Liberal leader in the Senate.

Senator Macdonald expressed the hope Liberal delegates would turn home with renewed spirit and determination to "put back in office that party which has done so much for Canada over the years."

Seven Americans Among Victims Of Airliner Crash

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The death toll in Bolivia's worst aviation disaster reached 68 today as the lone survivor succumbed to injuries.

Jenny Gray, two-year-old Bolivian child, was the only person aboard the airliner when rescuers reached the wreckage Friday. The child died several hours later without being given a hospital.

The scene of the accident was high in the Andes. Lack of communications had delayed rescuers following the crash prevented reporters from obtaining accurate information on the disaster. The official passenger list still has been made public.

Airline officials said seven Americans were among the victims. There was no indication that any Canadians were on board.

An airline spokesman said one of the plane's four engines caught fire after takeoff from Cochabamba, a city 1½ miles high in the Andes, for the trip to Bolivia. Five minutes later the plane crashed into a mountain.

The crash was the fifth this year involving commercial airliners and boosted the number of victims to 247.

Joseph Docter Dies Suddenly In New York

A former and well known resident of this city, Joseph Docter, died suddenly at his home, 7 Peter Cooper Road, New York City, on Friday. He has been in failing health for some time. His death was suddenly due to a heart attack.

Mr. Docter was born in this city, 79 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Docter and was a member of one of the oldest families in this district. His parents conducted the Docter's Hotel for many years and the present hotel still bears the name. He was educated in this city, but as a young man made his way to New York, where he had resided for the past 57 years. Mr. Docter never lost his love for his native city and each year would return to renew acquaintances and visit with his many circle of friends in the district.

He joined the firm of Laidlaw and Company in New York, as a young man and was associated with the firm for over a half century. Mr. Docter was an authority of the highest rank on stocks and bonds and contributed many newspaper articles on the economy and its fluctuations.

He was a member of St. Thomas' Church while a resident of the city and is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Goetz, and one sister, Mrs. Cecilia Brien of this city.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon next at St. Thomas' Church with interment in the family plot at the Belleville cemetery.

Sgt. H. Barker Goes to Goderich

Stationed at Belleville for the past nine years and in charge of highway traffic safety patrol at the Belleville detachment, he'll come time, Cpl. Harry Barker of the Ontario Provincial Police is being transferred to Goderich, effective the middle of February.

With the transfer the Belleville officer will also be promoted to the rank of Sergeant, effective the first of January.

Sgt. Barker has been a member of the Ontario Provincial force for just over 20 years and recently was presented with his 20-year good conduct medal.

What's Matter With Maison Dior Local Belles Ready for War

The office band—
What is the matter with Maison Dior?
It's covering up what should be seen more,
Its straight-up-and-down is lacking in bounce,
For, shucks, after all, it's up front what counts.

By MARGARET BAMFORD

The House of Dior has decreed its flat-chested look in women's spring fashions this year but local belles are marshalling a big front guard.

War will be declared if the "Silhouette Of Tomorrow" arrives on the local fashion scene this month.

The female ranks will be swelled by "regiments" of loyal males who are also dead set against the ludicrous strategy aimed at camouflaging the female frame and setting women's fashions back 40 years.

An Ontario intelligencer survey of Belleville women unanimously against the Dior silhouette, a throw-back to the Flapper fashions of the 20's, and all but one of the eight consulted said they would not wear it even if it came into fashion this spring.

Dress shop proprietors disclosed they've local gals who will catch on to any great extent, and are only stocking a few "Dior" models to please the individual", interested in extreme fashions.

Here are some of the comments of Belle'ville women:

Myrna Mather, hairdresser: "I don't care for it. I think it's silly. I wouldn't wear it, whether it becomes the fashion or not."

Pat Featherstone, teacher: "The girls would be elected for the natural figure. I dress the way I look best . . . and I wouldn't wear it even if it came into fashion."

Joan McFarlane, receptionist: "I don't care for it — it's not appealing. I might buy the odd dress if it came into fashion, but I wouldn't wear it all the time — only if I have been asked to a party where everyone was style conscious and dressed to the hilt."

Gail Hendricks, secretary: "I think it takes away from the show the figure and that's not a good idea."

Mrs. Donald Morton: "I don't like the flat-chested look. I don't think it will last, and I wouldn't wear it — unless it started a fad. It's about 10 years or so."

Dress shop proprietor: "I don't think women want to look flat-chested. It's more or less a revival . . . and won't last too long, just like the flack. We might carry a few if it comes into fashion."

Mrs. E. Doolittle, ladies apparel shop employee: "The new Dior fashions are a highlight and not for mass production. We will be stocking them individually in small quantity because only individualists will be interested in them. They are for the high styled person."

Carolyn Forhan, secretary and amateur fashion model: "I think it's a passing fad. It isn't flattering to the feminine figure, and I wouldn't wear it."

Local dress shop manageress: "Our customers don't approve of the new Dior fashions. They say they want to keep (the styles) they've got. It might come into fashion, but it won't stay long. We're stocking dresses that are lovely and feminine."

Mrs. Jack McLaughlin: "I think it's terrible. Oh yeah, it'll come in — with flat-chested women."

A survey of male opinion indicates the men are emphatically against the new flat-chested silhouette.

Here are some of the comments of the opposite sex.

Geo. H. Carson, sports editor: "What's wrong with the curves? Why try to change what nature gave us?"

Gary Alexander, sportswriter: "I think it looks ridiculous. I like a girl to look like a girl." Asked what he'll do if the old fashioned — we're not in the 20's, now — if she won't wear them in Paris o'k — but not here."

Earl Dickmeother, secretary-manager of the local Chamber of Commerce: "The styles never do catch on."

Alderman Robert Temple: "If the flat-look comes in, there will be more bachelors than there already are. It will set society back about 40 years. . . . Anyway, Marilyn Monroe is pretty drastic. The girls had better watch out or next year they'll have their dresses cut instead of convex."

Bill Wells, salesman: "Horrible, horrible, horrible."

Ted Warwick, printer: "We think it's time to show some feminine gifts and I like to see them."

Ed Hall, sales promotion, bank manager: "I'm agin it. I like to see natural curves."

Mrs. Gerald Scully: "Ridiculous! I think a woman should wear what is most becoming to her, not what fashion dictates."

Mrs. Al Atkinson: "Hate to Dior!"

Danny Clark, entertainer: "Ouch, it's — awful."

Order Crews Of One Train Out of Mimico

Effective on February 14th, engine and train crews on Canadian National Railways freight running between Toronto and Brockville will be ordered out of Mimico instead of out of the Belleville terminal point.

The railway has posted notice that the change will be effective on the above date.

Mr. L. J. Brisbin, Bleecker Ave., General Chairman of the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for this region, said today that the move is being contested by the union. Negotiations have been underway in Toronto and will be continued in Montreal next week.

Mr. Brisbin said three or four train crews would be affected. The change would mean they would either have to move to Toronto or deadhead from Belleville.

Point Anne Man Arrested for Tweed Theft

A Point Anne youth, Wilfred Hendrickson, 19, has been arrested in connection with Thursday evening's safe break-ing at the Tweed Steel Works. The youth has been charged with breaking and entering by Police Chief Walter Higgins.

Henderson was arrested in the city by Belleville police Thursday afternoon and was taken to Tweed for questioning. It is expected that additional arrests may be made in connection with the Tweed break-in where the steel works safe was cut open by an acetylene torch. Only office records were in the safe.

Belleville.

"It is just the thin edge of the wedge toward elimination of the Belleville terminal," he said.

New Dock Will Likely Be Built This Year

Although final plans and specifications for the approved reconstruction of the wooden dock in the east of the government dock have not yet been completed in full, Jack Grills, MP for Hastings South, said this morning that he saw no reason that it won't be done this year.

The new dock is to be approximately 240 feet long and 64 feet wide of concrete construction, he said, adding that it is hoped to extend the present docking facilities, which are currently being used to capacity. Mr. Grills commented that $62,000 in funds had already been approved and that shortly department engineers would have full plans and specifications available and public tenders would be called for.

The present hook is made of wood and time and heavy use have worn and broken the timbers, making it dangerous for large vessels.

It was realized some time ago that the facilities at the dock was becoming dangerous and in 1958 the Harbours Protection Commission and Mr. Grills made representation to the Department of Public Works to have this situation remedied, Mr. Grills said.

Federal engineers were in Belleville last December and early January to investigate and examine the present structure, and to determine the type of docking structure to provide adequate and permanent docking facilities, the local member of parliament said, adding that he had been informed that the engineers only yesterday and had placed a World line Dock for the new dock or wharf were almost finished.

DOCK IMPROVEMENTS

Mr. Grills pointed out that other improvements had been made to the government dock this past year. The warehouse was repaired and the roof and sheeting and the city's name painted on the roof. Other renovations have been completed and the preparatory excavation of the wharf should bring additional employment to the city, Mr. Grills added.

The members of the Belleville Harbour Commission which has been pressing for the reconstruction, is Ralph G. Thrasher, Trill, chairman; Mac Smith, harbormaster, and "Senator" Bill Ponton, secretary-treasurer. Plans to Ottawa last July to first request federal aid for the public wharf they were accompanied by John Weese, a former Member of Parliament.

CHARLES WILLIAM STAPLES

A retired CNR engineer, Charles William Staples, of 218 Station Street, died Friday in Belleville General Hospital. He had been in ill health for the past 10 years, and was in his 82nd year.

Born in Nottingham, England, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher Staples. He resided in Belleville for the past 47 years, coming here directly from England.

He retired in 1951 followi 37 years' service with the CNR. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. He was a member of Christ Church.

Besides his wife, the former Beatrice Reeves, he is survived by three sons, Kenneth at home, Rev. Charles E. Staples of Carlsbad, Ont., and Douglas Staples of Kingston, and two daughters Mrs. Leo (Eileen) Goyer of Belleville and Miss Vera Staples of Toronto. Also surviving is one sister, Mrs. Eleanor Stephenson of England.

Number of Jobless Persons Here Already Exceeds 1959 Top With Peak Time to Come

With the peak seasonal unemployment period still about a month away, the number of job seekers in Belleville area is now greater than at any period last winter.

This was noted this weekend by Cecil Hiuere, manager of the National Employment office, who stated that at the end of February here was a total of 2,764 unplaced job applicants in Belleville and the county area served by the local office.

The breakdown of this figure showed there were 2,101 men and 663 women out of work.

Mr. Hiuere, however, stressed the end of January last year were 1,883 men and 631 women seeking jobs.

But since the end of January there has been a slight brightening of the local employment picture this weekend the number of male job seekers was given at 2,068, a drop of 35 since the end of January.

The number of persons "on claim" at the Belleville office was 2,654, made up of 1,917 male claimants, and 1,447 "postal" claimants.

WORKS PROGRAMS HELP

The municipal winter works program is providing work for a small number of men in the city district. In Belleville about 30 men are employed on the different municipal projects coming under the winter works program, while the same is true of Tweed where 12 to 15 men are employed on a sewer project, and at Marmora where an expected 10 will find employment.

In Belleville 38 men of 60 who were filled during January. This compares with 25 for the same period last year. The number of men working for 30 days back. His hands we cannot touch:

Of a working happy memories. Of a working happy memories.

—Ever remembered by wife Ada, daughter Dorothy and granddaughter Sherry.

Kiwanis Club's Chairmen Give Outline of Work

TRENTON — Reports from the various chairmen were read at Thursday's dinner meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club held at the Gilbert Hotel. Frank Mixon, chairman of the boys' and girls' work committee, said that there had been two exhibition games in the Minor Bantam Hockey League in January. The teams had gone to Cobourg and Port Hope. Hockey equipment and coaching had been purchased by the club for the boys. He said that the club members had offered any needed services to the welfare officer, Gordon Davis, and Dr. T. McNally and optometrist Len Cowdry had treated patients. It was announced that the club was planning a father and son banquet for local Scouts.

Kiwanian Al Perry, chairman of publicity and boosting for fairs, said that the club members had provided transportation for Senior Citizens to and from meetings in the Recreation Centre during the month.

Kiwanian Al Weaver, chairman of the Key Club project, said that he had asked Mr. Ken Pearce, guidance counsellor at Trenton High School, to help promote interest in Key Clubs at the school. Kiwanian Ross Rose of Belleville had spoken to several groups of boys on the subject. He said that the club members would supply transportation for any interested boys to a Key Club conference in Belleville in March.

Kiwanian Carl Weese, chairman of inter-club activities, said that members had attended meetings in Belleville and Port Hope.

Kiwanian Bud Little, chairman of schemes and conservation, said that several members of the club had attended the Northumberland and Prince Edward Apple Growers' Convention in Trenton in Belleville on January 18, several members had attended a Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Convention.

PLAN BURSARY

The club has decided to give a bursary to a deserving 4-H Club member to go towards further education in an agricultural college.

Dr. T. McNally, chairman of the support of churches committee, said that his committee hoped to arrange for a clergyman as guest speaker during Brotherhood Week, February 21-28th. He said that his committee was discussing the feasibility of sponsoring a Youth Sunday. Names, locations and times of church services. This booklet would be distributed to hotels, motels and other public places for the benefit of the public.

Kiwanian John Saylor, chairman of Kiwanis education, reminded the members of the visit to the club next month by the Lieutenant Governor, Bill McNeally. Mr. Saylor also said that the club was thinking of instigating a better and more impressive Kiwanis ceremony for new club members.

Membership chairman, Bob Farrell said that a new lapel pin would be given to club members each month for attaining the first new member of the month into the club.

Chairman of Vocational Guidance, Grant Gooding, said that arrangements had been made for various members of the club to speak on their profession to groups of students. He also said that the club would sponsor a bursary instead of a scholarship for a deserving student.

Members were reminded of the coming visit of the district governor to the club on March 3rd, when a social evening will be held at the country club. Members of other clubs in the district and their wives will attend.

Number in Town Receiving Relief Highest in Years

TRENTON — A. Gordon Davis, Welfare Officer for the town of Trenton, said yesterday that the number of persons receiving relief in the town was considerably higher than it has been for a number of years. At the present time there are approximately 225 men, women and children receiving relief in Trenton. This is the highest since the end of World War II. Mr. Davis said that the increase in recipients was due, in part, to the fact that a great many of them had used up their unemployment benefits in the Winter and early fall.

The welfare officer stated that there are also persons from other municipalities, one of them from another province, receiving relief. The Trenton Welfare Department sees to the needs of such families until the home town of these persons is notified. One of these families is comprised of twelve members.

Certain allowances are made by the department for rent, food and fuel, for heating and electricity.

If sickness occurs, the relief recipient is given a slip to be made out by a local doctor, who then sends the amount for remuneration, from the Department of Public Welfare, in Toronto.

Eyeglasses are also cared for by the local welfare service clubs.

Mr. Davis also handles cases where the person is over 65 and under 70 and is unable to work. He assists them in applying for Old Age Assistance allowances. He also handles cases of disabled persons' allowances and mother's allowance, where the mother is a widow, or where the husband is disabled and unable to work.

Mr. Davis is hired by the town of Trenton, but is directly responsible to the Department of Public Welfare.

Arson Possible Cause of Blaze

HAMILTON (CP) — Police are investigating the possibility of arson in a $1,000,000 fire that destroyed a warehouse here today.

Officers of the fire department's arson division are seeking person believed to have set fire to a pile of cardboard boxes outside the Ideal Furniture Company's warehouse. The flames spread from the boxes to furniture piled in the building.

Drama Groups Given Course By Dept. Head

TRENTON — Mr. George Merton, an instructor with the Recreation Committee of the Department of Education, gave the second of a series on drama sessions in Memorial Street Senior Public School in Trenton on Thursday night. Mr. Merton has given a course in Belleville on the previous evening.

Representatives of several drama groups in the district were present. Ten drama enthusiasts from Belleville, a group from the Trenton high school, including Miss Rita McCormack, Mrs. Dorothy Dommett, Miss Hilary Spooner and Miss Lorna Callahan from Brighton, were a few of the out-of-town devotees of the art of drama to take advantage of the course.

Mr. Merton offered helpful information to the would-be actors and actresses. He outlined suggestions for the development of directors—of amateur productions, voice and stage movement, play selection, stage composition and the stage director's vocabulary.

Mr. Merton's talk was illustrated by stage demonstrations by members of the audience. The atmosphere of the meeting was pleasantly informal and the groups enjoyed discussion of mutual problems over coffee and sandwiches.

Mrs. Mavis Hielahu, who is directing the Belleville Drama Group's forthcoming production, "The Mouse Trap," also gave helpful hints in informal discussion.

The Trenton Drama Group members were gratified and pleased that Mr. O. W. Larry, in his address at this week's chamber meeting of the Board of Commerce, mentioned that the group had received acclaim from Allan Nunn, adjudicator at the Cobourg Weekend of Drama last month. Mr. Larry mentioned that the Trenton production, "The Boy," had successfully competed with a play, written by Robertson Davies, one of Canada's outstanding playwrights, and directed by Mrs. Davies, and that the Trenton group deserved more attention from Trenton people for this fine achievement.

James E. Parker Named Chairman Recreation Body

TRENTON — James E. Parker was elected 1960 chairman of the Trenton Recreation Commission at Wednesday night's meeting of the body.

He will replace George Greer, who has been commission head for the past six months. Mr. Greer did not seek re-election due to commitments with other organizations. He was elected for a two-year term to the Trenton Board of Education and is active in church work and Hood and School club work.

Vice chairman will be Bob Sager. The secretary-treasurer is Neil Ramsay.

Other members of the commission are: Dr. J. V. Byrne, Councillor Howard Aziz and Mrs. Elizabeth Bedford, representing the Trenton Board of Education.

The 1960 budget needs were discussed at the meeting. The commission received a grant from council and from the Department of Education.

Scouting activities

PARKDALE AUXILIARY

We have a report from Mrs. C. Keeble of Parkdale Boy Scouts Auxiliary. (It is a very brief report) tellin' us that 7 members were present. On January 2nd the Cubs were taken on toboggan rides. There will be a sleigh ride for the Scouts on January eventful February 9th. Plans are completed for a Valentine skating party which will be held on February 16th at Parkdale Community Centre at 7.00 p.m. Everybody will be made welcome at this gay party. Hot dogs, coffee and chocolate milk will be on sale and in case the weather is bad, cards and games will be played in the hall so that all can be sure of an enjoyable evening. A contest was put on by Mrs. Hall, recreation convener, members present to name all wearing apparel of Cubs and Scouts. The one with the most articles will be the receiver's vocabulary.

Mrs. Claire Millar, president of Parkdale Auxiliary, is very proud of her ladies, and rightly so. If you want to make this group happy you can do it in a very sweet and agreeable manner by attending the Valentine party at 7.00 p.m. on Saturday, February 13.

Congratulations Parkdale and we hope it will be our privilege to report your most successful party to date.

Egg Prices Rise Slightly

Market this morning was very slow indeed due to the set of rain. Customers were few and far between as the vendors sought shelter under tarps and trees. The casual buyer was not very much in evidence but a fair trade was being had in large quantities of produce. It was a by-the-bushel-basket sales.

Prices were much the same as last week although a small price increase was noted in egg prices, with extra large, large and mediums selling at 40, 35 and 32 cents per dozen respectively.

Apples sold at 65 and 75 cents a basket according to variety. Some pears were to be had at 75 cents. Apple cider was available at 20 cents a half gallon, 95 cents a gallon.

Potatoes sold at 65 cents a basket and carrots at 50 cents. Onions of good quality were selling at 75 cents a basket. Turnips sold at three for a quarter.

Honey was available in fair quantity selling at 35 cents a pound or $1.00 for a four-pound tin. Chicken sold at 50 cents the pound with some capons available at slightly higher prices.

Legislature Will Define Obscenity Lawyers Told

TORONTO (CP) — Clarification of the legal definition of obscenity in printed matter is one of several amendments to the statutes to be put before the legislature, Attorney-General Roberts said Friday.

Mr. Roberts told Ontario division of the Canadian Bar Association the Evidence Act may be amended to allow a judge to permit expert witnesses to be introduced at any time in a trial and to allow testimony for more than the number stipulated.

Personnel in Eight Offices In Federal Building Happy With Surroundings Provided

After two weeks or more in new office quarters, employee personnel of the eight Government offices located in the new Federal building at the corner of Pinnacle and Station Streets also on the second floor, and are happy with their new surroundings.

Four major federal government departments — income tax office, Post Office, the National Employment Insurance Office, and the customs and excise department, along with as many smaller departments, are located in the new building.

Right now one of the busiest of the departments in the new one and a quarter million dollar structure is what is commonly known as the unemployment office.

Here, with the winter's unemployment nearing its expected seasonal peak, almost a constant stream of persons temporarily out of a job register for employment or make application for unemployment benefit.

This office is on the second floor with entry at the extreme eastern end of the building. The unemployment office shares a common entry with the customs and excise department, also on the second floor, and the other smaller government departments, such as the health of animals branch, and the various inspection services.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT

The customs and excise department occupies the west end of the second floor and may be reached either from the Church Street entry, or from the main building entrance on Station Street.

On the main floor of the new building is the post office which occupies approximately one half of the ground floor at the west end, while the income tax department is also located on the ground floor, but at the east end of the building.

One of the most appreciated features of the new building is the modern shielded fluorescent lighting which reduces eye strain to a minimum. Each department has been planned for top efficiency in its specific operation. Ceiling ventilators provide constant change of air.

Only the post office has a completely separate entrance. In the other sections of the building well lighted spacious halls corridors provide for easy communication between the various departments.

GOOD PARKING AREA

Much appreciated by department workers is the park ing yard at the rear which can accommodate approximately 40 cars.

A freight elevator serves the customs and excise department, a feature much appreciated by workers of this department who formerly had to man-handle parcels to the second floor of the post office building.

An expected feature much appreciated by workers in the various government departments is a kitchenette where facilities are provided for preparation of requirements for that morning coffee break.

So far operation of the canteen facilities is on "bring yourself" basis, but eventually it is expected some organization may take over operation of the canteen.

CLEANING A CHORE

With hundreds of people passing through the various departments every day, keeping the new building clean of course is a major operation.

Responsible for this all-important task is a head caretaker who has other workers under him. In this weather the main entrances and the various halls and corridors require constant attention to keep them clean and tidy.

"We're happy here at the new building," stated the manager of one of the government departments.

And a customs department employee who worked for years in the 80-year-old post office building, summed it all up by saying "It will do us for the next 20 years."

INTRODUCES BILL

WINNIPEG (CP) — A bill prohibiting discrimination on the grounds of race, creed or color against persons seeking accommodation was introduced in the legislature Friday. It will "closely parallel" acts passed by other provinces, said Attorney-General Sterling Lyon.

House Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF measure to provide collective bargaining for the civil service, plus compulsory arbitration of disputes, lost out in the Commons Friday.

The bill of Frank Howard Skeena, was talked out in the hour allotted to private members' legislation, without coming to a vote.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker maintained silence on whether or not the government will lift its freeze on general freight rate increases. In a Commons reply to Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) he said merely that this is a matter of government policy.

Labor Minister Starr stuck to his guns and said latest figures on unfilled job applicants will be given the Commons Monday. Paul Martin (L — Essex East) made two bids during Friday's question period to have the figures reported at once.

The Bus Problem—A Few Questions

Mayor A. M. Haig told the City Council at a special caucus meeting on Monday afternoon of this week that City Solicitor E. Guss Porter had stated he had been informed by Mr. Fred Rawson's solicitor that Mr. Rawson had decided to "get out of the bus business" and would decline to accept any subsidy from the city to keep the city buses operating.

If this seems a rather round-about way of stating that the city buses will cease running March 31, we are just exercising caution and providing an example of the meaning of the motto "once bitten, twice shy."

In recent weeks we stated several times that the contract between the city and the Rawson Bus Co. expired Dec. 31, 1959, and that we should have said was that this was the date at which the contract was reported by others to expire.

From now on we shall be more cautious. This caution, though, is not strong enough to completely dampen our curiosity and we cannot resist the temptation to suggest that the revelation that the contract does not expire until Jan. 31, 1961, might possibly have had some bearing on Mr. Rawson's decision to, (according to what Mayor Haig says Mr. Porter says Mr. Rawson's lawyer says Mr. Rawson says), decline the offer of a city subsidy which he had earlier sought.

Under these circumstances, it occurs to us that answers to some questions might be of considerable public interest.

Here are the questions:

Did none of the members of the 1959 City Council peruse the contract with the Rawson Bus Co., at any time last year?

Did no member of the 1959 City Council know at any time, during his or her term of office, that the bus contract had yet another year to run?

Did no employee of the city check the contract to ascertain its expiry date?

If any member of the 1959 City Council, or any employee of the city, knew during 1959 that the bus contract did not expire until Jan. 31, 1961, why did not he or she call the attention of all members of the council to this fact?

Did no member of the 1960 City Council know before Feb. 1 that the contract with the bus company had a year to run?

If any member did know, when and how did he acquire this knowledge? If the knowledge was not acquired just prior to the Feb. 1 meeting of City Council, why did not the member earlier inform the other members of Council of this fact?

Who are the members of "a group of citizens, all owners of real estate both in the city as it existed prior to annexation and in the annexed area" who are represented by Robert Pringle, Q.C., former city solicitor?

Which of these citizens first learned that the bus contract had a year to run? How did he acquire this knowledge?

When did Mr. Pringle first learn that the bus contract had a year to run? Did he acquire this knowledge from a member of the group he represents?

How long has Mr. Fred Rawson of the Rawson Bus Company known that the contract has a year to run? Because his position is somewhat different, we made an exception in his case and asked him this question before printing it, something which was not done with others to whom the questions are addressed. Mr. Rawson declined to say when he learned the contract did not expire until Jan. 31, 1961, but did say that this fact was not called to his attention by Mr. Pringle nor by any of those people whom Mr. Pringle represents.

In fairness to Mr. Rawson, it should be added that this question was asked him Tuesday afternoon, apparently before he had reached his office on the terminal of the service, since he told The Ontario Intelligencer that negotiations aimed at a settlement were in progress at that very time. It might also be added that the day after Mr. Pringle publicly revealed that the contract had a year to run Mr. Rawson announced that his company would not attempt to hold the City Council to its pledge, given a week earlier, to defray the company's losses during February up to the sum of $1,000.

Finally, after these questions, one plea: Will somebody at the City Hall please read the pertinent documents before any attempt is made to solve the next major civic problem, whatever it may be?

Are We Ready for Test?

Montreal Gazette

Two speeches have been made within only a few days. Both are speeches of urgent warning. One was the speech given on Friday at the annual luncheon of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association by the association's president, Mr. R. M. Fowler. The other was given yesterday at the Canadian Club of Montreal by Mr. Stuart M. Finlayson, president of the Canadian Locomotive Company.

In both speeches Canadians were warned that they must count upon facing profound competitive tests never before. And this competition makes for soul-searching.

Mr. Fowler was speaking with special reference to Russia. It is evident that somebody has given up the old idea of "peaceful co-existence." It was a static conception.

The new Khrushchevian desire is not "peaceful co-existence" but "peaceful competition." The static has been abandoned for the dynamic. The struggle may be peaceful, in the sense that there will be no bloodshed. But it means that Russia is moving out from behind the Iron Curtain and will be offering her products for sale to Canada's customers.

This may affect the Canadian competitive position. Mr. Fowler points out that Russia is in a position to enter into direct competition with the pulp and paper industry. For Russia has both the great forests and the great waterpower needed in pulp and paper manufacturing. She has other peculiar advantages. She can limit the domestic consumption of paper as well as enlarge export trade, and can concentrate on special operations in her regimented economy.

Mr. Finlayson, in his speech, gives warning of the competition that Canada will soon face in different source — from the factories of Japan. Fast, notably three trips to the Far East to examine the state of their electrical and electronics industry. And what he reports destroys the comfort of old illusions in Canada.

For while Canadians have known that the Japanese were highly industrialized, there has been a feeling that their products were shoddy, their factories were like primitive sweatshops, and their capacity for innovation was limited. The truth, as Mr. Finlayson says, is that, in excellent factories, clean and orderly, skilled workers are given cheerful workers, turning out goods of high quality and with many impressive innovations.

Insofar as Canada has been comforted by her illusions, her comforts are disappearing. The idea that Russia was a backward and stumbling nation, trying, almost pathetically, to attain modern industrial efficiency is gone forever. And so is the idea that Far Eastern products are pathetic imitations of Western superiority.

Mr. Fowler and Mr. Finlayson urge much the same methods. There must be a closer management of research and the application of research findings in modern techniques. Labor and management, while fighting in collective bargaining, must also draw more closely together in order to see what they are to sell what their joint efforts produce. And in selling the price may not be the only consideration.

Above all, the North American philosophy that work is an evil will have to be turned upside down. Work and productivity will become, quite literally, the great means of salvation.

Certain it is that there are no bomb shelters in which an expansive competition may be escaped. Unless there can be an unprecedented mobilization in Canada of coilers, forcible concentration, and working energy, we face the dismal prospect of being away while we still toy with old myths as to the rich old toys.

The quality of any nation is shown by its response to danger. The test is now in the unspectacular, swift response to the unsparing test of competition is at hand.

Censorship, Cuban Style

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

The sentence, "we have faith that people will know how to judge this", appended to an editorial today, would startle a good many readers. But by Cuban newspapers the pro-Castro printers have long since made this catch-all phrase footnotes to material they consider inimical to the interests of their leader.

In some cases, the union has refused to distribute an entire editorial; the editor has added a footnote objecting that the union will not handle the entire copy, and so forth, for three or four paragraphs. The newspapers claim it's an attempt to control their content without establishing an official censorship, which would bring awkward complications abroad.

Up to the moment no direct interference with original stories has brought that complaint. The reader has been permitted to draw his own conclusions, but in Cuba a conclusion against the Castro government interest is regarded as treasonable and can cost the editor his job.

This is designed to form public opinion by misleading or distorting information. The argument is Cuban papers may get out of hand unless some columns are open to argument than news. But for the moment the newspapers of Cuba are later than others that have been used for the supression of press freedom. Give them time.

In the meantime, this must be left to editorial writers in Cuba, where these days is rough enough anyway.

Need to Find Another Goad

Baldmore Sun

Dr. Clarence Long, the Johns Hopkins economist, has made an interesting paper to the American Economic Association in Washington the other day. It was a plea for more intensive investigation of unemployment, productivity and inflation. Dr. Long's theory, simplified, is that when inflation slows down or halts when unemployment increases, and also that this country has had its worst fear about maintaining and economic growth in times of considerable unemployment. Until that attitude is changed, he argues, the country is going to lurch from "effects."

One is the "lubrication effect" that unemployment is available and eager to work, which encourages expansion of new firms and industries. Another is the "insecurity effect" which encourages labor employed to turn in a better day's work. The third is the "upward sharpening effect" of declining sales and stiff competition, which compels management to cut costs and produce more efficiently. Long has a good scientific work. Dr. Long's paper simply confirms a number of things that everybody has suspected. Long's findings embodied in such comprehensions are a "necessity" and "necessity is the mother of invention."

Necessity is the key word. In the harsh history of the human race, necessity has been the great goad. The question today is what goad may be substituted when necessity ceases to be a compulsion, as indeed it has most of the time throughout most of the western world? Communism has found one answer. Communism substitutes compulsion for freedom. What's the answer where freedom reigns? We'd like to know.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

GREAT SLAVE LAKE

This lake is situated in the Mackenzie River basin. There is a legend that when the Cree Indians defeated and plundered the Etchareotine and Thlingchadinne or Dogrib Indians and drove them north, they named them Awokanak, that is "slaves" and that the name became attached to the waters of the tribes' new home.

Cinderella's Sore Feet

Chatham Daily News

When the fairy godmother invaded the home where hapless Cinderella in her sorrowful rags crouched amid the ashes, envying those more fortunate, and bade her forth in glad raiment to the royal ball, the kindly visitor waved a magic wand.

Besides Cinderella, arrayed more beautifully than the lilies of the field, got to the ball, stole the show and danced with the prince in her glass slippers.

Most youngsters were needlessly concerned as to whether or not Cinderella remembered to have herself loose before the midnight deadline. But a few must have been troubled by the discomfort of her sore feet.

For, all through the evening—fibreglass not yet being invented, since Cinderella's time—and dancing in footgear contrived of one of the finest and most unyielding of materials.

Worse still, when the prince set her free, and, intensely, quite intentionally cruel, were made to force the glass slipper on the foot of the owner of hapless but hopeful maidens who aspired to wed the prince. It is not easy for someone is always taking the toy out of life. To offset that less numberous someones at times remove the sorrow. Such a someone has rubbed soothing unguents on our aching concerns and Cinderella's sore feet.

It seems that the idea of a glass slipper sprang from an error in translation. The story came from a French nursery tale, "Cendrillon", by Charles Perrault.

Perrault wrote, with entire accuracy, "pantoufle en vair" meaning a fur shoe or slipper. The translator confused "en vair" with "en verre" — the latter meaning a glass.

So the zenith version of the tale has come down to us through the centuries since Perrault wrote. After so long a time, the fairy godmother would not be complete without the glass slippers.

But if, forgetting the need of Cinderella getting away in time, you're nursing aching, sore aching feet, be reassured. The "pantoufle en vair" is quite comfortable.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

EXPLOSIVE COUGH CAN STRAIN THE BODY

"Dear Dr. Molner: I had a real bad cough that lasted nine weeks, and then the flu. I went back to work and started something heavy and two ruptured shoulds developed. I went to the doctor, and surgery was necessary.

"It was told that coughing is hard for so many weeks could bring them on, not even knowing I had them. I thought I was real angry, and just would not believe it when I had them. I thought maybe you could write about this. — A. B."

I trust that your bosses know their business, whatever it is. I'd probably be as ignorant as could be about their line of work. But they don't know about it.

A cough—and especially a hard cough — is a sudden explosion of considerable energy. Since it is so common for any of us to cough occasionally, and nothing happens as a result of it, we are too much inclined to think a cough doesn't amount to much.

Well, generally it doesn't! You "swallow something the wrong way" and go into a spasm of coughing, and your eyes water, you get red in the face, you run out of breath and you fell "all right" again. Usually that's all there is to it.

Now, just what is a cough? The glottis (a little opening in the voice cords) opens, the lungs and other structures of the chest expel a strong and sudden gust of air. This vigorous and abrupt movement shakes the whole body, strains the whole body.

The body's purpose, of course is to throw off some irritant in the air passages. But the force of the cough, even when it's only a series of coughs, can jar the whole body.

Particularly, the whole chest, trunk and abdomen feel the force of an explosive cough. Persistent coughing can stretch the tissues that hold the body parts in continuing misshapen, and that alone (if there were no more important reasons) would be enough to call for treatment for a cough that hangs on.

We can't rightly say that heavy coughing will "cause" hemorrhoids. (Hemorrhoid are distended, or varicose, veins in the rectal area.) It is quite possible that coughing could be one factor in the development of hemorrhoids.

But there is no question that if hemorrhoids exist, a vigorous period of coughing would affect them. With a deep cough, vitreous body is abdominal region contracts in a sudden spasm.

Certainly I don't want readers to become morbidly alarmed over each slight cough or sneeze, but they shouldn't overlook the very great power that is exerted by a continuing period of hard coughing. It can do very real harm, and if there is some weakness in the body's structure, the force of the explosive cough can bring it to light.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water with the juice of a lemon squeezed in every each morning. I feel it has beneficial effects. However, I have heard comments that it would dry up the blood and make it hard on the teeth. — M. G. N."

This is perfectly healthful practice. Diluted lemon juice won't harm the teeth, particularly if you drink it somewhat afterward. "Drying up" the blood" simply is not true at all.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In this new discussion of the explosion of the human population of the world, there is one school of thought which believes nature will most certainly take care of the situation. This point of view is based on the fact that in the history of the world as revealed by fossils, the human records but in the rocks, fossils and prehistoric evidences of many kinds, nature has never yet allowed a single species of life to get out of hand and completely dominate all other forms of life. Even the ice ages, the great floods in the midst of a group of associated scientists heading for a rocky mountain top to escape the rising waters, in the successive stratifications of the more recent rocks, that successive floods, many thousand years, the earth shifts its axis by a sort of mysterious gyroscopic action, the earth is carried from one latitude to another, and wide areas of land and sea. As the result of this phenomenon nature wipes out all but a random fringe of life. And life for survivors, composed of the plant and animal kingdoms takes over the situation all over again making a new world.

A sociologist among them took the view that nature was right now powerfully at work in the reducing systems. Despite its fecundity, human species is suffering from the release of a spirit of lawlessness and defiance of authority, and from a decay of spiritual authority, so that it will not be long before the rate of possibility that one race of men, or perhaps one social level of men, may conquer the remainder and the situation as regards population explosion, will be solved by human population, not cold-bloodedly, but with calm scientific detachment, by the elimination of all but a manageable few.

Preposterous? Not at all. Hitler tried it, in a tentative way.

Discipline Is-Natural

Vancouver Province

Discipline is the rejection of the easy for the difficult, the repetition of the difficult a thousand times over in order that an end may be achieved.

It is a natural instinct which governs every creature worth mentioning. Even the little boy disciplines himself when he practices throwing stones until he can hit the other fellow's, the bird disciplines itself when her rope until she can do it as well as Edna neat doors.

Discipline is not lines from the teacher, a detention period, or a touch on the hand principal's strap. It is the business of keeping self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

TODAY'S TALK

TEMPERAMENT BUOYANCY

Temperament means so much. It is very valuable, too. It is nothing to be ashamed of or to be everything to be glad for. But the temperamental person is one while is the livable temperament at the temperament that warms and inspires. So the temperament most worth while is — the buoyant temperament.

Many things contribute to this sort of temperament. Health, environment, personal and mind association mean much. Folks cannot remain long at a time very buoyant with ill-health, although even bad health can't kill the mind fit trained and controlled. It may become buoyantly healthful. Some of the most sunfilled characters in the world are those whose bodies are mere shells of pain.

Books travel, contact with new scenes and new people are wonderful as a means towards the development of a buoyant temperament. A good hobby is another splendid thing to have.

The most buoyant temperaments are those whose emotions flow to the greatest extremes. They are, after all, the most inspiring of characters — because what they have felt below as experiences that have gone to the bottom of things. And although who keep throwing off their feelings are those who are constantly creating the buoyant feelings.

The Sun comes out for that life that is quickly grieved but also buoyant elements, and holds to the wide interest world. Then someone is always taking the toy out of life. To offset that less numberous someones at times remove the sorrow. Such a someone has rubbed soothing unguents on our aching concerns and Cinderella's sore feet.

QUESTIONS — AND PLENTY OF THEM

How definite is the Bible in its teachings on moral and religious matters?

In some ways it is very definite. Nothing could be more definite or easier to understand than the Ten Commandments. Throughout the Bible runs the message that God is love, that purity is a divine requirement, that all dishonesty is repugnant, that life in God's sight, that human true disciples, or learners, and life is sacred and we can neither seeking in a spirit of sacrifice injure it or snuff it out without and love to find the will of God.

But what about our Lord's return? What about some of the doctrines which divide the Church of Jesus Christ and the contending camps? What does the Bible teach about life here on earth say 10,000 years ago?

It would appear that God has left a vast number of human problems unsolved. One way we look at it is that God has given us a universe to live in, a vast number of human true disciples, or learners, and seeking in a spirit of sacrifice and love to find the will of God.

A Lift for Living

Every Day Is a Judgment Day

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

First of all, I believe every day is a judgment day. Every time we confront the light and truth, we make a decision about it. Every time we reject the truth, it becomes harder to accept it, even harder to see it and realize it. We call ourselves human beings, but we are really human "becomings." Life is continuous motion up toward good or down toward evil, and every choice is a step one way or the other.

An act never stops with itself. When a thing is done, it is not done with. Action is followed by reaction, either direct or delayed. Even a thought leaves a trail. We speak of "idle thoughts," ideas which flash in and out of our minds with no resulting action. But no thought is completely idle. When it is dismissed, it does not leave the house of the mind. Our minds have many rooms — the attic of memory, the sun-parlor of hope, the cellar of the Unconscious; and when thoughts and fancies drop down into the Unconscious, strange things happen. Every day we are gathering the fruit of the past thoughts and sowing for a future harvest.

Every hope we cherish, every picture we admire, every deed we do or refuse to do, carries its own contribution to our judgment. And when the final reckoning comes, every mark will count. Even our bodies register in some way our most serious thoughts.

JUDGED BY FEATURES

Gilbert Stuart painted so many portraits that he certainly qualified as an interpreter of facial features. Upon meeting the wily French politician, Talleyrand, who was on a visit to America, Stuart remarked: "If that man is not a scoundrel, God does not write a legible hand."

Some of us would not want to be judged by our facial features. Nevertheless, the older we grow, the more plainly they tell things about us.

Every day by our thoughts, words and deeds we are deciding the direction of our lives.

Yet, while every day is a judgment day, I believe there are special days and periods of judgment. Our daily judgments may be registered so subtly and quietly that we do not note them. In this regard, a life may be like a stream. There are stretches so placid that we can scarcely tell which way the current is flowing. And then around the bend, there is a churning rapids. So life may move along placidly until suddenly it lurches into turbulence.

Some crisis reveals an underlying cowardice; or some signal opportunity finds us unprepared, or we cannot resist some strong and unexpected temptation. A well-informed leader of men once said that what we do in an emergency is the result of what we have been doing and thinking in the uneventful days that preceded it. To all of us there come these days of special judgment which reveal whether we have been diligent or lazy, brave or cowardly, mean or generous.

JUDGMENT OF GOD

I believe also that there are special periods of judgment like the one through which we are now passing. But beyond this, I believe there is a future judgment of God.

I have come to think of death more as a graduation from life's school than of an appearance before a court of judgment. In this world we depend so much on our food, our jobs, our comforts. When we no longer have these, what will we depend on? That will be a test which judges us. In this life we are looked up to or looked down on according to our reputation, our poverty, our social standing. When at death we are stripped of all these and we are seen for what we really are, that will be a judgment day for each of us.

We shall be judged by a Heavenly Father who oversees everything and overlooks nothing, yet governs by law blended with love. He is firm, not condoning faults, but also faithful, not forgetting our efforts. He is infinite in compassion and tender in mercy. He understands the inmost ache of our hearts and the unlisted cause of our failures.

According to the New Testament God rules and judges from the throne of grace."

STORIES of FAMOUS HYMNS

by HORACE B. POWELL

It was in the nineteenth century — an era which gave American music many of its favorite gospel songs — that "Whiter Than Snow" was written.

In the years immediately following its writing, the hymn was widely sung in revivals and evangelistic services and inspired thousands of men and women to turn to Christ and to join His church. It is not so well known today as it was at the height of its popularity but it is still to be found in most mission hymnals.

James Nicholson wrote the "Whiter Than Snow" words and William G. Fischer, a Philadelphia piano dealer, composed the music. Mr. Fischer has some other popular religious hymn tunes to his credit — he turned out the music for the Rev. William McDonald's poem," I Am Coming To The Cross", and for Katherine Hankey's matchless story of favorite gospel song, "I Love To Tell The Story". He is remembered; too, as the man who directed the choir at impressive revival meetings held by Dr. Dwight L. moody and Ira Sankey in Philadelphia in 1876.

The final verse of "Whiter Than Snow" stresses Christ's readiness to come to those who call upon Him to transform their lives, and has been used frequently and effectively in soul winning:

"Lord Jesus, Thou seest I patiently wait,
Come now, and within me a new heart create;
To those who have found Thee, Thou never said 'No',
Now wash me and I shall be whiter than snow".

WHITER THAN SNOW

Lord Jesus, my heart has been hard and unclean,
In struggles against Thee Thou hast seen;
But Thy blood can cleanse me entirely, I know,
Lord, wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Lord Jesus, I often have promised before
To serve thee alone and to grieve Thee no more;
But only from pure hearts can pure service flow;
Lord, wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Lord Jesus, if still I do not fully bow
If anything wrong in myself I allow,
O search out and to me my evil ways show;
Lord, wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Lord Jesus, my all now to Thee I resign,
To know no more life, no more pleasure but Thine;
Whatever Thou hatest in me now o'erthrow;
Lord, wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Lord Jesus, I'm trusting entirely in Thee,
From sin, fear and doubt, I am fully set free;
Thy blood cleanses perfectly, sweet Jesus!
For me Thou hast washed and made whiter than snow.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. Annie Freeman is progressing favorably in Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Patricia O'Brien, 3 Brown's Drive, is patient in Belleville General Hospital, following surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elder are quietly celebrating their 54th wedding anniversary at their home in Foxboro, today.

Wedding

SKINKLE—WRIGHT

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, January 23rd, at 1.30 p.m. when Roberta Joan Wright of Marmora, daughter of Mrs. Ilene Wright of Marmora, and the late Mr. Wright, became the bride of Robert Lawrence Skinkle, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Skinkle of Carrying Place. The ceremony, performed by Rev. C. W. Coleman, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride was attractively attired in a gown of street-length embossed organza, featuring a princess lines with bateau neckline and short sleeves. She wore a matching white hat with tiny veil, and carried a cascade of Bettertime red roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. Willerton, of Belleville, who wore a lime green street-length gown of crepe-back le in sheath style, with white hat and gloves and corsage of red roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Jack Skinkle of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Willerton, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing black silk crepe with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's father, who was gowned in pale blue with matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from Marmora, Carrying Place and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Skinkle will reside at 161A West Bridge Street, Belleville.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Carl McPartland. A corresponding shower for both the bride and bridegroom will be held in the school house at Carrying Place this evening.

125 Attend Potluck Dinner Held by W.A.

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant Rawdon W. A. entertained the pupils of the Williams and Allan Schools and their teachers, along with a number of guests, to a potluck dinner at the church hall on Thur56dy. Approximately 125 persons were in attendance.

The president Mrs. Carleton Potts and the two conveners, Mrs. Ross Jeffs and Mrs. Ralph Jeffs, were in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Frank Spencer kindly snowplughed the church lawn to make parking space available.

The regular W.A. meeting was held in the afternoon with Mrs. Ross Jeffs presided over the devotional and read a couple of poems.

The group sang "Lead on, O King Eternal". Mrs. Herbert Smith offered prayer, Mrs. Frank Jeffs read the Bible, and Mrs. Burton Sharpe read the commentary. Mrs. Garth Joslin sang "Brighten the Corner Where You Are." The devotional closed with a marching hymn.

The president conducted the business. A committee was appointed to look after the sales and these were Mrs. Oscar Merrick, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Don Knight and Mrs. Garth Joslin.

A committee to convene with the church trustees to talk over plans for a furnace in the hall were the president, Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, and Mrs. Robert Merrick. Choir gown committee is composed of Mrs. Clarence Scott and Mrs. Will Mcfarlane; and the shrub committee is composed of Mrs. C. Scott, Mrs. D. Campbell and Mrs. Ross Jeffs.

Several other items of business were discussed. The stewardship secretary gave a message and Mrs. Ernest Spencer gave a reading. Mrs. Don Knight and Mrs. Douglas Campbell were in charge of a quessionnire on W. A. work.

'Portraits' Topic at Camera Club

Mr. Doug Spillane of Riley's Studio, was the guest speaker at the February meeting of the Belleville Camera Club. His subject was "Portraits." Since one "learns by doing", a lighting arrangement was set up and Miss Ingrid Ten Kate was the charming model. After several club members had had their turns, Mr. Spillane pointed out how they could make improvements with the elimination of unwanted shadows and by relaxed posing.

He said that in a basic study the object is to flatter the subject, and the photographer must choose the best angle, decide what mood he wishes to achieve and give the model some definite thing to look at in order to avoid a glassy, unseeing stare. For color portraits, one must be careful that the background does not reflect on the subject and better lighting is used to eliminate shadows which distract from the face.

BACKGROUND COLOR

Background color also sets the mood. Black is suitable for a child's portrait, light bright colors are useful by but for distinguished, older person perhaps a wood-panelled backing would be more suitable. During the discussion which followed Mr. Spillane said that it would appear that there will be many portraits taken which will possibly be used on the Canada Centennial in May.

For the monthly print and slide competition, Dick Hughes took first place in the beginner section, Bradley Hall and Wallace Hall tied for second and third in the amateur class. In the advanced section, the prize slides placed first and third and Morris Smith won a second place.

A set of slides from the color slide competition was shown, totaling 41 winning pictures from an international competition which will be sponsored by the Toronto CPAC club was enjoyed.

Congregational Meeting

HALLOWAY UNITED

HALLOWAY — The congregational meeting of Halloway United Church, Rawdon, was held on January 21st with reports from the different organizations of the church being given by the respective secretaries. The reports indicated that these groups had a good year, financially.

Following the election of church officers, Roscoe Robson was elected to the board of stewards.

It was decided that it would be beneficial to the church to have a pre-Easter canvass.

Following the church business the elected and appointed church officers and teachers took place with some changes being made in the teaching staff. Former members of the Young People's were put in charge of the classes. Carol Deyes was appointed church organist, assistant, Vivian Wallbridge.

Pediatrician Talks to Chi Rho On Childbirth

Speaking in "language most understandable to the layman," Dr. Nelles, local pediatrician, addressed the Christ Church Chi Rho Fellowship last Wednesday evening concerning childbirth and some of its problems.

The speaker was introduced by Bill Dack of the fellowship. Blue, white and yellow were discussed, not in keeping with the three colors of the Chi Rho but rather as colors that sent medical scientists into extensive research to combat diseases indicated by their existence in newborn babies.

PRENATAL TESTS

The fellowship members were informed that prenatal tests of mother's blood, continued observation throughout pregnancy and a complete readiness for treatment at the time of birth were major steps to lessen possibility of mental retardation, cerebral palsy, stillbirth and death to the newborn. The Rh Factor trouble in breathing and shock as well as the hemorrhage are a few of the reasons given by Dr. Nelles for the appearance discoloration of the infant's skin. The discoloration itself is a signal to medical science to begin a swift and accurate series of tests, observation and chart work. Blood changes, surgery, the use of anesthetics and a heart-lung machine, as well as transfusions have been found to be necessary and used extensively within the last 10 to 15 years. Along with the knowledge and women of medicine working diligently behind these, these techniques have made a tremendous contribution to saving the lives and futures of other wise "doomed" children.

QUESTION PERIOD

Dr. Nelles then opened his talk by discussing "red babies" and with that that those present would be blessed with child, red being the normal colour. A question period commenced were met with such interest that impromptu question and answer bout ensued in the existence of the membership.

Tom Hall, Chi Rho Chief Justice, on behalf of the fellowship, thanked Dr. Nelles and expressed the hope that the doctor would "call" again at a future date.

Games followed the address, with fellowship members taking the "wraps" off their newly purchased sporting equipment and indoor volleyball, badminton, quoits and sit down games were all in progress at the same time in the hall.

Work followed and then business when the introduction of a full scale membership drive related to the spring of importance.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The members, headed by the membership convener, Herb Gallaher, will blanket the city in the next few months in an organized drive to encourage interested parties to join in their fellowship activities at Christ Church. Nothing will be spared, maps will be searched and pin pointed to assist members in the role of canvassers, will go out and make personal contact with those interested; records will be filled out and kept.

The membership committee" will be on hand at the hall at every meeting to introduce the incoming to the group. The fellowship is, as it were, adapting the Lord's words "Come Follow Me" as a campaign slogan.

The evening's program, which was arranged and held under group leader, Marg Dack, closed with refreshments.

Fete Couple With Party And Gifts

RAWDON—Neighbors, friends and relatives of newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Martin (nee Joanne Reid) of Rawdon, gathered at the I.O.O.F. banquet hall in Stirling to honor them on their recent marriage.

Reeve Kenneth Mumby was master of ceremonies. Mr. Grant Richardson conducted the address and Mumby also contributed a vocal selection. Mrs. Lorne Wallace sang pianist and three little girls delighted the audience with a trio. Selections were read by Mrs. Volney Richardson and Mrs. Don Drewry. Brief addresses of good wishes were given by several of those in attendance.

Mr. Cecil Nelson read an appreciative address and the newlyweds were presented with a beige platform rocker with leather trim, a matching hassock and a gold satin cushion from the community by Messrs. Morris Morrison and Donald Drewry. There were also individual gifts from relatives.

Murray and Joanne expressed their thanks for the gifts, after which the conveners served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

WELLINGTON — Wednesday afternoon February meeting of the St. Andrew's W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Ira Tripp. The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. Brewer.

The Scripture reading by Mrs. Tripp was taken from St. Matthew 8.

Eleven members and one guest were present. All were welcomed by the president.

Reports were heard from the treasurer, the Dorcas Society, the U.C.W. and the M.A. groups. Letters of interest from the Ontario Diocesan W.A. and a Social Service News Letter were read.

The last chapter in the study book, "He Cares," was completed by Mrs. Tripp. The interesting subject was "The Community." A new study book called "The Life of Christ" will be started next month.

Mrs. Brewer thanked Mrs. Tripp for her hospitality.

A social time was had while the hostess served refreshments.

Cabinet Skit on CBC Live Provides Good Fun

By ELIABETH MOTHERWELL

OTTAWA (CP)—An all-amateur cast, starring some of the capital's biggest names, staged a cabinet takeoff on Ottawa life Friday night for the entertainment of over 900 patrons at a famous Ottawa social event, the May Court Ball.

The television charges and gambling take were expected to raise about $8,000 for charity.

The carabet theme was Show of the Works. Lady Garner, wife of the United Kingdom high commissioner in Canada, Sir Saville Garner, was among the jockeys in a "little dogies round up."

Transport Minister Hees was in a lineup of drugstore cowboys depicted as disturbing the backwoods slumber of Bonnieck—obviously Ottawa.

Paul Hellyer, former associate defence minister in the Liberal cabinet, thickened his eyebrows to look like Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Barry O'Brien, president of the Ottawa Rough Riders football club, rode into a mock saloon on a horse that emerged as Ottawa football stars Ron Stewart and Russ Jackson.

A sharp contrast to the Western newsprium was the diplomatic dance finale with representatives from Ceylon, India, France, Germany, the Netherlands and Britain — but even this had its humorous side. Mrs. Jean Garner, wife of the United Kingdom commercial counsellor, entered as a Victorian dowager but turned out to be a pistol-packin mama.

Patrons included Governor-General and Mrs. Vanier.

Sheriff Duties Explained to K-D Club

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Robson entertained the Kum Double Club and their home with Shirley Robson presiding.

The worship service was in charge of Earl and Bea Snider, with Scripture reading by Mary Huffman; a story by Irene Wellman, poems by Coleman Townsend and Marie Emerson.

Ruth Roth and June Donaldson contributed a much - appreciated duet.

In the business meeting it was decided to hold the annual "Backyard" early this month at Harry and Edna McMullen's. For the second February meeting, Harvey Homan is to show pictures of his overseas trip with the date changed to February 25, at the church.

A committee was appointed to determine the approximate cost of a communion service for the church. On Feb. 1st a "Games Night" and "Pot-Luck Supper" was held at the church. Prizes for needs going toward the Flower Fund.

Fred Wellman acted efficiently as auctioneer for selling grocery gifts left from the Christmas season.

Roscoe Robson gave a most interesting informal talk on his duties as sheriff explaining the different courts and the way they handled by each as Mr. Robson is clerk of both county and supreme court, as well as local registrar, he finds the variety of work most stimulating. The many questions asked were indicative of the interest of the club members and thanks were extended for a fine talk.

Offering was $5.10.

The Howler was read by Ilon Kelly.

Refreshments of assorted pies by the male were served by the hostess and her committee.

Philanthropic benefactors. Others have acquired this attitude. Nothing could be more erroneous and nothing more deluding.

On the authority of our own government department, Canada is benefiting in manifold ways, especially in the field of medical assistance and the interchange of medicine and professional men. The article lists a number of actual contributions Canada has made in the field of research work of outstanding value. Perhaps the most far reaching is provided "valuable leads for further investigation into the control of horndles of cattle."

Another made important contributions to the development of search Program and took an active part in the planning of experiments. Still another, an Indian doctor has contributed much to the field of corneal dissemination of the eye that eventually he was asked to come to Canada to stay here extended so he could finish his outstanding experiments along the techniques he had developed himself. These are but a few examples of reciprocal benefits deriving through and out of the Colombo Plan.

In the words of the article, "these examples of Canadian assistance to India make clear the wide diversity of ways in which Canada and other Colombo Plan countries are making other advantages beneficial to their own growth." FEBRUARY FOR FLOWERS

"And then my heart with pleasure fills, and dances with the daffodils."—Wordsworth.

February a floral month? In the heart of winter. How can it possibly be flowery?

Yet, we are told, if we go to the Isles of Scilly and nearby Cornwall, England, right now, where daffodils are grown assiduously, then picked and brought into the green house to mature, we would see in February, in a single glass house a mere hundred thousand or so, profusion. It is said that the spectacle of "that shimmering scented mass of golden daffodils, which the sun seems to set ablaze as it shines through the roof, is something which no one could forget."

Nor need we to leave Canada, to have a bouquet of daffodils from the Scilly Isles, Nowadays, this flower-laden paradise is able to dispatch a thousand ton of flowers a year via the Cornish port of Penzance and transfer to London by rail in three hours. Boxes of daffodils marked "Toronto" or "New York" will arrive at their destination before consignments that have travelled up by the same train from Penzance are marketed in Covent Garden.

While Cornwall has 1,500 acres under flower cultivation and the output is more than 12,000,000 per year, in an average year, Scilly and Cornwall together send forth 4,400 tons and in terms of flowers, produce an astronomical number. For example, there are 220 boxes of flowers to a ton. There are two hundred bunches of flowers to a box and a dozen flowers in each bunch, or 528 works out to over 150,000,000 blooms.

These are the finest blooms of their kind in Britain. And why? It is all due to the quality of the light and soil and the warming influence of the Gulf Stream. The combination of these gives the rich production of these early flowers. The first to be picked are the Scilly d'Or, whose gold petals, cups and wonderful scent so tempts the diet-bound for months. Then come the big, yellow-cupped Magnificents and King Alfreds; then Penkivians and Californias, yellow short cups and Carltons, a self yellow. The list is endless: Fortune, Edward Burton, Carbineer, Aranjuez, Vergyn, Poetaz, Actea and the Pheasant's eye, the names are fascinating.

What is more, the foliage of daffodils is perfect to blend with the blooms. Not every flower can boast of flattering foliage: note the spindles, or flimsiness of mums. Even lilacs. Yet if arrangements of spring flowers lack foliage they may be made most dramatic and attractive. Floral decorators are paying more and more attention to the remarkable possibilities that leaves can afford as a background. Arrange green foliage in a huge fan shape with a single daffodil, or while gladiolus against the leaves; makes a stunning decoration we are told and most inexpensive.

Many women are turning to foliar decoration as a means of self expression. Here and there other day of one California woman who made a road name for herself as a most successful hostess, solely by the detailed emphasis she gave on her table arrangement of flowers. Her guests were certain to find fresh bunches of violets in their bedrooms. A single red rose would float on the drawn, green, pine-scented bath water. In her grey panelled dining, with its grey piano painted grey to match the grey hangings, upholstery and walls, silver ribbon bound bouquets of white flowers placed in silver vases. On, yes, even the numerous house phone were decorated with sprigs of pine.

Her passion for flowers tied in with the dining room and color scheme. Gardenias or geranium blossoms were pinned on the shoulder straps of her floor stemmed flower, such as a tulip, or a single camellia bloom. One of her floral creations was a tablecloth made entirely of flowers. Small rose buds, tightly together, in a glimpse of wood was seen. Then, at each dining, appeared for the service plates. Nor were the napkins forgotten. Each had an onion petal floated in a glass of champagne. In a glass of tonic-water, a fine fern appeared. While a white camomile bloom—camomile tea is a strong tea—the tube graced each glass of iced tea.

The delightful dessert of hers was ice cream, preferably vanilla, served in frosted silver flower pots lined with aluminum foil. Finely grated bitter chocolate was sprinkled to the thickly, to resemble rich earth. Sometimes a pot, a red geranium with its leaves — her favorite flower.

Wealthy though she was, and living where flowers are in abundance, she was not deluded that she displayed along with them, extravagance, a lot of fun, with delight.

Bellevigneite: What is your favorite flower, say, for these February days? "Mine," says Mrs. Edwin Webber, 36 Ponton Street, "is the rose." John Deacon, 221 John Street, declares, "It's hard to choose, but I think I'll say the calla lily." Red, red roses are the choice of Mrs. R. D. Wood, 27 Hillside Street, "any time of the year." Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, 19 Victoria Street, E. loves the lily-of-the-valley and violets, while Mrs. Ted Cole is the daffodil. Also the choice of her daughter, Mary, who maintains that it is her favorite all the rest of her days if "I could have one in my bouquet."

Claims one florist: "There's nothing like the sunshine of daffodils to brighten darkened corners of a room on a wintry day." Another florist flower lover: "A room without flowers is like a sky without the sun." How lucky we are to have a florist.

Regional Director CARS Talks To Board on 1960-61 Plans

Mr. W. A. Brennan, regional director for Eastern Ontario for the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, was welcomed by Mr. Enos David, president of the Quinte Branch, at their meeting held recently at the YMCA.

Mr. Brennan spoke to the board on the plans of the society for 1960-61. This plan calls for an extension of the education and communities coverage or existing branches and for the establishment of new branches in areas in the province without an existing CARS organization.

MAJOR NEW PROJECT

The Ontario division of the CARS propose to undertake a major new project within the framework of its soundly established objectives. The new project involves the establishment of regional medical treatment centres for the in-patient care of selected patients presenting particularly difficult problems in diagnosis and treatment.

The first of these treatment centres has been established in Toronto with one to open in Kingston a mid-London later with a total of 100 beds to meet the initial need. Patients may be referred to them from any part of the province to these centres by their family physician.

Mr. Brennan suggested a committee from the Quinte Branch be appointed to organize committees in Trenton, Picton and Belleville to form committee consists of Mr. O. Griffiths, Mr. Frank Ruggle, Mrs. Ross Wannamaker and Mrs. E. May.

A province-wide campaign for funds is planned for November of this year. This campaign will be carried out in areas where there are no United Appeals or Community Chest drives.

The fact that there is a great shortage of physiotherapists in Canada was brought to the attention of the board, and suggestions were made that talks be given by this time to grade 12 and 13 students in the collegiate in the area to interest them in this profession.

Miss Bessie Rose, physiotherapist gave her monthly report: 83 home treatments were given. Miss Rose also commented on the new cabinet which had been purchased by the branch. This will be presented formally at a party for the patients to be held in the spring.

Mrs. Ross Wannamaker has had asked that this addition be made to the loan cupboard as there was a definite need.

A vote of thanks to the director was expressed for the duplicating of the minutes of the meeting by Mr. G. H. Cutts, local representative of Minnesota Mining Manufacturing Company.

Directors present at this meeting were Mr. E. David, president; Mr. Oriel Griffiths, secretary-treasurer; Mr. E. Hickey; Mrs. E. David, Mr. Ron Keefe, Mr. Frank Ruggle, Mrs. G. A. Jarvis, Mrs. W. Ponton, Mrs. D. Williams and Miss Bessie Rose, physiotherapist.

In recent years the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society has done much to demonstrate that an attitude of pessimism in arthritis is unwarranted and help has been given to many sufferers of this crippler. The work of the mobile unit in the city of Belleville, which made possible by the generous support of the citizens to the United Appeal.

THE THOUGHTLESS VISITOR

The other afternoon Mrs. Green was chatting on the telephone with her friend, Jean, she experienced. During the course of the conversation, Mrs. Inexperienced happened to mention that she was attending a cocktail party later on at a residence just a block away from the Greens. Mrs. Green immediately extended the invitation that she stop in afterwards and say hello. Mrs. Inexperienced was delighted and said she would call at about six.

She finally breezed in at seven-fifteen. Mrs. Green was in the throes of trying to get her two small and violently active youngsters bedded down, and cook dinner at the same time. Both the children and Mrs. Green had a hurt low ebb of the day so familiar to all parents. Mother is worn out with short nerves and the kids tired after a hectic day at the office.

Mrs. Inexperienced took none of this into consideration. She stepped over the tots and settled herself with the obvious intention of staying quite a spell." She then launched into a long, boring account of her activities at the party she had just attended. Both of the Greens tried to show interest, but the youngsters climbed over, around and under mother's chair, and created a din.

Finally, Mrs. Green excused herself, rescued the burning dinner on the stove, separated two bowling children and departed for upstairs. Mrs. Green was deavored to act as if he were listening as his guest rattled on, weary by this time she was on the gory details of a recent appendectomy of a neighbor.

When his wife returned it was after eight o'clock, and their guest was showing no signs of leaving. There was nothing to do but to tell her, frankly, "Dear, of course, she would love to stay," was Mrs. Inexperienced's reaction to this, but she finally served, Mrs. Green commented that she wasn't the least bit hungry (after all, two pork chops will only stretch so far).

To make a long story short, she finally took her departure at midnight. The sense of relief at her hosts at this point had best be left to the imagination.

Mrs. Inexperienced had completely failed to recognize that it is impardonable to be the guest-age of another's hospitality. When you are invited to "drop by around six and say hello," it means just that. It does not mean to stay for dinner and later. "Drop by" means for a very short visit, not the whole evening. If your hostess had wanted you for dinner she would have said so in the first place.

In these days of help shortages, it is quite unforgivable to impose on people in this manner, particularly in the evening, and especially if small children are part of the family circle. So the next time you "drop by" a friend's home, show consideration. Don't forget to say, "Leave while your welcome is still warm and not on the slightly chilled side.

FRANKFORD — Frankford Lions Club heard Ross Hargrave, field rep. Jaunary meeting recently. Mrs. K. Lawrence opened the meeting with the reading of a selection entitled, "What Is Success?" This was followed, in a humorous manner, the qualities of a good teacher.

Discussion regarding the special event for this year, was tabled until the February meeting.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $30.95; dues $12, a total of $50.95.

Mr. MacKinnon, provincial probation officer in the Belleville and family court of the United Counties of Hastings gave an interesting talk covering the work of the probation officer, the courts and the Training School. He also outlined some causes of juvenile delinquency.

Roll call showed: room 8,-5; room 7, 0; room 5, 6; room 4, 6; room 3, 3; room 2, 7 and room 1, 1.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.M.S.

The regular meeting of the Melrose W.M.S. was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. McFarlane with eight members and five visitors present.

The vice-president, Mrs. C. Milligan, was in the chair and led the worship service, the theme of which was "The Lord's Prayer."

The Scripture, St. Luke 11: 1-13, was read by Mrs. Margaret Bailey.

Mrs. Milligan, Mrs. Bates, Sr., Mrs. Jack McFarlane, Mrs. Earl Badgley, Mrs. Lorne Weese, Mrs. Roy Badgley and Mrs. E. Embury each read a selection on a petition in the Lord's Prayer.

A short business session was held.

The treasurer, Mrs. Roy Badgley, reported a balance of $89.60 on hand. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Milligan on Friday, March 4th.

Mrs. R. Embury, group leader, took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Milligan read an interesting account of life in the Copper Belt, Rhodesia, where white men and black men work together in the mines, but do not mix in their social lives, should bring them together, but has failed.

Mrs. C. Bates, Sr., read a description of Chet Hunter's film of the Copper Belt. Thousands white and colored laborers do exactly the same kind of work, white man's wages are much higher.

Mrs. K. McMechan read an article by a missionary in the same disease and we don't see a cure coming out of marriage to one another on the basis they have established.

Essentially their disease is selfhatred and interestingly enough one of its main symptoms is the lack of ability to love others.

As we get the picture these two threw themselves at one another, feeling that they were so worthless nobody in the world could care for them. Neither had respect for the other because they couldn't believe that anyone worth anything would bother with them.

At the moment Jeff holds the upper hand because he first was first to break under the destructive pattern of their relationship. But if they marry because she is desperate and he "feels sorry for her" they are only destroy one another further with the hostility they have built.

The best thing that Louise and Jeff can do is to recognize that they need to reconstruct their lives emotionally and morally if they wish to achieve a relationship. But if they marry because she is desperate and he "feels sorry for her" they are only destroy one another further with the hostility they have built.

Jeff D. — Louise is crazy in love with you. I know that Pauline has had it for me. Aside from the first because she thought I ought to take Louise out all kinds of fancy places and spend a lot of money on her. The heck with that stuff. Even if I had the money I wouldn't want to go to those places.

Aside from that, Pauline does not mean the kind of guy I want. We don't have to get married. Nobody and nothing is forcing us, but I am willing to do it because I realize Louise is very unhappy. I feel sorry for her.

Louise can do as she likes, I'm not trying to force her into anything. I just want her to know that if she lets her sister tell her what to do she probably will marry a man an old maid — and she'll have only herself to blame.

United Church Holds Cradle Roll Party

WELLINGTON — A successful party was held Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday School rooms of the United Church for the members and their children under five who are enrolled in the Cradle Roll Department of the Sunday School. They were guests of the W.A. of the church.

The table decorations were under the supervision of Mrs. H. East.

The ladies were received by Mrs. Leonard Palmer, Superintendent, Mrs. A. Poulter, Mrs. H. Pierson, president of the W.A.

The Rev. A. Poulter brought order and extended a warm welcome to all. After a sing-song of Children's hymns was enjoyed, the children were led to the centennial parlor. There under the supervision of Mrs. Arnold Pierson, a committee, games were played.

Continuing the program, a story, "The Black Madonna", was read by Mrs. S. Yourt. This illustrated the fact that in God's sight there is no difference whether your skin in black, yellow white. "All are precious in his sight".

Much enjoyed was a piano instrumental rendered by Mrs. Jack McNeil.

Mrs. E. Palmer introduced Mrs. J. A. Smythe (nee Myrtle Campbell of Hillier) of Long Branch, Ontario, who is past president of Toronto West Presbytery. Mrs. Smythe is a member of Toronto Conference and at present a member on the Christian Education committee of Dominion council.

In her address "The Greatest Mother of All", she brought to her audience a great responsibility and privilege as mothers of God. (She herself is the mother of seven children).

Mrs. Thomas Nash expressed appreciation on behalf of those present. The superintendent also received many words of thanks from the children.

Coffee sandwiches and small cakes were served by the ladies including the children at daintily decorated tables in blue and pink with candles.

Those serving were: Mrs. Bev. Gibson, Mrs. B. Head, Mrs. William Baverstock, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. William Adams, Mrs. Lorne Weese, Mrs. Norman Allison and Mrs. Ida McFaul.

Copper Belt who urged that changes be made before it was too late.

Mrs. L. Weese told of a tribe who had lived for 300 years in the country and were moved to another place as their land was to be turned into a lake for hydro purposes. They were dying of heartbreak let being settled.

Mrs. Mac Lazier read a story of Peter, a colored boy, illustrating the fact that the most growing short for altering present conditions.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a pleasant social time was spent by all.

Unlimited Voting Franchise For Indians in Federal Field Meets With Varied Reception

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Just how interested will Canadian Indians be in exercising the new unlimited voting franchise they are to receive soon for federal elections?

Judging from experience in provincial elections in some provinces, and in the existing limited federal franchise, the move will encounter varying degrees of acceptance, at least at the start.

The probability of a mixed reaction is indicated in a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press. The survey of how the present voting setup has been received in past elections was made following introduction of government legislation in Parliament to put Indians on the same voting basis as white voters for federal elections.

Acceptance by the Indians depends on such factors as local tribal organization, long - standing fears of losing historic treaty rights and experience with the present type of franchise.

NOT ALL CONVINCED

The federal government plans to extend the franchise to all Indians at age 21 with no strings attached, but apparently not all Indians are convinced it will work out that way.

At present the federal franchise is held by some 20,000 Indians, consisting of war veterans and their wives, those living outside the reservations, principally in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, and those on reservations who waive the income tax exemption.

A total of about 80,000 of Canada's 173,000 Indians will be eligible for the vote when the legislation passes. These are divided as follows:

Northwest Territories 2,200; Yukon 831; British Columbia 15,537; Alberta 7,835; Saskatchewan 9,648; Manitoba 10,287; Ontario 20,483; Quebec 9,661; New Brunswick 2,267; Nova Scotia 1,583; Prince Edward Island 198, and a scattering in Newfoundland.

Of those who now are eligible to vote in federal elections, officials in Ottawa say somewhat more than 50 per cent have exercised the franchise. In the 1958 election 79 per cent of all eligible voters, among the entire population, went to the polls.

PROVINCIAL VOTES

Indians in four provinces now have the right to vote in provincial elections. These are Ontario, British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia, and about 60 per cent of Canada's Indians live in these provinces.

In Ontario, slightly more than 50 per cent of the eligibles voted in 1955, the year after reserve Indian Indians were first enfranchised. But, the percentages varied widely between different groups.

"They didn't understand what it was all about," says Chief Councillor E.P. Carlow of the Brantford Six Nations reserve, speaking of the provincial election of 1959. About 750 were eligible to vote there, but "only a few" cast their ballots.

Indians on Cornwall's St. Regis reserve in the last provincial election shared the returning officer off Cornwall Island with guns and rocks.

Chief John Scharrow says the Indians there won't vote either in provincial or federal elections. The 300 or so Indians at St. Regis fear they will lose their income tax exemption. They won't.

CALM IN MANITOBA

But in Manitoba 3,946 Indians in the 1959 provincial election and there were no reports of boycotts. Chief Alfred Cook of the Bloodvein band at Princess Harbor on Lake Winnipeg stood as a CCF candidate for Rupert Island, losing by a wide majority. Generally, the Manitoba Indians have regarded the franchise with a calm, although some oldsters still are reluctant to vote for fear of losing treaty rights.

British Columbia Indians, granted the provincial franchise in 1949, sent Canada's first Indian legislative member, Frank Calder, to the assembly at Victoria in 1952 as member for North Atlin.

The Indians in British Columbia have taken well to the franchise and most use their vote, say provincial officials. One chief complained the voting turnout of 90 per cent of reserve Indians at the provincial election in 1952.

In Nova Scotia, provincial officials say the vote runs as high as 80 per cent of eligibles at some reserves.

Prince Edward Island has a limited franchise — for Indians living away from the reserves while serving property, or Indian war veterans — and officials say these take an active interest in politics and turn out in good numbers on election day.

OUTRIGHT CONVENT

At Quebec's big Caughnawaga reserve of more than 2,000 near Montreal, Chief Councillor Matthew Lazare says of the franchise:

"A trick to rob us of what we have left. Our birthright is being threatened."

The Indians detest voting, he claims, and he asserts that the federal government is going before "its authority."

Chief Poking Fire says the government hasn't educated the Indians enough yet to give them the vote.

"What we want is education, not the vote," he says.

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan commented that his province's Indians — apart from those who served overseas — have not been given the provincial vote because they never desire to use it.

"It has been offered several times," he said. "They don't want it. When the Indians show they want it, they will get it."

Excessive Air In the Engine Steals Power

By EUGENE MILMOE

A car engine that just will not idle smoothly and, in general performs without pep for power, could be suffering from leaks. In this case, it would be air (rather than gas, oil or water) leakage — and the direction would be in, not out.

Air entering the intake manifold will naturally upset carburetion — but how does it get in? There are several possible routes: cracks or looseness at the carburetor, cylinder head or manifold joints, damaged or incorrect gaskets. Sometimes, the fault lies with an accessory — one which is connected into the manifold to gain vacuum power for its operation; windshield wipers, for example. A punctured or loose wiper hose will allow air to leak into the manifold and ruin efficient carburetion.

R. S. writes: "What is a sulphated battery?"

(A) It is one which has an excessive amount of lead sulphate on the plates — usually traceable to keeping the battery in a discharged state or to incorrect charging.

H. Q. writes: "May I suggest you tell your readers that what seems to be fuel pump trouble may only be the flexible gas line. Fortunately, I found this out before wasting money on a rebuilt pump."

(A) Another considerable service, the flexible connector between the pump and rigid fuel line may permit air leakage, or the hose interior may gradually deteriorate, restricting the flow of fuel.

T. M. asks: "One of the coil springs on my car sags slightly. Can it be shimmed up to the height of the other side?"

(A) There are special shims used to raise coil springs. However, there is a limit, of course, to the amount of shimming possible.

From I. P.: "It seems my engine tends to heat up and has lost power ever since I drove over a hidden rock and dented both the muffler and tailpipe. Does this make sense?"

(A) Good sense. A clogged or dented exhaust interferes with engine breathing, preventing prompt escape of burned fuel and exhaust gases.

Unlimited Voting Franchise For Indians in Federal Field Meets With Varied Reception

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Just how interested will Canadian Indians be in exercising the new unlimited voting franchise they are to receive soon for federal elections?

Judging from experience in provincial elections in some provinces, and in the existing limited federal franchise, the move will encounter varying degrees of acceptance, at least at the start.

The probability of a mixed reaction is indicated in a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press. The survey of how the present voting setup has been received in past elections was made following introduction of government legislation in Parliament to put Indians on the same voting basis as white voters for federal elections.

Acceptance by the Indians depends on such factors as local tribal organization, long - standing fears of losing historic treaty rights and experience with the present type of franchise.

NOT ALL CONVINCED

The federal government plans to extend the franchise to all Indians at age 21 with no strings attached, but apparently not all Indians are convinced it will work out that way.

At present the federal franchise is held by some 20,000 Indians, consisting of war veterans and their wives, those living outside the reservations, principally in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, and those on reservations who waive the income tax exemption.

A total of about 80,000 of Canada's 173,000 Indians will be eligible for the vote when the legislation passes. These are divided as follows:

Northwest Territories 2,200; Yukon 831; British Columbia 15,537; Alberta 7,835; Saskatchewan 9,648; Manitoba 10,287; Ontario 20,483; Quebec 9,661; New Brunswick 2,267; Nova Scotia 1,583; Prince Edward Island 198, and a scattering in Newfoundland.

Of those who now are eligible to vote in federal elections, officials in Ottawa say somewhat more than 50 per cent have exercised the franchise. In the 1958 election 79 per cent of all eligible voters, among the entire population, went to the polls.

PROVINCIAL VOTES

Indians in four provinces now have the right to vote in provincial elections. These are Ontario, British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia, and about 60 per cent of Canada's Indians live in these provinces.

In Ontario, slightly more than 50 per cent of the eligibles voted in 1955, the year after reserve Indian Indians were first enfranchised. But, the percentages varied widely between different groups.

"They didn't understand what it was all about," says Chief Councillor E.P. Carlow of the Brantford Six Nations reserve, speaking of the provincial election of 1959. About 750 were eligible to vote there, but "only a few" cast their ballots.

Indians on Cornwall's St. Regis reserve in the last provincial election shared the returning officer off Cornwall Island with guns and rocks.

Chief John Scharrow says the Indians there won't vote either in provincial or federal elections. The 300 or so Indians at St. Regis fear they will lose their income tax exemption. They won't.

CALM IN MANITOBA

But in Manitoba 3,946 Indians in the 1959 provincial election and there were no reports of boycotts. Chief Alfred Cook of the Bloodvein band at Princess Harbor on Lake Winnipeg stood as a CCF candidate for Rupert Island, losing by a wide majority. Generally, the Manitoba Indians have regarded the franchise with a calm, although some oldsters still are reluctant to vote for fear of losing treaty rights.

British Columbia Indians, granted the provincial franchise in 1949, sent Canada's first Indian legislative member, Frank Calder, to the assembly at Victoria in 1952 as member for North Atlin.

The Indians in British Columbia have taken well to the franchise and most use their vote, say provincial officials. One chief complained the voting turnout of 90 per cent of reserve Indians at the provincial election in 1952.

In Nova Scotia, provincial officials say the vote runs as high as 80 per cent of eligibles at some reserves.

Prince Edward Island has a limited franchise — for Indians living away from the reserves while serving property, or Indian war veterans — and officials say these take an active interest in politics and turn out in good numbers on election day.

OUTRIGHT CONVENT

At Quebec's big Caughnawaga reserve of more than 2,000 near Montreal, Chief Councillor Matthew Lazare says of the franchise:

"A trick to rob us of what we have left. Our birthright is being threatened."

The Indians detest voting, he claims, and he asserts that the federal government is going before "its authority."

Chief Poking Fire says the government hasn't educated the Indians enough yet to give them the vote.

"What we want is education, not the vote," he says.

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan commented that his province's Indians — apart from those who served overseas — have not been given the provincial vote because they never desire to use it.

"It has been offered several times," he said. "They don't want it. When the Indians show they want it, they will get it."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

WONDERFUL EYESIGHT

Although birds are unable to move their eyes in their sockets the way human beings can their sight is far better than ours. This lack of mobility of the eyes is compensated for by necks that rotate. Each of our eyes is supplied with a spot which focuses on one object. Some birds have three spots in each eye: one to see at the side, one obliquely forward, and one to join in front so as to see straight ahead as we do, their vision is wonderful.

Another eye peculiarity is the involuntary protruding of the cornea, which is like pulling out the bellows of a camera in order to take a close-up.

Although we seem to have but two eyelids, we actually have a tiny, practically useless third in the corner of each eye. Whereas ours is stationary, this semi-transparent membrane of birds is pulled across between when necessary it can be pulled over the eye, yet objects are seen through it.

When we go suddenly from darkness to bright sunshine, our vias verse, we are almost blind until our pupils slowly contract or expand, as the case may be. Birds' pupils shut or open instantaneously, a great asset.

HELPS TWO WAYS

Nature has supplied birds with these special arrangements so that they may be helped either in getting food or eluding enemies. Ability to see in all directions helps the hawk in finding prey; the popping out of the bluebird's cornea assists the small bird in evading the hawk by rapidly flying directly into its hole.

An owl's eyesight is really remarkable. This nocturnal bird has been given not just certain spots, but a band of vision, so that it can see quite well by moonlight or even faint starlight. In bright sunshine the iris contracts considerably, and the light is softened by the third eyelid which is pulled across the eye obliquely. It is said that an eagle can look directly into the sun when flying on high. This is made possible by the semi-transparent membrane.

Nature makes arrangements to suit requirements. The woodcock, a night feeder that probes the ground for worms has eyes placed far back yet high in the head to keep watch for prowlers. On the contrary, a hawk's eyes are comparatively low, as this bird finds food by looking down from a height. The owl's eyes point forward because its bird flies low, and hunts for prey on the ground.

Stray Partridge Poses Question For Officials

A bird shot recently a mile north of Mandaw Lake was later identified by Department of Lands and Forests officials as a Hungarian partridge.

Subsequent investigation by conservation officer Bob Davidson revealed the fact the partridge was far from its natural habitat. The closest established population is at least 50 air miles to the south.

Further investigations turned up some interesting facts. Several reliable persons had seen these strange birds in the vicinity between Clayton and Mandaw Lake. There was likely only one covey which, at one time, consisted of eight "Huns."

There are no stubble fields in the area, although Hungarian partridge like the open agricultural lands where grain is one of the principal crops. They are closely related to the "common partridge" or grouse of the bushlands, but unlike the grouse they like to have company and often spend their entire lives in family groups, called coveys.

The Hungarian partridge, the only true Canadian partridge, was introduced here from Europe. In the Tweed district there is an established "Hun" population on Wolfe Island and a few scattered coveys exist along the shore of Lake Ontario and in the Arnprior-Renfrew area. The birds are protected by law and an open season each year permits a limited amount of harvest.

To identify this wonderful little game bird one might look for a small partridge-like bird with fine vermiculations, reddish throat and an abdominal chestnut colored patch.

What are these birds doing in a swampy mixed stand of timber and what are they existing on? Department officials hope research personnel can help through stomach analysis.

Officials also remind hunters and others that these birds are protected. They request nimrods that if they come across something rare, not to kill it. They would rather be informed of its existence than its extinction.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Man Advises Those Retiring Not to Let Anyone Know About It

By THOMAS COLLINS

The word "retire" is not the best of all possible things to take into retirement with you.

Leave it behind when you pack up your pension and the mustard plasters, and all sorts of beautiful words you'll scorn to use.

This information comes from a businessman named Raymond who has been doing some research. He's worth listening to.

"Retire, retiring, retirement and all other variations of the word were never good in the first place," he says. "They sound like a sheet being pulled up over your face.

"Nowadays, when the whole country is spotted with people on pensions, such words are worse. They designate, for most of us, a segregated piece of society. A segment that is kindly regarded, wise, thrifty, intelligent — and done for. Washed up. Too old. Through . . ."

STOP ADVERTISING

Mr. Raymond suggests that people already retired stop advertising the fact. "Speak of winding up some work you wanted to get done for your company, and say you are now taking a little rest. Speak of some new project you are about to tackle. Say anything except that you are retired. In our society, in these 1960s, there's stigma in that word. . ."

If pension day is before you, and you're still working, says Mr. Raymond, take whatever steps are necessary to avoid being "retired." Quit early. Get sick. Demand that the company make no fuss when you go.

"One of the saddest sights we see in business these days", says Mr. Raymond, "is the employee who is so hungry for a little attention a little tribute and a gold watch, that he lets a retirement ceremony stamp him as an old guy who is over the hill. . ."

Mr. Raymond cites an example of his theory:

"In a certain highway department with which I am familiar, a good, competent surveyor retired about two years ago at age 65. He needed more money so he started looking around for a job. He got a small job here, a week's work there and odd-job pay everywhere. He has never gotten anything better.

"After all, he was an old guy on a pension. He was retired."

DIFFERENT APPROACH

"Last November a surveyor in this same office reached his 64th birthday, and like the other man faced compulsory retirement at 65. He went out and got a job with a large real estate developer, a three-year contract and $8i a month more than his highway department job was paying him.

"After all, he was an experienced surveyor, with a good job and with good connections. Though he was no better than the first man, this man wasn't retired and therefore wasn't an old guy on a pension who, as everybody knows, is through, and over the hill . ."

Mr. Raymond says there is no particular honor in reaching age 65. "Any fool can do it, and a lot of fools do."

So why advertise it?

"Duck the retirement ceremony at the company. And never tell anybody your age. Better still, prepare to take a slight beating on your pension and insurance, leave your job before 65, and get a job to your liking that will stick by you until you are ready to lay down the shovel and rest."

ELECTRICITY SPARKS THE 60's

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Remember Doug Hepburn, the quarter-ton hunkaman who was at one time the world's champion weightlifter, then because of his histrionic abilities took up professional rasslin'?

The Vancouver-born man mountain who weighed in the vicinity of 400 pounds on the naked hoof, grunted and groaned in Memorial Arena on one or two occasions, but he looked as much at home in the quiver ring as a new Dior "flapper" dress on Jayne Mansfield.

Now according to a Vancouver story, Mr. Hepburn is making quite a name for himself in the gluttony market. He is under the wing of a 477-pound private-life cook and will take on anybody eat-to-a-finish, barefinger style.

Columnist Dick Beddoes says "My boy Hepburn is in serious training for his challenge eat. The other night he warmed up with a top sirloin before grazing on a 32-lb. suckling pig with an apple in its mouth. Then he ate the apple."

Several parties, by no means anonymous have knocked Hepburn as a bush-league eater, who does not belong in the championship class. "Who did he ever out-eat," they sneer.

Baz O'Meara, sports editor of the Montreal Star, is quoted as saying, "That nibbler Hepburn is a good weightlifter, but he is a vegetarian besides some gluttons I have known. I offer Bucko McDonald as the greatest scoffer ever produced in Canada. His appetite used to be the joy of 427 restaurants in the National Hockey League."

O'Meara claims Bucko would begin with 12 eggs and ham, walk across the street for a banana split, then return and have a steak dinner for dessert.

"Once, while Mr. McDonald was waiting for the steaks he sat down with friends and their rolls and three plates of French fries. Still waiting, he scorned half a grilled cheese sandwich."

Remember Sky High Lee, the Oklahoman who had a five-foot body and three-foot legs, who leered, sneered and jeered his way through many "main" bouts before? He is in the glut racket, too, and a challenger for a the grubguzzling title.

Sky High's Seattle sponsor claims his boy contuines five huge square meals per diem. "That is on his way to his first" the sponsor says, "and it is not unusual for him to wolf five steaks, and three dozen eggs at one sitting. When he gets through with that he gunnies a powdered milk bath. Then he is ready for bed."

Beddoes says that ladies are eligible for the eatcontest too. One of them, a Mrs. Etta Herring of Burnaby, B.C., while in training consumed 23 hamburgers, four pieces of apple pie, two malted milks, eight cokes, a bottle of root beer and three cups of coffee with cream.

Beddoes modestly confides that he is well qualified to second Mr. Hepburn. Going back to 1958 he claims he had a chew-in-chew exhibition with a prominent Vancouver cutter, well known for his food-consumption abilities.

"My opposition," he says, "is a good cutter but a picky eater. He quit after 26 pancakes and 19 sausages. I belted down 21 flapjacks and a side of a pig and was reaching for seconds when he tossed in the cloth. 'I've had enough,' he said. 'A little burp just told me'."

However one of Beddoes' readers has a good word for the columnist. "That scurvy so-and-so stays mighty fit for eating," he remarked. "Whenever Beddoebes sits down to write a column, he always bites a chunk out of somebody."

COULDN'T STAND PROSPERITY

The Macs blow-the-lead virus took over again last night in Chatham. The Bell-boys appeared to be coasting with a 6-2 lead going into the third frame, and all the scenery-lurkers-for the Memorial four-pointer. They needed that game but desperately.

Then it happened. The Maroons struck back for four unanswered tallies and it was a new ball game at full time. But the Macs again shunned prosperity in the wacky overtime session. Twice they held a goal lead—and twice they failed to hang on to it.

Time is running out and if the McFarlands are figuring on a backdoor entry into the playoffs they might get a rude jolt. This will be the topic at an OHA senior council meeting in Toronto next Thursday.

They play in Windsor tomorrow afternoon and if they drop this one, their playoff chances via the wan-and-lost columns will hang by a gossamer thread. *

Kelly, McNeill Say Decision To Retire Is Final

Ignore Think-It-Over Period Suggested by League Head; Will Be Placed on Waivers

DETROIT (CP) — Defenceman Red Kelly, key man in a planned trade between Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers, says his decision to retire from the National Hockey League is final. The same goes for right winger Billy McNeill.

The two Red Wing players ignored a 24-hour think-it-over period suggested by NHL President Clarence Campbell Friday night and said they have no intention of continuing in big - league hockey.

Kelly and McNeill balked at being traded to the Rangers Thursday night in exchange for defenceman Bill Gadsby and left winger Eddie Shack. Gadsby and Shack returned to the Rangers when the deal fell through.

CALL UP HADDON

Detroit announced the recall of Lloyd Haddon from Edmonton Flyers of the Western League to replace Kelly tonight against the Maple Leafs in Toronto. No immediate replacement for McNeill was announced.

The NHL said Friday it would delay official action on the retirements for 24 hours. Campbell said he was not trying to patch up things.

If Kelly and McNeill stick to their retirement decisions, the NHL will place their names on waivers. Any club can claim them for what Campbell called "a very modest sum" and try to talk them out of retirement. If waivers are obtained and signed, they will be placed on the voluntary retired list.

"They must stay on that list for a calendar year and then cannot return to the league without the unanimous consent of all clubs," Campbell said.

Detroit manager Jack Adams said he couldn't understand the attitude of Kelly and McNeill. "It's a matter of living up to a contract. The club is faced in the moral responsibility."

Campbell said in Toronto his concern was the welfare of the players. "Kelly has been a great credit to the game and I appreciate personally feel he has many years of service left. McNeill is just a kid and has a lot ahead of him".

Kelly, 32, is a 13-year NHL veteran. McNeill is 24 and Kelly said Friday he was surprised McNeill would quit as "he's just a young guy."

EXPLAINS MOVE

Kelly said "you can't go on forever—a fellow has to quit some time and now looks as good a time as any."

"My feelings were hurt but I've been preparing myself for something like this. Five years ago I'd have relished the deal and gone to New York."

He said he has a job as salesman for a trucking company and owns a bowling alley "back home in Simcoe" and a small tobacco farm. "I think I'll go along."

He said a story in a weekly magazine wasn't bad "but the way Detroit papers handled it it seemed like I'd accepted and make it worse."

"In the story I was supposed to have said I played with a broken ankle last season. What I said was I broke a broken bone below the ankle. There's no doubt about that. I saw the x-rays. But nobody forced me to play."

In Detroit, Adams denied the magazine story.

Table Tennis Trophy Won by North. Electric

Table tennis, or ping-pong, is on the scene in the city. In fact it has reached the organizational stage, and before long a city and district league may spring into being.

The first club challenge match took place the other day between teams from the Northern Electric and the Ontario Hydro, with the Electrics nosing out the Hydros by an 18-12 games count.

A trophy called the Belleville Hydro Social Club Challenge Cup has been donated, and won by the victorious Electrics. It was presented by Bill Cameron of Hydro to Electrics' Frank Valantine.

The first holders of the cup will play against a Batawa team next week.

Any table tennis club in the city and district is eligible to challenge for the trophy.

Dutchies Whip Sasky Juniors By 9-1 Score

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen Canada's hockey entry in the 1960 Winter Olympics, Friday night downed Moose Jaw Pla-Mors of the Saskatchewan Junior league 9-1 in an exhibition contest.

Dutchies took a 4-0 lead in the first period, outscored Moose Jaw 2-1 in the second and scored three times in the final period.

Butch Martin, Bobby Rousseau and Don Hornecky each scored two, with singles gobng to Jimmy Connelly, Fred Etcher and Cliff Pennington.

Moose Jaw's lone goal was scored by Jimmy Wish during a Czech Josef Maslago replaced Harold (Boat) Hurley in the Dutchies' net halfway through the second period.

Both teams had plenty of scoring opportunity, but top goaltending held the score down.

Americans Win Seven in Row; Indians Tie

By The Associated Press

Only four points separate the league-leading Springfield Indians and the second-place Rochester Americans in the American Hockey League. And the Indians, who meet Rochester Boby Nevin who is giving every indication of being headed for the big time.

While the Indians had to settle for a 4-4 tie overtime tie with the Providence Reds Friday night the Americans downed Cleveland Barons 5-3, Nevin had a three-goal performance in the second game in three weeks.

As the Americans chalked up their seventh victory in eight starts Nevin's his consecutive game goal-scoring streak to eight games. The league record is 11. He has 28 for the season.

Rochester's other scorers were Ted Hampson and Claude Labrosse. Cleveland marksmen were Fred Glover Ed Hoekstra and Earl Ingarfield.

At Springfield, Jim Bartlett had a pair and Bill Needham and Parker MacDonald one each for the Indians. The Reds value twice over two-goal deficits got their tallies from the sticks of Bo Elik Nick Mickoski Lorne Davis and Larry Hillman.

MINERAL RECORD

Canada's mineral production for 1959 was estimated at a record total of $2,380,683,000, a 13-per-cent gain over 1958. *

Comets, Flyers Win in West

Seattle Totems suffered a set-back Friday night in their long struggle to catch up to Vancouver Canucks at the head of the Western Hockey League.

The Totems went down to a 2-1 defeat at the hands of the last-place Spokane Comets and Edmonton Flyers moved into second place with them by defeating Calgary Stampeders. The Canucks beat Winnipeg Warriors 4-4 to increase their lead to 11 points.

Colin Kilburn scored twice for Canucks and Sandy Hucul and Danny Belisle once each. Winning scoring was handled by Gerry Brisson and Norm Waslawski.

Calgary scored an unanswered goal in each of the first two periods before Edmonton came back in the final frame to tie it on goals by Bob Solinger tallied twice for victory.

The other Edmonton goals were by Pete Goegan, Bud MacPherson and Warren Hynes. Calgary scorers were Jackie McLeod, Ron Leopoul, Dusty Blair and Joe Lamkowski.

Bev Bell scored both Comet goals. Gord Sinclair got the Seattle goal.

LOOK BEFORE YOU PASS

TOTAL PASSES ATTEMPTED COMPLETED
WILD	45%
BLIND	25%
INTERCEPTED	45%

According to studies made by Sports College about 75 per cent of the passes attempted in the average game never reach their destination. Some are intercepted through clever play by the defending players, many are badly made and a great number go astray because the man is blind — the passer just didn't look.

To be checked or to have a pass intercepted is bad enough but to give the puck away is a cardinal sin. Many blind passes are made from the corners and behind the goal when the puck carrier is intent on getting the puck out in front. The result is often a breakaway by the opposition instead of a shot on goal.

Keep cool, take a look and make your passes pay off.

Quebec Bonspiel
Newfie, Ont., Que. Curlers Take Three Major Trophies
By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Rinks from Newfoundland, Quebec and Ontario won three of the five major trophies at Quebec's 47th annual international bonspiel Friday night.

E. L. Hickman and his St. John's, Nfld., quartet, who never played together before, defeated the 9-8 triumph over Bob Lahaie and his Cap de la Madeleine, Que., foursome to win the Omega International Trophy.

A. R. Donovan of Weston crushed previously unbeaten Jos Thomas of Quebec City 11-2 to win the Chateau International Trophy and Gerry Jobin of Quebec City had an easy time winning the Francois Jobin Gold Cup by belting R. W. Ott and his Outremont, Que., rink 15-3.

ONTARIO RINKS CLASH

J. Burgess of Weston, Ont., losing finalist in the Jobin competition, is still in contention for at least one of the bonspiel's other two big trophies. He meets J. Lamberton of Waterloo today in one semi-final round of Lieutenant - Governor's ropby play.

The other big prize still at stake is the Grand Aggregate Bowl, which goes to the rink posting the best won-lost record in the Chateau, Jobin, Francois Jobin and Lieutenant-Governor's play.

Semi-finals and finals will be held for other trophies today. These are the Birks, Carlings, St. Lawrence Cement, Weyman and Van Niestrop Memorials and la Coupe de la Ville Quebec.

ONTARIO WINNERS

K. Conlin of Oshawa won the Royal Bank Trophy with a 12-6 victory over Jean-Paul Matane, Que.

L. Sharpe of Weston beat Jake Creighton of Dartmouth, N.S., 7-4 to win the Cambrai Trophy, in competition for the Carling Trophy. Galt's Nels Findlay and Norm Allan of Oshawa made the quarter-finals. Eliminated were G. G. Carwell, Sudbury and W. T. Reid, Kingston.

Eliminated in play for the Birks Trophy are Shanley, Quebec City Cup and Weyman trophies were Lake; George VonZuban, Sudbury; V. Adams, Barrie; A. Dickie, Sudbury; O. Parker, Oshawa; Orval Archer, Kirkland Lake.

Les Evenins from Oshawa made the semi-finals in la Coupe de la Ville de Quebec while H. E. Robinson made the semi-finals in the St. Lawrence Cement play.

Chatham Rallies To Tie Macs 8-8 In Overtime

Bellboys Blow 4-Goal Lead In Wide-Open Third Period; Hildebrand Gets Hat-Trick

By GARRY ALEXANDER

CHATHAM — Belleville McFarlands blew a four-goal lead in the third period and a pair one-goal leads in overtime before 1,337 fans last night and were forced to settle for an 8-8 stalemate with the Chatham Maroons in a wacky OHA Senior "A" League fixture.

The Macs took a 4-2 lead in the first period and made it 6-3 with the only goals of the second stanza. Then, as has happened so many times this year, the club's defence and goaltender suddenly fell apart.

The McFarlands found Monty Reynolds to their liking in the first period when they took it 4-2 lead, although the Maroons twice tied the score. Bob Senior showed well in the Macs' net.

Chatham outshot Belleville 13-9.

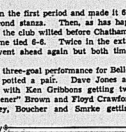
Boucher and Mick Milne missed early opportunities to put the visitors in front before Ike Hildebrand opened the scoring at 9.33. Marineau's clearing pass from in front of his net sent Milne and Hildebrand away on a three-on-one play, the latter converting Grosz' pass with a low corner shot.

Smrke was serving the only penalty of the period when Power tied the count at 13.20 but seconds later Hildebrand beat Reynolds with a high backhander for a 2-1 scoop.

Malo's breakaway again knotted the score but Brown sank a 45-foot shot at 15.35 and MacDonald rammed home another at 19.22 for the 4-2 count.

All the action was jammed into the final six minutes of the middle heat as the McFarlands opened up a 6-2 lead. The Macs replayed the Maroons all the way but were unable to finish the plays in the first part of the frame.

Hildebrand and Leyte went off together at 4.32 for high sticking but neither could connect with high mouth. Hildebrand and Jones hooked up for the third time in the game for a 5-2 Bellevilla lead at 14.36 but a conch blasting home his third marker. It was his first hat trick of the season. Lou Smrke and Don McGregor tangled with high sticks near the end boards and ended up fighting to earn seven minutes apiece in the sin bin at 18.44 and Power scored later it was a 6-2 game. Floyd Crawford's screened drive beat Reynolds on the stick side.



KEITH MACDONALD
. . . Got Two

McGregor whipped one past Senior at 6:14 for the final 8-8 count. It was almost as good as a victory for the Maroons.

IKE HILDEBRAND
. . . Hat-Tricker

Reynolds kicked out a couple of close-in last attempts in the early minutes of the third but Chatham came back to cut the 4-2 lead and seemed to pick up steam after this goal.

Senior beat Bathgate, who started the play, and McGregor on the first rebound but Billy Forhan tipped the second rebound into the open corner at 8:40. . Spurred on by their success, the Maroons kept pressing and Malo rapped home another at 13:19, with Bathgate and Forhan again in on the play.

Suddenly the Macs found themselves with a real battle on their hands when Freddie Pletsch clicked on a close-in play at 14:11 to trail by only one goal 6-5. And exactly three minutes and 41 seconds later Pletsch whipped another goal past Senior with a Belleville man draped over him to tie it 6-6 and send it into overtime.

The Macs took just fifty seconds of overtime play to once again forge ahead, Marineau sinking long one from near the blueline unassisted. 20 seconds later it was 7-7, Bob Mader tipping it.

Neither team seemed able to miss at this point and Keith MacDonald parked the disc behind Reynolds while perched on his doorstep to give the Macs the lead for what seemed like the umpteenth time.

This time the lead lasted two minutes and 14 seconds before 34:29.

Flyers Clobber Marlboros 10-1; Biltmores Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Derrie Flyers and Guelph Biltmores scored upsets and many goals in their home towns Friday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Second-place Flyers walloped league-leading Toronto Marlboros 10-1 in a fast, hard-hitting contest. Guelph moved into a fourth-place tie with a 9-3 win over St. Catharines TeePees.

At Barrie, Flyers took a 3-1 first period lead, increased it to 5-1 in the second, and scored five more unanswered tallies in the third. Three goals scored by Pierre Gagne and Jeannot Gilbert with three each, while Dale Rolfe, Larry Jones, Nelson Leclair and Marv Rutledge got one each.

Jimmy Pappin sank Marlboros' only goal. Flyers, watched by 2,834 spectators, put Barrie up to 44 points, seven behind Marlboros.

CHIPPY TUSSLE

At Guelph, the Biltmores led 4-0 after the first and 7-2 at the end of the second.

The game was a chippy affair with seven fights, towards the end, TeePee players clashed with Guelph fans. Bob Makt and Vic Hadfield drew match penalties.

Jean Ratelle scored three Guelph goals. Two singles were added by Rod Gilbert, Marc Dupuy, Bert Brown, Ken Krall, Larry Keenan and Mike McMahon. St. Catharines scorers were Hadfield, Ron Stackhouse and C. Maki.

The game brought Guelph up to fourth, level with St. Catharines in fourth place.

Hamilton Tiger - Cubs have two players out of action. Bob Pilkington suffered a broken ankle in a game against Peterborough last Saturday, and Carl Clowater received a broken leg in Thursday's game against St. Michael's. Tiger-Cub coach Ralph McFadden said Rollie Wing of the Junior B Burlington Industrials will replace Clowater.

Ten Million Offered for Toronto Park

TORONTO (CP) — Proposals for a new sports stadium in Toronto were hustled back into the spotlight Friday following an offer of $10,000,000 by a group of businessmen and a prediction by baseball mogul Branch Rickey that the city will play host to a baseball series by 1965.

The financial offer by an unidentified group of Canadian businessmen was announced at a city hall meeting of a special sub committee studying stadium proposals.

The group's representative, Jack Flinlayson of the Yonge-Bloor-Bay Association, refused to identify the members, but said they have raised some $1 million money in the United States.

The businessmen favor a pre-cast, prestressed concrete dome for a horseshoe-shaped bowl in upstate Pennsylvania Rickey said.

Rickey president of the embryo Continental Baseball League, made his prediction to a city council meeting in an appeal for municipal aid for Toronto's entry in the so-called third major league scheduled to open next year.

Rickey also asked for council support for a stadium.

Wanted, Job as Pro Coach, Apply Mons. Phillipe Watson

By DAVID BOWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Situation wanted: Hockey coach. At present in 13 seasons with National League, won more games than lost or tied. Although likely to miss temper quickly, seeks position with good-calibre team. Apply Phillipe Henri Watson, Madison Square Garden, New York 19, N.Y.

Phil Watson was in command of New York Rangers for only 11 games this season before he had to go to hospital for an ulcer operation. Then he was pushed upstairs in the front office of the Rangers' farm clubs while Alfie Pike was called in from Winnipeg to coach the Rangers, since dropped into the National League basement.

"I think they'll finish the season there, too," Watson told an interviewer Friday.

PLAYERS REBELLED

Watson believes he was pushed out of his job by a player rebellion.

"Jack Adams, a good friend of mine who manages the Detroit Red Wings, told me that he'd heard in Vancouver last year after I'm an exhibition game five or six guys on my team were in cahoots to throw me out by Christmas.

"Since then, I've heard the same thing from other guys. That's always the way with things like this: You don't hear about it until after it's happened.

"And what's my side to this? I don't want this to sound as though I'm crying or anything but there were five or six of the boys who didn't show up to see me."

WON'T SAY WHO

Watson naturally didn't want to say who they were. How are they playing now that he is out?

"Well, one of them's having a good year but the rest are awful—the world's worst."

Watson indicated the Rangers won't be a better club if he'd had the right to fire or fine players who weren't pulling their weight. He says the management wouldn't support him.

"I'm not crying over that but would like to coach Toronto Maple Leafs after his New York contract expires in August, Watson said Friday.

"Sure I'd like to work in Toronto. I'd like to work for any good club.

Is he doing anything about looking for a job?

"In this business you don't go around looking for a job. You've got to wait for someone comes and offers you one."

Hawks Could Be Also-Rans In Race for Playoff Berths

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It could be another also-ran season after all for the Chicago Black Hawks, the National Hockey League club that kicked its first 11 season after a frustrating string of disappointments.

The Hawks had a resurgent third-place finish behind them. They got off to a fast start but weeks of the current schedule and many observers consider the chances they have in the club will pull through.

Thursday night in Boston they throttled the Bruins 7-2 but that was their sixth win in a 45-point tilt for the fourth and final playoff berth. The tail-end of the schedule is a tough one for the Hawks.

To start with the Bruins have a 5-point lead. That kicked the Hawks seven behind, the first of seven games in succession against Chicago's 18 wins and 10 ties in 32 games.

Moreover 19 of Boston's remaining games are at home over Chicago's 15 and the Bruins have been a tough customer on their own ice, losing only four times there, two in Boston. Should the struggle go down to the wire on the season's final day, Hawks meet Boston, the final day of the season, two games at the Boston.

This could be one factor in Chicago's favor. In 11 games this season with the Bruins, the Hawks gained a single point in five victories and two ties.

Another factor has been playoffs only twice in the last 13 years, winding up the schedule in the cellar both times.

But Boston has missed out only in the last stretch and during those two years were fifth-place efforts.

The Hawks meet the last-place Rangers at New York this afternoon. Tonight the Bruins visit Montreal Canadiens, current top Maple Leafs host the Detroit Red Wings.

Sunday night Montreal is at New York, Toronto at Boston and Chicago at Detroit.

Marsh Trophy Awarded to Wagner, Paul

TORONTO (CP) — The Lou Marsh Trophy for Canada's outstanding athlete of the year has been awarded jointly to Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul, world pairs figure-skating champions from Toronto.

The five judges announced Friday they agreed unanimously to make a joint award because the two were equally deserving.

In Regina, where they are defending the Canadian pairs championship, Paul described the award as "one of the thrills of my life."

Miss Wagner said the award fulfilled one of her mother's greatest wishes. Her grandfather, John Wagner of Hamilton, was a neighbor of the late Lou Marsh, former sports editor of the Toronto Star.

Since taking sixth place in the 1956 Winter Olympics in Italy, the pair have not lost a competition. They have won seven straight for three years and are favored to win the Olympic title this month.

Honorable mention for the trophy went to speedboat racer Bob Hayward of Embro, golfer Stan Leonard of Vancouver, football quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders, gymnastics champion Ernestine Russell of Windsor and Ottawa skier Anne Heggtveit.

The Wagner-Paul combination will head an international cast in an Ice Capades show at Ottawa March 16-18, it was announced Friday.

Sponsored by Toronto Rotary Club, the charity revue will also feature four Olympians — Petra Anna Galamiari of Italy and several top Canadian stars.

Hull-Ottawa Ties Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens, their eyes fixed on the fourth and final playoff spot in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, climbed within two points of their goal Thursday night and edged tied league-leading Sudbury Wolves 2-2.

Sudbury now has 60 points and a three-point margin over Montreal Royals. Last-place Hull-Ottawa increased with 45 points are two behind Trois-Rivieres Lions and Kingston Frontenacs, tied for fifth.

Billy Carter got his 31st goal of the season in the first period but Sudbury got the equalizer 5:40 of the third period by Tom McCarthy and newcomer Ken Ullyot, a member of the Chicago Wolves after being cut of hockey for a season.

Goalie Gerry Desaulniers left John Annable tied the score for Hull-Ottawa.

Tidy goal-tending by Wolves' Gerry McNamara and Canadiens' Charlie Hodge stopped any further scoring.

Hull-Ottawa received a scare when Sudbury defence-man J. C. Tremblay was taken to hospital unconscious after being into the nets in the first period, but what was feared to be a serious concussion turned out to be only a bruise.

Marcel Bonin Out for Week

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Bonin, Montreal Canadiens' hard-working left winger, will be sidelined for a week with an ankle injury he suffered in his team's 4-2 victory Thursday night over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Bonin was hurt when left eye early in the National Hockey League game and required two stitches to close the injury.

The club spokesman said Bonin's injury "is not serious." Leaf forward Bob Pulford's ankle stick.

His absence will force coach Toe Blake to make some changes in his forward-line but no decision has been reached.

SELECTS LEAVE

MONTREAL (CP) — Moscow Selects, Russia's No. 2 hockey squad, left for home via Air France Friday night boasting a record of six wins and four losses on a 10-game Canadian tour.

Ontario Wins Three Crowns In Jr. Figure-Skating Finals

By PHIL ADLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — Ontario skaters took three of four junior titles at the Canadian figure-skating championships Friday night. The other was won by a westerner.

Bradley Black, 18-year-old St. Catharines skater who sacrificed his Grade 13 school work for practise time, won the men's junior singles title. Brand, 16, edged race with Louis James of Stong of Unionville.

Eleanor McLeod, 17, of Toronto, won the women's singles title by a wide margin. She had been runnerup twice.

The Sudsbury combination of Gertrude Desjerdins and Maurice Lafrance skated to the mixed pairs crown while Brand and Mitchell and John D. Mitchell of Vancouver took the junior dance championship.

Senior competitions were to start today. The three-day championships end tonight.

Black's victory was clinched from the after-effect. But he got it.

Ryan, nursing a swollen right ankle in his dressing room, declared he wasn't knocked down.

"It was' no knockdown", he said.

"I was pulling away from his right hand and twisted my ankle".

Dr. Harry Kleiman of the New York State Athletic Commission said Ryan had suffered a "bad sprain".

Bob Cleroux, a young heavyweight from Montreal won a unanimous 10-round decision over Will Besmanoff, a transplanted Britisher now boxing out of Milwaukee.

Although Cleroux bled from the nose throughout the fight he closed strong and battled the stocky Besmanoff to the late rounds. There were no knockdowns.

Invite Gunsel To Top Brass New Grid Loop

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The new American Football League has asked Austin Gunsel, former acting commissioner of the National Football League and active trade treasurer, to join it in a top administrative post. The Associated Press learned today.

A source close to Gunsel said AFL commissioner Joe Foss has approached Gunsel several times.

Foss apparently referred to the fact Gunsel was not given the post of NFL commissioner as many had expected. NFL owners elected Pete Rozelle former general manager of Los Angeles Rams, at their annual meeting last month. Gunsel was re-elected treasurer for one year at $15,000.

Fall or Push Rory Calhoun Got Verdict

NEW YORK (AP)—Did he roll or was he pushed?

The answer to that question about Rory Calhoun's "knockdown" of Bill Ryan was more interesting than the fact that Calhoun won a unanimous 10-round decision.

The crowd of 3,000 at Madison Square Garden and the television audience must have wondered what was going on Friday night when Ryan stumbled back and down and referee Ruby Goldstein started to count.

"He was hit on the body", said Ruby after the match. "He fell from the after-effect. But he got hit".

Ryan, nursing a swollen right ankle in his dressing room, declared he wasn't knocked down.

"It was' no knockdown", he said.

"I was pulling away from his right hand and twisted my ankle".

Dr. Harry Kleiman of the New York State Athletic Commission said Ryan had suffered a "bad sprain".

Bob Cleroux, a young heavyweight from Montreal won a unanimous 10-round decision over Will Besmanoff, a transplanted Britisher now boxing out of Milwaukee.

Although Cleroux bled from the nose throughout the fight he closed strong and battled the stocky Besmanoff to the late rounds. There were no knockdowns.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western Canada sports writers have been watching National Hockey League games on television and, for the most part, they aren't impressed. They figure the bowling, boarding, checking-and so on are bad examples for youngsters in the minor leagues.

The most outspoken are a couple of veterans—Jack Leah, Winnipeg Tribune columnist and one of minor hockey's top snipes for more than 30 years, and Scotty Melville, sports editor of the Regina Leader-Post.

Leah referred to a bantam game in Winnipeg a few weeks ago when one youngster "took to carving up one of the others" with a hockey stick. "It was so bad the Greater Winnipeg Minor Hockey Association suspended the player and his coach.

AMONG ROUGHEST

"Hockey, as played in Canada, now is one of the world's roughest games, rougher than muchmaligned lacrosse, football, ringgar or the Irish game of hurling," Leah adds.

"We complain we are merely crying in the wilderness. The authorities bring in more ice . . . until the night the lad on the police beat tips us off that some kid has been killed playing hockey.

"All it requires is leadership in high places, and the game hasn't got it . . . Fellows in the local minor associations do their best to clean it up, but hockey's top brass echelons look the other way."

Melville made notes on the large number of fights in the NHL and amateur hockey across the country and says the big-time hockey as seen on television, has its effect in places far removed from NHL cities.

Melville pointed out the disregard for the rules in the NHL and felt that it is something that has to be mended or many people will get out of hockey and the game will be the real loser.

ICE BRAWL

The Canadian sports editor referred to a game in Moose Jaw, Sask., last month celebrating the Canada Night.

"A brawl broke out in which 200 players and spectators and police all had a hand. Great stuff for kids. Yet an official appeared on television to say that none of it was the kind of thing to pack the kiddies. The people were standing up, enjoying it.

"Was the man serious?"

Another sports columnist—Dick Beddoes of the Vancouver Sun—Toronto Trail Scouts' letters defeat the touring Russian Selects 7-6 at Trail and commented:

"The Russian Selects were a refreshing change for hockey fans accustomed to the modern style of clutch and grab."

GOLFERS MEET

TORONTO (CP)—V. C. Holdrop of Toronto Friday was elected president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association at its annual meeting here. He succeeds Gordon Taylor of Montreal. The meeting decided to hold the Canadian Open would be played at the Niakwa Club in Winnipeg. Total 1960 revenue was $46,317 compared with 1958's $42,504.

Carelessness Spells Disaster

Not far from Sag Harbor, Long Island, New York, there is a licenced shooting preserve named Springs Farm. It is owned and operated by my good friend, George Schellinger. It is a fine place to shoot, with varied terrain and plenty of birds — ringneck pheasant, quail, ducks and, now and then, an obliging flight of woodcock. Excellent dogs are available and your birds will be table-dressed for you while you sit around George's "club-house" and enjoy a bit of after-the-hunt medication.

During Christmas week five gunners came to Springs Farm. The party consisted, so I am told by a man who was at the farm at the time, of four youngsters who are students at the Garden City High School and their instructor. All are members of the school hunting club and the four boys were graduates in the course in safe gun handling.

George took it upon himself to guide the party, taking them where they could find good shooting, handling the dog, carrying downed birds, etc. The party had knocked down a bird which fell in heavily wooded cover. George went ahead to pick up the bird. Behind him was one of the four youngsters. As George bent over to pick up the bird, a twig engaged the trigger of the boy's gun.

Estimates vary concerning the distance between George and the gunner. Some say 15 feet, others 25. In any event, the distance was great enough to avoid the thought of in yards. The sixteen-gauge gun was thus accidentally discharged and George received the full charge of high-speed skees in his back. One pellet was just about demolished and not a few pellets penetrated the lower portion of one lung.

HOVERED NEAR DEATH

As quickly as possible, George was taken to the Southampton Hospital where, for 48 hours, he hovered between life and death. But he is a big fellow and, having spent all his life in active outdoor work, in excellent physical condition.

Happily, he is no longer on the critical list and will recover, but it will be a good long time before he is on his feet and back in reasonably good working order again. The boy was questioned by the State Police and then released.

Now remember that these four boys were graduate students of a class in safe gun handling. Yet this youngster, on his first trip afield after attaining that honor, proceeds to bust wide open three cardinal rules of safe gun handling. First he allowed his gun to point at another person. Accidental or otherwise, no seasoned gunner ever, under any and all circumstances, allows the muzzle of his gun, loaded or unloaded, to be brought to bear on another individual.

Seasoned gunners or, for that matter, graduate students in gun handling, do not bust with the safeties off. To be sure, I know three men who do, two of them I refuse to hunt with and the third is always given a wide berth in the field, invariably to my left. But a man, or a boy, who has been instructed properly, keeps that safety on until the bird flushes and the gun is brought into actual use.

The third rule the boy broke is that he allowed the muzzle of his gun to drop below head level. Always in the field the muzzle should point up. When a bird flushes, the gun is mounted to the shoulder with the muzzle up.

Ozzie and Harriet Show Now in Its Eighth Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television trends come and go, but the Nelson family seems to go on regardless.

The Ozzie and Harriet show is here in its eighth year on the home screen. While the ratings are never stratospheric, the program continues to attarct loyal sponsors and viewers.

Loyalty may be the keynote of the Nelson works. Both their studio ret is quite like theirs. Everything is done in a quiet, unobtrusive manner, with obvious devotion to the team effort. There's little time wasted "among us", Harriet remarks. "If anything, each tries to give scenes to the other one".

Ozzie, who acts, directs and oversees the works, feels every effort to see that all are treated then, and not until then, is the muzzle lowered to be in line with the bird.

We can't help but wonder just what kind of an instruction class it is that turns a boy loose as a graduate who can be that outright careless with a gun. We were told, secondhand to be sure, that the class is under general affiliation with the N. R. A. Be that as it may, how could a thing like that happen. What, we wonder, was that instructor doing when he failed to check on the safeties of the entire group after a bird had been shot?

I raised a boy and taught him just about everything he knows about the outdoor sports — basic things, that is. For years, automatically I checked on his safety after he had fired the gun. Of course, he always shot double guns which automatically go on safe when opened to eject a shell, but invariably I watched for that gun to come open after it had been fired. Why weren't the same precautions taken in this case?

We have no first-hand information on just what organization sponsors this class in gun handling. After all, that doesn't make much difference. The accident certainly points out the vital importance of checking up on all instruction classes in gun handling, making sure that the instructors know their business before their instructions are put into actual practice by their pupils.

We hope that George's accident will add a new page to the instruction manual. Certainly it should. Hunting, bird hunting, is a delightful sport and a wonderful thing for youngsters. You won't find very many juvenile delinquents in hunting and fishing clubs. So, as I say, George's misfortune may very well work out for the benefit of many. I hope so. But in the same, it is mighty rough on George.

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Strangely enough, some TV viewers do not completely understand the "contrast control" on their sets. They usually leave it turned up to maximum contrast and consequently do not always enjoy the most pleasing picture.

We'd like to explain that this control governs the picture much the same as the volume control governs the sound. Since TV stations vary in signal strength it is not reasonable that any one setting of the contrast control will give the best picture contrast on all channels. The control should always be adjusted so that the black & white areas of the picture are not exaggerated and the grey middle tones are apparent.

When knob twiddling won't bring in a good picture, it's time to call CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 304 Coleman St., for fast repairs. Phone WO 8-6791.

General Tendencies: So many fine ideas and courses of procedure can be yours today that you should be wise to attend the services of studies worship of your choice or reading the greatest philosophers, will give you the spiritual uplift you need right now. Spend afternoon and evening with those persons whose conversation is enlightening and edifying. Grow.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20). You can make plans for a brighter future now by reverting to the high standards under which you were reared. Ancient wisdom is ever infallible. P.M. sit down and get your coming week's activities nicely written out.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21). Take time to analyze your position and appearance so that you know how to gain more of your heart's desires. They are within relatively easy grasp. P.M. attend some very nice social event. Be dynamic, charmingly cheerful.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You have every opportunity now to dwell in the higher realm of things and meet with most inspiring persons so that you can make your future infinitely more profitable and beautiful. Remember that first comes visualization, then realization.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Indeed the ideal day to be with individuals of great mental and spiritual enlightenment. Begin to live in th's category yourself and seek her in the day you set socially with friends, even-found wisdom to the best.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)— Look into important and interesting civic matters today. Conduct yourself in such a way that others will be most favorably impressed and will unconsciously begin to emulate you. Be a leader instead of a follower.

Libra, (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22)— Make it a point to listen to the most intellectual spiritual leader today within ear reach. Be sure to absorb every wise thought. Then base your future activity along th's pattern.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— You get such excellent hunches as how to remedy any problems with others, that it would be very wise to put ideas on paper. Evening is then fine for having a good time socially with the person you love the most.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An ideal day to come to far greater understanding with any whom you consider to be your associates in any sphere of your life or endeavor. Contact them, offer a luncheon or dinner. Get on the right side of them charmingly.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Feb. 19) It is important you cheer others today, so begin the day in a lighthearted fashion. This will help you, too. Serve those who are most in need. P.M. be out for a charming hour or two or visit time. Be your own dynamic self.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can alleviate any hard feelings at home now by smiling more and being considerate of ties. Also, add charming artistic touches to surroundings. Give more affection shown to loved ones always brings infinite blessings and prosperity.

If your child is born today— The intelligent child born today can become a great success in any field in which he or she is vitally interested. However, you must early teach your youngster to employ to any task begun, or there is a tendency to distress badly. Also, be sure you give as fine an academic education as possible, since there is great talent here, plus the finest human traits and progressive ideas.

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Monday, February 8

General tendencies: The only good aspect today is in connection with your intuitive faculties which are operating in high gear. So, if you will be still for a little while and listen to them, you will get the answers that all of the conversation, arguments, forceful action can never get. Make no changes. Let them happen if they must. Be cagey and adroit.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Instead of getting all upset over some business or personal problem now, consult an expert adviser. Then clear the matter up intelligently. P. M. steer clear of arguing with comrades or close ties. Be considerate, kind.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— Care while out driving or in any sort of activity today is vitally important. Also, be soft-spoken, kind with others. P. M. do not permit close ties to ruin your chances in the outside business world. Be loyal, yet firm.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— Instead of worrying unnecessarily over financial or business affairs, spend this day making repairs to real estate, other buildings, cars, etc. Later, do not run off on some trip or other tangent simply because you are annoyed.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — This is one of those days when you are apt to be very changeable. Take yourself in hand early and follow through on any commitments made. You will then be able to get fine ideas for increasing abundance, but do not gamble now.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Rather than waste precious time and energy in arguing with a peculiarly acting associate, be gentle instead and go about own affairs cleverly and efficiently. Do not lose out on the excellent opportunities all about you.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23)— This is one of those days when you feel that everyone is against you and you cannot reach your ideal. Find out instead what others expect of you and then co-operate in very harmonious. You can make this a most profitable day.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Outside activities and dealing with executives fine today, but take care you do not give offense in any way. Tact wins out. Also in P. M. when mate and an acquaintance are at it hammer and tongs.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— That information, so important to your welfare, can be gotten easily provided you put all your interest and energy toward getting it. P. M. avoid arguments with a close tie concerning a business matter. It does not warrant it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Take care you do not follow hunches today for they are apt to be erroneous and could bring you much trouble. Also, take particular care while out driving or walking. There could be a definite element of danger.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be sure to remain neutral when arguments are going on amongst associates or friends, hin. Just keep laboring diligently at own affairs and you can make fast strides toward your ambitions. Hold your tongue even if you have to bite it.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Attend to own work and interests today, regardless of the uncompromising attitude of a highly emotional associate. By remaining aloof and indifferent you come through this trying time with flying colors.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Put aside any thoughts of squandering the day on fun and pleasure since there is much of importance to be handled. Also, you cannot afford extravagance right now. P. M. rather than feel imposed upon, be grateful that you were wise.

If your child is born today — The delightful child born today is the type who early feels he or she has to put up the little dukes in order to get what is wanted. Give the benefit of fine sports to teach the wisdom of co-operation with others. The chart then shows real promise in any government work, professions that deal with solving the problems of others or social service work.

WANT A HOME

ALL INCLUDED IN THE ONE PACKAGE AND IN THE ONE BUILDING? We have a billiard Parlor for sale that will show you a handsome return on your investment. You will get a 5 room flat included — what a wonderful set-up for anyone to live over a business and to arrange their hours to handle the business. Price is according to stock and fixtures and is very reasonable. There is a real fine two-bedroom home available on Bridge St. East that is in real good condition and the price that we quote here is not just for the business but just for the apartment — it is the full price for both. If you have the cash you can buy, borrow or steal $4,000 as down payment and the balance you have the entire set-up and the building. Rental on the flat is $80 per month. Why not investigate? The price for everything of only $18,000. Don't wait long for this one. Call Mr. Jack Wilson at WO 2-3704 or Mr. Miller at WO 2-3000.

DISEASE ATTACKS DOGS

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—An incurable liver infection threatens to kill off the sled dog population at two remote northern Manitoba communities — virtually wiping out the livelihood of more than 1,000 Indians and Metis residents. J. R. Bell, head of the federal Indian affairs department office here, said Friday more than 200 sled dogs have been killed by the disease at Nelson House and South Indian Lake.

MARMORA

Havelock Trims Millionaires By 4-2 Score

MARMORA (Special)—Marmora Millionaires went down to a 4-2 defeat before Havelock in a scheduled OHA intermediate "A" game before a good crowd here last night.

The visitors led 3-0 at the end of the first period and added another in the second.

Marmora scored its goal midway through the third period but Havelock got it back a minute later. The Millionaires reduced the margin to one minute before the game ended.

Marmora—Barnell, Coombes and Whitney scored for the winners with Scott, Cooper, Dorris and MacArthur drawing assists.

Gus Leonard scored both goals for the Millionaires. Jones and Taranuit getting the helping.

Minor Hockey

Shutouts, individual performances and higher-than-usual scores featured the games peewee series at Memorial Arena this morning.

David Emerson of the Macs and Warren Wolfenden of the Wings each came up with four-goal efforts.

The Macs shut out the Bears 6-0 while the Bruins banked the Browns 6-0. In other games Quinte defeated the Leafs 4-3; Hawks took the measure of Rangers 3-1 and Wings set back the Blackhawks 4-1.

Emerson's quartet accounted for all the Macs' goals with Bobby Herrington getting two assists and Gregory Moore, one.

John Blakely paced the Bruins' 7-0 win, scoring twice while the other goals were counted by Jim Pringle, Ron Havelock, Bobby Parsons and Gary Brignell. Brignell, Ted Clarke Parsons and Hannah also connected.

David Beresford's three goals sparked the Quinte 7-2 win. The youngster also getting one assist. John Jones counted twice and Bob Beecher and Bill Hoard scoring singles. Peter Lloyd, Ron Hall and Dave Townsend had assists.

Gary Lucas, Stephen White and Don Muldoon tallied for the Black Hawks with Mal Brown counting the lone Rangers' goal with Dennis Chambers assisting.

Doug Dixon added his goal to Wolfenden's four in the Red Wings 5-1 win over Canadiens. Dickey Hall and Al Hall got Larry Finnemore. Ron Ling scored for Canadiens, helped by Ross Drysdale.

MACMILLAN SAILS

of the federation. But he avoided running an expensive election in public to this effect.

WARNS AGAINST RACISM

And he warned white political leaders against "developing an intense African nationalism" and against shouting slogans. No one, Macmillan said, "can live by casting votes and counting them."

He crowds which met the prime minister on his African tour carried placards with slogans such as "Mac, we demand secession from federation" or "release Dr. Banda" and "Freedom now."

Most of the protests were good-humored. There was one half-hearted attempt to set off a crude bomb in a hotel at Ndola but at Salisbury there was a more serious trouble.

At Salisbury Macmillan was lunching a crowd of several hundred demonstrating racialists threw rocks at the hotel and tried to push through a police cordon. Thirty-four persons, including seven women, were arrested. A screaming mob of whites also met Sir Robert Armitage, governor of Nyasaland, charged that the police were rough in handling the crowd and has ordered a judicial inquiry.

DISTURBED BY INCIDENT

Sources close to Macmillan said this was the one incident that really disturbed him.

They have been reports that Britain will release Dr. Banda, leader of the banned African Nationalist Congress, possibly this month. Banda was arrested with hundreds of others during riots in Nyasaland nearly a year ago.

In South Africa, the prime minister used all his powers to avoid apartheid and other touchy subjects.

But in a speech to the South African Parliament Wednesday, he said he would have been "less than honest" if he did not say that Britain cannot support "some aspects" of South African policy.

He didn't refer directly to apartheid but coupled the remark with the observation that Britain opposes racial discrimination.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd replied to Macmillan that no one could do good by trying to hurt those who hold different outlooks—"let us try to understand one another."

Pick the Right Generator For Emergency Farm Power

TORONTO — Maybe there will be another ice storm, maybe not. But if you're thinking about buying a generator for stand-by power, Hal Wright's advice might be of some help.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture engineer says that you can buy generators that can be operated by P.T.O., belt power, gasoline motor or a natural gas engine. Tractor-driven generators produce an alternating current of 110/220 volts with an output varying from 3,000 to 12,000 watt capacity. Units producing 500 to 3,500 watts on 110 volts are driven by gasoline engines.

What size generator will fit your needs? Says Wright: "It varies with the amount of power needed to supply essential equipment."

Here's what a dairyman might need:

1-3 h.p. milking machine needs 6-7 amps; 3-4 h.p. bulk milk tank needs 13-21 amps; 1 h.p. bulk milk tank agitator needs 45 amps; 1-7 h.p. water pump motor needs 6-7 amps.

These total 26 to 31 amps. Now use a rule-of-thumb starting formula: amperes times volts equals watts. Substituting you get: 28 amps x 100 volts equals 2,800 watts. And 2,800 watts is the minimum house and barn lighting and you end up with a total of three and 4,500 watts for the dairyman.

Bigger the motors so you can use a smaller unit of about 2,500 watts to handle emergency requirements, suggests Wright. "A generator of this capacity (complete with control panel, mounting a voltmeter and plug-in-receptacles) costs about $400. Bigger facilities units include producing 3,000 to 12,000 watts range from $700 to $700."

Can you afford it? Wright thinks milk producers' losses might eat up the cost of a generator within a week. Other contingency plans: dairymen could stagger their milking hours and both use the same portable equipment; portable generators are handy as power units for welding equipment breakdowns in the field.

BUY BUILDINGS TO LOWER FEED COSTS

You have a choice: one company is selling you a poultry house for $2.10 a square foot; another company wants $1.30. Which will you choose?

"If the more expensive building offers you better insulation and ventilation — think twice before you consider it too high priced. It could cut feed costs by making the birds more comfortable", says Ross Milne, engineering assistant specialist with the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

"Think of it this way: feed makes up between 50% to 60% of the cost of producing a dozen eggs; building costs are less than 10%. By choosing a building which helps the feed costs, you might be able to cut feed costs a lot, without putting up the building costs too much", he adds.

Milne described an example where a 10,000 bird poultryman who was netting $3,000 could just about net $6,000 by reducing his feed costs by 4% pounds of feed per dozen eggs to 4 pounds of feed per dozen eggs.

"The same thing applies to hogs, only even more so", he believes. Feed costs for growing out a hog run around the 80% mark. If hog comfort is related to feed conversion, think about saving in feed cost before stressing labor savings. It's true possible, for example, to swelter a poorly insulated building. Moisture must vaporize before it can be removed and in a cold building moisture will not vaporize".

TIMELY TIPS

If you have decided what fertilizer you're going to need next spring, buy it now, advise soil experts with the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Not only do you avoid the rush but it's cheaper, too. Some companies are offering up to $10 discount per ton if the fertilizer is ordered and delivered before the 15th of March. There's no charge for early fertilizer going hard or deteriorating, providing you store them in a dry place, completely away from and sources of moisture.

"Except under special circumstances, it might be wise to play with the ordinary methods of preparing feed stuffs," advises Haldimand - Norfolk Agricultural Representative, Gordon Skinner. Pelleted feed requires less storage and handling but cost is still the limiting factor, he believes.

"It seems logical to kill warbles before they migrate to the back and injure the hide," says Dr. Keith Allen, Agricultural Representative for Dufferin County. "Most of the heel steer calves were treated with the new systemic insecticide on the farm of Frank Gamble recently. Co-Rel controls lice and kills warbles . . . this is a new approach to controlling these pests."

Good dairy farms in the future will have to sell over 250,000 pounds of milk per man and will be over the minimum herd size, said U.S. county agent specialist, Keith Smith, to the County Soil and Crop Improvement Association. Hodnett said: "Dairy farmers had to concentrate more and more on herd improvement per cow, forage yields and keeping down machinery costs.

EUCHRE

READ — A euchre was held in the town hall on Sunday evening, sponsored by the Catholic Women's League with 12 tables of euchre in play. Prizes went to the following: ladies, first, Mrs. Brennan; Mrs. Ida McAvoy; men, Joe Higgins; Gerald Brennan; consolation, Bruce Delyea. Lunch was served and a social hour was held. The next euchre will be held on February 14th.

Mr. Vernon Fenton of Port Perry; Miss Barbara Davis of Peterborough spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Kehoe.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. James Ganon who were married recently. A shower was held for them in the parish hall on Friday evening.

The monthly meeting of the Home School Club was held on Monday evening in St. Mary's School with 28 members and two guests present and the meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. James Kehoe. The secretary-treasurer's report was given by Mrs. William Hanley, stating there was $181 on hand.

Discussion took place on entertainment and it was decided to wait until March.

Father Hamilton took over the meeting and answered many questions which proved interesting. Anyone having any further questions is asked to bring them to the next meeting on March 7th.

After the meeting adjourned, a few games of bingo were played.

Mrs. Joseph Walsh and Mrs. Gerald Walsh served refreshment. Mrs. Joe Nash, Mrs. Joe Horne, Mrs. Kyril Hunt and Mrs. Francis Coffey are asked to bring lunch to the next meeting.

BUILDS CHARACTER — Michael Johnson of the 4th Willowdale Boy Scout troop in Toronto is one of Canada's 273,000 Boy Scouts who will try to bring the movement's character-building objectives to the attention of adults during Boy Scout Week Feb. 7-13.

Michael, 17, a top high school student, has earned many proficiency and public service badges in his five-year Scout career. On his right shoulder he displays badges which show he has mastered courses in St. John Ambulance, citizenship, and entertaining, home handicrafts, camping, laundering, care of invalids, winter sports and animal care.

On his left shoulder, Michael has four public service badges in ambulance training, pathfinding, firefighting and dispatch riding. These are necessary to make him a Queen's Scout, highest category in Scouting.

The gold cord on his chest signifies he is a Queen's Scout, at least 18 proficiency badges. (CP Photo).

Boy Scout Week Will Bring Before Public Excellent Work Of This Movement in Canada

By ROY LABERGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 273,000 Boy Scouts will try to make their character - building movement better known to adults during Boy Scout Week Feb. 7-13.

They'll do it through parents' nights, father - and - son banquets, mother - and - son parties, open - house meetings, exhibitions and hobby shows, poster displays, church parades and a host of similar activities.

Helping them will be 26,000 adult leaders who serve without pay in the movement that embraces one of every eight Canadian boys in the eight - to - 17 age group.

ACTIVE GROUPS

The boys meet at least once weekly in some 8,000 Boy Scout troops, wolf cub packs for the under - 12 group and Rover crews which scouts may join at 16 years old, if they wish, to continue Scout work until they are 23.

Outdoor camping forms an important part of scout activity, but with Canadian scouts spending an average of five nights in camp last year. But the movement's main emphasis is on welding character.

"The whole object of our scouting is to seize the boy's character in its red - hot stage of enthusiasm and to weld it into the right shape and then encourage and develop its individuality — so that he may ultimately himself become a good man and a valuable citizen for his country," wrote Lord Baden - Powell, the British major - general who founded the movement in 1907.

This basic aim remains unchanged. Scout leaders say the scout is "trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty and reverent." These are the characteristics he learns, memorizes and promises to obey in his scout law.

"On my honor I promise that I will do my best to do my duty to God and the Queen, to help other people at all times and to obey the scout law," pledges each scout on formal enrolment in the movement, and again at every investiture.

MANY SPONSORS

Recognition of the movement's value is seen in the sponsorship of scout groups by religious organizations — Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic — home-and-school and parent - teacher associations, industrial concerns, schools, Canadian Legion branches, fraternal organizations, chambers of commerce, women's institutes and other groups.

There are troops for blind, deaf, crippled and mentally - retarded youngsters, a scout group on almost every military base in Canada and overseas, Sea Scout crews specializing in national survival and Sea Scout troops for girls, boys on inland and coastal waters.

Canada holds a special place in world scouting because the Boy Scouts International Bureau is located in Ottawa via its director is a Canadian, Winnipeg born Maj.-Gen. R.C. Spry.

The bureau serves 67 member countries whose scout associations had to offer assurances they were non-political and enjoyed "freedom of action from external control other than that required by the laws of the country concerned."

The governing body of the world movement, the Boy Scouts International committee, will hold its annual meeting in Canada this year, likely in Ottawa, May 29 - 30. It represents 8,500,000 members and is one of the largest uniformed youth - training movements in the free world".

THOMASBURG — Mr. Thomas White and Mr. Harry Keller, who underwent surgery, in the Toronto Hospital, a couple of weeks ago, are convalescing at their homes.

Mrs. Marion Gray, who was a patient in Belleville Hospital has returned to her duties as teacher in Tweed High School.

Mrs. Isabel Crawford, who was a patient in Kingston General Hospital, is spending some time at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Percy Vance and Mr. Vance of Moneymore neighborhood.

Mr. Clarence Mouck is receiving treatment at the present time in Belleville Hospital.

Mr. Frank Brough, who was seriously ill at his home, with the 'flu last week, is somewhat improved although not sufficiently to return to his duties at Foster's Dairy, Tweed.

Miss Linda Vance is back at school again this week after a short illness with the infection of the throat.

Their many friends wish them all a speedy return to good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Emerson attended the funeral in Montreal, Quebec, of Kenneth Emerson, formerly of Belleville and a nephew of Mr. Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hodgate and family of Camnilton, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vance and family.

Mrs. Charles Mills of Harlowe is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Thompson, at present.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond French on the birth of a daughter, Penny Lynn in Belleville Hospital on January 27, 1960.

The pupils and teacher of the senior room of the school enjoyed a hot dinner served in the vestry at noon recently served by W.A. of the United Church.

The regular meeting of the W.A. followed the dinner.

Fire of unknown origin recently destroyed a farm hay - straw - stock garage owned by Mr. Lewis Morton.

Mr. Morton while doing chores at the barn directly across the road, noticed smoke coming from the upper storey and help was summoned immediately.

A considerable amount of apiary equipment was stored on the premises and was burned.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family.

DISTANT RECOVERY

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The driver's licence that Lennart Rosenlost while unloading a ship here has been recovered in Casablanca Morocco. A dock worker there found it on the ship and turned it over to police.

Garden Notes

Climbing Strawberries Available

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Have you always wanted to grow strawberries and thought you did not have the room for them? Two new climbing strawberries have been introduced lately that will grow on a trellis.

A West German nurseryman, Arnold Hummell has developed one named Sonjana. This has runners up to six or eight feet long that may be trained on a frame of wood or wire. (In Southern Ontario vines may become hot enough to burn the plants.) The plants will bear fruit from the ground up to the tip of the runner.

From France comes another new strawberry, Mount Everest, also a climber or one that can be trained on a support or grown to trail from a high wall or planter.

ALL-AMERICAN AWARDS

The All-American-Awards have given the most approved to three chrysanthemums. Pink Cherub, Headliner and Mardi Gras.

Pink Cherub is a lavender pink with deeper tints at the centre. It reaches a red-purple. Its blooms will stand considerable frost, bearing rain and buffeting wind before showing signs of ravages. The plants form a dwarf mass of color with their hundreds of pom-pom blooms one and a half inch across. Flowering begins in early September and the blooms last for weeks.

Headliner has unusual color. In bud it is a terra cotta. Open it is coral with brown gold reverse. From early September it blooms for several weeks. The plants grow two feet high and quite sturdy.

Mardi Gras is a deep glowing red-orange with cactl-type blooms which change as they mature to a gold. The whole plant looks like a bi-color of red and yellow. Two feet tall plants bloom in early September to heavy frost.

A whole new group of chrysanthemums are called the Harvest Series. They have long fuzz to six inch blooms with incurve petals. There is white, yellow, apricot, red and red-bronze.

These chrysanthemums will be available this year from many dealers.

The All-American Awards are given to plants that prove superior on several points. They are grown in the twenty official trial grounds which are in various States and Southern Canada. A qualified local judge is appointed to each station and he scores and rates the plants. These scores are tabulated and the averages taken. The final awards are chosen by secret ballot by a jury of 13 directors.

Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded and honorable mention given to plants that measure up to the high standards set by the trial grounds committees.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Mr. and Mrs. James Deline, Foxboro, and Mrs. William Shaw, were dinner guests on Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prest on Tuesday.

Mr. Keith Bray attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, Dr. Vincent Morse, of Buffalo, N.Y.

A number from Ivanhoe enjoyed a meeting in Madoc town Saturday evening and were later entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Miller Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ashley and Anne, of Belleville, were Saturday supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurenson Kellar, of Trenton, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood.

Cubans Applaud Mikoyan's Tale Of Missile Strength

Russian Head Praises Castro and Revolution

HAVANA (AP) — Russia's Anastas Mikoyan made appearances at both ends of Cuba's social scale Sunday, and was thunderously applauded on both occasions.

The Soviet deputy premier made the second public address of his Cuban visit to a meeting of the National Federation of Textile Workers. Sunday night he attended a concert of the Havana Symphony conducted by Russian composer Aram Khachaturian.

Mikoyan's speech to the textile workers included the usual Soviet claims of missile strength coupled with assurance of Russia's desire for peace.

"Those who talk of war," he said, "know that if we can send a rocket to the moon with such precision, we can send a rocket with the same precision to any point on earth."

But "war is against our wishes here and now, once and forever."

ENCOURAGES CUBANS

Mikoyan got another ovation as he outlined the rise of the Soviet Union under communism and declared, "the Cuban people can accomplish miracles, too."

Ernesto Guevara, leftist president of the Cuban National Bank, spoke following Mikoyan and said: "If we can land rockets on the moon, we can plant the revolutionary ideas on the moon."

Mikoyan's appearance at the bank was announced in advance. It apparently was designed to lend prestige to the union's head, Jesus Soto, looked on as a Red sympathizer. Soto is a leading target of anti-Communists in organized labor.

Mikoyan's activities had been cloaked in secrecy since he was driven out of Havana Saturday morning under heavy escort. The Soviet news agency Tass reported that Mikoyan and Fidel Castro visited the Cienaga de Zapata swamp area of Matanzas which are to be drained and planted to rice. It was learned, they, and possibly other top officials, conferred about closer Cuban-Soviet trade ties and the possibility of resuming diplomatic relations severed in 1952.

Argentine Navy Admits Search For Mystery Sub

Denies Attack By Depth Bombs

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine warships and planes searched today for a mystery submarine believed lurking off the southeast coast of South America.

Newspapers claim it has been bottled up in the Golfo Nuevo, a strategic inlet 900 miles south of Buenos Aires. There was no indication what its nationality might be.

Navy Secretary Clarion Clement confirmed a widespread hunt is under way but refused to discuss reports claiming the submarine had been hit by depth bombs dropped from a plane. He complained that the sensational treatment by press reports on the operation "has created a state almost panic."

Thousands flocked to the beaches around the gulf to wait for action.

One newspaper Democrata says the trapped submarine was spotted and that two other unidentified submarine with depth charges aboard. That also a marine escaped.

The government never identified the submarine but naval sources speculated it was Russian.

Chicago-Style Killing Comes To London; Gang War Seen

LONDON (AP) — A secret gang war over the rich pickings from London's sex and liquor clubs flared into violent death in open violence and murder.

Handsome Selwyn Cooney, a bullet in his head, staggered from a club in squalid Duval Street to die in the gutter.

Blue - jowled William Absrose, alias Billy the Boxer, slumped over his body, blood welling from a wound in his stomach.

As a beautiful blonde sobbed over Cooney's corpse, three scarfaced hoodlums jumped into a waiting automobile and roared off into the night.

Chicago-style killing had come to London.

Ambrose crawled to his car and drove a mile to hospital. There, too, he was pumped.

Early today, after an operation, he was "comfortable" but still was too ill to talk. But police were also to build up a picture of the crime.

It was 2 a.m. Sunday when the bullet-riddled body was found on the cobbles of Duval Street in the West end of London—scene of a "Jack the Ripper" murder in 1888.

The three men, hats pulled low over their eyes, climbed a rickety staircase to the Pen Club party and opened the doorway to "Fair Fay" Richardson.

Fay was seeing guests to the door when the killers burst in. They made straight for Ambrose and Cooney, who were drinking together at the bar.

The crash of broken bottles momentarily drowned muted juke-box music. Then three shots ended the fight as sudden-ly as it had started.

The mobsters ran out and down Duval Street, passing the old boss of the new Cabinet Club in the west end, stumbled after them but died in the street.

Police started a comb-out of strip-tease and drinking clubs in the area. Duval Street was cordonned off, "the Pen Club closed.

After a quick round of investigations police said they believe the shooting was brought into the open a smouldering east-west feud between gangs on opposite sides of town.

Police believe the weekend shootings may signal the declaration of open war.

Queen Changes Family Name With Exception

LONDON (CP) — The Queen announced tonight that future generations of the royal family—except those in direct line to the throne—will bear the royal name of Mountbatten-Windsor, giving them her husband's name as well as her own.

A spokesman at Buckingham Palace said "The Queen has had this in mind during the long time it is close to her heart."

"The Queen has always wanted to associate the name of her husband with those of her own descendants, without changing the name of the royal house established by her grandfather."

The announcement of the Privy Council today declared her will that while she and her children during the reign of her father as the House and Family of Windsor, the children of those children those entitled to the title of royal highness and prince or princess and their descendants, except and their children, should bear the surname of Mountbatten - Windsor."

McKee to Hang

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet has set September 6 as the tonight's scheduled execution of Marvin McKee, 20, of Montreal, Que., for the fatal shooting of a taxi driver, it was announced today.

Nikita Manoeuvering to Reap Benefits From Meet Failure

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev's activities make it seem more and more clear that he has little faith in the summit conference, or the summit in Paris three months from now, and that he is manoeuvering to get benefit from the failure.

Khrushchev is carrying out a campaign of bitter propaganda offensive on a number of fronts.

His latest statement on the possibility of a Peace Treaty with Germany, by which a peace agreement, for example, seems likely to be signed by the Soviet leader until it is stripped to its bare essentials. That is the definition of the same old propaganda.

His stage direction of the meeting of Communist satellite leaders at the Warsaw pact conference, resulted in a statement full of ringing words about hopes for world peace, but a statement of cause of world peace not an inch.

Khrushchev approaches the summit with the air, apparently, of wringing all the benefit possible out of the proposal for total world disarmament. This is a proposal which Khrushchev knows as Khrushchev undoubtedly intended it to be. But in a world looking for peace, it undoubtedly has psychological impact.

Yet, Khrushchev expects to get nowhere, so far as agreement on such a proposal is concerned. He would be dismayed if there were any chance that he has gone somewhere.

His weekend statement on nuclear testing ignores the West's position that the basis he proposes for negotiations already has been rejected as unfair. Nuclear testing begins again, Khrushchev says, and he will be to blame.

Khrushchev's major attention, however, seems centered on Germany and Berlin. He asks the West to withdraw its troops and says its possible from West Germany and Berlin. That would be a fatal to recognize Communist East Germany. That is the German militarism will risk war to win back German territories lost in the Second World War. He claims even the United States, Britain and France oppose Adenauer.

The object seems to be to bring to an increasingly pressure against the West German government, and if possible to the summit. The process is one of softening up the opposition for the real bout.

Through the Warsaw pact declarations at the 21-nation conference Khrushchev announced he wanted to threaten at the world world disarmament, peace treaties with the Communists and West German governments, and the calling of the four - power occupation of West Germany, Berlin, Austria and East-West relations in that order.

Present indications are that unless the West is prepared to make some substantial concession, there will be little progress on the first four points. That leaves the pressure Khrushchev of the need for an immediate resumption of all-out cold war if he is so inclined.

Judges Claim 'Met' Used Them As 'Stooges'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five contest judges have accused the Metropolitan Opera of using them as "stooges" in a competition aimed at finding new talent for the opera company.

An official of the Metropolitan did not allow them free choice but dictated the winner, the judges said.

This was denied Sunday by the official, Assistant Manager John Gutman.

"The results were arrived at by majority vote, which I thought was the good old-fashioned democratic process," he said. But he added that the rules did permit him to have final say.

Soprano Eleanor Steber of Baltimore, earned the right to participate in the national auditions and their chance for a tryout at the Met.

The weekend contest had six judges: Rudolf Bing, Little Paul Home of the Washington Post, gave this description of the selection process:

"Gutman told us, 'Gentlemen, you can select a second-and third-place winners by the democratic process, but I must insist on the controlling voice in who is the first-place winner.'" The second and third winners receive cash but do not go on to the national finals.

The sixth judge, Richard Bates, music director of the National Gallery of Art, said he was not upset over Gutman's conditions and had wanted Miss Monette to win from the start.

Aussie Inventor's Engine So Good It Hurls Auto Into Posts, Tree

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Inventor Peter Garrett of Melbourne claimed today to have developed a small lightweight rotary engine with only five moving parts and a single spark plug.

It developed so much power on its trial run in his car that it burned out the clutch and hurled the auto into six fence posts and a tree, he said.

Bodycomb, an official with the Australian agriculture department, said his engine was a cylinder coolaining two vanes which revolve at high speed on an offset shaft inside a flat, round cylinder side. There are no pistons or connecting rods.

As the vanes spin, a rotary in take port opens and the vanes suck in and compress a gasoline-air mixture. The spark plug then fires and the explosion forces the vanes around.

"My engine, with a third of the weight and size of a family car engine, could develop the same power with much greater fuel economy," he said.

Conservatives Did Not Reply To Challenge

Student Groups Tangle at Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — A curtain keeping Liberal and Progressive Conservative student conventions from squaring off in inter-party debate held tight during the weekend despite urging by the Liberals.

A challenge to a public debate was issued Friday by the Canadian University Liberal Federation, meeting in convention. The Progressive Conservative Student Federation, also meeting in convention, did not reply.

The incoming Liberal executive, dominated by the Ontario delegation, descended Saturday night on the hotel where the Conservatives were meeting. A number of Liberal supporters trailed along for the fun.

The Conservative executive refused to see the Liberals, who became increasingly irritated. Word spread that some of the Liberals intended to boo Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who was coming to address the Conservatives, and this added to the tension.

ROOM GUARDED

When Mr. Diefenbaker arrived with Mrs. Diefenbaker, the main body of Liberals was barred from the floor by Keith Morrison, a former football player who stood guard outside the doorway of a room where the Liberals had gathered.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in his address, said personal attacks on Conservative leaders at conventions have become "the policy and direction of the Liberal party in its desperation." He said the Liberal administration has been deliberately trying to create a feeling of crisis in the country in order to "restore Parliament to something of its former greatness."

Liberal Leader Pearson, guest speaker near the close of the Liberal convention Saturday, urged party followers to give of their time and organizing abilities in the next few months. If not the Liberals "not so much back to power but back to office and responsibility so we can serve the country."

PLAN SUMMER SCHOOL

Mr. Pearson said the Liberals should plan a summer study of Canadian problems and possibly a summer school to prepare the party's national rally later this year.

Police Called To Escort Trucks

SARNIA (CP)—Provincial police were called early today to escort three trucks owned by Consolidated Truck Lines Limited, travelling between Sarnia and London, because the drivers believed they were followed by a carload of striking Teamster Express Company drivers.

Some 400 members of Local 880 of the Teamsters Union (CLC), employees of Overland, staged a wildcat walkout Friday in addition to pay them once every two weeks instead of weekly. Eighteen of them are at the Sarnia branch.

Iraq, Tunisia Boycott Meeting Of Arab League

Charge Israel Attempts Expansion of Territory

CAIRO (Reuters) — Syrian-Israeli border clashes topped the agenda as the Arab League council met today with two members conspicuously absent.

Iraq and Tunisia, both feuding with the United Arab Republic, refused to attend the council meeting held at the foreign ministers' level. The league made a last minute appeal Saturday for all members to attend, but only Saudi Arabia sent Prince Baghdad radio Sunday night at the U.A.R.'s "treachery intrigues" on holding the meeting.

Other top items on the agenda were Algeria and plans to counter Israel's plans to divert the waters of the Jordan River. Attending are the U.A.R., Lebanon, Jordan, Morocco, Libya, Saudi Arabia and Yemen.

The U.A.R. war minister, Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, made a sudden midnight flight from Damascus to confer with President Nasser about Israel. Egypt is Israel's interior minister, Col. Abdel Latif Boghdadi, who has refused her interview that "there is no doubt that Israel is attempting to expand at our expense."

For the first time since the 1956 Israel-Arab war, Israeli and Syria, Egypt and Jordan are officially on the alert along the Israeli border.

League secretary Mohammed Hassan El-Zayyat said Sunday at the meeting might mark one of the most important stages in the Arabs' 12-year struggle against Israel.

Chimpanzee Artist Dies Of Bad Liver

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Tom sat down at a piano to play real jazz.

Baltimore zoo director Arthur Vernon said: "He deliberately selected. He didn't peck.

High praise for a chimpanzee.

Dr. Tom was a TV star for eight years, but the Peabody Conservatory could not help him—and the sensitive ape never got over it.

Afterward he tried painting and clowning in a baseball suit, but he failed at both.

Dr. Tom died during the weekend in the prime of his life.

The veterinarian said he found a bad liver and other disorders in the 10 - year - old chimpanzee.

He did not mention an artistic soul once disillusioned.

Bright Light Thought Meteor

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Most experts believe a light that flashed across the sky here early Sunday was a meteor. Hundreds of persons saw them in Utah, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

A amateur astronomer Floyd Dickores, Bellevue, Wash., said he tracked a red ball in the sky for 30 seconds before it burst in "bright flash lighted the room." He said the ball was bright as the sun when it burst, and guessed it was several thousand miles away.

"It seemed to stay stationary between two stars for three or four seconds," he said. "Then took off with fantastic speed and disappeared."

Richard Below, pilting a Western Airlines plane 11,000 feet over Nevada reported the light. He said was "fantastically bright. . . . It was reported to the pilot . . . and the cabin and the entire sky outside."

Miner Found Alive

TOKYO (Reuters) — One of seven miners trapped for 47 hours after an explosion in a coal mine on the southern island of Yyushu has been found alive, Japanese radio said today.

Rescue crews continued hunting for the remaining six.

Soviet Press Has Produced Sob Sister to Liven Newspaper

MOSCOW (AP)—The effort to liven up the Soviet Press has produced a sob sister.

She is Vera Tkachenko, newspaper Trud, whose entertainment content once was made up mostly of lectures on raising production quotas, now comes forward with the first Soviet "agony column," an officialdom and a gay deceiver, in real Soviet newspaper style.

The Communist-type sob sister is Vera Tkachenko, Trud's correspondent in the newspaper's heart-rending tale.

Vera separated three years ago from her army officer husband in the Urals. They had quarrelled because he thought she couldn't bear children.

Vera went to Moscow and took to Ordzhonikidze, her husband's birthplace, hoping he might remarry her. But he married the chief librarian of an industrial school. Now 28, she hid her heartbreak behind gaiety. She was the life of almost any Ordzhonikidze party.

Enter the gay deceiver.

Before long, the distraught Wanda confided shyly to a girl friend that she was going to have a baby. Worse than that, her condition prevented her from doing her duty to country and Communist party by volunteering for seasonal farm work.

The girl friend's school party committee summoned her and Wanda to "take measures" about the unborn infant or give up her job. But Wanda wanted the child, the record said. The brave girl talked to the city party committee.

The industrial school committee related a bit. Shewould keep the child, but would not be promoted.

The school committee still wanted respectability. Wanda should, it said, marry somebody to give the child a name. And the deceiver had fled. Wanda steamed at the "bad" committee would return, forgive her and accept her child. Then sob sister got a bit carried away:

"So I saw the woman who fled with all this fuss. I see with what dignity she built her noteasy position, with what wonderful light and love her face was suffused when she talked about the future of her child. I believed, as she believes, that motherhood will bring her happiness."

Watch Trud for future developments.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A storm centre north of Lake Superior and moving eastward at 35 m.p.h. is causing snowfalls over southwestern Ontario. Winds are causing considerable drifting in most regions. The storm will be centred over eastern Ontario early Tuesday and cold air that is now sweeping southeastward across Manitoba west of the storm centre will replace the mild air now covering Ontario. Northwest winds reaching gale force on Tuesday will bring much colder weather with snowflurries and considerable drifting to all regions.

American Firm Lays Pipe Line Expecting Gas

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian and an American company blicked before the National Energy Board Saturday about natural ural distribution rights in New York state.

The Canadian company has the gas and the American firm—according to a prelude forthcoming—has pipe already in place under the St. Lawrence Seaway. Still undecided is which will get distribution rights.

The feuding between Niagara Gas Transmission Company, subsidiary of Consumers' Gas of Toronto, and Niagara & Mohawk Power Corporation took place after the first Saturday sitting for the board. It began hearing five gas export applications Jan. 5 and hopes to finish next week.

The board also heard a brief submission on the Ontario Government, another of the interveners, which said Ontario wants assurance of adequate reserves but a strong oil and gas industry in Ontario was not unduly concerned about the five applications provided next-year-to-be met and export prices were no lower than Canadian levels.

T. C. Moran of Niagara Mohawk Power told the board that the company obtained permission from Ontario Hydro Electric and the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority to have gas pipes embedded in a seaway lock during 1957 construction.

This was done at Iroquois lock at a cost to the company of $150,000, Mr. Moran said, and the necessary clearance for it was not made at the same time in exploining seaway dam on the American side through construction of the New York State power commission.

Niagara Mohawk and St. Lawrence Gas, another subsidiary of Consumers' Gas, each seeks gas distribution rights in the Ogdensburg-Massena area of New York State. Through Niagara Gas Transmission St. Lawrence Gas is assured gas supplies by a contract with Trans - Canada Pipe Lines Limited.

14 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Traffic mishaps caused 11 of the 14 fatalities recorded across Canada during the weekend. Two died in fires and one by drowning.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday until midnight Sunday shows Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia each had three deaths.

Two persons were killed in Ontario, Alberta and Manitoba died by fire in both Ontario and British Columbia and Alberta each had one death by asphyxiation.

One person was killed in Newfoundland traffic, one in Quebec and Saskatchewan and two on New Brunswick roads.

Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba reported no traffic deaths. The total, which includes accidents connected with all forms of weekend activities.

FIRE DESTROYS FRONT ST. AWNING

An awning at Woodley's Store on Front Street was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning with city firemen being called to put out the blaze.

Firemen were out on the job during the weekend. One smoke runs was to Frank Street for a chimney blaze, and the other was a standby call for a minor accident when a vehicle went into a telephone pole on Dundas Street, West.

DEFINITELY SURE IT WAS A SKUNK

It could have been a groundhog in disguise with its dates mixed but Hazen Staite, city barber, yesterday affirmed:

Obituaries

HARRY BLAKE LOCKWOOD

The funeral of Harry Blake Lockwood was held from John H. Bush Funeral Home Saturday afternoon. Rev. Daniel Heal conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were: Henry Thickson, Allan Gowland, Norman Hannill, Donald Morton, Marlo Bienias and William Dean.

ROBERT JAMES SEYMOUR Athens

Following a brief illness, Robert James Seymour of Athens died at his home on Saturday. He was born near Athens, 82 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Seymour and lived all his life in the community all of his life. For many years he was a successful farmer in the nearby village, but for the past 43 years had been a resident of the village, where he was well known and highly respected. His memory was most active for his age, being able to walk downtown practically each day to do the shopping and visit with his many friends in the village.

His wife, the former Caroline Jane Green, who is 91 years of age, is in remarkably good health for her years and with her husband celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary in September of last year. Mr. Seymour enjoyed a wide circle of friends in the community, who will sincerely regret his death, which brings to an end a link with the historic past of that community.

He was a member of Christ Church at Athens, and took an active interest in the work of his church. He is survived by his wife; one son, Arthur W. Seymour, Athens; one brother, Ware of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Robert (Gil) Lewis and Mrs. Samuel Gallagher, both of Smith's Falls. Also surviving are four grandchildren, Mrs. Thomas Burke and Allan Weatherhead of Belleville, and five great grandchildren, one daughter, Mrs. Manuel Westerfield, died in 1957.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday from his late residence to Christ Church in Athens for service with interment in Oakleaf cemetery near Athens.

ALFRED ALONZO WILSON

Following a lengthy illness, Alfred Alonzo Wilson, 145 Victoria Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this morning. Mr. Wilson, who was born in Clark township was Fort Hope 72 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson. He came to this city about 1910 and for 23 years was a valued member of the Belleville Fire Department. He retired some years ago but never lost his love for the department and enjoyed going over to the hall for a visit with the pals of many years.

Mr. Wilson was well known and highly respected in this community and enjoyed a wide circle of friends both inside and outside his employment, who will sincerely regret his death. He was a member of Bridge Street United Church and fraternally was a life member of Belleville Lodge No. 81 AF & AM at Port Hope.

Surviving are his wife, the former Pearl Palmer; one son, Dean Wilson, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Alex McKeown, California, Mrs. Elizabeth Cobbledick of Belleville and one brother, Charles Wilson of Toronto.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, North Front Street; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. CLINTON CASEY

Mrs. Annie Casey, 3rd concession of Thurlow, R.R. 6, Belleville, died early Monday in the Belleville General Hospital. She had been in failing health for the past four years, and was in her 68th year.

Born in Corbyville, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Pembroke Way, and had lived in Thurlow township all her life.

She was a member of Bethany United Church.

Her husband, Clinton Casey, predeceased her in 1951.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. George (Ruth) Wilson of Thurlow township; one brother, Grant Way of Belleville, and three grandchildren, Marilyn, Dale and Terry Wilson.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Avenue. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this issue.

Two Sentenced To Reformatory On Fraud Counts

Reformatory terms of up to two years were handed down by Magistrate F. W. Wills in county magistrate's court this morning for Royal Rene Lacroix and Barbara Parsons, both of Ottawa, on charges of theft and evidence on false pretences charges.

The two pleaded guilty last Wednesday to multiple charges of fake pretences involving the passing of bad cheques, Lacroix being charged with 12 offences and Miss Parsons with three.

Lacroix was sentenced to two years in the common jail with Magistrate Wills noting this would mean he would go to the reformatory. Miss Parsons was sent to the Mercer Reformatory for an unlimited period not exceeding two years.

The pair were sentenced prior to four other Ottawa young people, all members of the same gang, going on trial for conspiracy to obtain money by false pretences and conspiracy charges were laid in connection with the passing of bad cheques at Kingston, Belleville and Trenton.

Charged with conspiracy are Marina "Bunny" Thivierge, Michael Richard Simone, Andrew Hill and Patrick O'Hearn.

The four are being defended by local solicitors Ben Hurley and Thomas Lally.

ARRESTED AT MOTEL

Four of the six member party were arrested by police at a Trenton district motel, while the two others were apprehended in Oshawa and returned to Belleville.

The court room at the city police station was cleared of Crown witnesses as Mr. Hurley asked that witnesses be excluded prior to the commencement of the hearing. At least a dozen O.P.P. officers have been called to testify by the Crown.

As the case commenced, a request by Mr. Lally for withdrawal of the conspiracy charges and the forging charges of false pretences stand, was denied by the magistrate.

First witness called was Floyd C. Richardson, Trenton district motel operator, who said the six group members had rented three rooms at his motel on the night of January 10th. He said he recognized the five prisoners seated on the prisoners' bench as being the six who had stayed at the motel.

1960 World Almanac Surveys Space Age

By HARRY HANSEN

Global events that make 1959 a year to be known in history are highlighted in the World Almanac and Book of Facts for 1960. The latest issue of this one-volume encyclopedia, now in its 75th year, nominates as top news the consecutive trip of the Soviet Chrushchev to the United States, the peak accomplishment of Soviet science in rocketry to the moon, and the decision of the West to stand firmly behind the freedom of Berlin — diplomatic, scientific and military developments of incalculable effect on the future welfare of the free nations.

The 1960 Almanac devotes special attention to events that influence trade and friendly relations in the Western Hemisphere and publishes a comprehensive report on government, industry, business and social welfare in Canada, with statistics from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The section on the Commonwealth of Nations is the largest under the subject of foreign countries; it includes a complete table of English and British rulers and information about the Royal Family, descriptions of the visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip to Canada and the ceremonies attending the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. In addition, shipping on the Great Lakes and trade with the United States and the United Kingdom are covered, with lists of transatlantic ships and their tonnage, and also the big tankers now carrying petroleum from Near Eastern ports.

Of special usefulness to readers everywhere are the pages dealing with astronomical calculations, including dates of the eclipses of 1960 planetary conjunctions and tables for sun, moon and stars for the northern latitudes. Other sections devoted to religious news, including holidays and feast days, sports, travel, finance, and other developments in business and industry make the World Almanac a handy reference work and helpful companion to students, teachers, industrial leaders and all who wish to keep accurately informed.

The World Almanac and Book of Facts for 1960 is published by the New York World-Telegram and Sun, 896 pages, clothbound and paperbound.

IN MEMORIAM

MARTIN. — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away February 8th, 1954.

Our family circle has been broken, A link gone from our chain;
But though we're parted for a while, We know we'll meet again.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by her daughter and son-in-law Grace.

MARTIN. — In loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Martin, who passed away February 8th, 1954.

The years we loved are now laid by;
Their loving voices are still;
Their chair is empty, all clasped in mine.
Life now in death's cold chill.
We often sit and think of them,
When all alone we roam,
Their memory is our treasure still,
That grief can call its own.

Sadly missed and remembered by their daughter Beatrice Weslake, and family, Belleville.

SOPHER. — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, who passed away February 8th, 1954.

The depth of sorrow we cannot tell.
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep
His memory we will always keep.
Lovingly remembered by Eida and Irene and families.

CARE of THANKS

I wish to thank Drs. H. and R. Eastman, Belleville, and the staff of General Hospital for the care given to me at Mrs. Hilda Miller's. My sincere thanks to the many dear friends for acts of kindness extended to myself and family during my recent confinement.

— J. Sider, R. R. 4, Belleville.

I sincere thank you to all my friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness shown to me while patient in the Belleville hospital. Visits, greeting and good well cards, flowers and many other gifts were much appreciated. Warm thanks to Rev. Mr. Davis and Rev. Mr. Gardner for their visits and cards. Also, special thanks to Dr. Donald and Dr. Bruce and Dr. Thompson for their kindness. Nursing and her efficient staff of supervisors, nurses and other helpers. Will each one please accept this as a personal thank You !!

— Mabel Cluke.

Second Suspect In Break-in Is Arrested

A second suspect in last week's attempted safe robbery at the Tweed Steel Works has now been arrested, and both have been charged with breaking and entering with intent.

Arrested in Belleville Saturday were Lawrence Baker, 22, of Foxboro. Earlier Wilfred J. Henderson of Point Anne was apprehended. Both men will appear this week for remand, Henderson this morning at Tweed, and Baker possibly at Belleville on Thursday.

The men had been arrested in connection with the break-in at the Tweed Steel Works last week where the office safe was cut open with an acetylene torch. Only office records were in the strongbox.

United Cement Workers Enjoy Annual Banquet

Club Canara was the setting Friday for the annual dance and banquet of local Union 219, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union.

Some hundred and twenty-five members, their wives and invited guests sat down to a splendid dinner and enjoyed a delightful evening of dancing.

President Donald Burshaw acted as master of ceremonies for the evening and introduced the executive members of Local 219 and invited guests, among whom were Fourth General vice-president J. J. Knapik and Mrs. Knapik; District Representative Nelson Bradd; Mr. James Hunter, president of the Belleville and District Labor Council; Mr. Edward Hutchinson, Assistant Superintendent of Plant No. 1 and Mrs. Hutchinson and Charles Morton, general representative.

Brief addresses were given by vice-pres. Knapik and District Representative Bradd. A feature of the evening was the presentation of ten year membership badges to seven lovely members by Vice-President Knapik.

This annual affair has been a feature of Local 219 for many years and the members always look forward to it.

SIBERIAN EXILE

LONDON (AP) — The British newspaper Empire News said Sunday, Nina Dmitriev, a Soviet diplomat's wife who returned to Moscow after winning political asylum in Britain has been sentenced to 10 years' exile in Siberia. Quoting a Russian radio report, it said Nina was exiled on charges of "grave, unpatriotic crimes."

Youth Pleads Guilty to Charges Of Car Theft

Two Belleville youths, Walter Arthur Richards, and Raymond Gaffney, were remanded for sentence by Magistrate F. Wills this morning following a guilty plea to two charges of car theft.

The two pleaded guilty to stealing cars in Belleville, last Christmas night one of which was abandoned in the city, while the other was wrecked near Ottawa during a police chase. The pair were brought back to Belleville to face trial.

Total property damage to the two vehicles was given as $567.

Local solicitor Ronald Cass appeared for the Richards youth, while Robert Cooper appeared for Raymond Gaffney.

Crown Attorney John Pringle said that although an indictable offence had been committed and the property damage was fairly great, he said the youths were first offenders, and had given details themselves and said for this reason he was prepared to recommend suspended sentence.

Three Juveniles, Youth Face Joy Riding Charges

Three Juveniles, two of them girls, and a 16-year-old youth have been apprehended by provincial police here and charged with joy riding in connection with the theft of three cars in the Middleton Park area outside Brighton.

The car last taken was found wrecked at the intersection of 401 highway and No. 30 highway north of Brighton.

Rash of Minor Accidents Keep Police Busy

Belleville city police were kept on the run over the week-end investigating a rash of minor vehicle accidents, with close to 20 mishaps, all of a minor nature here in the city.

Most serious of the accidents was Saturday evening on Dundas Street West, near the Trudeau residence, when a car driven by Mrs. Kathleen Harvey, 21, of Belleville ran into a telephone pole bringing down telephone and hydro wires. Mrs. Harvey was charged with impaired driving and with driving to the danger of place other than at his residence.

Provincial police also reported no mishaps of a serious nature during the week-end that they were investigated.

Saturday night driven by John McLeod of Trenton and Ian A. Thompson of Weston collided on No. 2 Highway near Brighton. Belleville and Trenton when the latter car swerved to pass a slow truck. Mr. McLeod suffered a cut lip requiring several stitches.

Sunday morning a car driven by Robert J. Wright of Toronto struck a bridge at Kingsford resulting in $200 property damage. Also on Sunday a car driven by Kathleen Harvey, Pringle Drive Belleville, ran off the 401 Highway and rolled onto its roof, while No. 8 R.C.M.P. road and No. 2 Highway there was a three-vehicle mixup.

More About One-Shot Allergy Treatment

Q. Last summer I took the usual injections for hay fever. Next year I'd like to try the one-shot cure. Is this a new treatment be ready by then?
A. Maybe, but it's unlikely. What is now known about the one-shot method. First, it's not a "cure." It helps in the same way as ordinary allergy injections but these don't cure—they just keep things under better control. There are other misconceptions about the new "one-shot" allergy treatment that need clearing up. Here are a few:
Fancy: The one-shot method is new.
Fact: It isn't. It's quite involved, and a number of injections are required to get the one-shot treatment under way.
Fancy: The one-shot preparation is available through drug stores.
Fact: It is not now commercially available. Most of the material used so far has been hand-made by only one biological laboratory.
Fancy: The new method will cost less than the old.
Fact: Because of the cost of manufacture and the time required in the preparation and treatment of each patient, the new method is usually the same as or more than the cost for ordinary treatment methods.

Mercy Flight

TORONTO (CP)—Gary Smith, 20, of South Porcupine, who suffered a serious facial hemorrhage Tuesday, arrived at Toronto General Hospital Sunday night after being transported by an RCAF mercy flight.

The youth was injured by a fall in a gym class at South Porcupine High School. The flight was made in a Dakota aircraft piloted by P/O J. C. Hanlen of Trenton.

Smith had a good flight and was examined by doctors on arrival, hospital authorities said.

Father Finds Mother and Son Dead

COBOURG (CP) — Coroner F. J. Leeson said Sunday a date for the inquest into the shooting deaths here Saturday of Mrs. Laird Wicks and her son David will be set after the results of an autopsy are known.

Mr. Wicks, a liquor store employee, found the bodies in the bedroom of his home in this town 25 miles south of Peterborough when he returned for lunch. A .22 calibre pistol lay nearby.

Mr. Lesson said it appeared that the mother shot David, 11, and herself, but "we are not jumping to any conclusions." It would be up to an inquest to determine all angles of the case.

Wife Protects Husband and Receives Wound

TORONTO (CP)—A 21-year-old wife was stabbed in the stomach Sunday when she threw herself in front of her husband to protect him when two men demanded their money.

Erno Olaj, 24, of Toronto, told police his wife Ann and wife Sussie were approached by the men as they were about to enter their car after leaving a party.

Mr. Olaj said he didn't have any money. One of the men produced a large knife, he said, and his wife shouted a warning and threw herself in front of him. The man stabbed her then ran.

Mr. Olaj said he then got into the car went out of control and struck a fence nearly after. He then called a taxi and took Mrs. Olaj to Toronto General Hospital. Her condition was fair.

Dentist, Patient Apparently Robbery Victims

CHICAGO (AP) — A dying dentist and his slain patient were found in the dentist's office by police Saturday night. They were shot, police said, apparently in a holdup.

The dead patient and the unconscious dentist lay in a blood-stained office for hours. Another patient arrived, waited for part of that period, then left because he heard no one stirring. He told the locked inner door.

Police were Dr. David Friedman, 50, and Steven Bavlnik, 45, part owner of a wire products company.

Police went to the dentist's office after Mrs. Friedman telephoned that her husband had not returned home.

The pockets of both men were turned inside out, and their empty wallets discarded on the floor.

Nikita Takes Gronchi to Show, Runs Into Lodge

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev took President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy to the Bolshoi Ballet Sunday night—and found another distinguished visitor to the Soviet Union—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States.

Lodge, U.S. representative to the United Nations talked briefly with the Soviet premier. He was entertaining Lodge on a state visit to Russia. Lodge is on a private tour.

The three are expected to meet again tonight when Gronchi gives a reception for Soviet officials at the Italian Embassy.

Gronchi had private talks on Sunday with the Soviet leader.

Formal talks began today on disarmament, European security and aid to under-developed countries.

Close to Million Trees Planted By Authority

Close to a million trees planted in 1959 were in the reforestation record of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Details were the figures presented to member of the authority by Ross Thomson, Timber Forester, at the recent annual meeting of the Authority at Camnifton.

Total number of trees planted on Authority forest areas to date has been 958,225 with another 810 acres under management yet to be planted. Scheduled for planting this year is 181 acres.

Of the total of 449 acres planted, 258 acres were in the former Hastings County forest at Actinolite and in the Hungerford township forest, while 191 acres were by the Authority. A total of 337,200 trees has been planted in these two areas.

The years 1952 to 1957 saw 474 acres planted with 426,325 trees, while in 1958 a total of 181 acres with 85,000 trees were planted and 94,100 last year.

The property purchased by the Authority for reforestation purposes now totals some 7,119 acres with over 300 acres now in process of purchase.

With monies available this year for property purchases, it is anticipated that the figure will be increased to about 8,000 acres by year's end.

A great percentage of the Authority property is in the township of Hungerford, Elzevir and Sidney and much of the land was already well stocked with trees.

Car Accidents In Hundreds At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Rain followed by sharply-dropping temperatures turned Montreal district streets into treacherous sheets of ice during the weekend. Hundreds of accidents were reported and traffic lines were frequent.

At the intersection—Assomption Blvd. and Sherbrooke St. E. —15 minor accidents were recorded within one hour.

Traffic moved at a normal pace Sunday morning after a night-long effort by 700 men and 400 machines to spread salt and sand in the wake of the weekend storm.

CLC Educational Institute Holds Workshop in Town

TRENTON — "There is a well-organized political campaign being waged in Canada at the present time to put the Trade Union movement "in its place" and take away its effectiveness as an instrument for ensuring fair play for the working man and woman in this country."

This was the charge brought against the Federal and Provincial governments by Henry Welsbach, regional director of education of Ontario, Canadian Labor Congress, at the final session of the CLC Educational Institute for Trenton and District Labor Council, held at the Queensway Hotel in Trenton last weekend.

The speaker went on to say that in the years following the Second World War, it had been considered "fashionable" to belong to a trade union, but that at the present time the picture had changed completely and trade unions were under such pressure and attack from political sources and employer organizations, that unless members of the Trade Union movement "do their part" in the education and impressed upon the general public that the work of the movement was for the good of the community at large, past achievements of the movement would come to naught and restrictive legislation would generally "wipe the movement off the map" as an effective force in the community.

"Any democratic country which attempts to destroy the Trade Union movement, eventually destroys itself" said the speaker. He recalled the past histories of countries which had fallen under the spell of a dictator, and said that the first people to suffer under dictatorship were the working people who had organized to protect their rights.

Mr. Welsbach recounted the instance last year when the government of Newfoundland had outlawed a duly certified union and subsidized a company union. He said that the government of Newfoundland had finally been forced to admit that the union was politically dangerous in that it aroused people that there were other ways of living than the way they were "allowed" to live.

MUST EXPAND ACTIVITIES

Mr. Welsbach said that in a series of talks at the Queen's "Select Committee" of the Ontario government, would consider recommendations, which, if adopted, would impose severe restrictions on the Trade Union movement.

He said those attending the Institute that they must be prepared to expand the educational activities of the movement, and that the movement at local, provincial and national levels would have to combine forces to create more interest in the movement, and step into the arena of legislative and political activities and fight for the rights of working people. He said that each individual member must get across to the public the idea that the community needed a strong labor movement.

Mr. Welsbach was introduced by Robert Kidd, immediate past president of the Trenton and District Labor Council.

The institute, which is part of a series conducted by the Canadian Labor Congress all across Ontario, was held on Saturday and Sunday. Workshops were started both days. Some of the points under discussion were: collective bargaining, the objectives of the Trade Union movement, welfare services in the community pertaining to union activities.

Conducting the workshops were Mr. Welsbach, Max Dodds of Toronto, Welfare Director of the Ontario federation of Labor, M. T. Montgomery of Hamilton, of the educational department of the United Steel Workers, Henry Nokes of Peterborough, CLC representative in this district and Terry Mudry of Toronto, of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

Members of unions in the Quinte area attended the educational institute.

357 Patients In Hospital, Report Shows

TRENTON — There were 357 admissions to Trenton Memorial Hospital last month and 78 births hospital administrator Miss M. Moores said in her monthly report.

Out patients treated numbered 656.

Ten deaths and two stillbirths were registered.

Discharged were 341 adults and children.

Emergencies treated were 119 and 50 treatments of a minor nature were given in the clinic.

Observe Scout Week Feb. 7-13

TRENTON — Special activities in connection with Cub and Boy Scout activities will be observed in Trenton as National Boy Scout Week is observed Feb. 7-13.

Parents have been invited to all Cub and Scout meetings. On Friday Cubs and Scouts will wear their uniforms to school.

Scout window displays will be featured at Mrs. Hopp's store, MacDonald Hardware Store and Buzz Nemsica's Men's Store.

Brighton will celebrate its 25th anniversary of Scouting with various special activities. Cubs and Scouts attended the Presbyterian Church Sunday.

During the week, Cub, Scout and Rover activities will be highlighted at Pickford House, the new official headquarters of Scouting in Brighton, culminating in an Old Scouts Reunion Friday night. Any man who was a Scout is invited to attend.

A campaign to complete repairs and decoration at Pickford House is being conducted under the chairmanship of H. J. McMillan, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Brighton. This permanent home of Scouting in Brighton during last year's village centennial.

Safety Officer Giving Series Of Radio Talks

TRENTON—Sergeant Gordon Stenburg of the Trenton Police Department, safety officer for Trenton, has started a series of talks over radio station CJBQ on Saturday mornings from 10 o'clock. Sergeant Stenburg hopes to reach pre-school children and parents of pre-school children with these broadcasts. Last Saturday, he spoke on Safety Rule No. 1 on the Elmer Safety Rule Card, "Look to the ways before you cross the street."

Sergeant Stenburg told the children to always stop at the street intersection or the crosswalk, where motorists expected pedestrians to cross and watched for them, and where no cars approached to obstruct their vision.

The safety officer suggested that parents of pre-school children have them wear bright clothing and green mitt on their hands and explain to them that when the crossing light is the same color as the red mitt, they must stand on the sidewalk pending wait until the light turns the green color of their other mitt, and then to look both ways before proceeding to cross the street.

Sergeant Stenburg said that there had been no children involved in accidents during the month of January, in spite of the bad weather and icy sidewalk driving conditions. He said that the Elmer safety campaign in the

Cpl. Reid was presented with a certificate of his award for a suggestion concerning the improvement of the CF100 canopy, together with a letter of thanks from the Chief of the Air Staff and a cheque for $20.40 by his Commanding Officer, Group Captain T. A. Spruston, MBE. A similar award was received in May, 1959, for a previous suggestion for the improvement of aircraft equipment.

These awards are presented by the RCAF to its personnel to encourage an active participation in the constant improving of service procedures and equipment.

A native of Dominion, N. S., Cpl. Reid enlisted in the RCAF in 1950, and has served tours at Canadian units and in Germany.

Minor Mishaps By the Dozens On Icy Roads

TRENTON — A combination of blinding snow, freezing rain and the resulting slippery, slushy streets, gave rise to a great number of accidents in Trenton on Saturday. With the exception of one driver, who received facial cuts as the result of a collision, there were no accidents involving bodily harm. However property damage was high. Tow trucks were kept more than busy by motorists becoming stalled on the water-filled side streets. In a number of cases the catch basins had become covered with layers of ice and the town workmen spent the day clearing them to allow the water to drain away.

Appoint Dutch Vice-Consul At Trenton

Jan van der Vliet has been appointed Vice-Consul of The Netherlands in Trenton for Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties, Consul-General of The Netherlands Dr. A. van Hamel announced today in Toronto.

The vice-consulate will be located at 304 Dundas Street West, Trenton, telephone EX 2-4641 and will be open during normal business hours.

Trenton schools was "paying off" and that even the youngest children were interested in keeping an accident free record for their school.

Excellent Suggestion For Fairs

Lloyd A. Lashley, superintendent of agricultural societies for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, made an excellent suggestion when he addressed the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association District Three, here last Thursday.

Mr. Lashley recommended that fair boards establish classes for entries by new Canadians. There is, of course, nothing to prevent these new-comers from exhibiting in any of the varied classes of the typical fall fair, but many of these immigrants have brought to Canada skills which are not common here and have lack classes for the display of the products of these special skills. Classes of this nature would not only make the new Canadians feel at home and would not only serve to enlighten their new fellow-citizens about the newcomers' talents and interest, but would almost certainly result in widening the interests of many "old" Canadians.

Far from involving an increase in the cost of fair boards, which are often hard-pressed to meet expenses, such a policy might enable the boards to reduce the cost of operation. For instance, many Europeans are skilled musicians. Instead of paying for professional talent for entertainment purposes, might fair boards not be able to profit by encouraging these newcomers to display their artistic talents? Folk dances, for instance, would provide a colorful show. More than enough money might be saved in this manner to offer substantial prizes for handicraft displays.

In any event, fair boards should take notice of the presence in our midst of these representatives of different cultures. The old stuffy practice of having a fair can be successful from a financial standpoint if it caters primarily to the farmer and his family. There was a time when the fall fair was mainly concerned with agriculture, providing the farmer with an opportunity to display the products of his skill and hard work and enabling him to exchange ideas with other successful farmers and copy their methods. There is much to be said for this role for the fair, but with few exceptions the presence of financial problems has already forced fair directors to make a choice between attempting to attract a large attendance expenditures and in the majority of cases the former alternative has been selected. Once that step is taken, once fair directors decide to endeavor to interest and entertain non-only farmers and those interested in farming but city folks, young men and bred, with scant interest in agriculture, it follows that the distinctive interests of urban dwellers must be carefully studied and fair classes arranged to interest new and growing groups amongst the population as a whole.

Peace — Or Higher Taxes

Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario has said the coming federal-provincial conference will be a challenge to Canadian statesmen to find an equitable settlement of the complex tax problems. Mr. Frost wants more money for his government, aiming at getting 15 per cent. instead of the present 13 per cent. of income taxes.

The same day Hon. Donald Fleming, Federal minister of finance, presented the biggest peacetime spending program in history, but still announced he hoped revenue would be nearer meeting expenditures than in the current year.

These pronouncements, taken together, suggest the possibility of higher taxes, but there is room for grave doubt whether increasing tax rates would bring a proportionate increase in revenue. When taxes reach a certain level, a law of diminishing returns becomes operative.

There is, however, one solution and that is to decrease unnecessary expenditures. A step in this direction is being taken. Next year defence will require only 27.8 per cent of the total federal budget, compared with 29.6 per cent this year and 40 per cent a decade ago. This is a step in the right direction. But further reductions can only be possible if the need for defence outlays is eliminated. With almost one dollar in every three spent by the government going for defence this year, there would be more than enough money available to meet Mr. Frost's demands, and those other provincial premiers, and still leave Mr. Fleming with a surplus if only peace were assured.

Strictly Personal
Words Get Tired, But Not Retired

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The vocabulary of English — and, indeed, of every language in the modern world — is changing enormously each decade. There are thousands of brand-new words in use since I was a boy.

But the old words, at the same time, get worn out, no matter how tired they may become. We seem to have great difficulty in finding new and meaningful substitutes for words that have become tired from overuse or imprecision.

Take, for example, the word "spiritual." It comes from the Latin word, meaning "breath," and is akin to the Greek "pneuma," which means the same. The Holy Spirit in the Bible is the breath of life, the vivifying principle of existence.

But words have great flexibility

Moslems May Get Stronger Voice In Algerian Rule

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP)—President de Gaulle may give Moslems a stronger voice in the administration of Algeria as a result of the European settlers' uprising, government sources said today.

Informants said it is too early, however, to determine whether there is enough Moslem enthusiasm for de Gaulle's self-determination policy to create a genuine Moslem "third force" between the European settlers who want to keep Algeria French and the nationalist rebels fighting for independence.

Major administrative changes meanwhile are expected throughout the 1-million-born North African territory.

Restrictions appear imminent on European right-wing groups which hitherto have enjoyed virtual freedom of action. Some already have been banned. Court officials are assembling thousands of records for prosecution of the ringleaders of the recent abortive revolt of the French settlers which claimed 20 lives and paralyzed Algiers for nine days.

Top civilian and military officials from Eastern and Western Algeria were summoned here for talks Sunday with the cabinet team sent from Paris to get at the roots of right-wing plotting.

Gen. Ferdinand Gambiez, who commands 150,000 troops in Western Algeria, and the civilian heads of the Oran and Constantine areas were among those called.

The French cabinet is meeting in Paris Wednesday to get the first reports of the investigation, but the inquiry is expected to carry on for some time.

Founder of DBS, Dr. R. H. Coats, Dies at Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Robert Hamilton Coats, who conceived and founded the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and was Canada's first statistician, died here Sunday. He was 85.

Dr. Coats, who was born in Clinton, Ont., of Scottish-born parents, entered federal service in 1902 as assistant editor of the Labor Gazette. A few years later he became editor and chief statistician of the labor department.

In 1912 he was named to an interdepartmental committee set up to study and solve duplication of statistical services by various government departments. The committee's answer was a central bureau of statistics, and Dr. Coats in 1915 was appointed chief statistician with the job of creating the bureau. It was established in 1918 by passage of the Bureau of Statistics Act.

The bespectacled, scholarly Dr. Coats, who in his lifetime became recognized as a world authority on human ecology, retired as Dominion statistician in 1942, but continued active in this field for several years.

He was a visiting professor of statistics in the University of Toronto's department of political economy until 1946; an adviser on statistics to the Ontario government until 1944, and in 1947-48 was a statistical consultant to the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization.

BIG STRIKE LIKELY

LONDON (AP)—Labor negotiators said Sunday night they saw little hope of warding off a strike aimed at halting Britain's state-owned railways beginning at midnight next Sunday. More than 350,000 railway workers — members of the big National Union of Railwaymen—have threatened a mass walkout unless they get an immediate and substantial pay raise.

On Alaska Highway

Unique Mail Run of 918 Miles Gets Through Despite Hazards

By HARRY M. MOORE

This is the story of the most unique mail route in north America, possibly in the entire world. Further it is the story of possibly the world's longest mail route, through ranch unsettled country, a distance of 918 miles, between the small city of Dawson Creek and Whitehorse on the Alaska Highway, British Columbia. This highway, completed in nine months about 18 years ago by the American Army and an army of civilians, connects Canada at the head of steel and highways, Dawson Creek, with Fairbanks, Alaska, is some 1,500 miles long and it can be said for it that it is the best all-weather highway on the continent.

Dawson Creek is the main distribution point in that part of northern British Columbia for surface mail to the north, and this route up the highway is the means of delivering it to all points along the way. Because of the vast distances between settled areas in the district there is a special postal rate that does not apply anywhere else for parcels addressed via this particular route. And for much of this information we are indebted to the Peace River News, a weekly newspaper printed in Dawson Creek.

Although this northern mail route has been in effect approximately ten years, it has only been a year-round service since the Northern Freightways took over the contract in 1955. Since then, there are two trucks despatched each week, and between October and Christmas this is increased to three to handle the extra load of Christmas mail. These huge 32-foot vans carry between 550 and 600 bags of mail in one load. The drivers are employees under orders issued by the post office and are actually sworn-in postal couriers.

TRAVELLING POSTMASTER

In reality, The News points out, the driver on the mail run is a travelling postmaster. Not only does he deliver and pick up mail at the entire post office points en route, as well as the 33 non-post office points, but he also takes applications for money orders, sells stamps, and has the authority to cancel stamps on letters picked up on his route that are to be delivered along the highway. This saves having the letters go to Dawson Creek or Whitehorse for cancellation, then to be carried back the same route.

The applications for money orders from non-post office points are turned in at terminal offices, either Whitehorse or Dawson Creek where they are made up and sent out. The driver issues a receipt for the order when he picks it up, and brings the cash to the terminal point. COD's are delivered to the person in charge of the postal station enroute, and it is then his responsibility to distribute it to addressee. Registered mail is handled in the same way.

Of course the mail drivers know the Alaska Highway in all its moods. As one of them has said, "The Alaska is a little bit of everything. You're just pulling along through mountainous country, lakes and hills all the time. They took the easiest way possible when building the road, and it winds in and out following the valleys and ravines of the country. I don't think it's any great feat to drive the Alaska, it just takes common sense."

Ice and snow in the winter often make the steep hills treacherous, but there have been very few delays in getting the mail through in the four years of year-round service. Surprisingly enough in spite of the road, weather and vast distances between settlements, the vans keep remarkably well to schedule, and the people along the route can almost set their watches by the van's arrival.

ONLY ONE DELAY

According to the records only once was the mail delayed. As the driver explained: "There is a certain time towards the end of June when you can expect washouts from the melting snows in the mountains. That one year there were 28 washouts in a fifty-mile stretch of road by Muncho Lake, caused by a flash flood. Even so, road crews were on the job as soon as possible, and the mail was delayed only 24 hours."

Crews working on the highway are always most co-operative. They will pull off the highway, they will bulldoze a special path to allow the mail vans to get through, for they know they have top priority and must reach their destination on schedule.

When the Peace River bridge collapsed and all mail had to be transported across the river by ferry, the mail had first priority all the way. No matter how long was the line of waiting vehicles, the mail vans must go first.

If a mail van breaks down on the highway, the first Northern Freightways freight van that comes along must unload its trailer and transfer its cab to the stranded mail van to get it through, leaving the broken-down motor for repairs. At all times the mail must keep moving on schedule.

THREE-DAY RUN

Now that winter is here, the drivers must leave their motors running all night to prevent freezing, changing off on one of the drivers has said, "it gets cold up there."

It takes three days to make the run from Dawson Creek to Whitehorse, with overnight stops at Fort Nelson, Watson Lake (near where customs officer has been found to warrant delays) and Whitehorse. The driver rests up a day in Whitehorse before heading back to Dawson Creek again. Once home the drivers may rest up a few days unless the mail rush is on when sometimes they have but one day to themselves.

Drivers and Dawson Creek postmaster like to recall the record two drivers made a year ago last Christmas. Northern Freightways assigned a special sleeper-type van which left for Whitehorse just before Christmas loaded with parcels. With two drivers alternating that van made the 918-mile trip in 22 hours, arriving the afternoon before Christmas. The Whitehorse post office called in all its staff, it was advertised on the radio, and all that mail was sorted and over the counter by Christmas Eve.

On Wednesday evening the Belleville Squadron emerged victorious in the sports competition defeating the Sea Cadets 32-27 in basketball and taking top honors in the rifle shoot with an 87.8 average.

Cottagers May Have to Pay For Deeded Land

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Cottagers in the surrounding Kawartha Lakes area living on Indian lands "deeded" to Indians now may have to pay for their property.

Some 250 of the 640-odd Indian islands in the chain will be offered for sale soon by the department of Indians affairs. They are not Crown lands but were withheld by the Crown in the 1850s for use by district Mississauga Indian bands.

Records show none of the islands have been legally sold, said E. A. Adams, district Indian Affairs superintendent, but some were supposedly bought about 50 years ago for token payments in return for deeds.

The only legal method of transferring Indian property to non-Indians is through a patent in addition to a deed, Mr. Adams explained.

MAY HAVE TO PAY

He said "many island owners who inherited 'deeded' Indian lands from forefathers" may face federal tax bills and federal offers to sell the land at present real estate prices plus additional money for the number of years they have trespassed on the Indian islands.

Indians surrendered the islands to the Crown about 60 years ago, requesting they be sold and the proceeds going to the bands' funds on a per-capita basis.

Mr. Adams estimated sale of all the islands could net more than $1,000,000 for the three Indian bands at Hiawatha, Curve Lake and Scugog.

Information on a block of islands appraised by the department of Indian affairs last summer will be available at department offices here and in Toronto when the islands are put on the market. Meanwhile the Lake Ontario Development Association hopes either the federal or provincial government will buy some of Big Island, stretching from Balsam Lake to Rice Lake, for public camping grounds and stop-over sites for cruisers.

Many of the lakes form part of the Trent Canal System and most are either extensions or expansions of the Otonabee River.

Times Praises Montreal Tenor

LONDON (CP) — The Times, reviewing Andre Turp's debut at Covent Garden last week describes the Montreal tenor as an acquisition for the Royal Opera Company.

Singing opposite Australian soprano Joan Sutherland in Donizetti's Lucia di Lammermoor he is described as having "sufficient operatic experience to be perfectly at home on the stage, in matters of timing, of physical presence and dramatic sense."

The Times notes that Turp is not the only Canadian currently singing with the company. Heroic tenor Jon Vickers of Prince Albert, Sask., and baritone Joseph Rouleau of Montreal are in their third year at Covent Garden.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Hallam and Mr. Harry Rollins, representing the County of Hastings Tuberculosis Association, attended the annual meeting of the Board of Directors at the Chignawanda Sanatorium, in Kingston, on Thursday.

Mrs. Duncan, of Ottawa, is a guest of her daughter and son-in-law, S/S Lawrence and Mrs. Hill and family, Middleton Park, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Newall, of Calgary, and New York, are guests of Mr. Reverend and Mrs. Sackville Palmer.

Women's Institute

STIRLING W.I. INSTITUTE

Stirling Women's Institute meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Lacey. John St. on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance. Mrs. B. Reid called the meeting to order.

The president welcomed the visitors with a special welcome to the district president, Mrs. Fisher, of Belleville.

Mrs. A. D. Campbell, secretary, read the minutes and communications. A letter in reference to the FWI's contribution of $1 per member in the month of May — "Public Relations" will be a specific topic at this convention.

The secretary handled out "helps" to each standing committee.

The treasurer, Mrs. W. A. West, gave the bank balance which was gratifying.

Bills were presented and ordered paid.

Discussion followed regarding the Tweedsmuir book. Some information was requested on the matter of business.

The district president offered to inquire regarding anything desired.

Mrs. B. Reid has been in charge of the tea hostesses.

Five sets of bowls were ordered to be purchased for the community hall for renting purposes.

The sewing committee, Mrs. M. Ayerhart, and Mrs. E. Foster, had a quilt top on display.

Quilting will be held on Thursday at Mrs. W. C. West's home with a pot luck dinner at noon.

USED CLOTHING DRIVE

Again a "Used Clothing" drive will take place. Those in charge are: Mrs. B. Reid, Mrs. W. C. West and Mrs. E. Foster.

Convenor for the program was Mrs. P. Bronson. The topic was "Historical Research".

The program followed with a number of readings by Mrs. E. Lacey; pioneers coming to Canada since 1861 up to the present date; this was most interesting — also a reading of "Valentines", the sending of cards for "Valentine" day, their meaning and choice which included sentimental and perfumed cards.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service was conducted by Mrs. W. C. West and Mrs. B. Reid, also in memoriam of the W. I. member, Mrs. John O'Donnell. Also, in the past few years, was one of the best cherry and pleasant companion.

A minute's silence was concluded with the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Hilliam, district president, chose the "Mary Stewart Collect" for her topic which is applicable to each one, every hour every day of the year. This Mary Stewart Collect is called "A Club Woman's Creed," or a "prayer." In the year of 1919 these words were put together and have been in use in thousands of different programs, in all religious, and welfare societies. It took over a decade to put together these words of wisdom, "Kindness is virtue and courtesy is the sum of virtues. It's two never offend, never sadden anyone to whom applied but will bring (beyond price) joy and peace and friendship to a host of people, also an appreciating for happiness and attention."

This recipe was advised for trial just once each day, and the improvements it will bring are amazing, not to estimate the benefits to those who receive it. The Golden Rule; though it is old is always new, and is still the basic religion.

The topic was a sermon within itself, and each one was impressed by it which will not soon be forgotten.

Thanks were expressed by several members.

A dainty gift was presented to the speaker.

A contact followed on the Women's Institute with Mrs. D. Montgomery and Mrs. E. Lacey as winners receiving a box of home made candy.

The oldest lady present, Mrs. D. Ketcheson, received a box of maple cream candy.

Lunch was served and a visit was enjoyed with one another.

Mrs. E. Foster moved a vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. E. Lacey and program convener, Mrs. Luella Bronson, and to the speaker, Mrs. Phillips.

INFANT FOODS

Canadian production of canned foods for infants and juniors reached 42,373,000 pounds in the first nine months of 1959.

160 Attend C.G.I.T. Banquet

In recognition of Christian Youth Week, the city-wide C.G.I.T. mother-daughter banquet was held on February 2, by Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. The following program was enjoyed by approximately 160 who attended. The chairman was Miss Connie Stovell and grace was said by the Rev. G. E. Woodcock.

TOASTS

Toast to the church, Miss Judy Harrison—Rev. R. Sherwin; to the mothers, Miss Heather Sage—Mrs. D. Seager, and to the CGIT, Mrs. W. Hamilton—Miss Barbara Hamilton.

The program consisted of the following numbers: sing-song led by Miss M. Hillis; highlights of camp council by Miss Mary Reid; collection of stewardship cards, Mrs. M. Linscott. The introduction of the speaker, the Rev. Elinor Leard, M.A., B.D., was given by Mrs. A. W. Campbell and the reply to the speaker was given by Miss Myrna Dickens.

Miss Leard's address, in a much greater extent than the average girl can realize.

Mrs. Denyes, was nominated delegate to attend the Presbyterian to be held in Tabernacle United Church on February 22-23rd.

Mrs. P. McGuire was presented with a "life membership certificate" and pin by Mrs. Finkle and Mrs. MacArthur. This "life membership" is given annually by one of Mrs. C. B. McGuire, and Mrs. Allan's daughter, Mrs. Allan of Peterborough.

Mrs. Finkle, in making the presentations, spoke of Mrs. McGuire's devotion to her home and church, her faithful and felt life, a most appropriate tribute in every way.

The business concluded, Mrs. MacArthur asked the group leaders to stand.

Mrs. Ruggles opened the program with a prayer. The Reverend Collins, Mrs. Ruggles and Mrs. Murphy opened the meeting.

Miss Shirley St. Denis gave a brief report on the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association convention held here in December, held at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto. The conference theme was, "Education and Liturgy," and featured several outstanding speakers and prominent speakers from the United States and Canada. The guest speaker for the closing banquet was the Most Reverend Joseph Ryan, Bishop of St. Catharines.

This film, without precedent in the history of Christian motion pictures, gave its audience a heart-rending look into some of the problems of modern Asia. Confinement to the barracks of training, baffled by family problems, frustrated with longing for security, Asian teenagers present a tremendous challenge to the Christian Church today.

THREE WON FOR CHRIST

At the close of the film, three decided to receive Christ as their Saviour. Tomorrow is the Gymkhana Sun had done. This film is a must for every teaching person and it was announced that teachers in the ella would have an opportunity to see it.

This film will be shown in Bible classes during the week. It will be shown on Tuesday at Tweed Bible Club. On Wednesday at Madoc and Deseronto high Schools and on Friday it will be shown at Coboconk and Brighton schools.

The general public will also have a chance to see it at Picton Victory Baptist Church on Wednesday evening; Frankford Pentecostal Tabernacle on Thursday evening and at Moira United on Friday night.

The regular meeting of the Afternoon Auxiliary of Bridge St. W. M. S. was held at 6.30 in the evening instead of the afternoon. The group leaders in charge were: Mrs. Ruggles and Mrs. Adsett.

Following the meeting, they assisted by the members of Evergreen Circle served a delicious dessert of ice cream and cake with coffee. Mrs. McArthur poured.

The table, spread with a beautiful lace cloth, was centred with bouquet of red and white carnations. Tall candles on either side with candelabra holding red lighted tapers, was attractive and in keeping with Valentine month.

Everyone having enjoyed the social hour, Mrs. McArthur called the meeting to order. The regular routine of opening was followed by items of business.

The Birthday Card secretary, reported having sent 15 cards during the month. Seven shut-ins there are many sick folks.

Mrs. Myers, citizenship secretary, read the letter she received lights from world W. C. T. U. Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. D. W. Campbell and the reply to the speaker was given by Miss Myrna Dickens.

Miss Shirley St. Denis introduced the guest speaker of the evening Father Lee, who spoke on the truth of the Old Chinese saying, "It is better to be a place of crushed glass than a perfect broken tile."

This film, without precedent in the history of Christian motion pictures, gave its audience a heart-rending look into some of the problems of modern Asia. Confinement to the barracks of training, baffled by family problems, frustrated with longing for security, Asian teenagers present a tremendous challenge to the Christian Church today.

THREE WON FOR CHRIST

At the close of the film, three decided to receive Christ as their Saviour. Tomorrow is the Gymkhana Sun had done. This film is a must for every teaching person and it was announced that teachers in the ella would have an opportunity to see it.

This film will be shown in Bible classes during the week. It will be shown on Tuesday at Tweed Bible Club. On Wednesday at Madoc and Deseronto high Schools and on Friday it will be shown at Coboconk and Brighton schools.

The general public will also have a chance to see it at Picton Victory Baptist Church on Wednesday evening; Frankford Pentecostal Tabernacle on Thursday evening and at Moira United on Friday night.

275 Teenagers View Premiere Y.F.C. Film

On Saturday night, 275 enthusiastic teenagers and adults met at the Masonic Temple for the regular YFC rally. The director, Mr. Doug Sleeth, led the audience in a lively sing-song. After a welcome was extended to everyone, there was a special offering for the work of the evening — a musical team from Oshawa Youth for Christ, Mr. and Mrs. Sierra Lee, under the YFC in Oshawa introduced the musicians.

The special music started with a duet by Mr. Zurba and his wife. Miss Dorothy Morris rendered a beautiful solo followed by Mrs. Zurba and Miss Morris who favored with a lovely duet. Mrs. Zurba is also an accomplished accordionist, and helped by accompanying some of these special numbers.

The Belleville Youth for Christ Choraliers presented a special number under the direction of Choir director Monty Lloyd. The Choraliers were the special guests of Toronto YFC last weekend, and the teenagers obtained special praises of the meeting for the occasion. The girls were dressed in black skirts and sweaters, white collars and black bows. The boys wore black trousers and white sport jackets, with black bow ties. This sharp group of teenagers would really impress any other group in the city just by the way they sang a beautiful prayer-hymn, "Make Me A Blessing."

Mr. Ken Hall, a local boy, was borne was welcomed to the platform and led in prayer.

BIBLE STUDY

One of the features of the rallies is the Bible Quiz among the class from the different schools. The quiz was on I Timothy, with Brighton squared off against Picton. The first set. This match ended in a 60-60 tie. Picton was given the victory in defeat to Picton 20-140. This match is really a highlight of the rallies, and everyone likes to enjoy seeing the teams compete.

Miss Joyce opened the session from Mr. Zurba and the group, the main feature of the evening was presented. This was the new youth film, "Something To Die For." Shot entirely in Singapore and stars an all-Oriental cast of teenagers. From actual case histories of Singapore youth, and filmed in the simple but beautiful surroundings of basketball player, attempts to show the struggle between those of fear. Mel Lei, Kim Sun's Sandwich girl friend, learn that truth should be sought no matter what the personal consequence. Jimmy Lee, Kim Sun's friend and the dark uncertainties of the Red Light District, discovers the truth of the old Chinese saying, "It is better to be a place of crushed glass than a perfect broken tile."

Following the film, introduced the guest speaker of the evening Rev. Ken Hall, of Bethel Church of St. Michael the Archangel.

Using as his topic "A Need for Greater Awareness," Father Murphy gave us a most modern way of life and pursuit of happiness in which we have come neglect to even know our neighbors. It was true that "you cannot love what you do not know." He stressed that one should develop a personal interest and love for one's fellow man.

"We should be aware of the life within the church, the parish, the community, and know the knowledge of the territorial districts in which we live."

He concluded with two words inculcate in our children a greater diversity of themselves. The greatest cure for self-love is helping others."

Mr. J. V. Hamilton expressed the group's appreciation to Father Murphy for his inspiring address.

Attendance plaques were won by Reverend Sister Mary Gonsalo, the Reverend Sister Mary Leo, the Reverend Sister Mary Andrew and Mrs. Lawlor.

Beautiful Soup, Green Soup and the Spring

by Mary Moore

Kneading bread and brewing a pot of soup symbolize to me the heart of home cooking.

Last night I made Cream of Green Soup that was simple to make and delicious. It is a dish's delight and you can use it as a base for many homemade vegetable soups.

The basic soup as I give it to you is perfect for a family midweek dinner. But then I go on to elaborate a more elegant soup, based on it, that you could serve when you invite the minister and his wife to dinner or your local member of parliament.

Finely chop and brown in a tablespoon of butter 2 or 3 medium onions. Add 2 cups of chopped celery, the kind that pack behind the knife. You will end up with about 2 cups of juicy green pulp. Add it to the simmering broth, cover and gently cook 20 minutes. Beat the egg yolks, stir the milk into them and slowly stir into the green soup stock until slightly thickened and heated through—but do not let it boil. Serve.

This Green Soup is tremendously tible. It does not curdle. It is inexpensive and quite a revelation in simplicity and flavor—especially to amateurs.

More Elegant and Richer Variations of Cream of Green Soup: — 1) Instead of making broth from chicken, bouillon cubes, buy inexpensive chicken backs with necks attached and make 3 cups chicken broth from them by adding 4 cups of water and simmering covered until tender. Strain off broth and cut meat from bones and add them to the finished soup. 2) Use light cream instead of milk or 1 cup milk and cream. 3) Strain the soup for a smoother serving. 4) Sprinkle with grated Parmesan and serve with croutons. Note: Do not overdo the onions. Carrots, asparagus, mushrooms, broccoli are all good with the addition of a little onion and plenty of parsley. Cream of Green Soup is an excellent starter soup especially when sprinkling with cheese or served with Cheese Croutons: Sauté small cubes of bread but do not gold. Immediately roll in grated Parmesan, sprinkle with paprika.

CREAM OF GREEN SOUP

(Serves 6.) What "happies" me about this is the fact that all of the lovely chlorophyl-packed green juices in the vegetables are conserved and ultimately consumed. Not one drop is wasted and they taste delicious, which is most important.

2 cups well packed raw spinach, 1 small cooking onion, 2 outside stalks celery with leaves, 3 cups fresh parsley packed (about 12 average stems with leaves), 3 cups boiling water, 4 chicken bouillon cubes, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, 2 cups milk.

Put on to simmer the boiling water with the bouillon cubes. Put all of the raw green vegetables - spinach, onion, celery, green pepper and parsley — through medium knife of food chopper — forcing as much as possible through by reversing your grinding motion 2 or 3 times. Dissolving the celery strings that pack behind the knife. You will end up with about 2 cups of juicy green pulp. Add it to the simmering broth, cover and gently cook 20 minutes. Beat the egg yolks, stir the milk into them and slowly stir into the green soup stock until slightly thickened and heated through—but do not let it boil. Serve.

Silhouette for Spring Is Blousy With Capital B

By OLI DAUM
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Basically, the silhouette for spring is Blousy with a capital B.

That's the word from Thursday's showing of the Canadian Association of Couturiers' spring collection. It concurs with Paris.

The outline shows wide shoulders and small waists with full skirts ending at the knee. But on closer look there are surprises stitched in every seam.

Collars—when there are any—are large. Sleeves are full or bell-shaped. Bodices are shirred, pleated, draped and even tucked. Skirts have pleats that are boxed, reversed, pressed and unpressed, pleats-within-pleats and sometimes pleats that are slit. Tiers are fashionable.

FULL HIPS, SKIRTS

The full skirts fall from full hips; that is, they are padded or emphasized by pockets that start high and sometimes run the length to the hemline.

Waistlines, though generally long, run the gamut. They are high, low, and even "split-level" — jacket might end high in front and take a step down at the side or back.

Inspiration for the spring silhouette is borrowed mainly from travel and architecture.

COIFFURE IMPORTANT

Accessories and coiffures have graduated from their secondary roles. Milliners, stylists and designers collaborated here to present a picture that is logical from head to toe.

That hat is designed to complement the hair, or vice versa, which in turn is appropriately styled for the line of the costume.

Accessories blend rather than contrast and even go so far as to introduce white gloves for white dress or coat. Stockings with seams have returned to vogue.

Women's Council of Canada Will Prepare Day of Prayer

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Protestant women in 146 countries observe World Day of Prayer Friday, March 4, they will follow a service composed by members of the Women's International Council of Canada.

Participating countries have taken turns preparing the service since the day was inaugurated in 1927. This year's service, third prepared by Canada, was prepared by a committee headed by Miss Ernestine Whiteside of Toronto. The US service was prepared by women in Egypt.

The day will be observed in 2,500 Canadian communities in several languages and in braille for the blind.

Content will be the same for services in cities such as Toronto where city groups will meet and remote areas such as the tiny groups of women at work camps along the Alaska Highway.

FAR NORTH

Last year a group of 55 Indian girls met in the Yukon and 40 women, most of them Eskimos, met at Tuktoyaktuk in the Northwest Territories.

World Day of Prayer collections are used to pay for production and distribution of Christian literature in 26 countries.

The movement began in 1887 in the United States when a group of Presbyterian women met and asked a day of prayer for home mission work. By 1890, the Baptists had become interested and asked that foreign missions be remembered. The days were separate until 1919.

The first Canadian service was held in 1920 and two years later Canadian women joined with the U.S. in setting the day.

BECAME WORLD-WIDE

The World Day of Prayer came about in 1927 but it was not until 1942 that the observance was opened to women other than members of missionary societies.

The Inter-board committee of the Women's Missionary Societies of Canada was established with representatives from Anglican, United Church, Baptist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Church of Christ (Disciples) and Society of Friends groups. Later the Salvation Army and the Sisters of St. John the Divine, an Anglican group, joined.

One of the most moving services this year took place in a leaky tent at a Canadian mission at Wenjo, Korea, where a company of lepers, including men and women, followed a service specially prepared for them.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The last regatting for January of the Women of the Moose, was held in the Moose Hall on Victoria Avenue with the Senior Regent, Nellie Shandraw, presiding.

A letter was read from Jean Kress last year took place in a leaky tent at a Canadian mission at Wenjo, Korea, where a company of lepers, including men and women, followed a service specially prepared for them.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

WATCH YOUR CONVERSATION!

With politics so much a part of everyone's conversation, we have been rather appalled at the rudeness, the downright belligerence, with which some folks have expressed their popularity.

A personal opinion has been forced on others in such a manner as to preclude the expression of their ideas — the attitude being, of course, that, no matter what they said, their opinion wouldn't matter anyway. Needless to say, such people have not enhanced their popularity.

This has brought to mind how very important conversation can be in our lives. After all, it is through the translation of our thoughts into words that we contact our fellow man. Then why is it that so many of us are careless in our talking habits? Not only are we careless in choosing the words we use, but we manage somehow to cultivate irritable characteristics while talking. When it is such an obvious fact that one can't help but be rated or based largely on conversational ability, how strange it is that we don't give more thought to our habits in this regard.

For example: Do you monopolize the conversation; discuss your personal affairs in bore fashion around you with detailed anecdotes; refuse to allow the other person a chance to get a word in edgewise? These are common faults.

Interrupting others in overeagerness to express your views is an annoying habit. Even worse is the person who, becoming bored with the conversation, interrupts and starts off on an entirely different subject. Aside from being extremely rude, it is a verbal slap in the face to the person who has been interrupted.

Do you avoid making confidences? It's just as easy to boost the other fellow as to criticize him. If you can't think of anything nice to say about someone, why say anything at all? It's amazing how often unkind comments can boomerang upon the person making them.

Do you pass on that juicy piece of gossip that you heard about your next door neighbor? The fact that perhaps there isn't a word of truth in it bothers you not one whit. The sad part of it is that serious trouble and much unhappiness is often the result of thoughtlessly repeated gossip. For some reason this vicious habit is usually blamed on the ladies. I think this is unfair! Listen to a group of men chatting sometime. If you're curious that they would teach the ladies something when it comes to gossip!

Are you a good listener? This is the greatest attribute of a good conversationalist. The surest way in the world to make people like you is to pay them the compliment of being sincerely interested in what they are saying.

Use more than your ears to show interest. Keep your eyes on the speaker. Give him your undivided attention. Roving eyes and fidgeting fingers are a sure indication of lack of interest. If you are bored, make every effort to cultivate the art of not showing it. No minor feat sometimes, it'll admit!

Question: If my husband brings a man home for dinner, and I am the only woman present, should I be served first? I well know that a hostess should never be served first when entertaining guests, but am wondering if this rule is followed in this case? — Mrs. A. S. H.

Answer: This is the one exception when the hostess is served first. When only men are present at her table, it is gracious that this rule be followed. You are correct that the hostess should never be served first if other women are her guests.

ACID-THROWER JAILED

WINNIPEG (CP) — A woman who scarred her husband for life by throwing nitric acid in his face was sentenced Friday to three months in jail after being convicted of assault causing bodily harm. Harry Cross, 29, testified the incident occurred when he went to see his wife Alice to discuss plans for a legal separation.

Your Hand in Mine

By ALMA MASON

A few weeks ago two items of interest appeared on the front pages of newspapers. One item revealed a story concerning a magnificent and priceless gift. The gift was the gift of sight. A woman who had been without sight for many years could glimpse once more the grandeur of the world around her. She had donated his eyes to an eye bank.

Another item which occupied a goodly space on the front pages of the newspapers was the brutal murder of a woman by her lover.

No young boy would be impelled to bless suffering humanity with the windows of his own soul" — his eyes — without parental inspiration and propulsion. No parent could possibly embue a child with such a rich, worthwhile desire without possessing Godly faith and guidance.

One could only conclude that the youthful murderer had been exposed to an entirely different type of home life than the boy who donated his eyes had been.

Stanley Jones in "Christ at the Round Table" brings to parents a thought-stimulating story. A worker in the Master's vineyard was tired and frustrated and discouraged. He let down an idler an apple tree in a lovely orchard. As he looked lovingly at it seemed that the Master came to him. Jesus drew attention to the tree. Every branch and leaf on the tree as He said — "How is this tree bearing forth good fruit? Is it working itself un into a frenzy in order to produce it? No, it is quietly pouring its life through the branches into the apples and they turn are thriving and ripening abundantly. You are in me as the branch is in the vine. Keep the channels open. Let my life flow through you into the fruit. It will be abundant and whole".

God is the chief trunk of the tree of life. Parents are the vine and the branches. Children are the fruit. If we are to produce good fruit, we cannot draw sustenance from our own power or lone but must capture it from the Tree of Life — the Christian faith.

If we would produce children of godliness, clean, right, wholesome thought and fine endeavour, we must continually remember that we have only one true source upon which to draw to sustain and direct them — the Divine power which was cupped in the hands of the Holy Babe two thousand years ago.

If we would recapture our waning faith and instill it into the hearts and minds of some of our happy children we must place our hands firmly in the hands of God for them to grip. We must walk with them bravely and undaunted down the path of life in Christ's footsteps. We must plant our feet firmly in the same sure footprints will loom finely drawn and clearly cut.

If we follow a wavering, unsteady path our children will do the same. If we are wayward in faith by every whim of circumstance, blown to and fro by every wind of doctrine, tossed hither and there by weak ideals and foolish pleasures, so will our children be also.

When we deplore the slippery, hazardous, downhill road that some of today's children seem to be following we must remember that we — all are older caused that road to be slippery and hazardous.

Before it is too late let us save this generation and through it the world of the future. Let us search diligently for God's hand, for His truths, for His guidance. Let us treasure in our hearts these words of Jesus until they become a part of our bone and a part of our flesh — "Abide in me and I in you: as the branch cannot bear fruit except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in Me".

My hand in God's; your hand in mine;
A union strong and pure, divine;
My strength from God; love flowing thru
My stream of life to nourish you.

I must, stand firm and never let
A failing faith let me forget
To allo from grace for one short hour
And lose the dynamo of power

To motivate your head and heart;
To keep your feet a flawless start.
My hand in God's; your hand in mine;
A union strong and pure, Divine.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S WMS—LA IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian WMS. and L.A. was held at the home of Mrs. David Fargey, on Wednesday afternoon, with ten members and one visitor in attendance.

The 1st vice-president, Mrs. Lindsay Sills, presided, and conducted the meeting by reading a poem, "The New Year," Luke 1:56-71, was read by Mrs. Bazion Haggerty, who also led in prayer.

The keyword, "Guidance," was given by Mrs. K. Mooney.

There are four special ways by which God will guide in 1960: By the Holy Scriptures; the Holy Ghost; one's own higher judgment and helping to begin in Thy faith and continue in Thy Service.

Reports were read and adopted.

Officers for 1960 are as follows: hon. president, Mrs. Kenneth Mooney; president, Mrs. William Donnan; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Lindsay Sills; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. David Fargey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bazion Haggerty; recording secretary, Miss Beasle M. Fleming; treasurer, W.M.S., Mrs. John Kennedy; treasurer, L.A., Mrs. Harry Benson; C.O.C. leader, Mrs. Miller Hall; assistant leader, Mrs. Lindsay Sills; "Glad Tidings," Mrs. William Shaw; press reporter, Mrs. Ken Fleming; welcome and welfare, Mrs. John Wightman; literature secretaries, Mrs. Harold Thompson; library and literature, Mrs. Bazion Haggerty; pianist, Mrs. Arthur Hassall; bale secretary, Mrs. Harold Thompson; membership, Mrs. J. C. Sills; sick committee: south, Mrs. David Fargey and Mrs. John Wallace; north, Mrs. Milton Shaw and Miss Beasle Fleming.

Mrs. A. Hassall was presented with a life membership certificate. The address was read by Mrs. Harold Thompson and the presentation was made by Mrs. K. Rooney.

Mrs. John Wallace gave a talk on "The New Year," say-faraslitos entered the church like the Pilgrim fathers crossing the ocean in 1640 — or the Israelites crossing the River Jordan, but this time the Ice Follies is not exactly a carefree, touristeye view of America.

"The show is run quite strictly with a system of fines to enforce the rules," she said.

"The rules include such things as no smoking in public or in costume. We must dress properly. We aren't allowed to drive cars, either. Two girls were killed in a car accident four years ago and the driving ban is strictly enforced."

HOURS OF PRACTICE

Each day the girls spend hours at skating and ballet practice—with particular emphasis on the latter.

Wendy is in the chorus line. So is another Vancouver girl, Ruth Cameron. Ruth joined the show a year ago.

Because of her minute size Wendy, who has a three-year contract, hopes someday to move up to soloist.

"There's always a chance to get in a number where a small girl is needed," she explained.

Of the cities she has seen, Wendy likes New York, Philadelphia and many others, her favorite is Hershey, Pa.

Wendy, beautifully laid out. The people are so friendly. And all those wonderful chocolate bars. I'm crazy about them!"

Wonderful Being With Follies Says North Vancouver Girl

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wendy Allan is a wisp of a lass at four-foot-11 and 96 pounds. But she loves to travel and has found the career where she goes both.

Wendy, an 18-year-old North Vancouver girl, auditioned for the Ice Follies in Seattle last spring and joined the show in San Francisco in June.

In the last seven months with the show she has seen almost every major city in the United States and has made a point of getting in as much sight-seeing as her rigorous skating schedule will allow.

"It's been wonderful," said Wendy, on a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Allan. "Everything is new to me. I'd never travelled before. Gosh, before I joined the Ice Follies my mother would hardly let me go across Lions Gate Bridge to Vancouver itself.

Wendy likes the life, the people she works with and the pay. Her salary, added to a qualified information but "we pay our own food and hotel bills" it's possible to save $30 a week without skimping on the things you want."

But Wendy, who learned figure skating at the Capilano Winter Club here, was careful to point out that life in the Ice Follies is not exactly a carefree, touriseye view of America.

"The show is run quite strictly with a system of fines to enforce the rules," she said.

"The rules include such things as no smoking in public or in costume. We must dress properly. We aren't allowed to drive cars, either. Two girls were killed in a car accident four years ago and the driving ban is strictly enforced."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Maria J. — I should give my child for adoption.

Mrs. L. R. — She won't be able to forgive herself.

Maria J. — I am 20 and have been married for a year to a man who has no sense of responsibility. We are going to have a baby in a few months and he just quit his job. Why? He "does not like it." So far there is no new job in sight.

I feel that I have no choice but to leave him, but I don't want to live with my parents. They were against my marrying Ken and will never let me forget that they were right and I was wrong.

They aren't my real parents anyway. I was adopted when I was six months old. I feel they never should have told me about the adoption when I was young. It made me feel different from the other kids.

I think I should give my child for adoption, but my mother is against it.

* * *

Mrs. L. R. — We have told Maria again and again that she can come home and there will be no recriminations. I'm afraid she won't be able to forgive herself if she gives up her child. It would be different if she weren't married, but since she is, I think she should see this thing through.

We are terribly unhappy that Maria feels we shouldn't have told her we weren't her real parents. We only did this at the advice of the agency that took care of the adoption. We meant the best for her. We have loved her as our own, yet she has in ways had this feeling of being different.

I think she should try to patch things up with her husband. She knows the unhappiness of an adopted child. Why bring it to another child?

The Council: This is a pretty complicated problem. As a first step toward untangling it Maria and her parents should recognize that the adoption and telling Maria about it are not the real cause of her difficulty.

Countless adopted children who have been told the truth at an early age feel very happy and secure in the love of their parents and have never felt particularly "different." On the other hand, the children of many "real" parents have always felt like stepchildren, set apart from others and resentful toward their family and the world at large. The reasons for this are quite complex and rarely rooted in real facts.

Perhaps one of the minor difficulties here is in the words the L. R.'s used to describe their relationship to Maria. They should have insisted that they are her "real" parents despite the adoption. Real parents are parents who love and nurture a child to adulthood.

Maria is apparently quite emotionally undeveloped and was not prepared for marriage, but her parents should not feel that they have failed in their job because things are not going well with her at this time. She has a long way to go in her development and may eventually grow to love and appreciate them as a mature woman should.

It is fairly evident that Maria seeks some sort of revenge for the wrong she imagines was done her by giving away her own baby. This is certainly not a good reason. Maria is too disturbed at this time to make drastic decisions about the future. Possibly her marriage can be patched up — but it will take a strong desire to do so and lots of hard work, plus some outside guidance from a family agency.

LIVING COSTS EASE — Canada's consumer price index eased four-tenths of a point to 127.5 at January 1 from a month earlier. It was the second consecutive monthly drop after reaching a record 128.3 at November 1.

Upper graph traces the cost-of-living index—based on 1949 prices equalling 100—through 1959.

Lower graph shows average industrial wages and salaries at December 1 at 172.9, down from 173.8 at November 1. This index is also based on 1949 figures equalling 100. (CP Newsmap.)

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

THIEVES

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Thieves are as rampant in Birdland as in man's domain, hold-ups, highway robberies, house-breakings, and even kidnappings taking place all too frequently.

The Canada Jay, resident of our coniferous forests, delights in hanging around lumber camps in winter when they are in full swing. No wonder its popular name is "Camp Robber", because it steals anything that can be carried away, from butter and beans to pencils and matches. Non-edibles are hidden away in crevices.

The great horned owl, also a year-round Canadian resident 18 to 25 inches long, is the most dangerous hold-up bird, so powerful that it can catch and eat a 22 inch red-tailed hawk, or even its own cousin, the barred owl, often as big as itself. The little screech owl, unable to tackle anything very large, is just as much feared by small birds, its chief catch near settlements in winter being English sparrows.

Highway robbery is at its height somewhat later in the season. Expert fliers and divers with wonderful eyesight, Arctic terns spy fish from a height, hover over the spot, and then plunge. The jaeger, swift and agile on the wing yet unable to get food in this easy way, is obliged to be a scavenger, picking up dead marine life, unless it becomes a highway robber. Consequently, jaegers have earned for themselves the name "Robber Gulls". These daring and aggressive highway robbers sometimes travel miles with migrating Arctic terns, waiting until a fish has been caught, then following every aerial twist of the unfortunate tern until the harried bird finally drops the prey. The pursuer promptly catches the fish in mid-air.

In summer jaegers sometimes feed on the small birds that are to be found in their neighbourhood in the far north — longspurs, horned larks, redpolls, snow buntings, small shore birds, and young ducks. Like owls, they commonly swallow their prey whole, feathers and all.

During the breeding season the jaeger's close relative, the skua, is a persistent house-breaker. Deliberately nesting near petrel colonies, it preys on both eggs and young. Like the jaeger, it is also a highway robber, forcing gulls to give up fish they have caught. The skua's scientific name is "megalestris"; which comes from two Greek words that may be translated as "large pirate craft".

The great black-backed gull is the dread enemy of eider ducks, cormorants, terns, and smaller gulls. A house-breaker and kidnapper, it eats their eggs and carries off young birds.

Toronto Girl Wins Three Shuttle Events

STRATFORD (CP)—Judy Jarvis of Toronto was the winner in three events when the Ontario junior badminton championships ended here Sunday.

She defeated Judy Mathers, also of Toronto, to win the under-19 class women's singles, teamed with Jane Davies of Toronto to win women's doubles and with Pete Dieshuk, to win the mixed doubles.

Dieshuk and Ken Smith, both of Creighton, near Sudbury, won the boy's doubles. Other winner in the under-19 class was Gordon Wade of Niagara Falls, who had a tough fight with Dave Hutchison of Toronto to win the boy's singles 15-8, 18-15, 15-9.

Bonnie Hinsley of Peterborough, in the under-17 class, won the women's singles and Margaret Stewart of Toronto teamed with her to take the women's doubles title.

Most of the other winners were from Toronto but in the unlimited class, Dave Moon of Bracebridge won the boy's singles and Joyce Harris of Niagara Falls the girl's singles. Miss Harris and Pat Scanlon, also of Niagara Falls, won the girl's doubles.

Dodgers Sign Johnny Podres

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pitcher Johnny Podres became the 22nd player to come to terms for 1960 with Los Angeles Dodgers when he signed a contract Sunday for about $22,000, an increase of $2,000.

Podres, 26-year-old lefthander, won 10 of 15 decisions while every from Memorial Coliseum last year, but his record in Los Angeles was a paltry 4-6.

TORONTO WINS

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto Tam O'Shanter rink skipped by 26-year-old Wayne Secord won his way into the Ontario curling championships Saturday, defeating Alfie Phillips of Toronto Granite Club in a marathon Division 3 and 6 playoff series.

The best-of-three set took 14 hours 20 minutes to complete.

Ontario Won Eight Trophies In International Bonspiel

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—The 47th edition of Quebec-Ontario annual interclub bonspiel is over and officials are already mapping out plans for next year's meeting.

Officials have indicated that the number in this area will be limited to 128 rinks but they may change the pattern of selecting teams.

Requests from several rinks from the western provinces and two from Scotland for admission to this year's bonspiel were turned down because they were either received too late or could not be accommodated due to lack of space.

Bonspiel officials have been using a preferred list which more or less limits entries to original participants, but some officials would like to accept or invite entries from Western Canada and Scotland.

EIGHT ONTARIO WINNERS

Ontario rinks won eight of the 18 trophies in this year's bonspiel, concluded Saturday.

Four went to rinks from Weston, two to Oshawa.

Jack Burgess and his Weston rink won two big awards — the Lieutenant - Governor's Trophy and the Grand Aggregate Bowl—with a 13-9 win over Marcel Malcalf of Toronto in the final round Saturday.

Burgess and his mates won eight games and lost only one. The two, 9-5 to Orval Archer of Kirkland Lake in the quarter-finals of the Chateau Laurier Trophy, prevented the team from equalling the feat of the Campbell brothers of Avonlea, Sask., in 1937 when they won 11 straight games to go undefeated.

A. B. Dodsworth of Weston won the Chateau Trophy and E. L. Hickman won the St. John's Nfld., team won the Omega International Trophy.

Gerry Jobin of Quebec City won the Francois Jobin Gold Cup and the trophy donated to the bonspiel by his father in 1952.

J. D. Oster of Edmundston, N.B., won the Holt-Renfrew Trophy and R. H. Chalmers of Fredericton, N.B., the St. Lawrence Cement Trophy.

Other Ontario winners were Lloyd Sharpe of Weston, the Fairbrai Trophy, Ken Cahill of Oshawa, the Royal Bank Trophy, J. H. Johnston of Dixie, the Tam O'Shanter Trophy, Les Evenius of Oshawa, the Quebec City Cup and Nels Findlay of Galt, the Carling Trophy.

Finlay has won awards at most every year since 1952. He eliminated Oshawa's Norm Allan in semi-finals. Orval Archer got as far as semi-finals in the St. Lawrence Cement Trophy competition while Barrie's V. Adams rink was eliminated in finals in the Weyman Trophy event.

Anne Heggtveit Wins American Ski Honors

ASPEN, Colo. (CP) — Anne Heggtveit, 21-year-old ace of Canada's Olympic ski team, swept honors in the women's competition of the Roch Cup championship Sunday.

Miss Heggtveit, an Ottawa secretary who won the giant slalom event Saturday, went down the shorter 40-gate women's slalom course Sunday in 70.9 seconds and 71.2 seconds for a total time of 146.1.

Canadian girls took second and third placings in the competition. The award was stripped of some of its lustre by the withdrawal of the United States Olympic alpine team. The Americans, topdated for the winter events at Squaw Valley, withdrew from the Roch Cup because of weariness and colds after a three-week European trip.

Second was Linda Crutchfield of Shawinigan, Que., and third, Elizabeth Greene of Rossland, B.C.

Miss Heggtveit covered the 30-gate layout for Saturday's giant slalom in 1:52.3.

Tom Corcoran, at 29 the senior member of the U.S. Olympic alpine ski team who now makes his home in Beaconsfield, Que., took the men's combined honors and the Roch Trophy with two third-place finishes.

Lancers Win Over Marauders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Assumption University Lancers moved to within one game of first-place University of Western Ontario Mustangs in the Senior Intercollegiate Basketball League Saturday night by thrashing McMaster University Marauders 75-51 at Windsor.

It was Assumption's fourth victory in five starts. UWO, with a perfect 5-0 record, will visit Windsor next Saturday.

Gene Blaak led Assumption with 29 points.

In an exhibition basketball game at Montreal, Toronto Varsity Blues defeated the McGill Redmen 55-51 Saturday night.

Top scorer for Toronto was Boris Wolchuk with 14. The Redmen were led by George Miechowsky with 15.

Wealthy Man Used Phoney $100 Bills

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A wealthy Miami man says he unwittingly bet 32 counterfeit $100 bills in an exclusive Bahamas invitational golf tournament but has done "the honorable thing — I made restitution."

Ari J. Henderson said he received the bills from a Nassau bookie in paying of winning wagers but could not remember the bookie's name.

The United States secret service has indicated it will question Henderson in hope of turning up some clue to the bookie's identity. It said the bills were expertly made.

Wins Ontario Senior Ski Jump Title

KIRBY, Ont. (CP)—Hans Eder of Oshawa, former holder of the world's ski jumping record with 436 feet, managed just over 70 feet on the Oshawa Ski Club's junior jump Sunday, but it was enough to win the Ontario senior championship.

The 29 competitors had to use the junior jump when officials ruled high winds made the main jump unsafe.

Eder, a bronze metal winner for Austria in the 1948 Olympics, earned 183.8 points.

Ray Kaija, Oshawa, was second with 167 points and Roger Dunkin, University of Toronto Ski Club was third with 163.7 points.

Don McLeod, Ottawa, won the Ontario nordic combined championship, placing eighth in the jumping Sunday and third in the cross-country championships at Summit Golf Club north of Toronto, Sunday.

Antero Rauhuznen, Sudbury, placed first in the cross-country with a time of 39 minutes, one second. Kauko Rihlaho, also of Sudbury was second.

In the class C jumping, S. Ruhanen, Sault Ste. Marie, was first with 178.2 points. He was followed by M. Howe, Hamilton, G. Violette, North Bay, M. Ramgere, Ottawa, and D. Trikka, Sault Ste. Marie, was fourth.

Upsets Mark Western League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were plenty of upsets in the Western Hockey League during the weekend. Of the league's top four teams only Seattle Totems won, beating Winnipeg Warriors 5-1 Sunday night to break a three-game losing streak.

Spokane Comets, in last place, upset the league - leading Vancouver Canucks 5-1 Saturday. In Calgary, the fifth-place Stampeders swamped Edmonton Flyers 10-1 and in Victoria the Warriors defeated Cougars 6-4.

In Seattle, Jim Powers and rookie Pat Ginnell each scored twice and Rudy Filion once for

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

One of the most colorful players in senior "A" hockey has called it a day—and hung up his gear.

And in the doing Bus Gagnon proved he has more between the ears than a lot of puck savvy. Security beckoned with the proviso he give up his beat-loved game.

Bus knew that each year was taking its inexorable toll, and that, at his age, he had but one or two good seasons left. He did the right thing.

He was offered a position with a well-known insurance firm, one that Bus could hardly resist. Senior hockey, especially his last club, the McFarlands, will miss him. But, after all, one's future comes first.

A rugged, hard-hitting player, who played 60 seconds of every minute, Bus was the type who spared neither himself nor the opposition. The only way you could like Bus was when he was on your side. The opposition, fan or foeman, hated his guts when he was on the ice. Off it, Bus was a gentlemanly, soft-voiced guy whom everybody liked.

Gagnon was an opportunist from his adam's apple to his skates. He was a player who learned the hard way, and never forgot the lesson. Experience was his best teacher —and he never let her down.

In his latter years he developed into a crafty, wily player who took the onus off weakening legs with what he had learned the years before.

He could score goals when the referee was looking and rack up a foeman when the official back was turned. To his credit he could "take it as well as dish it out" and never backed from a foeman in fight.

This corner recalls back in the happy days of 1946 when Bus was coaching Wallace Hall. He and Belleville Wild Bill McMaster became involved in a fight. Wild Bill promptly "chawed a chunk" out of the Gagnon ear during the ice scuffle.

A Whitby defenceman, Eddie Redmond who, like McMaster, hailed from Peterborough, skated over and admonished Wild Bill.

"Tsk, tsk, Bill," he said, "You shouldn't have done that. You know you're not supposed to eat meat on Fridays."

Bus got his first taste of senior hockey at 15 when he played in Toronto on the same team as his father. He eventually played with Young Rangers, turned pro with Shawinigan Falls, then Sherbrooke. The Canadiens grabbed him and sent him to Dallas. One of the biggest disappointments came when he was slated to play with—Elmer Lach and Rocket Richard on a Canadiens' line, but injury prevented him from carrying out the assignment.

Later he played with the Ottawa Senators, Syracuse and Cleveland. He was with the Barons when he quit and joined the Whitby Dunlops.

He had a more or less fabulously successful tenure with the Dunnies. His second year saw him win the Senior "B" crown. His third year was crowned with senior "A" all-Ontario title, and defeat of the Spokane team in four straight games for Whitby's first Allan Cup.

The next season he relinquished the coaching job but was a big factor in the winning of the world championship at Oslo, Norway, by the Dunlops. The next year he coached the Kingston Merchants and took them to the group finals.

His biggest hockey thrill?

Scoring the clinching goal that defeated Russia in the world tournament at Oslo.

Bus, who will reside in Whitby, won't forget hockey completely, nor will he remain inactive. He will spend his spare time with minor hockey there "where and when I can."

And so passes from hockey one of its fiercest competitors, a guy fired from start to finish with the desire to win and who gave everything he had to his team to achieve victory.

JUNIOR BOOSTERS

The Junior Booster Club now has a draw going for two tickets to the Chicago-Toronto National Hockey League game in Maple Leaf Gardens on February 20. The youngsters are trying to raise $100 for the outing, and one with a gift after the season ends. Tickets are now on sale at Frank's Lunch, Reitman's, Dover's, Maher's Shoe Store and Seeley's Barber Shop.

Hull Blanks Montreal 1-0

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The cellar changed tenants but otherwise the Eastern Professional Hockey League standing was unaffected by weekend play.

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens edged past Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds and out of the league basement by winning a Sunday home game after a three-day drought a Saturday night session on the road.

Sudbury Wolves still are in top place with 60 points—three above Montreal Royals. Trois-Rivieres Lions and Kingston Frontenacs remain tied for third with 49 points, each picking up a weekend win.

Hull-Ottawa gained a clone 1-0 win over Royals in Hull, Bob Courcy notching the only goal unassisted at 1:25 of the second period. The fast, hard - checked game was played before 4,701 fans.

ONE POINT AHEAD

The win, coupled with a 2-2 Friday night tie with Wolves at Sudbury, gave Canadiens 47 points, one point ahead of Sault Ste. Marie. Wolves had a poor weekend, losing 4-3 at Trois-Rivieres Sunday.

'Shag' Blasts Bison Manager

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, has accused Don Labruzzo, general manager of the Buffalo Bisons club, of making "an opportunistic attempt to gain personal publicity."

Labruzzo was quoted as suggesting a plan for compensation by the newly-formed Continental League to the 10 loser clubs in territorial rights in Buffalo and Toronto, two IL cities granted CL franchises.

Labruzzo was quoted as saying the IL should receive a total of $270,000—$135,000 for each city.

Shaughnessy said Labruzzo's that his remarks were "out of order" and that the question of compensation would be dealt with at the proper time and under the proper auspices.

EUROPE'S BEST

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRchen, Germany (AP) — Sjoukje Dijkstra, 18, from Amsterdam, was the European woman's figure skating title Sunday with an almost perfect 2.9 points of a possible 6. Austria's Regine Heitzer, 15, was second.

NHL 'Allee Samee' Over Weekend; All Teams Split

Blues Clobber Habs Sunday As Bruins Shut Out Leafs; Red Wings Collar Hawks 5-0

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The status quo was preserved in weekend National Hockey League action, each team winning a game and losing one.

First - place Montreal Canadiens, with big holes in their forward wall through the injury-inforced absences of Jean Beliveau, Marcel Bonin and Dickie Moore, rallied to defeat the bolsterous Boston Bruins 5-3 Saturday night but were no match for the inspired Rangers Sunday night, losing 4-1 in New York.

The Bruins regained a fourth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks by shutting out the visiting Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0 Sunday night. Chicago went ahead Saturday with a 5-1 win over New York but Detroit Red Wings ran afoul of its Detroit Olympic jinx, bowing 5-0 to the Red Wings. The Hawks haven't won a game in Detroit in more than a year.

The Wings' victory moved them within three points of the second-place Leafs, who downed them 6-4 in Toronto Saturday.

ADDS FOUR GOALS

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion stepped into the breach for Canadiens, scoring three goals against Boston Saturday before leaving the team's only goal in New York Sunday.

The Rangers clinched their fifth victory over Canadiens in 11 meetings this season during the period goals by Dean Prentice and Andy Bathgate.

They opened the scoring in the second on a pass from Pentland to Prentice 5:50 after Ken Schinkel scored the winner before Geoffrion connected at 15:50.

Bronco Horvath's 35th goal was all the Bruins needed to trim Toronto as Harry Lumley recorded his first shutout of the season and the 70th of his career in regular season play.

The goal gave league-leading scorer Horvath, rolling merrily along while arch-rival Beliveau tried to recover from a knee injury, 68 points.

Jean-Guy Gendron and Leo Labine scored for the Bruins in the third period.

BIGGIE GETS SHUTOUT

Detroit got shutout goaltending from rookie Dennis Riggin, who was in goal for both weekend matches while Terry Sawchuk finished a three-game rest.

The Edmonton Flyers goalie had relatively little to do as Wings dominated play against Chicago but brought the Detroit crowd to its feet by stopping three breakaways in the closing minutes.

Norm Ullman sparked the Detroit attack with two second-period goals, Murray Oliver and Len Lunde also scored in the second after Gary Aldcorn began the victory march with a goal in the first three minutes of play.

The rugged game was interrupted twice by scuffles, one involving Chicago goalie Glenn Hall and Detroit's John McKenzie and the other Detroit's Lou Marcon and Chicago veteran Ted Lindsay.

Canadiens' victory Saturday night was bought at a heavy price. Labine of Boston charged Moore near the Bruins' goal in the first period, and Moore, scoring champion, unconscious for 10 minutes, had to be carried from the ice on a stretcher.

COSTLY FENELTY

Moore's injury could have also costly for the Bruins. Labine got five minutes for charging and Canadiens, with Moore out, Doug Mohns, Claude Provost and Geoffrion scored.

The Bruins roared back with second-period goals by Jerry Toppazzini, Labine and Don Simmons but had no answer for Geoffrion's two goals and another by Claude Provost in the third.

In Toronto Saturday the Red Wings fought back four times to tie the Leafs but to no avail as Billy Harris and Bob Stewart netted the winning goal for Leafs late in the third period.

Captain George Armstrong led the Leafs with two goals and defenceman Allan Stanley and Bob Pulford added markers. Forwards Detroit marksmen were Oliver with two, Gordie Howe and Ullman.

Rookie Bill Hay was the hero of Chicago's victory in New York Saturday, scoring twice. Ron Murphy, Murray Balfour and Pierre Pilote also scored for the Hawks before Prentice spoiled Hall's shutout chances in the third period.

Kelly Defers 'Quit' Decision For a Week

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, says defenceman Red Kelly has deferred for a week his decision to quit hockey.

Kelly, key player in a trade between Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers, has balked at reporting to the last-place club.

The proposed swap involved Kelly and right winger Billy Mc-Neil of Detroit for defenceman Bill Gadsby and lefwinger Eddie Shack of New York. Kelly and McNeil said they would only confirm' than report to Rangers.

Campbell said Saturday he talked with Kelly by telephone and the veteran of 13 seasons told Wings "deferred his decision for a week." Meanwhile Kelly will not play.

Detroit says he has heard nothing from McNeil.

Indians Win Over Americans; Bisons Lose

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans must realize it doesn't pay for them to take overtime in the Eastern Hockey League.

They have played six overtime games this season and lost each one. Saturday night the golden opportunity Sunday night to close in on the pace-setting Springfield Indians ended in a 6-5 win for the Indians at 1:46 in overtime gave the Indians a 6-5 win. The triumph increased Springfield's lead over Rochester to six points.

Another game Saturday night the fifth-place Cleveland Barons defeated the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons 4-2 and the third - spot Quebec Aces defeated the tail-end Quebec Aces 6-0.

In Saturday engagements Quebec beat Springfield 8-3, Cleveland defeated Rochester 5-3 and the Bisons pulled out a 3-2 overtime decision against Hershey Bears.

Grand National Goes on TV For First Time

LONDON (AP) — Millions of Britons, who love a flutter, the Grand National steeplechase and the big race, will see the world-famed Aintree race for the first time March 26.

It is said to be the toughest steeplechase in the world goes on television for the first time in its 123-year history.

The vast interest in the National in Britain was revealed today. Many leading teams have called for a complete rest of matches on that day, arguing they'll never be able to compete with the big race attraction on television.

Several hundred thousand regularly turn up at Aintree for the National. This time experts estimate a television audience of about 12,000,000 for the mad scramble for the prize of 40 horses over 4½ mile courty.

PAY $10,000

The BBC has paid Aintree about £15,000 ($40,000) for the TV rights.

People who don't even know their horses have a bet on the race. Police workers sweeps on the event. Thousands come to see the people the National winner with the winner of the Cheltenham Gold Cup, another big steeplechase.

Entries for the 114th running include last year's first three finishers, Mr. What, Wyndigo and Oh What.

Merita, winner of the 1958 Cheltenham Gold Cup and an impressive performer this year, has been handed top weight with 172 pounds.

REGINA (CP)—Canada's representation at Olympic Winter Games made an impressive showing Saturday as Toronto skaters took all four senior titles in the Canadian figure-skating championships.

Donald Jackson, last year's Canadian and World amateur singles champion, left no doubt that he is tops in his class in this country.

The 19-year-old had no difficulty winning the senior crown in two years against Donald McPherson of Stratford, who finished second, and Wayne Skoog of Unionville, Ont. About 100 points separated first and third positions.

Jackson, who calls both Toronto and Ottawa home, and McPherson, 14, last year's junior champion, will compete in the Olympics.

Wendy Griner of Toronto, another Olympic veteran, captured the senior women's crown with an impressive show of free skating after building up a lead in compulsory figures.

UNANIMOUS CHOICES

Jackson and Miss Griner were the only skaters in the three-day championships who received first-place ratings from all five judges. The women's champion is 15 and was junior titleholder last year. Biggest disappointment on the eight-member Olympic team was 15-year-old Sandra Towkesbury of Toronto. She was in last fall's Olympic trials but fifth Saturday. One bad figure helped set her down. Entered in the Olympic women's singles, she has been skating with a bandaged foot because of weak ligaments.

World champions Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul won both consecutive Canadian pairs championships and looked toward the Olympics for a gold medal. The Olympics are the only major competition which escaped their domination.

A crowd of 4,000 in Exhibition Stadium brought the judges should have rated Marta and Otto Jelinek of Oakville a bit better. There was booing at the marking but applause for the skaters.

The second-place Jelineks also will compete in the Olympics.

The senior dance championships went to Virginia Thompson and William McLachlan of Toronto. Bradley Black of St. Catharines won the junior men's singles and the junior pairs went to Sudbury's Gertrude Desjardins and Maurice Lefrance.

The Canadian Figure - Skating Association said Sunday that skaters who finished in the top three standards of senior events are eligible to compete in the 1962 world championships in Vancouver starting March 1. But Miss Towkesbury did not qualify.

Indians Win Over Americans; Bisons Lose

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans must realize it doesn't pay for them to take overtime in the Eastern Hockey League.

They have played six overtime games this season and lost each one. Saturday night the golden opportunity Sunday night to close in on the pace-setting Springfield Indians ended in a 6-5 win for the Indians at 1:46 in overtime gave the Indians a 6-5 win. The triumph increased Springfield's lead over Rochester to six points.

Another game Saturday night the fifth-place Cleveland Barons defeated the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons 4-2 and the third - spot Quebec Aces defeated the tail-end Quebec Aces 6-0.

In Saturday engagements Quebec beat Springfield 8-3, Cleveland defeated Rochester 5-3 and the Bisons pulled out a 3-2 overtime decision against Hershey Bears.

Russians, Canada in Finals Of Olympics Round Robin

By AL COLLETTI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—The International Ice Hockey Federation late Saturday night decided to stage the 1960 Olympic hockey championships as a round-robin involving nine countries with Russia meeting Canada on the final day.

The directorate of the IIHF, after many hours of wrangling at a meeting here, approved a 36-game schedule for the tournament that will be played at Squaw Valley, Calif., on both indoor and outdoor rinks newly built for the games.

The commitments made it impossible for the international body to depend on the televised system of picking the opponents out of a hat. The Columbia Broadcasting System, which paid a reported $1,000,000 for the television rights, insisted that the game with the Russia-United States game be televised on the next to the last day of the tournament, Saturday, Feb. 27, and the Russians asked the IIHF specifically to meet Canada on Sunday, Feb. 28. Both requests were granted.

PROBABLY TELEVISED

The Russia-U.S. match probably will be televised over CBS-TV starting at 4:30 p.m. EST after the scheduled National Hockey League games. The televised game between Boston Bruins and the Black Hawks at Chicago.

An official of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said the CAHA hopes to negotiate arrangements with CBS to have the Russia-Canada game televised in Canada Sunday afternoon.

Nine countries will take part in the tournament—the big five competing Russia, Canada, Sweden, Czechoslovakia and the United States plus West Germany, England, Japan and Australia. The Aussies will be competing in their first Olympic hockey tourney.

The IIHF ruled out any elimination games in the weaker competitions after representatives from England and Czechoslovakia said that it would be unfair to have the less-stronger nations playing in consolation rounds after having travelling thousands of miles to compete in the Olympics.

EACH MEET ONCE

In the round-robin each country will play eight games by meeting each other once. The country with the highest number of points will be declared the winner of the tournament. In the event of a tie, the winner will be decided on the best goals-average.

We tried hard to be fair to everyone," said J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the IIHF. "With the odd number of countries involved and the commitments we had, it was very difficult to come up with a schedule that wouldn't hurt anybody."

The Olympic champion will automatically become the world champion, Ahearne said, while the highest European team to finish will win the European championship.

The tournament will last 11 days, with four games scheduled on the opening day of the games.

Thursday, Feb. 18, and four on the final day including the Russia - Canada game, the match on the one that will decide the championship.

CANADA'S FIRST GAME

Canada, to be represented by Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, plays Japan on the opening day and Australia on the second day. Then Canada has a day off followed by matches against Finland and Sweden. The Canadians rest again for one day and play the United States. Another day's rest follows and then comes three games in a row against West Germany, Czechoslovakia and Russia.

The Russians also start out against weaker opponents, Finland and Japan, with Czechs clash head -on with Swedes in their opener.

The Japanese are faced with the toughest opening schedule—they play Canada, Czechoslovakia and Russia on successive days, get a day's rest and then meet the United States.

Officials for the games will include two Canadians, four Americans, a Swiss and a German.

All the games will be played in the morning and afternoon since there are no lights in Squaw Valley for night hockey. The exact times of the games will be announced later, Ahearne said.

Sherry Dudley of Rochester, Minn., North American president of the IIHF and secretary - manager of the CAHA, was unable to attend the meeting because of illness. He was represented by Robert Ledel of Chambly, Que., immediate past president of the CAHA and a director of the IIHF.

The schedule:

Thursday, Feb. 18: Germany vs the United States; Czechoslovakia vs Sweden; Russia vs Finland; Canada vs Japan.

Friday, Feb. 19: The United States vs Finland; Sweden vs West Germany; Japan vs Czechoslovakia; Australia vs Canada.

Saturday, Feb. 20: Japan vs Russia; Australia vs West Germany.

A navy man was telling me about a more interesting things about submarines. He says there are records of the first one submarine warfare as far back as the earliest writing in history. Herodotus (460 B.C.), Aristotle (332 B.C.), and Pliny, the elder, (77 A.D.), mentioned attempts to build underwater war craft.

Leonardo da Vinci, the amazing genius of the Renaissance, worked out drawings for a submarine. Jules Verne, reveal them while he was alive for fear such a weapon of would make war even more frightful than it already was. He wasn't until 1800 that Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat, designed the first practical submarine. But a submarine of earlier design was used by the American Revolutionary Army (1775-1783) to attack the British fleet. It was because it was not yet developed enough to be successful. The first was 1900 before the first submarines was purchased by the U.S. Navy, the USS Holland, built by a contract is now a division of General Dynamics Corp.

Ag in all other things, the submarine developed very slowly over the years, and navies were rushing on to perfection in our day. It is this near perfection (as close as we humans can ever get) for which we affire in serving you.

Bulldogs Crush Macs' Chances For Fourth Place

Score Five in Third Period To Chalk up 8-2 Victory Over Shorthanded Locals

By GARRY ALEXANDER

WINDSOR — Windsor Bulldogs officially killed the McFarlands' chances for fourth place in the OHA Senior "A" loop here yesterday afternoon when they handed the Belleville club an 8-2 defeat before 2,680 fans.

Coupled with the tie in Chatham Friday and the Marconis' upset victory over Whitby Saturday, the Macs now trail Chatham by 16 points with but eight games remaining. Providing the Macs won all eight while Chatham lost all of its games the clubs would be tied for fourth but the Maroons would likely get the official nod because of a better goals for-and-against record.

Thus the McFarlands' playoff hopes will now be decided in a committee room. No official announcement has been made but it is a well-known fact that the McFarlands have been trying to promote a five-team playoff.

Belleville had only 13 players dressed for yesterday's game. Lionel Bonty sat out this one when it was feared he had developed a case of mumps. A doctor later confirmed the fact, so Bonty will be out of action for some time.

The McFarlands were very much in the game for two periods, trailing 2-1 at the end of the first and 3-2 going into the second. But, as has happened so many times this season, they fell apart when the other club applied the pressure. The Bulldogs' five unanswered goals in the third proved that point.
